Coming Weekend Offers Variety Of Attractions

Diversified recreation is in store for Olympic peninsula residents this weekend, with the opening of the baseball season tonight, opening of trout season in streams Sunday and the first inter-city softball game Sunday afternoon at Pine hill grounds.

Other weekend activities are the Port Townsend Rhododendron Festival today and Saturday, and the Knights of Columbus state convention here starting its three day meeting here Sunday morning.

Monday night at 7 at Civic Field another first occurs when the Clallam Industrial Baseball League has a jamboree and double-header ball game.

Tonight's baseball inaugural starts at Civic Field at 8 with opening day ceremonies and a game between the Stags and Poulsbo of the new Olympic peninsula league at 8:30.

The two big events of the Port Townsend Rhododendron Festival are the children's parade at 10 Saturday morning and the main parade at 2 p.m. The state flower is in full bloom now along the route from here to Port Townsend.

FISHING OUTLOOK

Stream fishermen out for the opening of the season Sunday will find most Olympic streams high and discolored from melting snow in the mountains. Experienced stream fishermen predict that the Lyre river, that comes from Lake Crescent, Indian creek or smaller coastal streams will be the best spots on opening day.

The Elwha river, above the lower dam, is a favorite fishing spot on opening day, but this year the river at that point is almost at flood stage and discolored.

Main point to remember in stream fishing is that to fish inside the Olympic National Park no license is necessary. Daily bag and possession limit is 10 trout. In waters outside the park a license is necessary and 20 trout is the bag limit. Prospective stream fishermen may secure a copy of the 1949 fishing regulations from any sporting goods store.

Lowland lake fishing will attract many if weather is favorable. With two spawner chinook salmon caught off Ediz hook this week, salt water fishermen will be out in large numbers.

Although silver trout are not schooling yet at Lake Sutherland they are being taken on trolls and are averaging at least 10 inches long. Mixed bags of silver and cutthroat trout are common for the lake.

Frank Fosberg, new owner of Lake Sutherland resort, reports several visitors at his place have been making limit catches, and similar reports come from Maplegrove and Snug Cove. Forsberg recently bought the resort from Norman Smeeds and is operating all its facilities.

At Lake Crescent, several large Beardslee trout were taken during the week and good catches of smaller trout are being taken on lake trolls and worms.

Lakes Mills and Aldwell, formed by dams in the Elwha river, are high and somewhat discolored but not as muddy as the river itself. Some trout have been taken this week in both the lakes by still fishermen using light leaders and single salmon eggs.

Fishing for cutthroat trout and blueback salmon with trolls was good in Lake Ozette last weekend and conditions should be good there now.

Sentencing of Delo Deferred 5 Years

In superior court this morning Judge Max Church deferred sentencing Roy A. Delo, Port Angeles, for five years. Delo was charged with first degree assault as an aftermath of a drinking party April 24.

At that time Delo shot Wilfred Wilcox, Port Angeles, in the hand while Delo was under the influence of intoxicants. In deferring sentence Judge Church said that he had considered the request of several friends of Delo that he be given a suspended sentence.

Judge Church warned Delo that "the first time you use liquor or have it around your home after this you will automatically come up for sentencing."

Other conditions of the deferring sentence were that Delo must pay approximately $500 for medical expense incurred by Wilcox in treatment of his injured hand and for loss of time from his job, he must report to the parole officer periodically and must not handle firearms or have them in his possession for five years.

The judge said he understood Delo never had been in trouble before. Delo said that was true except that he was fined $5 once on a disorderly conduct charge.

Burglars Get $23 At Grocery Store

Burglars last night took $23 in cash and a check for $4.31 at a Pine hill grocery store, but departed empty-handed from a nearby filling station.

Bailey's Grocery, 518 West Eighth, lost the cash and check. Entrance to the building was made after breaking a window in a door and turning the key that locked it.

Police report that nothing is missing at the L. G. Pederson filling station at 514 West Eighth. Burglars removed a window sash and entered the building through a rest room.

All Kinds of Books in Demand As County Library's New Bookmobile Makes Rounds

By C. K. Moore
II

Going out the Mount Pleasant road with the county library's new bookmobile, the first stop was a trim little corner house. Driver Eldon Cooter honked the horn, then got out and knocked on the door. Nobody home, so we bounced down the gravel road again.

"That fellow built a 40-foot cabin cruiser. While he was building it he was after us for books on boatbuilding. I think we helped him build it with our books," Cooter recalled.

At the next stop Mrs. Shirley Goodman, route two, came out as we stopped and admired the new vehicle. Her youngsters climbed in too, with their flop-eared dog. Somebody chased the dog out.

"Where do you sit?" said one of the children. County Librarian Mrs. Evelyn Bowen smiled and said that the bookmobile doesn't stop long enough in one place to allow borrowers to sit down while selecting books.

The youngsters looked at the "easy books."

"This is nice and pretty," said the little girl, "I'll take this one." Mrs. Goodman's son wanted to know, "how did you m[illegible] the old car so quick?"

As we rolled to another stop in front of a little house in Vail's valley Archibald Caeser walked out the door of his home with an armload of books.

"Got a new one, I see. It's a good lookin' rig," he said.

The librarian asked him what kind of books he would like.

"Adventure or western. Nothing too heavy when I'm working," Caeser said.

"How about a world war II story?"

"I've read too many of them already."

He selected another armful of reading. "Just something to read when I'm tired and come in and sit down. I've still got quite a bit of planting to do."

"We won't be back until June 6," said the librarian.

"Oh. Give me another book then," Caeser said.

STOP FOR SCHOOL

After we left the stop Mrs. Bowen explained that this is the most difficult time of the year for arranging new bookmobile stops. Schools close soon and new places will have to be scheduled where youngsters can get books for summer reading.

Driver Cooter wheeled the big vehicle into Mount Pleasant school yard. Youngsters in grades one through six at the two-room rural school came tumbling out to greet us.

"Is this a new bookmobile?" said one.

"No, they've just painted it, you beanhead!" another declared scornfully.

"I can tell it's new. Look at the new tires," said a child triumphantly.

About 30 youngsters clambered aboard, all chattering at once, the girls pig-tailed and beribboned and the boys in overalls.

They filed along the bookshelves in a line, turning in old books and picking out new ones.

"I forgot one book," one little brown-eyed girl confessed to Cooter.

"You bring it next time," he said reassuringly.

The librarian was busy advising children on what books to read. At present she is interesting them in the "Childhood in America" series, which includes biographies of such famous Americans as Daniel Boone, Stephen Foster, Thomas Jefferson, Dolly Madison and Pocahontas.

"They read them in preference to fiction, once you get them interested," Mrs. Bowen reported.

The fifth stop was Mount Pleasant grocery, three miles from Port Angeles on Olympic highway. Workmen usually come for books at this stop but none appeared this time.

HOUSEWIVES TURN OUT

Before we made the sixth stop Cooter circled around several blocks tooting his horn to let housewives know he was ahead of schedule for this stop. We pulled up at a corner and they came, women in blue jeans and print dresses, the kids tagging along, as they took time off from their household duties.

"Have you got 'The Doctor Wears Three Faces,' by Mary Bard?" one lady asked. It turned out a neighbor had reserved the book first, but she agreed to let her friend read it after she had finished the book.

Another lady came with her youngsters just to see the new bookmobile. "If I get a book I won't paint my house," she said.

"Oh, there are plenty of rainy days when you can't paint," the librarian countered.

Mrs. Fred Rice, Mrs. Ivan Adams, Mrs. Claun Smith and Mrs. George A. Wright were among those borrowing books at this stop.

"At new stops the typical demand is for westerns and mysteries," Mrs. Bowen said. "Then we show them the variety of fine books we carry and they soon start asking for more of them."

The next stop was at Gale's addition grocery store. There was no business here, as people did not yet know about the stop.

AT HOUSING PROJECT

We pulled into the housing project just outside the city limits about 4:30 p.m. for our final stop. Housewives came gossiping toward the bookmobile with their kindergarten children. Teen-age boys and girls and one man also braved the torrent.

"We won't be here again for three weeks," the librarian announced.

"Are you going bye-bye somewhere?" asked one of the little girls.

"I read every night until midnight," one woman said as she took seven books.

All the women took several books and some of them an armload. There is no limit to the number of books which adults may check out.

The bookmobile carries books on such subjects as art appreciation, interior decoration, carpentry, cook books and preparation of frozen foods, the librarian said.

USUAL PROCEDURE

Books are checked out in the same manner used at city libraries. The librarian stamps a date when return of the book is due and library cards are kept in pockets inside book covers. Patrons may renew seven-day books by mail or phone. Otherwise check-outs are for two week periods except when holidays intervene. The period is then three weeks.

"We expect to make about 100 stops in the county this summer," Mrs. Bowen said as we left the housing project and headed back toward county library headquarters on Lincoln street.

During 1948, 78,000 volumes were circulated. By the end of April this year 33,000 volumes already were in circulation. The library has added 1,300 books to its stock since January 1, increasing the processing work done at headquarters.

The bookmobile formerly used by the county library went out of service here last week after over two years of use. It was a custom-built job on a 1½-ton 1946 Ford chassis.

"We found that the old bookmobile was not sufficiently heavy to give good service in rough country over which we travel," the librarian said.

She reported that the county library board authorized purchase of the new vehicle. The old one will be sold to a county library where better roads and flat country do not require a heavy-duty bookmobile.

Ellen Quam is assistant county librarian and Audrey McKnight is clerical assistant in the office.

So far this year 2,249 adults and 1,931 juveniles have registered to borrow books from the merry bookmobile.

City to Start Monday Erecting Street Signs

New street signs will start going up in Port Angeles next Monday, Street Commissioner Edwar Taylor announces.

The Port Angeles Lions Club raised the money last year to buy the signs, and pipe for them. Last week President G. B. Chamberlin and Joe C. Janish appeared at a city commission meeting to request on behalf of the club that the city go ahead with the work.

Taylor said that money from the parking meter fund will help defray the cost of erecting the signs. The city will put up about 1,000 of them. At present street signs are up only on main arterial thoroughfares in the city.

Position of Western Powers At Paris Confab Best Since Yalta

By Wes Gallagher

BERLIN—(AP) — America, Britain and France will go into the Paris foreign ministers conference in their strongest positions since Yalta.

This is the situation of the Big Four as seen today in Berlin where France, Britain, the United States and Russia wrangle daily.

The Soviet Union's bargaining situation has been considerably weakened economically and politically since the Moscow and London conferences.

In both previous conferences the west was in a defensive position trying to seek agreements from Russia.

In the Paris conference for the first time diplomats believe the west can take the offensive or sit tight and let the Soviets seek to break the deadlock.

HEARTENED TO RESIST

The west's stand with the airlift heartened not only Germany but all of Europe to resist communism.

The Soviet withdrawal of the blockade without achieving their objectives showed the Russian bear to be vulnerable if the opposition is firm and united.

In past foreign minister's conferences the Russians have posed as the supporters of a united Germany with a central government. They have appealed to German nationalism. The west has feared this appeal would be decisive in winning German support for Soviet policies.

But this propaganda appeal has failed. The Germans have been skeptical of Soviet promises. The Soviet appeal to nationalism has failed to win support even in the Soviet zone.

CHOOSE NONE

Given a choice between a Soviet picked government and none at all, one in every three eastern Germans chose none at all.

The west goes to Paris Monday with a western German economy headed toward recovery; a stable, democratically elected government and with as much support from west Germany's 46 millions as any occupation power could expect.

Russia goes to Paris with a decimated eastern German economy with a falling living standard, a "government" handpicked but lacking popular German support and a German population skeptical of any promise or proposal they might make.

John L. Lewis Dickers To Return to AFL But Meets Opposition

CLEVELAND —(AP)— AFL leaders said today that John L. Lewis is dickering to return to the American Federation of Labor.

If he does, he will face strong opposition to any effort to come into power again in the AFL, these influential men predict.

President William Green reported to the AFL executive council on a meeting with Lewis two weeks ago. Green had indicated earlier that the session with the mine workers' leader had been devoted principally to the fight over repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

But one top AFL leader said that Lewis was anxious to come back to the organization "on any terms" now because of the imminence of his own contract showdown with the soft coal industry July 1. Also any new labor law enacted in the next two months may carry provisions directed squarely at Lewis, the AFL leader thinks.

Lewis took his 600,000 miners out of the AFL in December 1947, after he lost a convention fight in San Francisco to persuade the federation to boycott the Taft-Hartley act. He has done so himself, but other AFL leaders decided to comply with the act where they had to, including the filing of non-communist affidavits.

U. Students Protest Pinball Machine Losses

SEATTLE—(AP)—Pinball machine losses by University of Washington students in the University District have been large and reached as high as $2,000 for one student, a letter to the school's authorities said today.

Such heavy losses are detrimental to "pocketbook, school work and the peace of mind of many students," the four protesting undergraduates write. The letter to President Raymond B. Allen was signed by Robert E. Arnold, Cleveland Anschell, James B. Wilson and Rita M. Ross, all of Seattle.

In reply, Donald K. Anderson, Washington director of public information, commented that the University was "naturally concerned but that it had no control over such off-campus activities." Dr. Allen could not be reached for comment.

The four students said their own losses were negligible but that it was "not uncommon" for a student to lose as much as $20 in a single hour of play.

"We also bear in mind the recent story of the students at Washington State College who attempted suicide as a result of pinball machine losses," they said.

Spark From Torch Fires Port Hangar

FAIRBANKS, Alaska— (AP) — A spark from a welder's torch set off a blaze that completely destroyed the Alaska Airlines No. 3 hangar late yesterday.

Frank Barr, Fairbanks manager of the airline, estimated the damage at $60,000, plus another $3,000 in mechanics' personal tools.

Witnesses said a workman's torch touched off the fabric on a single-engine gull-wing plane and gasoline in the wing tank exploded.

Art Leen, shop foreman, suffered minor burns. Other workmen were uninjured.

CVA Bill Hearings Start Next Week

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A hearing on a bill to create a Columbia basin administration will be opened by the senate public works committee next Friday, Chairman Chavez (D-N. M.) said today.

The bill, introduced in the senate by Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) and several other senators and in the house by Reps. Jackson and Mitchell (D-Wash.) is backed by the Truman administration.

Jury Grants $10,000 Damages to Gastman

A superior court jury yesterday afternoon awarded David H. Gastman $10,000 damages, concluding an action arising out of a 1947 automobile collision in which Gastman was injured.

The sum includes $1,170 for damage to Gastman's automobile. Judge Charles T. Wright instructed the jury to find for the plaintiff and determine the measure of damages, if any, to be awarded him.

E. E. Shanahan, driver for Interstate Brewing Company, both defendants in the suit, admitted in court that he was driving on the wrong side of the yellow center line at the time of the accident.

Tobin, in Seattle, Sees Repeal of Taft-Hartley Law

SEATTLE—(AP) —Confidence that the Taft-Hartlye act will be repealed and an endorsement of President Truman's proposal for the creation of a Columbia valley administration were expressed here yesterday by Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin.

He held a press conference yesterday afternoon and spoke at the Washington state democrats' Jefferson-Jackson banquet last night.

In regard to the CVA proposal, the labor secretary said it would help the northwest to develop a potential which he described as "almost beyond the human imagination."

He predicted congress would replace the T-H act with a law along the lines of the Sims proposal. He said it probably would require bargaining by both labor and management, and allow "freedom of speech" by both; would allow closed-shop agreements if management is willing to enter into them; provide for labor union's financial resignation and for anti-communist and anti-fascist oaths by both management and labor officials.

Tobin expressed the belief that only five per cent or less of the nation's workers would be involved in strikes in 1949. The 1946 figure was 17 per cent, he said.

Sandpoint Building Swept by Fire

SANDPOINT, Idaho—(AP)—A fire blazed this morning through a large section of the $50,000 Masonic building in the Sandpoint business district.

The flames were still roaring at 8 a.m., but firemen apparently were bringing the fire under control. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Firemen said the fire broke out at the rear of Decker's Variety Store on the ground floor of the Masonic building.

Langlie Opposes Any Change in Procedure For Developing Columbia Basin in 7 States

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Governor Arthur B. Langlie of Washington opposed today any change in the present procedure for developing the Columbia river basin in seven northwest states.

He told the house public works committee his state and the region want to see the river basin developed according to the coordinated program of the army engineers and the reclamation bureau.

He said the overall program of the two agencies comprise 60 projects, two of which have been completed—Grand Coulee and Bonneville dams—eleven already authorized and under construction, 12 more authorized by congress and 37 projects before the committee as joint recommendations of the army engineers and the reclamation bureau.

Langlie said the governors of the states involved in the coordinated program have approved the plan.

"The present development that has taken place on the Columbia river is considerable," he said. "These and all plans for the future which we are discussing, have come from the initiative of the local people and their state governments working together through congress, with the existing federal agencies, under present laws.

"This is not the time for any of us to consider abdicating our responsibility, or of accepting a rigid formula for exclusive federal control."

W. Germany Ratifies A Constitution

MUNICH, Germany —(AP)— Western Germany tonight ratified a constitution uniting 11 states outside the Soviet zone into a federal republic.

Ratification was completed by the parliamentary action of eight, or two-thirds, of the states of the western occupation zones.

The eight states voted "yes" by overwhelming margins, with virtually all the opposition coming from the communists. Bavaria, the big state in the American occupation zone, voted "no," but reserved the right to enter the new government upon ratification by the others.

Air Force Plane Crash Kills Pilot

MAUPIN, Ore.—(AP)—An air force jet fighter crashed and burned seven miles south of here today, killing the pilot and possibly a second occupant.

Marshal Floyd McLeod said wreckage was scattered over a wide area and while it appeared the plane had only one occupant, there might have been two.

State police reported fire and the scattered debris made it difficult to determine the number in the plane.

Justice Department Probing Acts Of 833 Aliens

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Attorney General Clark disclosed today that the justice department is investigating or taking action against "833 suspected subversive aliens."

He supplied the information in a letter read to a house judiciary subcommittee by Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller. The letter strongly urged passage of a bill that would let the department jail deportable aliens like Gerhart Eisler.

Eisler, described by the house committee on un-American activities as the former No. 1 communist in the United States, is awaiting an extradition hearing in England after being taken off a Polish ship on which he escaped from this country as a stowaway. He was under bond in a deportation case and two criminal cases which are on appeal.

Rep. Hobbs (D-Ala) testified that thousands of aliens have been ordered out of the country but:

"They tell us to go to hell and there is nothing we can do about it."

Hobbs is author of the bill Clark wants enacted. Chairman Walter (D-Pa) told a reporter there will be no more hearings and the subcommittee probably will vote on the measure next Wednesday.

RED SHELLING SETS 26 FIRES NEAR SHANGHAI

By Fred Hampson

SHANGHAI —(AP)— Twenty-six fires burned tonight along the Whangpoo on the Pootung side of the river as a result of shelling and demolition.

The blazes appeared to range from small villages on the horizon to industrial installations a few hundred feet from the east bank of the river opposite Shanghai's bund. They extended from Shanghai almost half way to Woosung fortress, where the Whangpoo and Yangtze converge.

Except for this fearsome chain of fires the night was relatively quiet. The communists did not appear to be pressing their drive toward the river from the east. Very little shellfire was heard and only occasionally some machinegun bursts. Now and then small arms fire rattled. But it sounded more like trigger happy soldiers than fighting.

RUMORS ABOUND

The city seethed with rumors. But what looked like a nationalist withdrawal last night looked less so tonight.

A garrison communique claimed the nationalists threw back all new red efforts to close in from the Pootung area across the Whangpoo. Nevertheless four red shells fell in Shanghai proper—killing half a dozen Chinese along Rue Lafayette in the old French concession. The area is about a mile from the Whangpoo front.

One foreigner who went to the front said he walked three miles beyond Kaochao and saw no communists. The reds are supposed to have attacked that area last night. It is near the Yangtze downstream from Woosung fortress.

BUND IS CLOSED

Although the famed Bund is closed, the expected evacuation of troops has not developed. The foreigner who visited the front said he saw no large ships loading there.

At one time the reds were within five miles of Lunghwa field. Tonight they are only three miles from it. But the Whangpoo is between them and the field.

The garrison communique said the reds tried repeatedly in the last two days to take the government radio transmitter towers at Liuhang, eight miles from Shanghai's north station. It claimed the reds were beaten back each time. Some of the radio equipment was being moved into downtown Shanghai.

FEW AERIAL BOMBS

Few aerial bombs were heard in the last few hours although the communique claimed government planes were still hitting the reds.

Central news agency quoted the police commissioner as saying heavy nationalist reinforcements were coming to Shanghai.

Quiet marked the western front which seemed deserted late yesterday after a big withdrawal of troops. It turned out tonight that other troops replaced them later.

Recover Body of Boat Blast Victim

SEATTLE —(AP)— Searchers recovered the body of Gerald R. Percival, 37-year-old machinist and acting engineer, from the burned and charred wreckage of the cannery tender Muchek last night. Coast guard marine-investigating units studied the blast today.

Percival was trapped in the hold when an explosion and fire swept the 105-foot vessel in Salmon bay yesterday forenoon. Capt. Theodore (Pat) Davis, master, Richard H. Funk, deck hand, and C. V. Carlson, Ketchikan cannery foreman, were slightly injured but jumped into the water to safety.

Senator Quits Malmedy Trials Hearing; Charges 'Whitewash' Is Attempted

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) today angrily quit the senate group investigating the Malmedy trials and blasted it for "attempting to whitewash a shameful episode" in the armed forces history.

McCarthy, himself a world war II marine veteran, has constantly been at odds with Senator Baldwin (R-Conn), chairman of the group looking into the trial of nazi soldiers charged with massacring American prisoners of war during the Battle of the Bulge.

The Wisconsin lawmaker issued two bitter statements—one to the press, another for the senate record—in which he accused Baldwin's armed services subcommittee of "a deliberate attempt to avoid the facts."

"I feel that the investigation has degenerated to such a shameful farce that I can no longer take part therein," he said.

After issuing his statement, McCarthy went to a meeting of the committee, then walked out, saying the inquiry is "a sham, a farce and a very deliberate attempt to whitewash" the army's trial of the Germans.

Speaking directly Baldwin said: "More than 100 unarmed surrendered American soldiers were brutally shot down in cold blood by German S. S. troopers.

"To this day, not one (German) has been executed for this crime."

Six Germans are under sentence to die, but the executions have been held up pending the senate inquiry.

Baldwin said the investigation will continue without McCarthy, and that the committee "will endeavor through every reasonable means possible to determine the truth and then judge the case on the facts presented."

McCarthy said the army interrogators were charged at the senate hearings with "brutalities greater than any we have ever accused either the Russians or Hitler-Germany of employing."

WHAT AMERICAN WORK IS WORTH

Dutra's Visit Symbolic of Great Friendship

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The visit of amity by Brazilian President Eurico Dutra to the United States is a happy burst of sunshine through the international storm clouds.

It is symbolic of a great friendship which cannot be too assiduously guarded in these days when the nations of the western hemisphere must stand together for the common good.

President Dutra's stay with us got away to a fine start when official Washington, aware that he was arriving on his sixty-fourth birthday, staged a surprise party—cake and all—with President Truman as genial host. It was the sort of thing which captures the fancy of Americans, and sets them to humming "Happy Birthday to You." So we are glad to see General Dutra.

In an address before a joint session of the senate and house, the general referred to relations between Brazil and America "as a rare example of fraternal association of two peoples which has prevailed over a period of more than 120 years." He spoke of President Truman's visit to Rio De Janeiro in 1947 for the signing of the historic inter-American defense pact, and said it was a memorable event in the friendship of the two nations.

"In the international field," declared the general, "this friendship, through its practical manifestations and by virtue of its example, is the greatest guarantee of good understanding and comprehension among the other sister nations in this hemisphere."

Dutra said the inter-American defense pact "established the reciprocity of the American republics in common bond against aggression." That is true—at least on paper—but he might have added that such an agreement to be effective must be supported by constant cultivation of friendships and study of ways and means to strengthen the association.

The visit of General Dutra to the United States is of course an excellent illustration of how friendships can be cultivated.

However, we mustn't overlook that there are nineteen other republics belonging to the hemisphere pact. That declaration of friendships shouldn't be allowed to lie fallow too long lest it lose its fertility.

It is well for the Americas to remind themselves that they still are the "new world." The known resources of this hemisphere which still remain undeveloped are tremendous. Who can say that those resources don't exceed the total for the rest of the world?

Certainly if we stand together, one for all and all for one, there will come the time when the Americas need have no fear of aggression.

Portland's Streetcar Fare Going to 12c

PORTLAND —(AP)— The streetcar fare will be up to 12 cents in Portland Sunday. It may be up to that level in Seattle and Tacoma soon.

These developments came out of a stormy city council session here yesterday, in which the council voted 3-2 to increase the fare from the present dime.

Gordon G. Steele, president of the Portland Traction Company, asserted the firm needed more money. He was author of the prediction Seattle and Tacoma soon would advance fares.

It is estimated that more than 1,500 cities in the United States have installed parking meters.

Flood Waters From Ice-jammed Yukon Creep Closer to Refuge of 180 Alaskan Natives

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—(AP)—Some 180 Alaska natives clustered on a shrinking point of high ground astride the Arctic Circle today while the ice-jammed Yukon river, which flooded their Fort Yukon homes, inched higher about them.

At Ladd air force base, Fairbanks, 10th rescue squadron officers plotted means of evacuating the refugees should efforts fail to reblast the stubborn Yukon ice jam. The flooded area is about 140 miles northeast of here.

Four twin Mustangs, each carrying two 500-pound bombs, will try again to shatter the jam which has formed anew after being blasted free by air force bombs last night.

A following C-47 then dropped food and blankets to the natives, cut off from all sides by flood waters.

Rescue officials expressed fear that the small knoll on which the townspeople have taken refuge might become inundated. A glider or helicopter landing on the tree-studded crest appears impossible and float planes are unable to put down on the river because of ice floes.

There was hope, however, that blasting the jam might bring immediate relief. The village's radio, still in operation, reported a drop of 10 inches soon after last night's bombing. When the ice barrier relocked downriver, however, the water level climbed back within seven inches of its previous peak.

The radio reported there were no known casualties. About half the population, the message said, is gathered on the knoll, while the others, residing on higher levels of the town, apparently are safe.

Fort Yukon, the oldest settlement on the river, lies exactly on the Arctic Circle, where the Yukon makes a big bend toward the west. Airmen report a huge lake has backed up across many miles of low-lying area, making it difficult to determine the exact location of the river and the stream-choking ice jam.

The temperature still drops close to freezing at night in this area.

Meanwhile, a second bombing squadron was to perform a similar "attack" near the mining camp of Ophir, which is flooded by the ice-choked Folger creek headwaters. The stream is an off-shoot of the Innoko river, a Yukon tributary.

There was no report of the number of persons marooned at Ophir, but an air force officer who flew a bombing mission over the area last night described the situation as "desperate." Ophir is about 280 miles southwest of Fairbanks.

Mount Pleasant

Gary Rudy, who spent three days in a hospital, is convalescing at home this week.

The Home Economics club had a turnout of 13 members at the Community Hall Wednesday. Some of the aprons made by the Grange ladies were on display and were judged by Mrs. Roy Smith and Mrs. Cora Duback.

A work day was called for last Sunday by the Community Association board of directors, who held a meeting on Friday evening. The ladies furnished pot luck dinner Sunday noon and some much needed work on the hall was accomplished. The men also made three large picnic tables and benches to be used on the recreation field where the boys and girls did a good job of clearing and getting the ground ready for baseball.

W. J. Randklev made a business trip to Seattle by plane the first of the week.

Roddy Lee is spending a few days with his grandparents this week.

The children of Mrs. Haag's room enjoyed a trip through the Crown Zellerbach mill on Thursday afternoon. The bus driver took them in about one o'clock.

The peanut plant, Arachis hypogaea, was believed to have originated in Latin America.

Big Black Bear An Observer During Army Maneuvers

SEATTLE—(AP)—"There's nothing like a bear to make you bear down!"

That was the observation today of First Lieut. Melvin Whatley, after watching one of his rifle squads go through an attack problem at Fort Lawton yesterday.

He noticed a large black bear, much taller than an infiltrating ground-bound soldier, was following the group.

The bear, he said, took a position some 20 yards behind the men, and from then on showed considerable curiosity as to how the problem would go.

The squad zigged. So did the bear. The squad zagged. Likewise Mr. Bruin.

After the problem was completed Whatley said he called the squad leader over and asked him if he knew the squad had had a fur-bearing observer.

"Heck no!" exclaimed the wide-eyed soldier. "If I had, I would have reached my objective much sooner than I did!"

UNSEEN 'HOT FOOT'

SEATTLE—(AP)—"Why do my feet feel so hot?" William Terrell asked himself as he was repairing the roof of his small repair shop and living quarters yesterday. Pretty soon he knew. The inside of the place was on fire.

He was just getting off the roof about the time firemen arrived.

To Name 'Father of 1949' On May 26

NEW YORK — (AP)—The National Father's Day committee today announced that "the father of the year" will be named at the annual forluncheon of the committee here May 26.

Yesterday the committee named the father of the largest family of 1949. William Casper Peter, 79, of Beech Creek, Pa., was given that honor at a ceremony at the Lock Haven, Pa., city hall. Peter was identified erroneously yesterday by the Associated Press as the American father of 1949.

Bendix Plant Strike Negotiations Futile

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Negotiations for ending the month old shutdown at the Bendix Aviation Corporation plant have been broken off indefinitely, an official of the striking CIO-United Auto Workers said today.

Richard Gosser, international vice president of the union, said no immediate conference are planned.

The strike began April 20 when the local union walked out in a dispute over production and pay rates in the brake shoe department and dismissal of 47 workers on slowdown charges.

High Court Hears Langlie-Llewellyn Arguments Today

OLYMPIA —(AP)— The state supreme court will hear arguments today in the legal controversy growing out of Governor Langlie's attempt to suspend Brig. Gen. Ensley M. Llewellyn as state adjutant general.

In a brief filed yesterday, Langlie maintained he had acted legally in suspending Llewellyn and naming a board of inquiry to investigate the adjutant general's conduct in office.

In a previous brief, Llewellyn held that Langlie could not remove him except for cause on charges heard by a court martial.

Langlie's brief stated that if this were the only method of ousting the adjutant general, "we would have the unhappy spectacle of a chief of staff, whose incompetence and unfitness were conceded by all to be monumental, in comparative security thumbing his nose at his commander-in-chief for the reason that "incompetence or unfitness' is not a military offense triable by court-martial."

Langlie previously contended the supreme court, which issued a writ prohibiting him from suspending Llewellyn, does not have authority to intercede. Llewellyn maintained that the tribunal does.

He taught manual training for 22 years in Aberdeen schools. An advocate of scientific reforestation, Huntley owned a natural 1,200-acre tree farm at New London, northwest of here.

RECORD GRAIN MOVEMENT

PORTLAND, Ore.— (AP) — Grain shipments from Columbia river ports may continue at a record pace for the next six months.

Major Gen. Frank A. Heileman, army chief of transportation, said the army would maintain its present heavy pace, and possibly even step up shipments to Japan and Germany.

The army shipped 204,000 long tons of cargo out of this area last month, and will exceed 200,000 tons again this month, he said.

He was here on an inspection of port facilities.

As a sport, falconry dates back to some 2,000 years B.C., in China.

CIO Lumber Workers To Vote June 11 On New Contract

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—The 40,000 CIO lumberworkers in the Pacific northwest will vote before June 11 on the proposed new contract for the coming year.

Ballots will go into the mail Monday, CIO officials said here after tentative agreements were signed between union negotiators and the Lumbermen's Industrial Relations Committee, the Pine Industrial Relations Committee and the Willamette Valley Operators Association.

Union heads have recommended acceptance of the contract, which does not call for a general wage increase. It does, however, provide a night shift pay differential of 4 cents an hour and overtime rates for holidays. Wages will not be brought up for further negotiation before April 1, 1950.

Hal Boyle Says

A Change of Face

NEW YORK—(AP)—More men than women are giving themselves a change of pace today by getting themselves a change of face.

They get a new outlook on life by going to a plastic surgeon to have an objectionable facial feature remodeled.

"Since the war we have more men than women patients," said Dr. Gregory L. Pollock, a pioneer specialist in this form of human sculpture.

In the last 30 years he has operated on some 5,000 persons. Among them were the widow of a U.S. president—she had her face lifted—and scores of society, theatrical and movie celebrities.

Dr. Pollock is something of a Broadway notable himself. He went from booking to bobbing. As a youth, before he went to medical school to learn the art of how to bob noses, ears and bosoms, he worked as an entertainment booking agent. Many of his old clients later became his patients.

The science of plastic surgery has undergone significant change in three decades. At present it is a mushrooming branch of medicine, allied in some way to psychiatry.

"When I began there were only a handful in the field," recalled Dr. Pollock. "Now there are more plastic surgeons than you can count.

"It used to be a hush-hush matter, done in strictest privacy. People were ashamed to admit they wanted to try to improve on the face that their parents—or life—had given them.

"Today they want to brag about it. They even throw cocktail parties to unveil their new nose."

And the patients are no longer merely the idle wealthy, seeking to hide the traces of age. Most are working people.

"Plastic surgery isn't a foolish luxury," said Dr. Pollock. "In an overwhelming number of cases it is an economic investment. It isn't just vanity that impels them to want their faces changed.

"Lawyers, entertainers, schoolteachers, beauty parlor operators, salesgirls, waitresses—any people who meet the public—find their incomes suffer from facial disfigurements. So they have them removed.

"The improvement of their features also helps them in personality ways. They lose lifelong feelings of inferiority and regain self-confidence."

The feature most people find fault with about their anatomy is the nose. Then come the ears—too much like Peter Rabbit or a pair of swinging doors. And then, in order, are wrinkles, over-sized bosoms and weak chins.

Paraffin was abandoned years ago as a subsurface stuffing to iron out wrinkles. Doctors found it tended to melt and collect in lumps beneath the skin. And it was an incipient agent of malignant growths.

One of the great developments in plastic surgery has been the creation of cartilage banks.

"With cartilage we can take a patient worried over his receding chin and make him look like a bulldog if he wants to," smiled Dr. Pollock.

Plastic surgeons now operate on babies two days old (cleft palate) or women and men past three score and ten (wrinkles that rankle).

One of their problems is to turn down people who come to them with imaginary facial defects. Dr. Pollock rejected an 81-year old woman who wanted her face lifted. Her age made the operation too risky for any benefits she would gain.

One of his oddest callers, was a handsome young man who came to him shortly after the death of Lon Chaney, the movie "horror man."

"He had a suitcase stuffed with hundreds of Chaney's pictures," said Dr. Pollock. "He wanted me to operate on him so he would look like a composite of Chaney in all his grotesque roles.

"I threw him out. Then I threw out his suitcase."

FIRED BY TORCH

MONTESANO —(AP)— A welding torch ignited a flood of spilled gasoline, touching off a blaze which caused an estimated $25,000 to $30,000 damage at the Reinhart Motors garage yesterday.

The gasoline poured into the building when a gasoline tank got away from workmen as they unloaded it from a truck. Six workmen escaped injury, but four cars and a truck and a large stock of supplies and equipment were reported lost.

Rhododendron Tour Is Next Thursday

The fifth annual Rhododendron Tour will be held under the auspices of the East Bremerton Garden Club on Thursday, May 26.

The caravan will start from the Bremerton ferry terminal through the business section of Bremerton and out through winding country roads amidst a multitude of rhododendrons in full bloom from palest pink to deepest orchid.

A 45-minute stopover will be made at Holly, where passengers may rest and view acres of rhododendrons while refreshments are served by the Holly Community Club.

The tour then will continue through Mountaineers Lodge where thousands of rhododendrons will be seen.

Upon arrival back in Bremerton, buses will make a tour of the Puget sound naval shipyard and return passengers to the ferry terminal, where they will board either the 3:15 p.m. or 4:15 p.m. ferry for Seattle.

OPEN SMALLEST AIRFIELD

NEW YORK—(AP)—A flying field—which is so small it's not even called a field—has been opened on crowded Manhattan island.

Designated a heliport, it's the city's first commercial terminal for helicopters. The 60-by-161-foot airport is located on an East river pier.

To help meet shortages of fats and oils, Britain is operating a huge project for growing oil-rich peanuts in East Africa.

AIRPORTS GET CAA CASH

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Washington state airports received $275,435 from the civil aeronautics administration for airport construction and development during March and April.

They included: Paine field, Everett $21,904; Seattle-Tacoma municipal $180,091; Lake Wenatchee emergency airport $26,500; Renton municipal $14,725; Moon Island airport, Aberdeen-Hoquiam $32,215.

Allen Doesn't Want, But Will Take, Job of Unification

SPOKANE —(AP)— University of Washington President Raymond B. Allen said yesterday that he doesn't want the job of director of the unified medical services of the armed forces. But, he added, he will take it because he considers it a duty.

Dr. Allen added he hopes the university's board of regents tells him he cannot go.

"But if I do go, it will be on a leave of absence for one year," he said.

Dr. Allen arrived here yesterday from Washington, D. C., after conferring about the position with President Truman, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Dr. Allen said the unification of the medical services would not mean abolishing the posts of surgeon general of the army and navy. He said General Eisenhower expressed the opinion the medical services have made more progress toward unification than any other branch of the armed services.

Philippines Charge U.S. Aid to Japan Is Unwarranted

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Philippines charge the United States is helping revive Japan's ability to wage war by calling off Japanese reparations shipments.

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines delegate, told the 11-nation far eastern commission that Filipinos "protest in the strongest possible terms" against the reparations decision announced last week.

Romulo charged also that the Japanese "Zaibatsu" — industrial leaders—are sabotaging American efforts to restore Japan's economy.

"There is evidence that the Japanese economic crisis has been deliberately brought on by the Japanese themselves in order to arouse American sympathy and insure American assistance," he declared.

The United States last week ordered Gen. Douglas MacArthur to make no more preliminary deliveries of machine tools and other reparations to the Philippines and three other pacific nations.

At the same time officials made plain the U. S. will oppose any proposal to revive payment of the damages inflicted by the Japanese in world war II.

Bremerton Offers Music Tuition

Two scholarships of a year's tuition each at Olympic Junior College are available to seniors graduating from any high school in this area.

The Bremerton Symphony Association offers the awards to encourage students of certain instruments to continue their education in the Bremerton junior college. The student need not be a music major, but must play a symphonic instrument. Students selected will become members of the Bremerton Symphony Orchestra, for which college credits are allowed.

Players of the viola, violin, oboe, bassoon, cello, french horn and trombone will be considered for the awards. High school students who are interested should make immediate application to the music director of their own school, as explanatory letters have been mailed to them. Gilbert N. Burns, who conducts the orchestra, may be contacted directly at the Olympic Junior College in Bremerton. Final auditions will be Monday, May 23, in the OJC music room, located at Sixteenth and Chester, Bremerton.

AIR FORCE MAN KILLED

ANCHORAGE, Alaska —(AP)— An air force enlisted man was killed yesterday at Elmendorf field by a .50 calibre bullet accidentally discharged by armorers working on the guns of an F-80 jet plane.

His name was withheld, but investigating officers identified the victim as a private first class assigned to the 57th fighter wing. He was standing about 25 feet from the plane when hit.

RAIN DANCE—IT RAINED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. —(AP)—This desert resort will think twice about inviting the Jemez Indians again for Helldorado Week.

During the parade last Thursday, the new Mexico tribe did a rain dance ritual, guaranteed to bring rain.

It has rained every day since in this arid city which slogans "fun in the sun."

TREESS JAM RIVER

YAKIMA —(AP)— Highway crews fought today to curb the rushing Naches river, diverted from its normal channel by a jam of cottonwood trees uprooted in last year's flood.

The Yakima county engineer's office reported last night its workers had scored a temporary victory in their battle to prevent the river from plunging through a levee five miles west of here. The dike is reported safe unless the river mounts a new thrust.

Washington's West Side Accepts Daylight Saving Time

By Associated Press

Washington state is going to confine its 1949 daylight saving time to the west side, except for one major exception.

Richland, the "atomic city" that annually has favored D.S.T., is the only east side city scheduled for it this year. It shifted to daylight time April 23, along with New York, Portland and nearly a dozen Washington communities on the lower Columbia.

Most of western Washington will shift to daylight time June 1, but there will be numerous spots of "patchwork time" confusion.

There is at least one instance of a "twin city" arrayed against its neighbor. The Centralia city commission voted this week to go on daylight time June 1. It will be the only Lewis county community to make the switch. The "twin city" of Chehalis remains on standard time. That brings complications for persons living in one of the towns and working in the other. Centralians working in Chehalis will be able to sleep in an hour longer, except for county courthouse employes. They are moving the opening hour of county offices in Chehalis from 9 to 8 a.m., so employes there will be on a daylight saving schedule without disturbing the hands of the clock.

Here is a summary of the state's daylight saving schedule:

On D.S.T. since April 23: Longview, Kelso, Vancouver, Woodland, Kalama, Camas, Washougal, Ridgefield, Ryderwood and LaCenter. At the Clark county rural communities of Yacolt and Battle Ground, there is a mixture of times.

Going on daylight time June 1: Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Aberdeen, Hoquiam, Bremerton, Everett, Bellingham, Port Angeles, Port Towsend and the Olympic peninsula towns of Sequim and Forks.

While Richland is on daylight time, the other two towns of the tri-city group—Pasco and Kennewick—remain on standard time for the season.

Some estimates place losses from worthless checks in the U. S. as high as $300,000,000 a year.

MID-MAY SNOW

LOS ANGELES—(AP) — Southern California's rugged winter isn't over yet, although it's mid-May.

It snowed last night in the San Gabriel and San Bernardino mountains, as much as three inches falling in Big Bear valley (elevation 6,750 feet).

The United States did not develop commercial production of peanuts until after the Civil War when their food value was emphasized by the short rations of the time.

JAMES MAITLAND STEWART, born May 20, 1908, at Indiana, Pa., son of a hardware dealer. While a member of the Boy Scouts, he wrote, produced and acted in his first play. It was about world war I, in which his father—a Spanish-American war veteran—was then serving as a captain in France. The boy played in school dramatics and played the accordion at Princeton, where he was graduated in architecture. He joined the University Players on Cape Cod, became a stage manager, then went to Hollywood. His "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" won him the critics award, and his role in "The Philadelphia Story" won the Academy award. He served as a captain in the air force in world war II and won the distinguished flying cross with oak leaf cluster.

News Notes From Angeles High

By Shirley McMicken

All three of the upper senior high classes held meetings this week.

Seniors met Tuesday third period. This was their first practice for the graduation ceremonies that they will participate in soon.

Junior class members met Wednesday. Besides practicing for move-up assembly, May 27, they elected class officers for next year.

Larry Eyman is to lead the seniors as class of '50 president. Bill Larson will fill the vice-presidency and Lelah Bennett will take over as secretary.

Those to guide the up-and-coming juniors, as chosen at their meeting Wednesday, are Don Midkiff, president; Elsie Wright, vice-president; and Pauline Kesler, secretary.

Class officers were chosen differently this year. Usually students nominated those to run for office at the meeting, voting immediately upon them. This year, however, candidates had to present petitions with 25 signatures to be able to compete.

Today all of RHS music organizations grouped together to present a show of new and old melodies before a senior high Ted audience.

Orchestra, senior high choir, band, octet, nonette, junior high chorus and Lost Chord Quartet presented numbers to the high school "music lovers."

The program lasted for almost an hour.

Girls of Roosevelt met Wednesday sixth period for a meeting at which those running for 1950-51 club positions gave their campaigns.

Since there was not enough time at the first meeting to conclude the elections, club members attended a second meeting for a few minutes yesterday to hear the remaining speeches and to cast their votes.

Girls running for office are president, Zoe Balch, Margie Hanchett and Sherie Conaway; recording secretary, Shirley Melville, Donna Knudson, Gladys Larson and Virginia Pringle; corresponding secretary, Barbara Howard, Beverly Pinord, Frances Pelikan, Margaret Corbett and Sue Brown; treasurer, Peggy Ditz and Evangeline Rimbach.

The three biggest peanut raising nations last year were India, China and the United States.

RESERVISTS IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE—(AP)—The heavy cruiser Helena arrived in Seattle at 8 a.m. today for a few hours' stopover. The ship was to proceed to Long Beach, Calif., after unloading naval reservists of the 13th naval district who have been on a southern training cruise.

It is estimated that if the world's entire population were to start counting the number of atoms in one drop of water, it would take 10,000 years to finish the job.

Junior Mothers Hear Talk On Prejudice

A cheery open fire in Lincoln Park clubhouse Wednesday evening provided the background for the Junior Mothers club meeting at which Mrs. W. T. Belford spoke.

Her topic was "Where do Children Acquire Their Prejudices?" Mrs. Belford in a paper entitled "Ideals Are Made at Home," explained that children often are influenced by remarks of their parents. She advocated teaching of sex education in the home and advised dinnertime as the opportunity to teach ethics. She said the dinnertable is the place to cultivate sound ideas which can be conveyed to the children in brief and jolly talks. A discussion of current events is another opportunity for teaching, she advised.

Children can be led to regard college in its proper aspects of study and social life through discussion by parents. If it is spoken of as a place where young people drink and attend petting parties, young people can form the wrong opinions about it, Mrs. Belford said.

"We want in our children rational cooperation rather than blind obedience. They must become independent individuals—be taught to think, to judge and decide," she concluded.

Hostesses for refreshments were Mrs. J. E. Maxfield and Mrs. E. H. Keeling.

Activities of Nominees for BPW Award Reveal Many Civic Accomplishments

Yesterday's Evening News reported the achievements of Mrs. Herbert Crisler, who received the "Woman of Achievement" award of the Business and Professional Womens Club at the annual banquet Wednesday night.

Mrs. Crisler was the third winner of the award. Mrs. Helen Haller, principal of Sequim elementary school, won the award in 1947 and Mrs. C. N. Webster of Port Angeles was the 1948 recipient.

Recently Mrs. Haller was elected district director at the BPW state convention at Tacoma.

Following are the activities and achievements of the 13 other women nominated for the honor by 35 peninsula organizations, as furnished by the Business and Professional Womens Club:

Mrs. R. N. Young of Forks, housewife and mother of two sons, studied at home, observed other kindergartens, and obtained all possible materials in order to successfully teach the kindergarten at Forks when no accredited teacher was available. She is PTA treasurer, church organist, assistant Cubmaster and pre-school program chairman.

Hazel Murray, principal of Clallam Bay school, attends all important meetings of the American Red Cross, Clallam County Tuberculosis League, March of Dimes, Community Chest drives or county park board. She is a member of the Washington Education Association, the Administration Woman's Organization, American Association of University Women and Delta Kappa Gamma, teachers' sorority.

Mrs. Dayton Beverage of Sequim, teacher, housewife and mother of two children, is president of the Women's Club of Sequim, member of the Washington Education Association and treasurer of Delta Kappa Gamma. She is active in organizing and chaperoning parties for teen agers or youth hostel groups at her beach home, and interested in developing hobbies for adults and young people. These activities include work in leathercraft, clay and paper. She teaches ceramics to her pupils and has night classes for adults at her home, where she has installed a kiln.

PORT ANGELES CANDIDATES

Mrs. Leroy Kitselman, homemaker and mother of three children, has been engrossed in Grange and 4-H Club work, in which she has been a leader the past seven years. Mrs. Kitselman has been president of the 4-H council for two years, attended state 4-H club camp at Pullman, county 4-H camp at Deception pass and leaders' meetings at Bellingham and Seattle. She is a member of Pomona Home Economics Club, was a 4-H fair superintendent, judge at the Port Townsend fair and assists in PTA work.

Mrs. Fred Beale, housewife and former teacher, is program chairman for Jefferson school and city PTA, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school primary department, member of the guild and Parents Forum. Mrs. Beale is leader of a Brownie troop of 23 girls.

Mrs. Ellen Matson, apartment house owner and manager, is active in Orthopedic Penny drives, belongs to the Orthopedic Helping Hand organization, knits for war veterans and makes bandages for the Red Cross. She holds membership in the Harmony Club and the Order of Runeberg and is responsible for that organization's aid to the Vanport flood victims. She often visits the sick to brighten their day.

Mrs. Cleve Durkee, auditor of the First National Bank, is the only woman on the Pacific coast and one of three or four in the United States to hold that position. She is organist at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church and teaches Sunday school there. She is regional treasurer of the Soroptimist Club and active as a board member. The past year she shared her experiences of last summer in Europe by making approximately 50 talks before local groups. She also made trips to Salem, Ore., Bremerton, Tacoma, Port Townsend and Sequim where people were interested in hearing of her trip. She also works on numerous civic committees.

Alma Enroth is a missionary who presents the gospel to rural people from Quects throughout the county. She covers about 1,800 miles a month to carry out her work. She not only teaches the gospel but transports young people to meeting places and instructs them, holds summer vacation Bible classes, visits elderly people, reads to them, prays with and for them and writes letters for them. Miss Enroth administers to the needs of the Indian children or finds the proper agency to give aid. She provides for the underprivileged children religious training, friendship and practical service. Her home is a refuge with no racial discrimination.

Mrs. Hugh Macaulay, homemaker for three sons and a foster daughter, is concerned with teen agers' mental, physical and spiritual welfare. She constantly works for their betterment, being advisor to Tri-Y girls and with her girls prepared Camp David Junior for occupancy. She acts as hostess at the Hi-Y weekly dances, chaperones at dancing classes and is secretary of the YMCA board. Good Crowd Hears High School Concert

The high school gym was comfortably filled last night for the annual spring concert of junior and senior high school music groups. A wide variety of vocal and instrumental music featured a two hour program by the young musicians.

The high school orchestra, directed by Oscar Erickson, opened the program with five selections. They were followed by four junior high lads comprising the Lost Chord Quartet, Duane Pringle, George Johnson, Duane Stanard and Billy Albright, singing two selections. The junior high chorus presented two numbers, followed by the senior high boys' octet.

The senior high chorus took the stage for four well-received numbers, including Gounod's "Sanctus," in which Lorraine Payette was soloist. All these vocal groups were directed by Robert Fowells.

The Nonette, directed by A. Lee Freeman, gave its usual polished performance, singing two numbers and an encore. Freeman also directed the high school band in a closing group of numbers ranging from a couple of spirited marches to a medley of Victor Herbert favorites.

The general high quality of the youngsters' performance, allowing for an occasional off note or over-anxious attack here and there, left little doubt in the audience's mind that they well merited the many superior and excellent awards they have won this year in competition with other northwest Washington music groups.

Mayor Asks Support Of Poppy Day Sale

Mayor Frank A. Feeley urged support of the annual poppy sale here by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion Auxiliaries, in a proclamation setting May 27 and 28 as the dates for the sale.

Both veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries sponsor the sale of red paper poppies, with proceeds going to aid needy veterans and their families. The poppies are made by disabled veterans in government hospitals.

Marine-Air News

The crack new Norwegian ship Seattle, outbound, discharged a pilot off Ediz hook today at noon. Inbound this morning were the U. S. transport James O'Hara and the British freighter Norman Star. The O'Hara came from Yokohama. Five more vessels are due to take pilots inbound today and tonight.

Base of a coast guard search for a missing super-Piper plane missing since Sunday on a flight from Whidbey island to Wenatchee has shifted from Ellensburg to Yakima and Packwood. The Ediz hook helicopter is based at Yakima and some of the ground search equipment at Packwood. The missing flyer, John Robinson of Oak Harbor did not follow his planned route but flew about 80 miles south and stopped at Packwood before continuing on toward his Wenatchee destination. The area along the new route is being searched.

No spawning spring chinook are reported yet this season in the Pillar point area west of the Pysht river. Wednesday morning Corydon Wagner of Tacoma caught a 15-pound feeder chinook or king there. The water was smooth all morning but rough late in the afternoon. Thursday, Everett G. Griggs of Tacoma caught a 14-pound feeder chinook, his first one. Big swells were rolling in the morning but fishing conditions were good. The Tacoma men used flashers and spoons.

Capt. Mel Ray's cruiser Armel, with Ray at the wheel and Palmer Kaas as engineer, arrived here last evening from Marysville with six Reinell inboard fishing boats in tow. The Armel left Seattle early yesterday morning, and picked up the tow at Marysville. Heavy south winds prevailed in the sound and the cruiser and tow bucked a strong westerly in the strait from Point Wilson to this port. The Armel ran out of motor fuel east of Morse creek and Capt. Loring Hyde with the pilot boat Prosper went from Ediz hook to the aid of the mariners. The inboard motor boats were delivered to the Port Angeles Salmon Club.

William Branfield, Forks flying service owner, landed an Aereonca plane here last night when he returned from a Seattle hop and found the Forks field fogged in. Branfield and a passenger, Joseph Damon, Forks logger-operator, spent the night here and took off for Forks this morning.
