Santa Claus Plans Second Visit Here Saturday Afternoon

Santa Claus will be at his big Laurel street fireplace at noon sharp Saturday and remain there until 2 p.m.

On this second trip to Port Angeles, Santa will not bring treats for the children but will interview them, read their letters and talk over their Christmas requests.

On this visit Santa will be in his sleigh above the milling crowd and safe from danger of stampede that almost crushed him last Saturday.

Two Santa Claus mail boxes at the back of the Christmas fireplace will be emptied of their letters, and Santa will read these and others.

In a message today from his North Pole headquarters Santa said:

"I want to meet all the good little boys and girls at the Christmas fireplace Saturday. Even if they have not been too good they should come anyway to talk over the Christmas stocking prospects and tell me what gifts they want most."

The Christmas tree at First and Laurel streets is erected and decorated. Its lights will shine out tonight and every night until Christmas to complete the decorative scheme installed by the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

40 More Names Drawn For Special Jury List

County Clerk Clyde E. Shore today announced the names of 40 more persons drawn to make up a jury panel for a special superior court term next week.

So many jurors asked to be excused from the first panel that Judge Max Church ordered additional names drawn.

The supplementary jury list includes the following Port Angeles residents: Coleman F. Aldrich, Ellerd Bailey, Doris E. Beach, Chester D. Bombardier, Fred C. Bower Jr., Edward P. Boyd, Verne G. Burton, James P. Crocker, Minnie Crocker, Christie M. Drake, W. Patrick Dunbar, Frank F. Goos, Grace F. Hawkins, Stanley F. Hawkins.

Orville Lee Heath, Mime F. Hinkle, Otto H. Jacobson, L. Jane Johnston, Birtie Leclair, Bernard Luvaas, Ray A. Medlux, Arnold I. Olson, Leo H. Petit, Agnes S. Phillips, Thomas E. Ralston, Rodney W. Rarick.

William H. Riggs, Alexander Ritchie, Jorgine Rudolph, Barbara E. Sawby, Lina G. Schmidt, Sherman Stamper, Connell E. Thrasher, Mildred L. Uphouse, Jerome Williams, Violet E. Wood.

Four prospective jurors are from Sequim: Roy I. Johnson, Emma Z. Livingston, Caroline A. Robb and Thomas Severn.

Work Day Planned At Sequim Bay Park

Sunday will be another work day at Sequim Bay State Park. Volunteers will start construction of a youth camp lodge under direction of the park superintendent.

Workers should provide their own hammers and saws. Power will be available for the power saw. They also should provide their own lunch, but ladies of the Sequim Soroptimist Club will furnish coffee at noon.

The lodge will be in a newly created youth camp section of the park and will provide recreation facilities for organized groups.

Lt. Cmdr. Houghtaling Commands Winona

SEATTLE —(AP)— A three-officer shift of commands in the 13th coast guard district was announced by headquarters today.

Cmdr. T. R. Midtlyng, chief of the aids to navigation section in district headquarters, has been ordered to Cleveland. Cmdr. George R. Reynolds, skipper of the cutter Winona at Port Angeles, has been assigned to Midtlyng's post at headquarters here. Lt. Cmdr. Edward H. Houghtaling, executive officer of the Winona, has been designated acting commanding officer on the cutter. Commander Houghtaling took over his new command yesterday.

Jackson Hole Hunting Situation Doesn't Have Any Similarity to Olympic Peninsula

By C. N. Webster

Washington state game commission's Monday resolution asking congress to authorize hunting in Olympic National Park was prompted by a September 14 act of congress authorizing hunting in the enlarged Grand Teton National Park.

This act abolished the 221,160 Jackson Hole National Monument which President Roosevelt established by executive order in 1943. Most of the monument is now part of the Grand Teton National Park, originally established by act of congress in 1929 with 96,000 acres. Jackson Hole and the Grand Teton range are just south of Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming at the headwaters of the Snake river.

Jackson Hole is famous as the inadequate winter feeding ground of elk in that region. Supt. Preston P. Macy of Olympic National Park says overpopulation of elk in the Yellowstone-Grand Teton region has long been a serious government problem.

But the situation is entirely different here. Macy emphasizes that the Olympic National Park has no overpopulation of elk, and Assistant State Game Director John Biggs agrees. Park animals overflow outside the park and hunters then kill them under state control.

HUNTING DIDN'T STOP

Furthermore, hunting never stopped in Jackson Hole National Monument. Every park service appropriation by congress since 1943 has carried a rider (attached by Wyoming's potent New Dealer Senator O'Mahoney) preventing enforcement of any regulation not in effect before the monument was established.

Thus last September's act of congress does not permit hunting where it was not permitted previously. On the contrary, it apparently improves park service control over Jackson Hole. The park service recommended the compromise law as a way out of a bad situation, complicated by a variety of local problems.

JOINT APPROVAL

The new law authorizes hunting only in the Jackson Hole addition to Grant Teton park—or rather in part of this addition. The U. S. secretary of the interior and the governor of Wyoming must jointly approve a program prepared by the national park service and the Wyoming game and fish commission. No approval—no hunting.

This program (to quote the law) is "to insure the permanent conservation of elk within the Grand Teton National Park established by this act. Such program shall include the controlled reduction of elk in such park, by hunters licensed by the state of Wyoming and deputized as rangers by the secretary of the interior, when it is found necessary for the purpose of proper management and protection of the elk . . . regulations shall include provision for controlled and managed reduction by qualified and experienced hunters . . . provided that one elk only may be killed by each such licensed and deputized ranger . . . (who) shall be permitted to remove from the park the carcass of the elk he has killed as a part of the plan."

BOUGHT BY ROCKEFELLER

Excluded from hunting is that part of the former Jackson Hole monument known as Jackson Hole Wildlife Park. This area appears to be land donated to the United States by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Commencing in the 1920's, Rockefeller purchased 33,000 acres of private property for park purposes. Title passed to the United States on Dec. 16, 1949 (as reported in some detail by this newspaper on Dec. 21, 1949).

Controversey with Teton county over tax revenue which it loses through federal ownership was one of the complications of the Jackson Hole problem. A compromise settlement on this also was worked out in the new law.

The Jackson Hole solution, if it is one, is very interesting. But it is a far cry from the situation on the Olympic peninsula.

Would Shift Emphasis Of American Aid To European Nations

PARIS—(AP)—America's chief of the Marshall plan in Europe called today for shifting the emphasis of American aid from recovery to defense against possible communist aggression.

Aid has so far been a success, said Ambassador Milton Katz, "but the very events which have confirmed the policies point the need for shifts in timing and in emphasis."

Katz, President Truman's special representative in Europe for the Marshall plan, appeared before a closed session of the commerce committee of the French national assembly. He spoke in French.

Katz said the free nations of Europe and America have been aware of the need for security against aggression.

"Nevertheless," he added, "against the portent of Korea, the emphasis stands revealed as inadequate and the pace too slow."

SETS GOALS

Katz set forth these goals for the immediate future:

"We must together reestablish the military strength and political effectiveness for free Europe.

"We must together find the means to make Germany a dependable and respected member of the community of free Europe.

"Conditions must be established under which the disaffected element among the workers in France and Italy will regain belief in the society of which they are a part and retrieve their trade unions from the grip of communism."

INCREASED PRODUCTIVITY

He also asked increased productivity from the European worker, pointing out that Americans produce three to four times as much goods per man-hour as Europeans.

"A better job must be done," he said, "of combining men, money, machinery, materials and time . . to produce and distribute more goods with the same amount of effort."

Aberdeen Firm Gets ONF Timber

OLYMPIA—(AP) — A contract for 9,900,000 board feet of Olympic national forest timber was awarded to Anderson and Middleton Lumber Company of Aberdeen for $141,750, L. D. Blodgett, acting forest supervisor, announced yesterday.

The timber was sold by oral auction bidding. There were five bidders in all.

The Anderson and Middleton Lumber Company bid $14.50 per thousand board feet for 2,700,000 board feet of Sitka spruce. They bid $14.25 per thousand board feet for 7,200,000 board feet of western hemlock and other species.

Blodgett said that in addition to the bid price the company will be charged 60 cents a thousand board feet for slash disposal and stand improvement.

Elks' Convention Scheduled Here

Naval Lodge of Elks will be host for the midwinter convention of the Washington State Elks' Association Friday and Saturday, January 12 and 13.

The convention will draw at least 250 delegates from Elks lodges in the state.

Naval lodge officers are planning an extensive program of entertainment for the visitors. Business sessions will be on each of the two days with the evenings devoted to banquets, programs and dances, Secretary James B. Glenn announces.

Britain Tells Red China to Stop Killing UN Troops

LAKE SUCCESS —(AP)— Britain called upon red China today to stop killing United Nations troops in Korea and put herself within the pole of the UN charter. If she does this, British Minister of State Kenneth Younger said, she will find all UN members, both east and west, ready to cooperate.

In a major policy speech before the general assembly's political committee, the British delegate thus appeared to be making a conciliatory move toward the Peiping regime. He assured the Chinese reds that no country here had any desire to fight them.

At the same time, Younger declared that UN troops were sent to Korea originally to resist aggression and that they would stand by this principle despite the intervention of the Chinese communists.

Younger spoke after the political committee heard a special report from the UN's seven-member Korean commission challenging Soviet claims that the Chinese in Korea were volunteers. Meanwhile, it was disclosed that British Prime Minister Attlee will visit the UN late today.

Attlee has been engaged in four days of conferences with President Truman in Washington. He will be entertained at a dinner tonight at the home of UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

REGULAR ARMY SOLDIERS

The report said the commission had made an on-the-spot inquiry and found that all prisoners taken by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces were members of regular army units and "were not volunteers in any possible meaning of the term."

Selim Sarper of Turkey read the report to the assembly's 60-nation political committee at the opening of this morning's session. The commission estimated at least 400,000 Chinese reds are now in Korea. It said that none of the prisoners taken had the slightest idea they were fighting UN forces. Instead, they thought they were fighting South Koreans.

Plane Makes Forced Landing

EUGENE —(AP)— A propeller tip flew into a Western Air Lines plane near Roseberg yesterday, forcing the plane into an emergency landing here.

The landing gear failed to function at first, then a tire blew out in landing, and the plane wound up in mud up to the wheel tops, but the 17 persons aboard were uninjured.

Stewardess Lois Browning reported the 7-inch piece of propeller missed about a foot when it whizzed through the plane, after first striking the luggage compartment.

Truman, Attlee Finish Talks; Will Both Support UN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee said today they hope for a peaceful settlement of the Korean crisis but that if the Chinese communists do not share this attitude the United Nations will decide what actions to take.

"For our part," the two asserted in a final communique on their week long talks here, "we declare in advance our firm resolve to uphold" the principles of the UN charter.

MAIN POINTS

The 2,000-word communique announced:

1. President Truman told Attlee he hoped it would never be necessary to use the atomic bomb and that he intends to keep Attlee informd "of developments which might bring about a change in the situation."

2. The British and American leaders agreed that consideration of the Formosa question in the UN will contribute to the maintenance of peace and security in the Pacific. This has been the American position all along and Attlee now supports it.

3. The two frankly recognized their policy split over Britain's recognition of communist China and America's recognition of the Chinese nationalists on Formosa but expressed determination "to prevent it from interfering with our united effort in support of our united objectives."

4. British and American troops will continue to carry out their UN missions of opposing aggression in Korea and "there can be no thought of appeasement or of rewarding aggression, whether in the far east or elsewhere."

5. Agreement was reached that the military power of the U. S. and Britain "should be increased as rapidly as possible" because adequate defense forces are essential if war is to be prevented. The production capacity of other allied nations also must be expanded.

6. They agreed that when plans for creating an integrated western European defense force are approved a supreme commander should be appointed. They expressed hope the appointment could be made "soon." This apparently meant the British view that a commander should be named at once, even before completion of the plans, had made no headway with Mr. Truman.

7. Agreement was also reached that international action for allocation of raw materials to meet defense and essential civilian needs throughout the world is necessary. The principal was adopted that while defense production "must be given the highest practicable priority," essential civilian requirements for scarce materials must be met as far as possible.

VIRTUAL CALL ON REDS

There was no reference directly to a Big Four meeting but there was a virtual call on Russia and China to alter their ways and encourage the development of a more peaceful world.

"We believe," the communique said, "that the communist leaders of the Soviet Union and China could, if they chose, modify their conduct in such a way as to make these (allied) defense preparations unnecessary.

"We shall do everything that we can, through whatever channels are open to us, to impress this view upon them and to seek a peaceful solution of existing issues."

The communique was issued after a final two hour and 20 minute meeting of the two heads of government. Vice President Barkley and members of Mr. Truman's cabinet were asked in and heard the communique read.

SEEKS ANOTHER TURKEY

RIVERSIDE, Calif. —(AP)— Ralph Moran is looking for another turkey to fatten up for Christmas.

The one he was bringing home in a crate yesterday poked its head through the rungs, pecked Moran a paralyzing blow in the neck and caused him to lose control of his car.

Moran crawled out of the wreckage with a broken arm. The gobbler escaped unhurt.

U.S. Ships, Planes Banned From Carrying Materials to Reds

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The commerce department today banned American ships and planes from carrying strategic materials "anywhere in the world" destined for communist China or Soviet Europe.

The ban is effective immediately. It applies to movement of weapons, fissionable materials or strategic industrial goods consigned between any two points outside the United States, even intermediary points if the goods are to go to those areas.

The ban likewise was made applicable to shipments destined for Hong Kong or Macao, the British and Portuguese ports off China, to insure that goods will not be forwarded from those ports into communist China itself.

APPLIES TO ALL GOODS

So far as China is concerned, the ban would apply to any goods whatsoever—strategic or not—since any shipment to China now must be licensed, and licenses are not being granted. It would not, however, shut off hauling of non-strategic goods destined for the Soviet bloc in Europe.

News of the ban first was announced by Senator Maybank (D-SC).

Maybank told reporters that Secretary of Commerce Sawyer had advised him of the forthcoming order, which would be in line with legislation the senator introduced two days ago.

The wording of the legislation introduced by Maybank would exempt Yugoslavia from the ban, and Maybank said Sawyer's order would do the same. This is because Marshall Tito's communist government is anti-Soviet.

Increasing demands have arisen in congress since the Chinese communist aggression in Korea for a complete embargo on American trade with red China.

Yugoslavia Prepares For U.S. Food Influx

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia —(AP)— The government press today announced big preparations — including facilities for fast unloading and vast warehousing—have been completed at the port of Rijeka (Fiume) to handle the expected large influx of American food relief shipments.

The second shipment direct from the United States is expected at the Adriatic port next week on the Yugoslav freighter Croatia.

"Then there will follow quickly more shipments in Yugoslav and American ships," the press reports said. "Quick transportation from port to distribution centers has also been assured."

American sources here said the first United States food consignment specifically to feed Premier Marshal Tito's army is expected to arrive before the end of December. This will come from the $16,000,000 slice of mutual defense assistance funds granted by President Truman's order.

Meanwhile, Marshall plan flour shipments for the civilian population have been pouring in from western Germany. The first flour cargoes from Italy also are due early next week.

The first two American observers assigned to see that this food is being equitably distributed among the population went to work today in Zagreb. Other teams totaling six or eight men are expected soon to conduct spot checks in all parts of the country.

Will Plant Million Seedlings in ONF

OLYMPIA—(AP) — Tree seedlings will be planted on 2,000 acres in the Olympic national forest this fall and next spring, Carl B. Neal, forest supervisor, said yesterday.

"Approximately one million tree seedlings will be planted," Neal said. "It will cost about three cents a tree or $22 an acre to plant them. It will take about 70 years before the trees will be large enough to cut."

Neal said timber from about 3,000 acres is cut annually in the Olympic national forest. He said approximately two-thirds of the area cut over restocks naturally.

A total of 28,000 acres in the forest will have been replanted with this year's plantations, Neal said. The first planting was done near Port Angeles in 1919.

Thousands of UN Troops Battling Desperately to Escape Red Traps

By The Associated Press

TOKYO—Thousands of American and allied troops battled desperately to break through fiery red Chinese traps today in efforts to reach the Korean east coast for probable mass removal by sea.

Chinese forces were reported close behind one retreating force of 20,000 at the Koto airstrip, on both sides of a canyon trail leading down to the sea, and ahead of them near their expected place of embarkation on the Sea of Japan at Hungnam.

Thousands of others scattered in the northeast were trying to reach the escape port.

In northwest Korea, only patrol contact was reported along the newly-formed eighth army defense line.

Top American naval and marine officers conferred secretly on a ship off the stormy east coast. A U. S. eighth army source said some allied South Korean troops, in the far northeast, already had escaped by sea.

The big question was how many others in the northeast could reach the coast.

MOST CRITICAL SPOT

At the most critical spot the 20,000—U. S. marines and doughboys and a few British—were in the midst of a tank-led drive to break out of a four-sided Chinese trap south of Changjin reservoir.

Reds entrenched on dominating ridges and shielded by a snowstorm from allied air attack raked the column with heavy fire.

The leathernecks and infantrymen moved slowly down a steep, ice-glazed and snowy mountain trail from Koto, eight miles south of the reservoir. Forward elements had covered five of the 45 long miles from Koto to the east coast escape port of Hungnam by Friday noontime.

Driving north to meet them was a relief column of the U. S. third division, trying to clear the roads into the mountains from Hungnam.

But even if the 20,000 should link up and escape that fiery defile, thousands of additional Chinese massing north of Hungnam and the nearby industrial city of Hamhung threaten to cut them off again.

A Chinese attack on the Koto airstrip behind them made the critical situation even worse. The bumpy strip is the only outside link for the trapped troops south of the Changjin.

More than 1,700 critically wounded marines and doughboys have been flown from Koto. There were no details of the red attack on the field.

NORTH OF RESERVOIR

Far north of the reservoir, the 17th regiment of the U. S. seventh division was moving through mountains swarming with Chinese but its whereabouts was not announced. The 17th withdrew from a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu river boundary of red Manchuria. It had been the only American outfit to reach the Yalu.

In the far northeast, elements of the South Korean capital division were evacuated by water, presumably from the big port of Chongjin, 60 miles southwest of the Soviet Siberian border.

An army source said the remainder of the division was pulling back by land toward Hungnam.

NORTHWEST

In the northwest, below red-occupied Pyongyang, the U.S. eighth army consolidated positions on its newly-formed defense line.

Allied patrols probed for advance elements of 18 Chinese divisions moving toward the line. A few skirmishes were reported.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead reported that up to 40,000 well-armed guerrillas—mostly reorganized North Korean troops—are operating behind the eighth army line and on its extreme right flank.

These hit-run raiders, he added, are increasingly harrassing UN forces.

Di Salle Says Price Ceilings Are Planned

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. Di Salle said today the government definitely is making plans for a ceiling on prices but sees no reason to freeze them now.

Such a ceiling would necessarily be coupled with a lid on wage increases, but Di Salle told a news conference he hoped any freeze would not be necessary.

In any case, the former Toledo mayor said his price agency would be unable to impose a general ceiling for 60 to 90 days because of a lack of staff, space and administrative organization.

Di Salle is director of price stabilization in the economic stabilization agency.

Chiang Kai-Shek Would Invade China With His Troops

NEW YORK—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek advocates invasion of China's mainland by his anti-communist troops from Formosa He suggested this would help alter the Korean situation "basically."

The Chinese nationalist leader, replying to a series of questions by Radio Commentator Robert Montgomery, declared an invasion by his forces, "with coordinated action from the United Nations naval and air forces," would meet a "concerted response" from 1,500,000 guerillas in China.

Also, Chiang said, the landing would rally "many troops now under communist control" and "these will shake the foundation of the (communist) Peiping regime."

The generalissimo's answers were announced by Montgomery last night in his Pearl Harbor Day program over the American Broadcasting Company's network.

WOULD HELP UN

Chiang asserted his troops still were prepared to join the United Nations troops in the battle for Korea despite the critical situation and despite previous refusals of such aid by the U. S.

He also said that plans of his government for the recovery of the Chinese mainland "do not envisage the use of American ground forces."

General Christmas Furlough Cancelled

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The army today cancelled a general ten-day Christmas furlough for soldiers in training camps.

The announcement said training will continue through the holiday season at all camps in the United States except on Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

The army explained that commanders at camps and posts may grant leave to men who can be spared in order to give them time to go home for the holidays.

The army originally planned to suspend training for the two holiday weekends only, but on Nov. 11 announced that a general training holiday would be granted from Dec. 23 through Jan. 1.

Spokesmen explained here that the purpose of the shortened holiday period was to prevent any break in the intensive training program. They added that camp commanders might find it possible to give quite a few men more time off than just the two holidays.

Eisenhower Warns Youth To Be Ready

CAMP PICKETT, Va.—(AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower warned 20,000 troops in training here that the United States soon may have to call "all our young men" back to military service.

"We cry for peace and there is no peace," Eisenhower in uniform, said here yesterday in an impromptu address as he visited the camp with General Mark W. Clark, commander of army field forces.

"But remember this: You are members of a free country. A United States, united in spirit, aware of its task and determined to do it, is the strongest force on earth."

He told the soldiers, members of the 43rd infantry division and other units, that they should "demand" a rigorous training period.

"If you have to fight, you must be prepared to fight," he said.

Truman Appoints Press Secretary

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman today appointed Joseph H. Short, Jr., Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, as presidential press secretary.

Announcement of Short's selection was made by Stephen T. Early, who has been acting as press secretary since Charles G. Ross died suddenly Tuesday night.

Dr. Bunche Says He Doubts That Any Nation Controlling Atomic Weapons Would Use Them

OSLO, Norway—(AP)—Dr. Ralph Bunche said today the atomic bomb should be used "only if the situation becomes so critical that defense makes it necessary."

The United Nations mediator who brought peace in Palestine added that he doubted "that any nation controlling atomic weapons would use them."

"Use of the atomic bomb does not settle any political issue," he declared.

Here to receive the 1950 Nobel peace prize award, Bunche told a press conference he did not believe th recent military setbacks to UN forces in Korea would have any effect on the prestige of the world organization.

Dr. Bunche arrived by plane last night after visiting several European countries.

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN UN

"All the people I have met on the trip expressed their full confidence in the UN," Bunche declared.

Asked if he would be willing to mediate in the Korean conflict, Dr. Bunche answered that he was an official of the United Nations, and as such had to accept the tasks given to him.

"I had to go to Israel on 24 hours notice, and I can never know where I will be or what I will do tomorrow," Bunche declared.

The first Negro to receive the Nobel peace prize, Dr. Bunche said that the racial question still is America's No. one problem.

"But there is progress, especially in the south, and I have no doubt that some day the problem shall be solved," he said.

Later today Dr. Bunche will be the guest of the American embassy at a luncheon.

HAL BOYLE SAYS—

Milly The Mouse Wants GI, New Dress, Jeep

SEOUL—(AP)—Milly the Mouse is an adventuress.

She is a Korean version of the American victory girl of the second world war. Her job is to entertain and dance with American officers in the only night club open in this wartime capital after dark. Night clubs for the enlisted men close at dusk.

Milly is a slender, black-haired, dark-eyed girl of 21 who stands about five feet tall on her high heels. She is perhaps the best jitterbug in Seoul and she loves to show off.

Her broad small face gives such a look of child-like ecstasy when she is whirling with a good partner that even soldier wallflowers sitting lonely at her table like to watch and buy her a drink afterwards.

"It makes me feel better just to see anyone having such fun," one said. "Over here some times you forget there is such a thing as real fun left in the world."

FUN DESTROYING HER

This fun, however, is gradually destroying Milly the Mouse. Her popularity is becoming her own doom.

She is wearing out her vibrant body, her mind, and her soul—such as it is—trying to grab what quick economic security she can from a collapsing jitterbug world. She is a 20th century Becky Sharp—the heroine of William Makepeace Thackeray's "Vanity Fair."

But the odds are hopelessly stacked against Milly in this far eastern vanity fair. That is what makes her courage and her energy and her frank female opportunism so sad.

"All I want to find is a nice GI and marry him and go back to the United States with him and be happy," she says.

But so far she has encountered no matrimonial volunteers. Her dream is the dream of many Korean dancehall girls. She has a baby she says was fathered by an American soldier who never married her. And she estimates some 200 Korean girls in Seoul have the same problem. It is a bitter sorority, as the Korean men are crudely critical of their plight.

Sometimes their criticism has reached the point where they smash in the faces or cut off the hair of Korean girls left behind by their white American lovers.

KILLING HERSELF

Milly the Mouse is killing herself by being a double duty girl. She dances from 1 p.m. until 5:55 p.m. in the enlisted men's Sidestreet dancehall. Then she rushes over to the Capitol Club, the officers' hangout, and keeps on her feet until 11 p.m.

She makes between $100 and $200 a month. That is a tremendous salary here. But her wardrobe is thin. And a new dress or winter coat costs $50 to $75.

Milly says she originally had everything a dancehall girl needs to be glamorous, but "the communists took it all away from me."

This is indoubtedly an exaggeration but it is fashionable. Many dancehall girls love to pretend they were practically queens before the arrival of the nasty visitors from the north.

NO ENDURING SECURITY

There is no real enduring security for girls like Milly. Because she sees no permanence in her life, because her energy is wearing low, she has taken to accepting the drinks she should turn down. And she drinks half a water glass of whiskey at a gulp. She doesn't know any better.

"Why everybody wants dance with Milly?" she giggles. Then she smiles with drunken complacency as a soldier says, "because you dance the best."

"I looking for man who give me evening dress, daytime dress, overcoat, two slip, two brassiere, two pair silk stocking and one pair high heel shoes," she says. Then she adds dreamily:

"My baby need clothes, my mother sick, I got older brother in jail, my younger brother want go to America and study and I need house and jeep. You know GI want marry me?"

Then she says, "I sick, . . . I must go hospital tomorrow."

She lies so outrageously that if she is called to task for it she explains candidly:

"I must make lies to live."

And that is probably the complete and utter truth as poor Milly's world now begins to fall apart around her.

Quinault Gets 141 Inches of Rain

QUINAULT, Wash.—(AP)—So you think you're wet?

Consider, then, the plight of residents of this tiny resort and logging community on the banks of Lake Quinault, 45 miles north of Hoquiam.

Up to December 1 of this year a total of 141 inches had been recorded, Earl Simonton, Quinault district ranger for the United States forest service, reports. And more than five inches have been added since the first of the month. The annual average is "only" 126 inches.

Unless it dries up in the next 24 days, Simonton predicted, the total for the year may pass 170 inches, or more than 14 feet of rain—a rather precipitous bit of precipitation.

Suggests Test Before Graduation

SPOKANE—(AP)— A standardized test in arithmetic was suggested yesterday as a possible prerequisite for high school graduation.

The proposal was made by Clifford Robinson of Salem, Ore., an official of the state department of Education, at a meeting of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools.

Robinson said 60 per cent of the students enrolling at Oregon State College had only general mathematics or general science in high school.

"The survey committee suggested that all students who have not completed a consecutive course in mathematics be required to take a standardized test in arithmetic before they leave high school," he said.

MORE BONUS CHECKS

OLYMPIA — (AP) — One hundred bonus checks were mailed from Olympia today to state veterans of world war II. The checks covered claims through 166,600. Total payments so far are $59,617,140 with an average bonus of $357.85.

CLAIM STEAMER SHELLED

TAIPEI, Formosa—(AP)— Chinese nationalist naval headquarters said red Chinese shore batteries near Amoy yesterday shelled an unidentified steamer flying the Panamanian flag.

It said a nationalist warship allowed the ship, bound for Amoy from Shanghai, to proceed after seeing it was not damaged.

Bank Asks Public For Small Change

LIMA, O.—(AP)—A Lima bank reversed normal procedure yesterday and appealed to the public for small change.

Lima's National Bank exhausted its supply of pennies and asked for help through Lima News.

Residents responded—breaking open piggy banks, rummaging through dresser drawers, and unscrewing lids of fruit jars to get at their penny savings.

Before the day was out several hundred dollars in paper money was exchanged for pennies.

PLAN 1951 FAIRS

SEATTLE—(AP)—Barring possible full-scale mobilization, directors of Washington state fairs plan to go right ahead with arrangements for 1951 shows.

The decision of business as usual was reached here yesterday at the annual meeting of the State Fair Association.

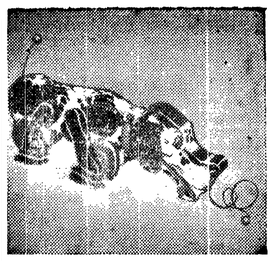
New 1951 Pontiac On Display Tomorrow

The 1951 silver anniversary Pontiacs will be displayed to the public Saturday at Port Angeles Motors' sales department, 220 West First. The new Pontiac features 27 styling innovations and 16 mechanical improvements.

This 1951 line marks Pontiac's twenty-fifth year on the automotive stage, and with 15 models the Pontiac division of General Motors offers an extremely wide choice. Chieftain and Streamliner styling are available in either standard or deluxe treatment, with six or eight cylinder engines and with hydramatic or synchromesh transmission.

Interior motif of the new Pontiacs is gray, highlighted by chrome. Doors are trimmed in two tones of gray fabric and the seat upholstery is in tri-tone gray-blue striped wool, reflecting the two grays used in headlining, doors and carpets.



PULL TOYS that squeal and squawk like this loose jointed dog and amusing elephant should charm the nursery group.

Wool Carding, Yogurt, Paper-Loving Squirrel Included in Week's News From Humes Ranch

By Lois Crisler

It was just the right time when Cris and I dropped in unexpectedly at John A. Johnson's farmhouse out near Joyce the other evening.

Mrs. Johnson was spinning. She sat on two cushions in the center of the davenport. A fire burned in the fireplace in front of her.

Baskets of carded wool stood near her. I had never seen carded wool before. It lay in white heaps of luxurious soft rolls the size of a southern belle's curls.

Mr. Johnson sat at one side of the fireplace watching. "I used to have to card wool when I was a boy," he said. "Carded lots of it." He has a thick shock of dark hair, graying, and sparkling clear blue eyes.

The thread flew steadily from the "curls" onto the spinning wheel, as if spinning were no trick at all.

"You card some," Mrs. Johnson commanded us. She has a firm pleasant face and soft brown hair.

Our clumsy earnest carding pleased and amused the family.

Over the fireplace hung a painting of their old home in Sweden. Their daughter Emily, physical education instructor in a Seattle high school, was home for the weekend. Their married daughter, now living near San Francisco, called up while we were there.

We had coffee with thick bubbly cream, and caraway rye bread and a white, feathery loaf of twisted sweet bread, raised overnight, worked down three times and baked that morning.

YOGURT MAKER

Picked up news of a pleasing trend —from a woman's point of view—in the yogurt situation, when we stopped in for groceries.

Mr. McGlenn said his wife had no luck making the stuff. He thought she got the oven too hot and the little yogurt "bugs" resented it. So he has taken over the family yogurt making himself.

To ease the intellectual strain, he is getting himself one of those foolproof yogurt makers.

BRAKES, HE HOPES

On our way home we paused at the Elwha ranger station. Jack Broadbent, the ranger, said that Harry Schoeffel of the Olympic Hot Springs came down from his mountain lair on a tractor during the snowstorm.

Jack had gone up toward Observation point to see how the road was. He heard a thundering noise and looked up to see this monster with Harry on top of it come rip-roodling out of the mists and fog of the upper regions.

Jack said, "All I thought was, I hope he has good brakes!"

Harry chugged majestically by the barns and workshop at the ranger station, waving and shouting a greeting.

BUSY SQUIRREL

An improvident squirrel keeps raiding the tissue in the powder room.

I don't know what his housekeeping arrangements are. You would think he would have his nest all fixed up long before December.

But for three weeks now, he has been struggling daily to get more nest lining from the roll of tissue on its wooden spindle. He gnaws the edges.

Sometimes he has the luck to get the end in his little jaws. Then he makes off into the woods triumphantly, unrolling an aisle of toilet tissue behind him.

My theory is that the stuff draws damp. The squirrel draws no conclusions, just hops over for another layer.

Cris has buried himself each evening in mail order catalogs. He came forth the other day with the fruit of his research. "How would you like a new stove for the kitchen?" he said.

For nine years I have cooked on Grant Humes' old Raven stove, packed up the trail when Humes ranch was ten miles from the nearest road, instead of two and a half as now. (The Elwha trail used to come out at the old covered bridge about a half mile above the present highway bridge on the Elwha.)

The top of the stove is cracked. Fortunately all my pans are buckled, so I adjust one bulge to the other. One of the stove lids is fractured in two. The firebox lining is an assembly of broken pieces propped with stones against the oven. The broken oven door is held together with wire.

A new stove sounded OK, at first blink. Then I got to thinking.

How would a white enamel range look against the old log wall! Besides, any mail order range would have to go some to rival the oven of this old Raven.

The other day I was baking bread in the back of the oven at 385 degrees. A souffle snoozed along near the door at 300. Cris set up a howl for cornbread, which I obediently whipped up and set on the rack to zip through at 425. All under the same cover!

I'm far from sure about a new range.

Elks Have Fun As 'Uptowners' Present Lodge Founding Skit

Theme of "Uptown" Elks' "party to end all parties" Thursday night was the establishment of Naval lodge in 1896 by business and professional men, and a debate on whether or not "mill hands" would be admitted as members.

The affair was the third of a series of three, the other two being given by employes of the Crown Zellerbach and Rayonier Incorporated mills here. Uptown members are all those not employed in the city's big mills.

Narrator as a prelude to the drama was Harold Widsteen. Secretary James B. Glenn, who followed Exalted Ruler Hugh H. Hankins, reminded the crowd that Crown Z had imported Bill Welsh from San Francisco and Rayonier brought Kenneth Lewis from Hoquiam to act as masters of ceremonies at their parties.

Glenn asked for volunteer M. C.'s from the Uptowners, and a dozen volunteered with Widsteen chosen.

Time of the scene was September 22, 1896, the day after the lodge was instituted. The place was the Old Crow saloon, operated by Michael Geraghty, who also could sing.

Cast of characters were Roy S. Jensen as Frank R. McIntosh, first exalted ruler; John M. Wilson as Thomas T. Aldwell, leading knight; Arthur Poolton as Secretary H. Maurice Fisher; Jerry Nelson, as Esquire George T. Ulmer; E. R. Stewart as C. E. Malett, chairman of the board of trustees; George Heckman as Capt. Robert P. Ingersoll of the USS Philadelphia, and Norman Letson as Geraghty.

Of the 30 charter members of the lodge, nine were officers of Admiral Beardslee's fleet of five vessels. The admiral tied up his fleet in the local harbor while he fished for the big trout in Lake Crescent named in his honor.

The scene opened with the men arguing whether or not "millhands" would be admitted as members. All the charter members were either navy officers or business and professionel men and took in all of that category in the city who had money enough to join.

Captain Ingersoll declared that he and the eight other officers had been made gentlemen, "by act of congress" and objected to sitting in the lodge with rough millhands and calling them brothers.

SINGER APPEARS

In the midst of the argument, Clara Queen, a local character of those days, played by a professional actress from the vaudeville circuit, came in and sang some gay nineties songs. Letson previously had sung Irish songs.

A plea by Aldwell to admit millhands of good character who owned a suit of clothes was heeded, and the lodge's policy was informally loosened to admit 'millhands." The men had become quite "mellow" by that time.

Aldwell said: "Who knows that some of these millhands will not only be earning three dollars a day but own a suit of clothes? Maybe some time one of them might even become exalted ruler or perhaps chairman of the board of trustees."

The amendment to the agreement was that "millhands" might be admitted but never would the bars be let down to loggers or Sequim farmers.

At the conclusion of the act, Widsteen unveiled a painting on which was the Crown Z backbone and the Rayonier keystone, important parts of the Elks structure, placed on the firm foundation of the founding fathers and topping it all was the "brain," of the Uptown members.

Millhands were guest of honor. They were admitted through the main entrance of the ballroom under a decorated canopy. Each was greeted by a uniformed doormen with a handshake and pat on the back, and given a cigar.

Uptowners entered through the side door without fanfare.

The characters in the historic sketch all were dressed in gay nineties suits.

SOUVENIRS GIVEN

Souvenir programs with pictures of scenes from a half century ago, explained the action of the play. Pictures of old time scenes painted by Felix Gallacci decorated the Old Crow barroom.

All the chacters presented in the sketch were authentic. Only remaining resident charter member, Thomas T. Aldwell, was present and introduced.

Naval vessels in the harbor when the lodge was started were the cruiser Philadelphia, monitors Monteray and Monadnok and gun boats Alert and Bennington. The Alert was sent to Port Townsend to bring chair officers of that "mother" lodge here. The gunboat became lost in the fog and did not arive until 2 o'clock in the morning, and initiation did not end until 3 a.m., Widsteen related.

Because of naval officers being charter members, a special grand lodge dispensation allowed the lodge to be called naval lodge, the only one in the United States not called after its home city. Special also is the rule that men of the armed services may join without establishment of a legal residence here.

The policy of allowing "millhands" to join has resulted in Naval lodge growing to a membership of 2,400 and having assets of a million dollars, the master of ceremonies said.

Following the local part of the show, five acts of professional vaudeville were presented and a buffet lunch served.

More than 800 Elks, the largest number ever to attend a lodge show, overflowed the ball room.

Chairman of the Uptown committee was Dan Robertson, past exalted ruler.

Organization Briefs

EPISCOPAL YOUTH GROUP will hold its first meeting in St. Andrew's parish hall Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Marilyn Pfahler announces all members should attend this important meeting.

MOUNT PLEASANT COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION will hold its quarterly meeting at the hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Chairman Eugene Reed urges all organizations to have a representative present and invites all members and interested residents to attend.

PENPLY WOMEN'S CLUB Thursday elected Mrs. Reuben Englund president. Other officers to serve with her are Mrs. Albin Sund, vice-president; Mrs. Herrick Fox, secretary, and Mrs. Albert Mattson, treasurer. Mrs. H. L. Lupro is scribe. On Saturday night the group will hold its Yule party at Angeles Grange hall.

PORT ANGELES LODGE NO. 69, F. AND A. M. next Tuesday night will have a state communication and election of officers. Their installation will be January 6 with Judge Mathew Hill, past grand master for the state, as installing officer. Tuesday's meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS has elected its 1951 officers headed by Mrs. John Wilder. Other new officers are Mrs. Carl Daugaard, senior vice-president; Mrs. Eva McNichol, junior vice-president; Mrs. Harold Y. Brown, treasurer. Mrs. Charles A. Filion serves as chaplain, Mrs. Joe Woods, conductor, and Mrs. Maybelle Robideau, guard. Mrs. Frank Dustman was appointed to again serve as secretary.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB Wednesday night elected Fred Hipkins president, and Mrs. Lee Glas, secretary-treasurer. They replace Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Fountain who moved to Oregon. Appointed on the executive committee were Dick Wray, Bob Glas and Leo Konopaski. Honored guests of the evening were Sheriff-elect James Morse, County Treasurer Jens Bugge and State Committeeman Frank Christman. Frank O. Fountain was speaker for the evening, talking about the importance of the central precinct committee. A social time followed with visiting, piano music and lunch.

Lecture, Tea At Sequim Church Mon.

One of the outstanding events of the Christmas season will be the annual tea sponsored by St. Luke's Guild of the Sequim Episcopal Church next Monday.

Preceding the tea Mrs. A. M. Young of the Seattle Art Museum will speak on "The World's Famous Madonnas" and will illustrate her talk with colored slides of great paintings. Her program, appropriate to the Christmas season and in wide demand throughout the state at this time of year, begins at 2 o'clock in the chapel of Trinity Methodist Church, Sequim. The public is invited to attend.

During the tea which follows in the social hall of the Sequim Methodist Church, Mrs. Henry Emery, Mrs. William Merrill, Mrs. James Beverage and Mrs. John F. Como will pour.

COMMITTEE ASSISTANTS

Mrs. Otto Conner is president of St. Luke's Guild, and Mrs. Jess Taylor is general chairman of the annual holiday tea.

Committee chairmen assisting her include Mrs. John Scott, decorations; Mrs. Warren Woodcock, refreshments; Mrs. P. K. Weston, invitations; and Mrs. James Gates, dining room.

Others are Mrs. Ralph West, reception; Mrs. Pearl Simdars, serving; Mrs. Robert Barker, advertising; and Mrs. James Coble, publicity.

Youth Problems Are Topics for Mothers

Junior Mothers Club met with Mrs. Albert Acorn Wednesday night and had Mrs. Paul Deines as their guest.

Mrs. Felton Sharnbroich discussed the topic, "If Your Son or Daughter Is Going Steady."

She said that going steady is the way young people learn about life and love.

"Parents must use extreme caution in dealing with this matter by offering advice in the proper manner," she cautioned.

She advised against too strict parental supervision which sometimes results in unhappy marriages when young people marry for spite. If courtship is allowed to blossom it usually terminates on a friendly basis within a short time, she declared.

Members exchanged names for a Christmas party December 20. Mrs. Jack McCormick will be the hostess and will name four members to assist.

Christmas Vesper Concert Here Sunday To Feature Varied Yuletide Music

Five choral groups and the Port Angeles Little Symphony will present a program of Christmas music in a vesper program Sunday afternoon sponsored by the Ladies Musical Club. The concert will be in the high school gymnasium at 4 p.m. Admission is free.

Director Neil S. Thomas will lead the Little Symphony in the opening numbers, Irving Berlin's "God Bless America" and Ketelbey's medley, "A Dream of Christmas."

The Ladies Musical Club Chorus, directed by Mrs. C. G. Stuart with Mrs. Myron Carlson as accompanist, will present a group of five numbers. Yvonne Macy will be soloist in Lehmann's "No Candle Was There and No Fire." The chorus will follow with "Thou Must Leave Thy Lonely Dwelling," Berlioz; "The Sleigh," Kountz; "Never Was a Child So Lovely," Niles; and "Silent Night," with Mary Sabin as soloist and Ruth Wolfenbarger singing obligato.

Robert Fowells will accompany and direct the high school Lost Chord Quartet in a spiritual, "Go Tell It on the Mountan"; Berlin's "White Christmas"; and Nieblinger's "Birthday of the King."

Fowells also will direct the Roosevelt high school senior chorus, accompanied by Annetta Howser, in four carols: "The Echo Carol," a German folk tune; the French "Bring a Torch to Jeannette, Isabella"; "The Shepherds' Carol," by Billings; and "Jesu Bambino," by Pietro Yon.

Following selections from Handel's "The Messiah" by the orchestra, Mrs. Stuart will direct the audience in singing two Christmas carols, accompanied by Betty Harris Northup at the organ.

A. Lee Freeman will present the high school Nonette in a group of Christmas carols, with Grey Tozier as accompanist.

Freeman also will direct the Olympic Male Chorus in its first public appearance, singing "Shepherds, Awake!" by Davis; and "Out of the East," by Gibb.

Freeman then will direct the combined choruses in five traditional English, German and French carols: "The Coventry Carol," "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen," "Lo How a Rose E'er Blooming," "Willie, Pick Your Drum" and "Angels We Have Heard on High."

The concert will close with the combined choruses singing two selections from "The Messiah," ending with the traditional "Hallelujah" chorus.

AAUW Has Holiday Party at Golf Club

Games and carol singing in a holiday setting entertained members of the American Association of University Women at their Christmas party Thursday night. Greens, red candles, holly and shiny ornaments decorated the golf club, and a Christmas tree with presents underneath provided the background.

Sue Harding played piano music and Mrs. A. Lee Freeman led the carol singing.

Pouring at the refreshment table were Leora Bradshaw and Miss Harding.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Eugene Dutro and Sue Hawkins.

Ruby Knudson was general chairman assisted by Mrs. Michael Maloney, Mrs. Don Sleeper, Mrs. R. W. Walker and Mrs. Lowell Jaeger.

It was announced the organization's architectural exhibit, scheduled for display at KONP in December, has been postponed.

Jack Warzetha, son of Mrs. Harry Lannoye, has just graduated from air police school, Camp Gordon, Ga. He is now on his way to Langley air force base near Richmond, Va., and would like to hear from his friends. His mother will be glad to give his address to anyone calling her.

Kitchen Shower For Charlotte Blum

Charlotte Blum, whose marriage will take place in Wyoming late this month, was honored at a kitchen shower Wednesday night. Mrs C. F. Crawford was hostess with Mrs. Frank Archer as co-hostess.

Present at the party were Mesdames Lyle Beam, James G. Derrick, Thomas Hawkins, Percy Maloney, A. C. Milliken, Pete Wasnock, C. H. Willison, J. W. Wolfe and R. L. Post.

Mrs. John Carlin Honored at Party

Friends met at the home of Marnetta Wilcox Tuesday evening to honor Mrs. John W. Carlin with a stork shower.

Decorations attuned with the holidays were used on the main table. An evening of games and visiting was enjoyed by those present. Prizes went to Mrs. E. N. Fitzgerald Mrs. James W. Morse and Mrs. O. L. Perry, the honor guest's mother.

The hostess and her sister Mrs. George Eldridge served refreshments following the opening of gifts by Mrs. Carlin.

Others present were Mesdames Harry Kochanek, W. E. Wilcox, Robert Carlin, J. L. McFadden and the Misses Katheryn Vasilatos and Dorothea Wilcox.

Gawk At Oldster Tarring Her Roof

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — People gawked at the spry little woman as she applied tar to the steep roof of her rooming house. Clinging to a rope she had lassoed around a chimney, Mrs. Bessie Hale wielded a heavy brush with gusto.

"I don't see what is so unusual about it," said the Norwegian-born widow as she descended a ladder yesterday for more tar.

Mrs. Hale is 81 years old.

PHONE RATE HEARING

OLYMPIA — (AP) — A hearing into the request for a state-wide rate increase by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company will be held in the state patrol building at Seattle Dec. 19, the state public service commission said yesterday.

A Spokane hearing on the same proposal had been set earlier for Dec. 13.

Driver Helped Then Fined

SINCLAIRVILLE, N. Y. — (AP) — Sperry Morway, 20, of Glastonbury, Conn., called firemen when his automobile stuck in a snowbank here.

Chief Maurice Westley and 20 volunteers pulled the car out. Then Morway was taken before a police justice on a charge of turning in an unnecessary fire alarm.

It cost Morway $5.

POETRY LOVERS VISIT BROWNING CHAPEL

LONDON—(AP)—Poetry lovers now can go to church amid relics of Robert Browning A Browning chapel, furnished with his study table as an altar, his chair, and other items from the Venetian home where he died, has just been dedicated at St. Marylebone parish church. The church parish includes Wimpole street, where Browning lived and from where he courted Elizabeth Barrett.

The building of the chapel was supported by John Masefield, Britain's poet laureate, the Poetry Society of Great Britain, and ten Browning societies in the United States.

PROFESSOR STUDIES ASIAN RELIGION

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Dr. Paul B. Means, professor of religion at the University of Oregon, is the first American to receive an award under the Fulbright act to do research work in Malaya during the 1950-51 academic year at the University of Malaya.

Dr. Means spent 10 years as a missionary in Malaya and Sumatra before world war II. He has been engaged for several months in a study of changes in religious thought in southeast Asia and in furthering a literacy campaign in Malaya.

Kitch's Korner

By E. A. Kitchin

Wintry days are here again and many wonder how our neighborhood birds are thriving. Many of us are again ready to feed them when, and if, the snow comes.

We can at least plan to have a table ready. A long broad board or an old door, or a piece of plywood will do. And have it on legs, one or two feet or more above the ground. This serves a double purpose. First it will enable you to sweep off any new-fallen snow, thereby keeping the surface dry. Second, it tends to protect the feeding birds from any stray cat or other enemy.

If possible, have the feeding table near a tree or perhaps a low roof. Feeding birds are ever on the alert. They will jump and fly quickly at anything that frightens or disturbs them. A tree or housetop is a natural place of safety. If close by, the birds can return quickly to their feed from that place of safety.

WHAT TO FEED

Then there is the question of food. For our juncos and other sparrows, oatmeal is best and eagerly taken.

If various birds come in numbers, such as the blackbird and thrush families, we found that cornbread thoroughly broken and rolled thin with melted fat added, was much sought by the hungry birds. Use only enough fat to coat the cornmeal. Never have it doughy or spongy. All meat and table scraps could be mixed and added.

Whole wheat or corn is only good for birds with crops and gizzards, such as the pheasant or quail. Such grain is not recommended for birds found in city blocks.

Last winter was very hard on local bird life, but according to various reports folks did a grand job of feeding the birds. All of western Washington did its share, and the people of Spokane and vicinities did wonderful work in a colder country where the birds so sadly needed help.

If possible, be sure to place your feeding table in plain view from one of your windows. Half the fun is in watching the birds' actions or identifying a stranger from the more common birds. It is remarkable how many "new" birds are attracted to the feasting.

One need not feed if the ground is bare. Only when snow covers the ground and buries their natural food is help and assistance needed.

Teach Junior The Joy of Giving

By David Taylor Marke
(AP Education Writer)

Children are so often the recipients of gifts that we forget they should also learn how to give graciously. Parents can help junior develop this attribute at Christmas.

Not only should we teach junior that to give is as blessed as to receive, but we should never discourage a child from doing a kindly act, advises the National Kindergarten Association.

KINDLINESS

Kindliness is one of the qualities that we admire most in our friends. It must, however, be cultivated in childhood if it is to flourish in adult life. By repeatedly performing little acts of kindness, the good habit is established and becomes a part of character, just as undesirable behavior—lying or stealing—by repetition becomes a habit, says the association.

The association cites the example of the little boy who returned from kindergarten his face alight with enthusiasm, as he made a special request of his mother.

"May I pick some flowers and take them to Mrs. Evans? She's not well, and I am sure they will make her feel better," he asked.

The lad's mother hesitated, thinking of the beautiful array of hothouse flowers this lady's many friends must have sent her. To soften the disappointment, she said, "I'm glad you thought of taking her some flowers; but ours are not very pretty."

"Mother, you just think that because you see them every day. I think they are beautiful, and I am sure she will love them," he urged.

"Very well," the mother replied.

'PICK HAPPY ONES'

"I'm going to pick all the happy looking ones," he said.

Junior's selection brought together a curious assortment of flowers, but as he went through the garden, choosing some of the gaudiest flowers, he remarked, "These are so bright and cheerful that I am sure they will make her feel glad, even though she must stay in her room."

In a very short time he had gathered and arranged his offering to his liking and had left for his friend's house, happy and proud of his gift.

The next day junior's mother called to see the old lady, and when she entered her bedroom, she was surprised to see her son's offering held a prominent place among the display of hothouse blooms.

GIFT OF LOVE

Observing that she was looking with admiration at her beautiful flowers, the old lady remarked, "I have had many lovely bouquets sent me, but none have given me so much pleasure as the one brought by your small boy. A gift from a child is so definitely a gift of love, for there is no pretense with children. His flowers have made me very happy."

The mother explained her hesitance about allowing him to take her such ordinary flowers.

"There's where you made a mistake," counselled the old lady gently. "Had he brought me some of the choicest beauties of the hothouse they would not have given me nearly so much pleasure. His bouquet was a gift prompted by pure affection—a gift of that sort money cannot buy."

EVEN KITCHEN SINK

SEATTLE—(AP)—Ed Knutson of Skykomish complained to sheriff's deputies yesterday that he will have to rent his house unfurnished—and he really means unfurnished.

He said the house had been ransacked of the kitchen range, lavatory, light fixtures, front door—and even the kitchen sink.

Volcano Forms Small Island

MOSCOW—(AP)—Izvestia reported today that a giant volcano erupted from the depths of the Caspian sea Dec. 4 and spewed up an estimated 6,000,000 tons of mud, forming an island 60 miles off the coast of Baku.

The Soviet government newspaper said flames belched forth by the volcano shot high above sea level and could be plainly seen from Baku. It said the island is more than half a mile long, 300 feet wide and lies 18 feet above the surface of the water.

BRITISH STEAMER RELEASED

TAIPEI, Formosa—(AP)—Chinese nationalists today released the 3,559-ton British steamer Wing Sang after an overnight detention north of Chinese community Amoy, the vessel's captain reported.

Capt. H. G. Goddard said the ship was due in Formosa tomorrow.

Forest Service Aids Woodlot Management

Uncle Sam will provide $18,512 to help Oregon and Washington woodland owners manage their timber lands this fiscal year, according to an announcement by the U. S. forest service.

This is the federal government's share of financing farm foresters who advise owners of small timber tracts in the two states. Under provisions of the Norris-Doxey cooperative woodland management act, each state contributes financially to the program and has supervision of its projects.

These forestry advisers assist owners to place their timber under good management and market their forest products at better prices. Nearly 900 owners are assisted each year in the two states. Value of forest products taken from these woodlands is more than $850,000 annually.

This cooperative program began with the passage of the Norris-Doxey act of May 18, 1937. The first project started in the northwest were in Clackamas county, Ore., in 1940, and Cowlitz county, Wash., in 1941.

The program expanded in 1944 after an initial demonstration period during which practical methods of assistance to woodland owners were developed. There are now four projects in Oregon and five in Washington, providing service to woodland owners in 20 counties.

STUDY PLANT SITES

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—Sites for two separate gulf coast aluminum plants are being studied in this area by J. Louis Reynolds of the Reynolds Metal Company and Norman L. Krey of the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation.

OPEN NEW PRESS CLUB

SEATTLE—(AP)—A special railroad car will carry 30 Seattle newspaper, radio and public relations men to Pasco for the opening of the new Tri-City Press Club tomorrow.

The Pasco - Kennewick - Richland club will be affiliated with the Washington State Press Club here, officials said.

Appeasement of Red China Is Out the Window

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

British Prime Minister Attlee, who is in Washington conferring with President Truman over the world crisis, has declared there will be no appeasement of communist China.

The two heads of government are said by John Hightower, AP diplomatic expert in Washington, to appear "ready to consider any reasonable proposal for a Korean settlement if it does not call for 'appeasement' of the Chinese communists." Hightower adds:

"The position may be roughly summarized as one favoring peace but not at any price."

Just how far the western allies would be willing to go remains to be seen. That depends on what attitude the reds adopt.

But "appeasement" is out the window. Why is it that this term causes such revulsion? The dictionary tells us that to appease is to pacify, and that would seem to be a laudable undertaking.

TRIED APPEASEMENT

Well, that's what it meant up to 1938 when British Prime Minister Chamberlain tried to appease Hitler. Since then appeasement has come to connote abject submission—a term of bitter reproach.

I feel strongly on this subject because it was my fortune to follow Chamberlain on his ill fated appeals to the fuehrer. Those amazing meetings, in which the arrogant Hitler at times all but spat in the prime minister's face, were of course the forerunners of world war II.

I saw the tragedy unfold gradually in the parleys at Berchtesgaden, Godesberg and finally at Munich. I followed the fuehrer on his triumphal entry into Czechoslovakia and heard him proclaim with raucous arrogance that not in a thousand years would the Reich withdraw from the land. Then, after a long sw through the uneasy Balkans, I raded back for England.

PUT CASE BLUNTLY

It's almost 12 years to the day that I arrived in London, and I was troubled, for I had encountered something which I couldn't explain with certainty. So I took my problem to one of Britain's great statesmen—a man whom I hadn't met before, by the way. After introducing myself I put my case bluntly:

"I seem to have sensed the beginnings of a change in British sentiment and policy towards Germany. I shall be grateful if you can tell me for my guidance whether I am right, and if I am, what it means."

"You are right," he replied without hesitation (and I am quoting from memory). "We have come to the conclusion that the policy of appeasement is a failure, and that there is no longer any use to pursue it.

"We reluctantly have concluded that Hitler is not susceptible to any moral influence. He is a man with a dangerous obsession. We have decided that he must be smashed. If necessary we shall use force."

Well, it was necessary. On September 1 the next year Hitler declared war on Poland, after signing the non-aggression pact with Moscow—the pact which made the war possible.

It is held by some historians that had Britain told Hitler where to get off in '38 there might have been no global upheaval.

So the declaration of no appeasement by the Washington conference inspires confidence among the western nations and, one would think, might inspire some restraint in the red camp.

SPOKANE—(AP)—A brass band will be on hand tonight to give some 60 Inland Empire draftees a tootling sendoff to military life.

Dockhands Eat 37,000 Bananas

LIVERPOOL, Eng.—(AP)—Bananas are rationed to children only in this country—but more than 3,000 dockhands gorged themselves on bananas yesterday.

About one-fourth of a shipload of bananas was found to be too ripe for distribution. The dockers were turned loose on them, ate 37,000 of them—about a dozen apiece. About 40,000 more the dockers couldn't stuff down were taken away to be burned.

Talk It Over With Junior

By David Taylor Marke
AP Education Writer

Looking back at your childhood, probably the one thing that perplexed you was that you were ignorant in respect to things people expected you to know.

Most of us can remember wishing that our parents would tell us many things which puzzled us. Our parents, wise in many ways, often hesitated to discuss sex or religion frankly, and just as rarely would we bring them our problems.

WISE PARENTS

Wise parents, says the National Kindergarten Association, will talk freely with their children—always, of course, in a manner suitable to their stage of development. The parent who has gained the confidence of junior will find that he will never hesitate to bring his problems to his attention. He will not solve them for him; but they will discuss them together and then let junior make his own decisions.

How do you start "talking things over" with children in their early, formative years?

You don't suddenly start talking confidentially and intimately to your children about the more serious subjects, warns the association. The idea is to talk matters over naturally and guide our children all through their childhood, in the knowledge of subjects of interest to them and about which they ought to know—religion, sex, political science, anything and everything of importance—in a way that they can comprehend.

HELPFUL BOOKS

There are many helpful books available to parents The Boy Scouts of America have just published a booklet on citizenship, in which they show just how mother, dad and junior can sit down and discuss one of the important issues of our society today. It's part of their "merit badge series," and you can obtain a copy by writing to the Boy Scouts of America, 2 Park avenue, New York City 16, New York.

In language simple enough for junior to comprehend, such topics are discussed as: Responsible citizenship; American economic system; Declaration of Independence; the constitution; living up to laws; local government structure; the United Nations, and a host of others.

Liberally spotted with illustrations and cartoons, it is well worth any parent's attention.

Wandering Scribe

One of best hunting stories . . . to come out of the west end of county . . . is that of a hunter . . . who caught a bobcat in a trap . . . and when he visited it . . . found a cougar gnawing on the bob cat . . . Cougar ran . . . Hunter had no degs with him . . . So sighting the big cat he barked like a dog . . . cougar took to a tree . . . and the hunter shot him . . . Sequel to the story is . . . that Cougar Joe Adamich is rumored to be practicing a hound's bark . . . Figures when he gets the sound just right . . . he will sell his dogs . . . act as hound for himself . . . and his cat hunting partner Vic Cox . . . Some Elks will wonder why . . . some of the characters in Elks' sketch at party . . . persisted in remaining sitting down during progress of the play . . . Gay ninety clothes sent here from Seattle . . . evidently meant for midgets . . . Three of the men had to put on pants with a shoe horn . . . had they stood up or leaned over . . . pants would have burst at the seams . . . and they would have been standing around with . . . or without shorts . . . Actress hired to take part of old time local female character . . . played her part very enthusiastically . . . Just about had the local players hanging on to the ropes . . . After she gave each a quick once over . . . lightly.

Forks Man Shoots Cougar On Trail

Charles Crawford of Forks killed a cougar on the third beach trail near LaPush last week.

Crawford and LeRoy Smith trailed the big cat all day but during the day lost their hounds and returned home. Late in the evening Crawford went back to look for the dogs and heard one of them barking to indicate he had a cougar treed. He shot and skinned the cougar. By that time it was dark so he built a fire and remained in the woods all night.

Smith went looking for his partner the next morning and met him coming out over the trail with his hounds and the cougar hide.

Community Chest Reports $29,675 In

The Community Chest drive total is now $29,675 in cash and pledges, according to a report to Clallam County Community Chest directors Wednesday night. Goal of the recent drive was $35,000 to support 23 participating agencies.

President S. A. Payette appointed Hugh Macaulay and W. E. Samuelson on a committee plan for additional contributions to bring the collection to the $35,000 goal.

J. C. Marshall and Merle Fisher were named as a continuous publicity committee to chronicle activities of agencies that make up the Community Chest.

The directors discussed a proposal by President Payette for a central headquarters for all chest agencies.

WAVE OF ROBBERIES

SEATTLE — (AP) — Seattle had a wave of robberies overnight which police described as the worst in a decade for a 12-hour period. There were nine. Three were believed to have been by the same pair of men. Amounts taken ranged from $10 to $150.

Bishop Criticizes U.S. Diplomacy

SEATTLE —(AP)— Criticizing the "fumbling, bumbling direction of American affairs," the Catholic bishop of Seattle charged today:

"We are now reaping the ugly, unwelcome harvest that was produced by the undercover diplomacy, the double-talk, the secret commitments and regimentation that followed our victory in the recent war."

The attack was made by the Most Rev. Thomas A. Connolly in a letter printed today in the Catholic Progress, official diocesan organ.

Referring to the international conferences at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam, Bishop Connolly charged:

"It is ridiculous to suggest that our so-called diplomats were unaware of the duplicity and treachery of the monsters of the Kremlin."

"The blunders of our policy . . . have reached the day of accounting."

Connolly asserted that the "red horde . . . sweeping out of Asia, may carry into the lives of every American family whose fathers, sons, husbands must go to war.

"It is the last hour remaining for men to turn to Fatima and beg Our Lady to stay the fearsome prospect.

(The reference to Fatima recalled what Catholics say was the miraculous appearance of the Virgin Mary during world war I when they said she warned that while war I would end, "a worse one will begin . . . and Russia will scatter her errors throughout the world, provoking wars.")

Jurisdictional Row Ties Up Oregon Ports

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The southern Oregon ports of Coos Bay, Reedsport, Bandon, Newport and Florence will remain closed to the coastwise lumber trade until a maritime union jurisdictional row is settled.

Harry Lundeberg, president of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific (AFL) said yesterday at a national labor relations board hearing into the matter that SUP members would not sail into the ports "until this beef is settled."

The dispute involves loading of the ss C-Trader of W. R. Chamberlain Co. at Reedsport.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (independent) claims the right to load and unload all but one of the vessel's hatches under an agreement between the ILWU and the Pacific Maritime Association, of which Chamberlain is a member.

The SUP, on the other hand, claims the right to work all hatches, because, in Lundeberg's words, "sailors always have had jurisdiction over this type of work."

James L. Adams, attorney for Chamberlain, said the company was "caught in the middle." He said that in the absence of an agreement, the firm had given deck work to sailors and dock work to longshoremen.

Whistle Shrills From Mount Etna

CATANIA, Sicily—(AP)—A deafening whistle shrilled from the depths of seething Mount Etna early today as a column of trucks bore the last frightened residents from tiny Milo village, menaced by the oncoming lava tide.

Volcano experts said the piercing whistle apparently came from a lava-blocked crater, as pent-up gases forced their way into the open.

An aerial survey disclosed that molten lava was pouring out of some two score small craters scattered over a wide sector 6,500 feet above sea level.

This discovery ruled out the possibility of dropping bombs from planes to divert the flowing lava from the inhabited area.

Removal of the population and their belongings from Milo continued throughout the night under the glare of searchlights.

More than 2,000 persons already have fled from Milo and neighboring Renazzo.

JAILED FOR SPYING ATTEMPT

NUERNBERG, Germany—(AP)—A U. S. high commission court here sentenced two Czechs today to serve a year in prison for attempted spying for Czechoslovakia. Vladimir Smorada, 22, and Ondrez Trkarcik, 20, claimed to be political refugees. The court found them guilty of trying to give the communist Czech government the names of American intelligence agents in Germany.
