Cherry Hill Residents Hear LID Proposal Explained at Hearing

Written petitions by Cherry hill property owners will decide the issue Monday when commissioners again consider the proposed LID for paving and installing sewers, Commissioner Edward B. Taylor said last night.

"It is the duty of those for and against the proposal to get petitions, which are the only things upon which we can act. If you'll do your duty you'll make it so we can decide," Taylor told an audience of approximately 100 property owners in Roosevelt auditorium.

Pocketbooks vied with civic pride as owners either endorsed the proposal or fought against it as too expensive.

"It isn't expensive for what you're getting," Fred Strange chairman of the city planning commission declared.

For more than two hours Strange explained the proposed plan of paving with asphaltic concrete and laying storm sewers on north Cherry hill. He introduced John Stackhouse, bituminous engineer for the Washington state highways department, who explained what asphaltic concrete is and its durability.

"If Cherry hill can't support this then Port Angeles is going to be a cow town forever!" declared the Rev. John F. Como.

"Nobody's against improvement, but it's hitting us pretty heavy," Alex Harris said in defense of those who oppose the project. He again voiced the objection of many property owners who are afraid of other proposed taxes in addition to the paving and sewer assessments.

MILLS' PLAN

Edward G. Mills took issue with the proposed method of having the work contracted. He advocated the city install a crushing plant at Morse creek which he estimates would cost $25,000. "Then put in a paving plant," he said. "I think people would vote bonds to take care of the plant. What we'd like to see is an equitable assessment throughout the city. We'll need a lot of paving for more than 300 miles of streets and there is no reason we couldn't handle five or six miles a year." (At six miles a year this would require 50 years to pave 300 miles.)

"That sounds good, but the city hasn't the plant and it couldn't use local improvement district funds for it. The plan has its points and demerits. Seattle had it and got out. The reason must be obvious," Strange answered.

Later City Attorney John T. Trumbull said in questioning Stackhouse he found that Spokane is the only city in Washington which has its own paving plant. There the work is contracted if the bid is below the city's estimate, he said.

Mills also pointed out that assessments for a corner lot on lower Cherry hill are approximately $585, while those on upper Cherry hill are $255.

Strange explained the difference is because upper Cherry hill already has been assessed for the paving on Oak, Laurel and Cherry south of Eighth and is not paying for the storm sewers, except the trunk lines.

WANT ALLEYS PAVED

A number of people asked why alley paving is not included. Others wanted the alley approaches paved to benefit pedestrians.

Strange said alleys were not included because the planning commission tried to keep the cost as low as possible.

He said owners might get together and have the alleys covered with a seal coat at a nominal cost.

Paving alley approaches would add approximately $1,200 to the project's total cost of $217,823. Strange said the city can include approaches when specifications are made up.

Answering those who want Portland cement concrete, City Engineer Herman Ahlvers said the cost would double the assessment less the storm sewers.

ASPHALTIC CONCRETE

The city proposes to rip up all streets in the proposed LID district except Laurel, Oak and Cherry south of Eighth street and lay a gravel ballast. Condition of the subgrade will determine its depth. On Third street, where there is much clay, the ballast will need to be much heavier, Strange said.

After the gravel is in place, in most cases six inches deep, it will be squirted with oil and rolled to make a smooth surface.

Over this will be a two-inch wearing surface of asphaltic concrete, laid curb to curb. North of Eighth, streets will be 40 feet wide, and 30 feet wide south of Eighth.

"A two-inch thick wearing surface," Stackhouse declared, "is thick enough for any use if it has a sufficient foundation. He added that only three inches is used on roads traveled by loaded logging trucks.

Asphaltic concrete was first laid in 1873 and has been much improved since. But he cited cases where it has been in constant and satisfactory use for as much as 40 years.

He displayed samples of the graded crushed rock and crude petroleum oil products that are combined by heat and pressure to form the paving. The coarse aggregate he showed orientated with the wearing surface due to the rolling it received. The samples he showed were taken from an Olympia street 15 years old and from the Bogachiel-Forks road.

"Permanent is a word that has many meanings," Strange added, "but I think on residential streets this can be considered permanent."

CURBS

Curbs are not included in the proposed project because they already are installed in many places. For those who would like to include them, specifications could include curbs as a separate item, he said.

Strange said the petitions presented at the commission meeting Monday against the program "carried about 49 per cent of the dollars and cents cost." By law the city can proceed with the program unless owners who bear 60 per cent of the cost protest.

These petitions were withdrawn Monday and will be presented again next Monday by Attorney Joseph H. Johnston.

In the meantime, people who have changed their minds after hearing the project explained, have gone to city hall and submitted a written statement to remove their names from the petition.

Others have added their names to the protest petition. Commissioners will consider these Monday.

STORM SEWERS

Storm sewers north of Eighth street are included because the city may eventually be forced by the state pollution control commission to install a sewage treatment plant, Strange explained.

Upper Cherry hill can connect to the trunks laid north of Eighth. If it becomes necessary to install storm sewers south of Eighth they can be laid in shallow trenches along parking strips, he concluded.

Fire Prevention Stressed in Conference Talk

Firemen have the job of preventing fires as well as putting them out, E. L. Smith, assistant state fire marshall, told a joint meeting of state firemen and chiefs this morning.

After his talk the firemen put his theory to practice by making an inspection tour of the Roosevelt high school industrial arts shop.

Smith told over 300 firemen present that in the last decade firemen have become conservationists. He said statistics show that only 40 per cent of burned out industries rebuild.

Thus firemen have an excellent opportunity not only to prevent fires but to help guarantee the economic well-being of their communities. Smith urged the firemen and chiefs to help educate the public to ask for inspections.

"Inspections also serve another purpose," Smith added. "They acquaint firemen with the interior layout of the buildings in the community. This knowledge makes it possible to fight fires more effectively when they break out."

CAUTIONED ON EXITS

Roy O'Neil, deputy state fire marshall, followed up Smith's talk by pointing out that improper exits constitute one of the chief causes of loss of life in fires. He urged the firemen to check exits first when they make inspections.

O'Neil said that high fire loss frequently is a community's own fault.

"The first thing a new town does is build a jail with public funds to protect the community" he said. "The people neglect to procure adequate fire equipment which in a fire could prevent the loss of a major portion of the town."

O'Neil also stressed the need for properly vented oil drums. Many oil-heated homes do not have vented drums, he said. Comparing such drums to bombs, he said Fire Chief Clyde Eaton, Ferndale, was killed and another fireman seriously burned in the past year by an exploding un-vented drum.

L. L. Burgunder, deputy state fire marshal, condemned the false sense of security afforded by fire extinguishers. They are no good, he said, unless they are frequently inspected and the people know how to use them.

"After a fire starts you don't have time to read the operation instructions," he said.

INSPECT SHOP BUILDNG

Following the various talks the firemen inspected the Roosevelt high school industrial arts building. After a 20 minute inspection the firemen presented their findings. They generally concluded that the following points constituted the major fire hazards in the building:

Egress means are not safe; the ladder is not an adequate escape from the second floor; there are no fire doors from the first to the second floors to block off fires; open type motors should be dustproof because they can cause explosions as well as fires; wiring in the building is in poor shape; the same condition exists with the fire bells; one of the fire extinguishers was out of easy reach and another had no inspection tag; the trash cans are not the proper kind.

O'Neil firmly vetoed a general shout that the building should be condemned at once.

"There is no question but that the conditions should be cleared up," he said. "Fire Chief Wolverton and his men have been doing an excellent job in Port Angeles. We only picked this particular building because it is close to our meeting place. One could go into any town in Washington and find something wrong with nearly every building. Outside Seattle alone there are 68 rest homes, and I don't know of one that is properly constructed or equipped from a fireman's point of view."

O'Neil closed the meeting with the statement that although lives were lost in burning school buildings for many years in Washington, the danger is ever-present.

"We have had many school fires," he said, "and wherever and whenever a school fire happens a great loss of life is possible."

Firemen Stage Thrilling Exhibition Of Skills in Civic Field Night Show

The stands at Civic Field were filled almost to capacity last night as volunteer firemen went through their paces in an exhibition of fire fighting skills.

The climax of the evening show came toward the close, when Bothell fire laddies scooted up and down a big 60-foot false structure like human flies, while Port Townsend firemen staged an aerial ladder demonstration.

The Bothell volunteers used pompier ladders. A pompier is a single stick ladder with a hook on the end. The firemen would place this hook over a window sill above their heads, climb up to it, then hook the ladder over the next window above them, and so on to the top of the structure. The Bothell men went up and down their pompiers singly and in file.

Then the Lake City volunteers, demonstrated use of life lines to make a fast exist from the building. Starting from long ropes at the top of the structure, they executed a series of drills, coming down with a rescue net singly, bringing a man down with them, then zooming down a few stories and ducking into window openings halfway down.

Their final drill, a criss cross in which they would start from the top window and swing across to lower windows on the opposite side, brought a big hand from the crowd.

But Port Townsend's aerial ladder truck almost stole the show. After running the ladder out almost horizontally into the stands and bringing out a man from the last row, the firemen stationed their handsome vehicle across the field at the foot of the tower. Then running the ladder up into the air its full 65-foot length, four nimble-footed Townsend firemen climbed up the ladder to its top, over, and back down again on the underneath side.

COMEDY ACTS

Sumner firemen, clad in long red flannels, made a big hit with the crowd with a comedy act, in which they came out on a wobbling jaloppy and attacked a Chic Sale fire. The Sumner smoke eaters thoroughly doused each other, whacked their hose in two, and otherwise kept the crowd roaring as the woebegone outhouse gradually burned down.

Four Sequim firemen, Kay Russell, Bill Merrill, Tim Echternkamp and Richard Dryke, also contributed to the comedy atmosphere by furiously pumping water on each other instead of on a small fire which was between them on the track.

In another exhibition at the tower erected for the night show, Auburn firemen scooted down a tarpaulin chute all the way from the top of the tower, exhibiting another method of speedily evacuating a burning building.

PUYALLUP TEAM WINS

A four-man Puyallup team captured the Hugh Leslie memorial trophy in a make-and-break competition, consisting of coupling and uncoupling three length of hose and nozzle to a hydrant. Their time was three minutes, 58 4/5 seconds. Other teams, in the order of finishing, were Auburn, Auburn General Depot, Coulee Dam and Lakewood.

Other acts during the evening included ladder drills by teams from Puyallup, Sumner and the two Auburn teams; water-throwing demonstrations by Victoria and the state forestry division, first aid demonstrations by Mount Vernon and Kitsap District 9, the latter using the Port Angeles emergency unit; and an exhibition of extinguishing oil and gasoline fires staged by C. H. Van Marter of the Union Oil Company.

The finale was a pumping display with several fire trucks joining to hurl streams of water toward the top of the tower, including the Port Townsend truck shooting water from a nozzle at the top of its aerial ladder.

One stunt on the evening's program misfired when the coast guard helicopter dropped a package by parachute, which hung up on the power line instead of plummeting to the field as intended. When it was finally retrieved, it turned out to be a big salmon for Assistant Chief W. A. Dunham of Spokane.

Ken Weaver, Yakima fire marshal, was master of ceremonies for the evening. Instructors directing various conference classes here coordinated the evening's exhibits, under direction of Paul Parkhurst, assistant chief at Everett.

AFTERNOON DRILLS

Coulee Dam fire department took the laurels in competitive drills yesterday afternoon. Coulee Dam's time to complete a hose evolution was a scant one minute 59 and 2/5 seconds.

While Coulee Dam's time was the shortest in the afternoon's competition, it could only win in the class E division, in which it was the only participant. Auburn Depot, the only participant in the class A division, ran through its evolutions in 2:28.4.

Other first place winners and their times were: Sumner, class B, 2:35; Orting, class C, 2:59; Bellevue, class D 3:20.4.

Teams were classified as follows: Class A, fully paid fire department; class B, part paid and part volunteer, class C, volunteer; class D, fire protection district; and class E, any team first time in competition.

None of the teams knew before the drills what their evolutions would be. Fire chiefs were handed sealed instructions which could only be opened when timing began.

Firemen use 10 prescribed drills and the competition yesterday was a mixture of these drills, each of which has several hose evolutions. Chiefs were not allowed to touch any equipment, which is standard practice. The drills yesterday simulated fire conditions. Added evolutions were assigned the teams in the higher classes in order to equalize the competition.

Chairman of the competition was Wilbur Morrison, volunteer fireman and assistant police chief, Auburn.

Johnson Says U. S. Security Depends On Far East Defense

TOKYO—(AP)—Defense Secretary Louis Johnson said before his departure for the United States tonight that he thinks "the security of America is tied in with the way America maintains its position in the Far East."

In a planeside news conference, Johnson said "America must do and I am sure will do all things necessary in the Far East for the security of the United States and peace in the world."

The defense secretary said he and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff came to the Orient "to secure the facts upon which our policy toward Japan should be based if we are most effectively to protect the security of the United States."

Johnson and Bradley took off in their Constellation for Anchorage, Alaska, at 9:15 p.m. (7:15 a.m. EST). They expect to reach Anchorage for a brief stopover before continuing to Washington in 11½ hours.

Johnson walked arm in arm with General MacArthur to the plane. Shaking hands with the occupation chief, he said "you are doing a magnificent job. Take care of yourself."

In his statement handed newsmen, Johnson said he and Bradley had obtained the facts they sought "from discussions with MacArthur and the commanders of our most important installations in the Pacific and from our own observations." In the western Pacific Johnson and Bradley visited the Philippines, Japan and Okinawa.

Students Irate As Ship Tour Cancelled

NEW YORK —(AP)— Six hundred dejected college students were stranded in New York today after the coast guard branded their chartered ship a "firetrap" and halted its scheduled sailing for Europe.

The coast guard clapped its ban on the 6,800-ton Norwegian liner Svalbard yesterday just two hours before it was to sail with college men and women from all parts of the United States.

The vessel, owned by the Norwegian government, had been chartered for $200,000 by the National Student Association, whose president is Robert Kelly of St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J. It had been scheduled to dock at Rotterdam on July 3 and leave there Aug. 31 for the return trip.

Coast guard inspectors told Miss Helen Bryan, 24, Sarah Lawrence college student and NSA travel organizer, that the vessel's stairways were too narrow, its wooden bunks did not meet safety regulations and there was no automatic fire alarm.

The students heard the news as they waited on the pier ready to board the ship. A low moan went up. Girls wept on one another's shoulders and one big college boy vented his anger by booting a suitcase into the water.

Larry Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Petrus Pearson of Port Angeles, is among the students on the tour.

Pearson, first vice president of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, was selected by the ASUW board as one of 12 delegates from the university to the International Union of Students meeting in Prague in August.

Veteran Seattle Firefighter Keeps On Heels of Conference Delegates

By Charles Keim

Oldtimers claim firehorses used to chase after the gas-propelled firetrucks that heralded the end of the horsedrawn engine era. The smokeeaters liked the excitement and bustle connected with the fires. It was pleasant to be jarred out of retirement by the clanging firebell.

Capt. Joseph R. (Old Ironsides) Cook, supervisor for the joint conference of state firemen and fire chiefs now underway in Port Angeles, has something of the firehorse about him. But he is far from retirement.

He spent 43 years with the Seattle fire department, starting in 1906 when the horsedrawn engines were still in use.

His present titles suggest some of his current activities. In addition to supervising the conference here, he is Washington State Firemen's Association and Washington State Association of Fire Chiefs chairman of the fire school; WSFA assistant supervisor, and in charge of the state fireman training program as an assistant director of the state board for vocational education.

"The name 'Old Ironsides' was tacked onto me during the present conference," Captain Cook says. "Actually, I was known as 'Simon Legree' for many years while a captain in the Seattle fire department. The men always called me that because I made them appear on time for drill."

Other firemen at the conference say Captain Cook is called Old Ironsides because he is as indestructible as the gallant old warship.

3,500 RUNS

Captain Cook is pretty modest about the 3,500 fire runs he has answered during his long career.

"It isn't so many when you stops to consider that approximately 8,000 runs are answered each year in Seattle alone," he said. Mathematically, however, it means he has averaged over 81 runs a year for 43 years.

In 1909 Captain Cook answered a fire at Fifth and Terrace in Seattle.

"It was on July 3, and a rooming house was on fire," Captain Cook recalls. "I remember the date and circumstances because it was the worst fire I ever answered. The roof of the building fell on three of the firemen. I was one of them and we had to be dug out. I spent three months in the hospital."

Capt. Joe "Old Ironsides" Cook

WITH STATE NOW

During world war II Captain Cook went to work for the state on the civilian defense fire training program. He has worked for the state ever since.

His present job is to organize new fire department and help improve existing fire departments in the state. This gives the particular cities better rating. This, in turn, causes underwriters to give lower insurance rates to the cities. The entire program is handled by the state board for vocational education, which gets its final funds for this work from the federal government.

Captain Cook busily scurries about Port Angeles from one conference meeting to another. If it looks like a meeting won't start on time he is right on the spot hurrying the men along.

"I guess it's a habit I picked up during my 'Simon Legree' days in the Seattle department," he admits. "In fact, during this conference some of the men have threatened to start calling me Simon again."

British, French Governments Facing Stiff Parliamentary Tests at Home

By Associated Press

The British and French governments in the next three days are facing life or death parliamentary tests even as a six-nation conference works in Paris on the Schuman plan to pool basic industries.

The British government is basing its win or resign house of commons test next week squarely on its decision to remain aloof from the present Schuman plan talks until it learns more about how the proposed steel-coal pool works.

The French government, whose Foreign Minister Robert Schuman authored the plan and gave his name to it, is facing a home-front fight for its own life tomorrow.

The French crisis concerns domestic financing but may indirectly affect the progress of the international Schuman plan if the government of Premier Georges Bidault is defeated. Bidault asked approval of a law prohibiting new government expenditures unless they are covered by income.

At odds with Bidault's pay-as-you-go policy, the assembly approved a socialist party proposal which would give government employes pay rises equalling about $35,000,000 in the 1951 budget. Bidault said he could not endorse payments that would come due when he might not be in office. He asked for a vote of confidence.

Meanwhile, the six western European nations discussing the Schuman plan went over plans advanced by French Economist Jean Monnet. A spokesman said the group might adjourn today for about a week to let the negotiators consult with their home governments. Elsewhere:

REDS HIT PLAN

Soviet Union — The government newspaper Izvestia struck out against the Schuman plan. It said it was "doomed to failure" and "will suffer the same fate as the notorious Marshall plan. The newspaper ridiculed Britain for trying to "sit between two chairs" on the pool plan.

Far East — Top American defense chiefs who have been conferring in Tokyo with General MacArthur on overall military policy in the far east start back for Washington tonight.

State department adviser John Foster Dulles is continuing his talks with MacArthur tomorrow on the possibility of an early separate peace treaty with Japan.

A U. S. army court in Tokyo sentenced four Japanese to two years in prison each for spreading a communist-inspired open letter to MacArthur which attacked the occupation.

Canada — The Canadian government is tightening up its spy laws. The house of commons adopted a bill boosting the penalty for espionage from seven to 14 years imprisonment.

Strike Threats Pile Up for U. S. Railroads

CHICAGO —(AP)— Four of five big railroads have announced they will stop running Sunday if an expected switchmen's strike begins.

The AFL Switchmen's Union of North America has set 6 a.m. (local time) Sunday as the strike hour against these midwestern and western roads:

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Chicago Great Western, the Western Pacific, the Great Northern, and the Denver and Rio Grande Western.

All but the Great Northern have announced shut-down plans. President F. J. Gavin of that line said yesterday the road "will do the best it can" to keep running.

The switchmen seek a 40 hour week with 48 hours pay. A presidential fact-finding board did not recommend granting the request. All peace-making moves have been taken under federal law.

The national (railway) mediation board worked at heading off the strike, but no progress was reported.

No progress was reported, either, in the threatened July 15 walkout of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors.

They also disagree with a presidential board's findings on wages and hours. The board did not include the two groups when it suggested a pay raise for some other rail workers.

Another strike call was issued yesterday — this one by the Pullman conductors' division of the Order of Railway Conductors.

They set their walkout time for July 11. But provisions of the national railway labor act may delay this threatened strike.

Would Give Citizenship To Aliens Who Enlist

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Congress held out a promise of citizenship today to hand-picked aliens who enlist in the U. S. army. The lawmakers brushed off protests that the aliens might spy either for or against this country.

Under a provision approved by the house yesterday, 2,500 foreigners would be eligible to become Americans after serving in the army for five years. A bill previously passed by the senate sets the total at 10,000 but provides no time limit.

A compromise will have to be approved by both houses before the legislation goes to President Truman.

Before passing the measure, the house heard some of its members voice opposition on two counts. A few lawmakers expressed repugnance at the thought that the aliens might be sought as spies for this country; others voiced fear that they might spy for Russia.

Presumably, those enlisted under the bill—which has army backing—would be refugees from iron curtain countries.

Among other changes, the house wrote into the senate bill a requirement that the aliens shall serve in established units with citizen soldiers and not in separate organizations.

This requirement, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the armed services committee said, was designed to remove fears that the United States was preparing to set up a foreign legion.

4 KILLED BY TRUCK

FORTLAND—(AP)—A truck killed a pedestrian here last night and then overturned, injuring the truck's three occupants.

The dead man was identified as Lemuel W. Hunt, 45, Portland, the city's 19th traffic fatality this year.

Injured were Walter H. Koppe, Vancouver, Wash., Lawrence J. Leonard, Vancouver, Wash.; and George Leonard, Los Angeles. Police said Koppe apparently was driving the truck.

SLATED FOR IRAN POST — Henry F. Grady, ambassador to Greece, is expected to be appointed soon as ambassador to Iran, as a follow-up to the State Department agreement to send arms and supplies there. His presence in Iran is expected to help bolster the country's precarious economic and political situation.

Beavers Blamed For Collapse of Strained Dikes

By The Associated Press

Collapsing dikes threw a brief evacuation scare into residents of two new sectors of the Pacific Northwest flood front early today.

The new dike breaks were at Port Mann, B. C., on the Fraser river, and at Sauvies island in the lower Columbia. A resident blamed beavers for the island break.

An evacuation order was issued to 200 of Port Mann's 300 residents, but it was of short duration. Only a few actualy left their homes and all returned within five hours.

Three persons have lost their lives this week in British Columbia streams.

The lower Columbia dike break let flood waters surge over 1600 acres of rich farm land. A resident said three of the nine families in the district of Sauvies Island, Wash., were to be evacuated. The island is downstream from the Portland area.

It was the year's first dike failure in the lower Columbia area, where the Vanport dike disaster occurred in the 1948 flood. Barges were called on to remove cattle and sheep.

Mrs. J. L. Hunt, an island resident, said it was believed beavers had undermined the reinforced dike.

The water was well below its top when the dike gave way between 3 and 4 a.m.

TRAIL THREATENED

Trail, B. C., was another area threatened by the Columbia. It is just north of the United States-Canada boundary.

Trail, a city of about 13,000, pinned its hopes of averting a flood on soggy dikes and emergency work crews. Homes in the low-lying areas of the city were evacuated.

The situation was termed "critical" by J. V. Rogers, the flood control supervisor. Trail is about 250 miles east of Vancouver, B. C.

At Bonners Ferry, Idaho the Kootenai river dropped slightly last night and weary dike workers were cautiously optimistic.

So far levies have held back most of the water. About 3,000 acres of rich farm land have been inundated. More than 30,000 acres are still threatened.

May Call Guardsmen For Tennessee Plant

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. — (AP) — This violence-shaken community awaited a decision today on whether national guard troops will be returned to the bloody strike scene at the American Enka Corp. rayon plant.

Representatives of Gov. Gordon Browning about 100 men and women at Hamblen county jail far into the night after roaring gunfire yesterday wounded four men, one critically.

They announced they would make a full report and recommendation to the governor today.

The 13-week-old strike by the CIO Textile Workers Union has spawned repeated violent incidents since the plant reopened for production late in May. The outbreaks reached a new height with the latest incidents, which began with 25 minutes of gun fire at the early morning shift change yesterday. In previous events, no one had been injured seriously.

Naval Jet Plane Goes Down in Flames

BEDFORD, Va. —(AP)— A navy experimental jet plane — making its first transcontinental trip — burst into flames in mid-air and crashed near here last night, killing at least three persons.

In Los Angeles, a North American Aviation Corp., spokesman said the plane was piloted by a navy lieutenant commander when it left the Edwards, Calif., air force base with a navy civilian attached to the bureau of aeronautics and a North American pilot also aboard.

The spokesman identified the company pilot as James A. Moore, Jr., 26, of Downey, Calif. He had been employed by North American 11 months. Moore is survived by his widow, Patricia.

The plane, identified as an AJ-1 with two reciprocating engines and one jet engine, crashed into a thicket of brush and small trees near the Paterson mine rock quarry some eight miles south of here at 8:30 p.m. (EST).

Plan CVA Hearings Late This Summer

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman Chavez (D-N.M.) said today his senate public works committee plans hearings in the Pacific northwest in late July or August on President Truman's proposal for a Columbia valley administration.

The general money bill now is before the senate appropriations committee. This group is expected to complete work on the $29,000,000 measure within two weeks.

But then it is expected that another three or four weeks will be required for senate action and for ironing out the differences between the house and senate versions.

Taking of testimony on the CVA bills introduced by Senators Magnuson (D-Wash.) and Cain (R-Wash.) and Reps. Jackson (D-Wash.) and Mitchell (D-Wash.) started a year ago and continued through most of the summer.

The measure would set up the CVA to control development of the entire Columbia river basin. There would be a three man board of directors to be appointed by the president.

All revenue from projects in the basin would be paid into an account controlled by the CVA and expenditures for development would be paid from that fund.

License Exam Ends Abruptly

PASADENA, Calif. —(AP)— Twice denied an auto driver's license, with instructions to get more experience, Mrs. May A. Fegan came back the third time.

She got the experience all right, but not the license.

Mrs. Fegan showed up with her temporary permit to make another trial run with an inspector for the state motor vehicles department. But right at the very back door of the department office she ran her auto into the cow-catcher of a slow-moving Santa Fe fregiht train.

Attracted by the crash, State Driving Examiner George Bray walked over and relieved Mrs. Fegan of her temporary permit. Only her feelings were hurt.

OLYMPIC TRAIL TALK — 56

Forest's Sounds and Smells Tell a Story to Those Who Know

By Lois Crisler

It's no use kidding yourself that you're only an idle observer in the forest. It's give and take all right. And you are part of the show whether you want to be or not.

For one thing, you realize that to an animal you are shaped a little differently from the neat carcass you think you are.

To an animal you have a long and ghostly tail — your smell — which you drag and wave over everything.

For example, we were walking harmlessly along the man-made trail on a forested bluff above the river.

Suddenly Cris called my attention to a cow elk across the river.

She was out in the sunlight, fording a branch of the river with a white splash. Head high, nervous, hurrying.

"She has a calf on that island she's leaving," Cris said.

What had happened? We had unconsciously dragged our long plumy invisible tails of human scent over that elk and her calf a quarter of a mile away from us.

We were too tired to go over and hunt her calf that evening. But the next day we returned through the forest on the cow's side of the river. We were confident of finding the calf in its island nursery.

Near the island we almost walked onto a big black bear. He was sprawled against a tree trunk, on his stomach, fast asleep.

As Cris set up his tripod, the bear heaved himself around and flopped his head down for another nap. He looked and acted very full fed.

When we got to the island the calf was gone. The tracks revealed that the cow had returned and taken it off the island to the dangers of the mainland.

That story is incomplete. But whatever its ending had been we ourselves had played an unwitting part in it.

STORIES BY SOUNDS

The sounds of the forest reveal stories — parts of stories.

You hear one cry that sounds like a soprano call. When you get nearer you hear the guttural notes too. It is the raven's squawk.

Cris filmed three young ravens sitting on a limb, waiting to be fed. With soft careful lifts they hopped from one branch to another.

They raised a soprano excitement far up and down the Hoh when ma approached. Ma herself saw us and let out guttural tenement squawks.

What was ma bringing her babies? Who knows? But we had just seen an odd thing that might give the answer.

Out on a log in the river we saw handsful of duck down. It had been dragged from a nest among the roots. No eggs there. But up on some rootlets four feet away lay one egg, as big as a pullet's egg. Next day that egg was gone too.

At twilight one evening in camp, we heard one of the eeriest of the forest sounds, the warning bark of the cow elk, off in the deep forest.

It meant that she had a calf and that the calf was in danger. A glance at the wind showed that it was not our "tails" that had disturbed her.

I wanted to struggle through the forest to try to help her. Cris looked somberly at the darkening great forest. "It's hard to help a wild thing, Lois," he said.

FILMING BABY ELK

There was one morning in the forest when we seemed suddenly to snap out of our city tiredness. Our wilderness antennae that had been beaten down all winter in the big cities across the continent just all at once straightened themselves up.

It was a good, contented, alive feeling.

Cris whispered, "Sometime we'll step over a log and on the other side there will be a calf elk."

The next day we hunted in a new part of the forest. It was the most beautiful and parklike I had ever seen.

Hardly a sun ray penetrated the canopy far overhead.

We passed silently from one green, moss-cushioned "room" of the forest to another.

Suddenly a cow elk barked.

She was not down wind from us. That meant that she had not smelled us. She had seen us! That in turn meant that she had been keeping a lookout in our direction.

And that meant that her calf was near us. We separated, searching for it.

I was crossing the deep forest carpet toward a long mossy log. All at once my sense of timing began.

Probably you can have that wonderful sense of timing with people. But then it's complex. This was absolutely pure. As deep and soft as the pressure of velvet. "Pause." (I even backed up a step.) But then, "Now go ahead. Softly."

Beyond the log lay the baby elk.

It lay on moss in a triangle formed by the log and a mossy root. Only one small "door" let in to its bed.

Cris filmed the baby elk. This was what he wanted. This was what our whole trip was about. We smiled at each other, triumphant with delight. With awe, too.

The silken calf lay there perfect and beautiful, watching us, but not moving.

Off in the forest its mother barked, circling us, out of sight.

As quickly as we could, we withdrew, without touching the little creature. We felt that we should hurry and leave it and the mother to themselves. There should be a sense of honor toward the wild things. When you have gained what you want, you don't crowd.

JUST HAD TO REST

That evening by the campfire we turned over the wonder of our quiet adventures in our minds.

"Aren't they a beautiful thing—those calf elk!" Cris said. "That deep walnut black."

"And the seal color," I added.

"He just had to move a little," Cris went on. "His mother had told him not to move. But he got so-o-o tired. He wanted to see what was going on. But he had to rest his head down. I knew he wasn't goin' to move. His mother had told him to stay right there."

Our fire of dead bark glowed hot, without smoke or soot.

"All the things have wonderful little ways," Cris said. "I was thinkin' about the little sandpiper's nest. In an awful place, looks like. But it's on an island where there aren't so many squirrels and weasels and things ramblin' around. But how did she know it was an island?"

He went on. "Little calf elk, best thing he coulda done. Lie still. If he'd try to outrun something, he'd be stuck, first log he come to. He'd be caught anyway. Lie still, there was j-u-s-t a chance it would pass him by."

The stars were out. The forest was silent except for the rush of the river.

Maybe in a 1,000 years, or 5,000, we people will get the earth all "humanized." Ten people putting a teaspoonful of fertilizer around each wild lily of the valley.

Or more likely, growing a handful of grain in each ledge and cranny of rock. As in Japan now, where the people have already over-run their natural resources.

Pretty! Thrifty, frugal, industrious, etc.

Nope! Give me the disorder, liberality and surprise of nature.

Not in Asia, not in Europe, not in all the eastern U. S. is anything found as rich and wild as this rain forest on the Hoh.

TWO GOOD PICTURES HERE THIS WEEKEND

Two pictures playing this weekend in Port Angeles are given excellent rating by clubwomen reporters representing the major clubs of this country.

"Three Came Home" is Agnes Newton Keith's story of her four years in a Japanese prison camp, a drama of heartbreak, hunger and fear overcome by a courage that will admit no defeat.

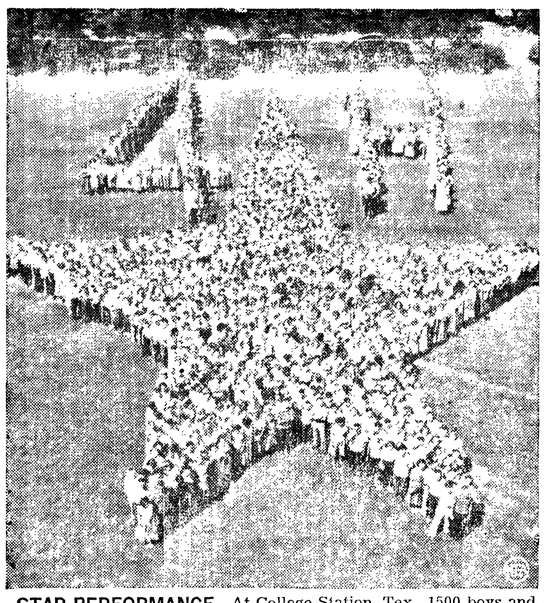
"The mother's concern for her small son, her lonliness at the separation from her husband, her own morale and that of the women prisoners under intolerable conditions, are shown in authentic episodes whose drama is lightened by moments of humor.

"The character of the Japanese is presented as hard and humorless with their brutality arising from military indoctrination. The personal tragedy of their colonel as played by Sessue Hayakawa underscores the human suffering of both sides as a result of conflict and adds a final impelling reason for hatred of war.

"As a whole, the film is a dramatic achievement bringing together a well-knit plot, superior acting and able direction in a re-creation of momentous events in recent history."

Of "Davy Crockett, Indian Scout", they say "The spirit of the great pioneer advance across the plains is felt in this fast-moving, gripping western. Both Indian and pioneer points of view are sympathetically pictured. Well directed and acted, the picture has all the elements of a good western, set against an accurate historical background."

The U. S. agriculture department says frozen orange juice marketed in the 1948-49 season would make a block 60 feet wide, five feet deep and a mile long.



STAR PERFORMANCE—At College Station, Tex., 1500 boys and girls of the 4-H Club get together to form a giant star and a 4-H. The spectacle took place on the campus of Texas A & M College during the annual 4-H Club roundup.

Cleveland Calls Off Its 1950 Air Races

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The 14th running here of the national air races has been called off for this year.

The Labor Day weekend spectacle which drew some 200,000 last year was cancelled for 1950 by the event's executive committee. Apparently Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's refusal to allow military planes to participate was the clinching reason for the decision.

The races, however, had been on shaky grounds ever since their last flying. Pilot Bill Odom, a mother and her baby were killed when Odom's plane went out of control and crashed into a Berea, O., house during last Labor Day's Thompson trophy race.

Householders around Cleveland airport have since objected to closed-course races over a heavily populated area.

The committee made no mention of those complaints, and said only that the races were out for this year and would be held May 19 and 20, 1951, to coincide with Armed Forces Day.

PUBLISHER DIES

SYDNEY, Australia—(AP)— Sir Cecil Leys, 73, New Zealand newspaper publisher, died today at Mackay, North Queensland.

Sir Cecil, who had been ill for a week, was chairman of the board of directors of New Zealand Newspapers, Ldt., publishers of the Aukland Star, Christ Church Star-Sun and two periodicals. He was chief shareholder of the company.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Back home in Kansas City Joe Gunther is vice-president of the P. J. Lumber Co. and he finds little time to do some of the things he'd really like to do.

But as shrine delegate Joe Gunther of Arrarat Temple, he got to fulfill a lifetime ambition yesterday—directing traffic.

"And at the most famous corner in the country, Hollywood and Vine," Byrne said. "It was worth coming 1,765 miles for."

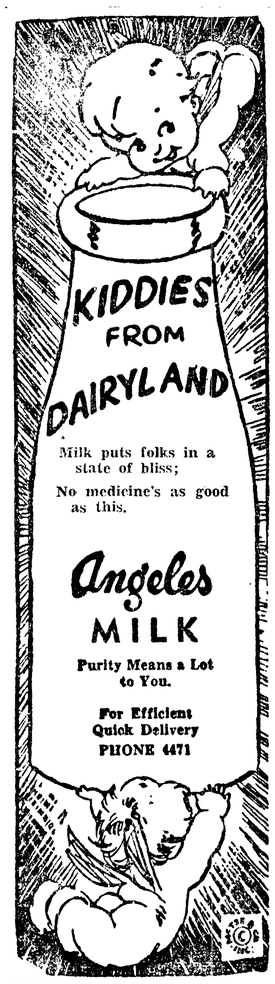
CANARY COMES BACK

MONTREAL — (AP) — Oscar the canary has decided that his cage is safer and more comfortable than the world outside. He disappeared for a week recently and his owners never expected to see him again. He finally turned up, however, without a clue to his adventures, walked wearily into his cage, took a bath and settled down to a long sleep.



PITCHER AND PEACH—Art Houtteman got together with his fiancee, Shelagh Marie Kelly after the Tigers' games at Yankee Stadium. Baseballically, Detroit's great young right-hander had nothing but sad news for the Rahway, N. J., miss.

Hale Telescope Finds New Star

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(AP)—The 200-inch Hale telescope has discovered an exploding star farther away than any yet reported—it took 50,000,000 years for its light to reach the earth.

The explosion was reported at a meeting of the astronomical society of the Pacific yesterday in a paper written by Dr. Milton Humason, of the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories in California.

Had the supernova been as close as Vega, a bright star visible to the naked eye, it would have been as bright as the moon, he said. The Palomar telescope, the world's largest, found the star in the coma cluster, one of several distant universes similar to the milky way.

Discovery of two new dwarf stellar systems in the constellation of Leo also was announced by astronomers R. G. Harrington and Dr. Albert G. Wilson.

They said one of these—they were both recorded by Palomar's 48-inch Schmidt camera—is the smallest ever found. The scientists said the discoveries are significant because further study may yield clues about how huge island universes like the milky way, of which the solar system is a part, are evolved.

Mesquite and Utah juniper, regarded as "pest" trees in the southwest, have been found to make good fence posts.

Douglas Fir Output Highest Since 1929

PORTLAND, Ore. —(AP)— Production of Douglas fir lumber—major item in home and other construction—is heading toward the highest peak since 1929.

H. V. Simpson, executive vice-president of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, made that prediction today, although output so far this year is trailing that of 1948.

He said despite the slow start due to an unusually severe winter, the production rate now indicates that more lumber will be turned out than in any year since 1929.

"The log supply is improving, new small mills are coming into production and most longer established mills are working at full capacity," he said.

The price slump near the end of 1949 caused many marginal operators to shut down. Price increases this year, spurred by heavy demand, has prompted their re-opening.

Simpson said the demand for housing and construction lumber was unprecedented.

The industry's unfilled order file at the end of May totaled 889,383,000 board feet and gross stocks were 652,411,000.

In the first 22 weeks this year the Douglas fir mills have turned out 4,081,052,000 board feet, Simpson reported. That is 61,000,000 less than in the big year of 1948, but 81,000,000 over last year at the same time.

Czechs Can't Lift Communist Yoke Without Outside Help

NEW YORK —(AP)— Most Czechoslovaks hate their present communist masters but the outside world will have to lift the red yoke from the Czech neck if they are to be freed.

So concludes New York Times Correspondent Adams Schmidt in a series of dispatches written from Vienna after he fled from Prague recently to escape possible arrest in a spy roundup.

The communists in February, 1948, took control of Czechoslovakia, a prewar republic which tried to act as a bridge between the postwar east and west in Europe. Today, except for the heroic few, "the Czechoslovak resistance is mostly in the mind," Schmidt writes.

The country, Schmidt continues, is in much the same state of subjection as it was under the nazis. But the communist police state is more complete and affects individual lives more.

Schmidt writes thus:

People disappear suddenly, to forced labor camps or to go before courts manned by communist-indoctrinated "people's judges." The Catholic church has lost its press and schools. Its bishops are prisoners in their homes and its lower ranking clergy have been forced to sign oaths of allegiance to the red regime.

The state is rapidly eliminating private enterprise and taking over the country's economy. With the profit motive gone, shops are shoddy and goods are second rate. So is food. The press has but a single, government-dictated, tiresome voice.

Because of her capitalistic past, Czechslovakia still enjoys a standard of living higher than any other communist country. But the Russians, fearing unfavorable comparisons, are likely to reduce the Czech level deliberately "to the bleaker Russian standards."

Communist actions in Czechoslovakia are a sample of what would happen in Italy, France or any advanced capitalistic country if the reds seized power there.

The correspondent reports that some western diplomats recommend severing all diplomatic relations with Czechoslovakia while such action still would affect the country's life markedly. As the Czech communists progressively integrate their country's economy into the Russian system and reduce connections with the west, such a move has less chance of being effective, Schmidt declares.

Public Speaking Classes Dropped

OLYMPIA—(AP)—The second session of a public speaking class for top officials of the state social security department failed to materialize yesterday. W. K. Moors, assistant department director, said the instructor, Dinwiddie Fuhrmeister of Tacoma, failed to make an appearance.

The classes were criticized recently by Art Garton, democratic state central committee chairman, as a waste of time and money.

Despite the criticism, one session was held Wednesday with the announcement that Fuhrmeister was donating his services.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Ten-year-old Johnny Devine was in the hospital today with burns and scratches —but minus the bump of curiosity which led him to investigate a bird's nest yesterday.

SABOTAGE CHECKED

LONDON —(AP)—The British admiralty is on the hunt for saboteurs today after finding sand in the works of its submarine Tally-Ho.

The Tally-Ho, undergoing a refit at Devonport dockyards, is a 1,900-ton patrol type submarine. It is believed to carry a new under-water breathing apparatus which allows long submersions.

There have been a number of unconfirmed reports of sabotage aboard British naval vessels since the war.

Yesterday at a family luncheon, Mrs. Hiram Frey was hostess to her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stammer of Esthervile, Iowa. The affair was an occasion for all relatives in this vicinity to visit with the honor guests before they leave Port Angeles next Saturday.

In the dining-room, pink and green table linen, pink flowers and green candles in crystal containers gave a summertime effect to the party. Guests included grownups and children. Following luncheon the younger set played outdoors while their elders exchanged family news and talked over old times.

Foreign Aid Plan Faces Senate Fight

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Administration forces opened a drive today for senate approval of a program which would place America's most modern weapons — except atomic bombs — along the defense frontiers of western Europe.

Senator Connally of Texas had the job of guiding the $1,222,500,000 foreign arms plan into its second year of operation. There was trouble ahead — mostly from republicans.

The major points of dispute were:

(1) A provision to give President Truman authority to hand over $122,250,000 worth of arms to any European nation whose defense he considers vital to the security of the United States.

(2) An amendment which would permit the U. S. government to sell arms on credit to any friendly nation.

(3) A proposal by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) to permit Marshall plan nations to draw on $5,000,000,000 of European recovery funds for military purposes. These funds are local currencies deposited by European countries to match recovery dollars.

Two senate committees strongly emphasized yesterday that new type weapons developed since world war II would go into Europe's defenses.

Lightning Kills Convict Breaks Up Ball Game

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Lightning in Florida yesterday destroyed a church, killed an escaping convict, and knocked down eight baseball players and an umpire.

Convict Angelo Massina, 30, was hit by a bolt while fleeing across a field near Winter Haven, Manager M. L. Fletcher of the Bartow state road camp said.

An eyewitness gave this account: He saw Massina running. Lightning darted about him but he threw up his hands and kept going. Lightning again flitted around him and this time he fell. The bolt ripped off the soles of his shoes and one shoe was twisted.

Another bolt during a baseball game at the naval air station near Jacksonville knocked the umpire and eight players to the ground. Three players had to be revived by artificial respiration, but none was seriously hurt.

Charles Webb was winding up to pitch when lightning struck just off the mound between second and third bases. He was lifted off the ground. The game was called right there in the eighth inning.

In Winter Haven, lightning hit a power pole, traveled under the street by underground cable to the Christian Science church and started a fire. The church, built in 1928 at a cost of $75,000, was completely burned.

Boastful Prisoner Gets 320 Years

COLUMBUS, O. —(AP)— A prison sentence of from 16 to 320 years was meted out here yesterday to a 72-year-old ex-convict who boasted of his ability to pass forged checks.

John V. King of Los Angeles pleaded guilty to 16 charges of forgery and two of shooting to wound. He was captured here last April 28 after shooting two constables as they sought to arrest him on a crowded city bus.

King told common pleas judge John R. King he had plenty of prison experience, including terms in Leavenworth and Folsom.

"I know my way into prison," he declared in scorning an attorney. "I don't need a lawyer to help me get there."

Turning to Judge King the prisoner boasted "I can pass a bum check faster than you can cash your pay-check."

Communists Ordered To Step Up Trouble

BERLIN — (AP) — West German communists have received stern orders from the east German politburo: Purge all Titoists and step up underground activity to foment unrest.

Tied in with developments in France and Italy, this report from east German political sources indicated that a continent-wide drive is on in full force against "deviationists" — any who do not blindly follow the dictates of Moscow.

Communist pronouncements in Rome and Paris have called openly and urgently for a purge of all Titoists. While the movement away from complete Moscow domination has not been strong outside Yugoslavia, the communists indicate a fear that it will grow and get out of their control.

The east German politburo called its meeting to analyze the results of last Sunday's elections in north Rhine-Westphalia, where the communists, in a smashing defeat, got only 5.5 per cent of the vote.

Waitress Mistaken For Bear Is Killed

MILLINOCKET, Me. —(AP)— A young waitress mistaken for a bear that had been prowling near the Kidney Pond camps was fatally shot last night. Members of a sheriff's party killed a bear nearby shortly afterward.

Game Warden Alexander Cummings said Miss Ethel Pease, 18, of Jackman, was killed instantly. The rifle shot, Cummings said, was fired by Marshall Doxsee, about 30, son of Camp Owner Oscar Doxsee.

The camps are in deep woods 35 miles northwest of here.

Miss Pease, who was returning with her sister, Dorothy, from an outdoor toilet, was shot in the back, Dr. Norman Nickerson said.

The common brown hare raises her young in solitary manner. After they are a few days old, she finds a separate form for each and visits them each night for suckling.

School District Finds New Wrinkle

ATLANTA—(AP)—How do you build new public schools when the cash isn't to be had?

Let private enterprise do it, and rent them back to the school system.

That was the plan worked out yesterday between Georgia's Attorney General Eugene Cook and Superintendent Pat Heldon of the Union County schools.

Two rural schools in Heldon's little county 75 miles north of Atlanta had burned down. The county had no money to replace them and had reached its legal debt limit, that is, could not borrow any more.

Private sources told Heldon they had money to build new schools and would lease the buildings to the county. They also offered to transfer title to the county as a "gift" when the rentals have equalled the investment.

But was it legal? Heldon asked the attorney general for a ruling. Legal, he said.

DOUKHOBORS SENTENCED

NELSON, B. C.—(AP)—Two Doukhobor leaders were sentenced to two-year prison terms yesterday and a third was held over for sentencing after their conviction on charges of seditious conspiracy. All three are leaders in the Sons of Freedom sect.

Sentence was passed on Michael (The archangel) Verigin and Joe Podovinikoff, his aide. Verigin, sect leader at Hilliers, Vancouver island, still must stand trial on a charge of unlawful assembly. Podovinikoff also has been charged with conspiring to burn the Brilliant, B. C., community hall in 1947.

1950 Census Alters Ranking of State's 10 Biggest Cities

By the Associated Press

Washington state's 1950 census has reshuffled the rankings of its "top ten" cities.

Mushrooming communities and population shifts brought the sharp change in the rankings behind the unchanged big three—Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma, in that order.

Richland, the atomic center, moved from an unincorporated village status to 10th spot in the list, on the basis of the preliminary report.

The major reshuffle of the top cities of the previous census involved Vancouver and Everett.

Vancouver rose to fourth spot, with a 120 per cent gain from 18,788 in 1940 to 41,449. It was eighth in 1940.

Everett, while gaining nearly 3,600 in population, dropped from fourth to seventh. It also yielded the No. 1 northwest Washington position to Bellingham, which went 127 residents ahead of Everett.

Yakima, which trailed both Everett and Bellingham in previous censuses, moved up to fifth place, a notch behind Vancouver.

Bremerton, among the top ten, ranked next to Richland and Vancouver in percentage of gain. It was in eighth place with a gain of 81 per cent to 27,507.

Walla Walla was ninth for the second straight census.

Outside the top ten, the mushroom growth honors went to Kennewick, with a gain of 425 per cent to 16,685, for 19th place.

Renton, 13th, had a 277 per cent gain to 16,037; Pasco, 18th, was up 158 per cent, to 10,114.

Pullman was listed with a 170 per cent gain to 11,979, but it was by inclusion of Washington State College in the town population, rather than spectacular growth.

Rankings of the top ten are:

	1950	1940
Seattle	462,981	368,302
Spokane	160,473	122,001
Tacoma	142,975	109,408
Vancouver	41,449	18,788
Yakima	38,336	27,221
Bellingham	33,934	29,314
Everett	33,807	30,224
Bremerton	27,507	15,134
Walla Walla	24,070	18,109
Richland	21,793

ABERDEEN SLIPS

Aberdeen, which was in seventh place in the 1940 census, slipped into 12th place.

Longview, which was 11th in 1940, holds the same spot again. Its 1950 count announced today, was 20,256, a 63 per cent gain in 10 years.

On the assumption of Longview's ranking, and a 1949 estimate of 13,000 for Wenatchee, the second ten stands:

	1950	1940
Longview	20,256	12,385
Aberdeen	19,475	18,846
Renton	16,037	4,488
Wenatchee	12,965	11,620
Pullman	11,979	4,417
Port Angeles	11,172	9,409
Hoquiam	11,098	10,835
Pasco	10,114	3,913
Kennewick	10,085	1,918
Centralia	8,625	7,414

Two county seat cities came next in line, just outside of the high 20.

They are Ellensburg, 8,417, and Kelso, 7,324. Ellensburg had 5,944 in 1940 and Kelso 6,749.

BIG HELICOPTER WRECKED

CULVER CITY, Calif.—(AP)—The giant jet helicopter that Howard Hughes is building for the U. S. Air force, tore loose from its moorings and was wrecked yesterday while undergoing ground tests.

No one was injured.

The massive craft, designated the XH-17, was rolled out for ground test March 27. It is the largest and most spectacular helicopter ever built, and was designed as a "flying crane" to lug huge loads, such as tanks, field guns and vehicles, for short distances.

Hollywood Spectacle Climaxes Shrine Meet

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Hollywood converted Memorial Coliseum into a vast movie set and therein staged a lavish going away party last night for the nation's Shriners.

On hand for the grand climax of the 76th Shrine convention and to receive the cheers of 95,000 spectators were screen celebrities Dan Dailey, Ruth Roman, S. Z. (Cuddles) Sakall, Rhonda Fleming, Steve Cochran, Arlene Dahl, Bill Demarest, Mona Freeman, Charles Starrett, Terry Moore, Marta Toren, Eddie Bracken, Ronald Reagan, Gary Cooper, George Murphy and Red Skelton.

Skelton appeared leading a camel. With him were men bearing a sign reading "honest red, the used camel dealer."

On hand also were Roy Rogers, who put his horse, Trigger, through his paces, Grand Marshal Cecil B. De Mille, Master of Ceremonies Bill Goodwin and George Jessel, who was introduced as the toastmaster general of the United States.

Filmdom's electrical wizards spotted multi-colored searchlights and spotlights around the huge stadium. Nobles in full regalia marched and provided music with a dozen bands.

Retiring Imperial Potentate Harold Lloyd described the chief aims of Shriners as service to others, pursuit of happiness and a belief in a supreme being.

"Underneath our fun is a great respect for human dignity," he said. He added that the Shrine crippled children's hospitals have cured 150,000 youngsters.

Grape Crop Slow

The annual grape harvest in the Mason county grape-growing area will be slow getting under way this year, Walter Ecker, pioneer grape grower, reports. He blames a late spring for delaying the season.

County in Red

Mason County Treasurer S. E. Smith reported this week that the county current expense fund is $60,000 in the red, and may show a deficit of $100,000 by the end of the year. County commissioners say they will ask the voters to approve a special 10-mill levy this fall.

Census Figures Given

Shelton's 1950 population is 4,952, according to figures released this week, but Mayor Harry Carlon thinks the population count is short. The figure is a 1,940 gain over the 1940 count of 3,707. Mason county increased from 11,603 to 14,907.

School Levy Fails

Although it passed by a vote of 55 to 8, a special ten-mill levy asked by the Middle Skokomish School District failed at a special election Saturday. Reason was that the total vote was just one shy of the required 40 per cent of those who voted in the last general election.

Marine-Air News

A PBY plane from Ediz hook coast guard station left here at 2 a.m. this morning for the vicinity of Destruction island off the coast south of Cape Flattery. The plane was the first on the scene after a man was reported lost overboard from the navy cargo transport Taeuban late yesterday. A coast guard cutter and planes from the Whidbey island naval base and McChord air force base had joined in the search this forenoon.

At 10 this morning two chinook salmon had been weighed in at the Salmon Club Ediz hook clubhouse from a fleet of about 20 trolling boats off the point of Ediz hook. Other salmon were in the boats, Roy Thomas, manager of the clubhouse reported.

Largest of several salmon weighed in Thursday was a 36 pound, 6 ounce chinook caught by Rube Ide last evening and displayed today at the Marina.

Few silver salmon are mixed with cargoes of chinook salmon being sold here by trollers to the New England Fish Company. Although silver salmon are schooling off the cape, the trollers are fishing for the higher priced chinook rather than the smaller silver salmon. Trollers report that high winds on the ocean have hampered trolling the past week but one old-timer, about to leave for the fishing grounds this morning, said signs point toward good weather this weekend.

Gertrude Andresen, Pioneer Resident, Dies Here Wednesday

Mrs. Gertrude Andresen, 85, 703 East Eighth St., resident of Port Angeles 58 years and a prominent local pioneer, died at a hospital here Wednesday evening after an extended illness.

Funeral services will be Saturday at the Harper Funeral Home at 3 p.m. with Rev. W. Raymond Wilder, of the First Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be in Ocean View Cemetery.

Mrs. Andresen was born in Iceland, April 3, 1865, and moved to Wisconsin with her family when seven years old, living at Washington Island, near Sturgeon bay, as a girl. As a young woman she traveled extensively with a married sister, Mrs. Margrit Ball and lived in New York City, Jersey City, Chicago, Milwaukee and other large eastern cities.

Her parents and two brothers, Dan and John Arnason, moved to Port Angeles in the late 80's, and she joined them here in July 1892. Here she married the late A. J. Andresen, one of this city's founders.

Neighbors of the pioneer woman tell of her remarkable memory, her stories of her early travels and interest in local and national events. She was known to many old-time residents for her kindness to successive generations of children who grew up in her neighborhood of East Eighth street. She seemed to know and be a friend to all the children.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. F. J. (Dot) Lonn, Port Angeles, and Margrit Roche, Seattle; nephew, D. T. J. Ball, Arlington, Wash.; and grand nephew, Doric Ball, Fort Lewis; niece, Mrs. H. A. Dwight, Port Angeles; brother, Dan Arneson, Victoria, B. C.; nieces, Mrs. Floyd Olson, Victoria; and Mrs. Al Vare, Yukon territory; and a nephew, Thorkel Arnason, Victoria.

Positions Fixed For Supreme Court Races

OLYMPIA —(AP)— Secretary of State Earl Coe officially fixed the lanes yesterday for the three supreme court races in the coming elections.

Chief Justice George B. Simpson and Justices Frederick G. Hamley and Charles T. Donworth have already announced that they will seek to retain their seats.

Coe designated Simpson's seat as position No. 1; Hamley's, No. 2, and Donworth's, No. 3. The positions are traditionally fixed in accordance with the judges' length of service on the bench, Coe said.

A lively interest has been indicated in the seat held by Hamley. Asst. Atty. Gen. Lyle Iverson has already announced his candidacy for the position while former Justice William J. Millard is reported considering making the race. Hugh J. Rosellini, Pierce county superior judge, has also been announced as a candidate.

Hamley and Donworth were named by Governor Langlie to positions vacated by Clyde G. Jeffers and William J. Steinert who resigned last September. The positions pay $12,000 annually.

24 Ships Carrying Arms to Europe

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Twenty-four ships were reported on their way to Europe today with American arms for eight Atlantic pact allies.

Diplomatic officials, who gave this report to newsmen, said six vessels laden with 2,000 tons of equipment for Belgium were the latest to put to sea. Most of the cargo is intended for the Belgian ground forces, they said.

The supplies are being sent abroad under the arms aid program designed to bolster the defense of western Europe and the north Atlantic area.

Besides Belgium, the ships are bound for France, Britain, Italy, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Denmark and Norway. About 171,960 tons of modern American fighting equipment is scheduled to be in western Europe by mid-July.

Highway Hearing Set for Tomorrow

A joint legislative interim committee on roads and bridges will meet in the Clallam county court house at 1 p.m. Saturday to conduct a public hearing.

The committee is conducting a series of public hearings in northwest Washington to gather information from the public on a state road and bridge program.

Chairman Julia Butler Hansen announces that the general public is invited to the hearing. Members expect to hear from cities, counties, industry and business interests for an overall picture of the state's transportation problem.

Information gathered from the public hearing will be presented to the state legislature for consideration at the next regular session, Chairman Hansen said.
