County Engineer, Police Chief Back Truck Route

A truck route through the western section of Port Angeles has Police Chief R. O. Ide's backing as a traffic safety measure.

"First move is to complete a survey to establish the best route taking the trucks as directly as possible to the log dumps, and off the streets of the city's residential districts," Chief Ide said.

After the survey is made and the best route established, the road should be built to remove the traffic hazard from city streets as soon as possible, the chief continued.

Chief Ide's views are shared by County Engineer Harrison Hawkins, who said he will advise city officials that before the survey is complete they should confer with state highway officials to determine what connections with primary highway 9 and secondary highway 9-A will be acceptable to the department.

Hawkins said the highways department may favor the re-routing of secondary 9-A to form part of the proposed truck route.

"It may be possible that rerouting 9-A in the western part of the city will be favored by the highway department, and in that case some state funds may be available," Hawkins said.

Hawkins said usual state highway policy is to keep as much traffic as possible from school areas. Secondary highway 9-A, following C street in Port Angeles, passes the Lincoln school, and highway 101 goes past Jefferson school on Lincoln street and Washington school on East First street.

FEASIBLE ROUTE

Chief Ide and Engineer Hawkins, with two state highway officials, viewed the area from Tumwater fill west on highway 101 and the area between highway 101 and secondary highway 9-A recently. They were exploring a possible truck route through the western part of the city.

The men agree that from their observation, not based on a survey, a route leading from the Olympic highway along the west bank of Tumwater valley seems to present the best visibility.

They said their observation shows a truck road may take off on the north side of highway 101 at the end of the cut at the Fairmont hill immediately west of the Tumwater valley fill.

It would, if a survey shows it feasible, continue north and down into Tumwater valley, connecting with secondary highway 9-A which is also the city's west Seventeenth street.

The men said their observation is subject to confirmation by a survey that also would have to be confirmed by the state highways department.

The officials say a road leading from primary highway 101 at that point would have visibility of at least a half mile both east and west.

Neither is favorable to a cut-off at the Fairmont road, because they said trucks would be required to turn into westbound traffic at the top of a hill, with limited visibility to the east.

Helen Radke Elected By State Directors

Mrs. Helen Radke was elected vice president for western Washington of the Washington State School Directors Association yesterday, at the directors' annual meeting in Spokane. Mrs. Radke, chairman of the Port Angeles school board, has been a director of the state group during the past year.

The Associated Press reports Mrs. Henry B. Owen of Seattle is the new president of the state association, succeeding Ted Reames of Spokane. Vice president for eastern Washington is Charles Linstrum, Davenport.

Ships Evacuate Volcano Refugees

MANILA—(AP)—Philippines naval patrol vessels today began evacuating 12,000 refugees from Camiguin island and the fury of Hibok Hibok's erupting volcano.

The known dead from Tuesday's eruption rose to 266. Official estimates say another 500 are buried under lava and ashes.

The volcano blew a continuous rain of hot ashes over the northern end of the island, sending more frightened residents fleeing to the southeastern coast.

The naval evacuation began at the overcrowded southeast coastal town of Mahinog. Refugees are being taken to nearby Mindanao island in the central Philippines.

Other villagers were taken off the northwest coast after the volcano's molten lava stream reached the coast. It bubbled into the water in a series of explosions, spouting a series of geysers.

About 200 persons were reported isolated in one north coast village cut off by the flow of lava. The defense department indicated these were the people rescued.

PLAN DEFENSE MEET

OLYMPIA—(AP)—An international conference to lay the groundwork for civil defense agreements between Washington and British Columbia will be held here December 14, it was announced today.

Government and civil defense officials of British Columbia will attend. They will be headed by Maj. Gen. C. R. Stein, (ret.), provincial civil defense coordinator. U. S. federal civil defense officials will be headed by Roger E. Dunham, regional director of civil defense, Seattle.

HIGH TIDE—Some workers along the Port Angeles waterfront sloshed through several feet of water at noon last Thursday as tides hit a high of 8.9 ft. These trucks were at the Joe Cecil lumber mill on the old Charles Nelson millsite, several hundred feet from the normal waterfront. The high tide Thursday also washed over the short runway at the coast guard air station. Two higher tides are scheduled later in December: 9.3 ft. December 27 and 9.1 on December 29.

Peninsula Plywood Corporation to Maintain Present Output Despite Latest Price Break

Despite a third drop in the price of plywood in the past week, Peninsula Plywood Corporation does not plan any further cutback in production for the immediate future, Manager Enar Erickson told the Evening News today.

Local lumber yards confirmed that plywood prices have dropped an average of 18 to 20 per cent since the first break in the market late in October.

Following the first price drop, PenPly cut back production to a five day week instead of five and a half, laid off about 60 employes, and trimmed the night shift. Erickson said that work schedule is continuing, with enough orders in the company's files to assure continuing the present production scale through December and early January.

The company also contemplates no change in its plans to get the new Paragon Plywood Corporation mill at Crescent City, Calif., operating by early January.

S. C. Tozier, president of the new National Plywood Corporation building a mill at Lake Pleasant, says the market situation will have no effect on the company's plans. Work is proceeding on the new mill according to schedule, he said.

Local observers agree that the price break is due to an oversupply of plywood which they blame on the government's failure to follow through on anticipated plywood orders. Most jobbers and sales organizations look for the plywood market to change about the first of the year, with prices steadying by March.

INTERIOR HARDEST HIT

Local lumber yards report their volume of plywood sales has held up fairly consistently, with the price drop largely applying to interior plywood. Smaller mills make mostly interior plywood; and have been hardest hit by the price drop.

Taft Thinks He Can Whip Ike

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Robert A. Taft feels he can beat Dwight D. Eisenhower if the general makes a bid for the presidential nomination.

He said so last night when reporters interviewed him after his arrival in St. Louis for three speeches today.

"Do you think you can beat General Eisenhower if he runs?" Taft was asked.

"Oh yes, I was very confident of that from the beginning," he replied with a shrug.

The Ohio republican thinks he can also win over Gov. Earl Warren of California who like Taft has announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination.

As an example of the current retail market, one company quotes quarter-inch interior plywood as selling now at $3.40 to $3.60 per sheet, compared to $4.60 in October.

Some lumber dealers say that actually the present lower price of plywood brings it more in line with other lumber prices.

New Forks Clinic Sets Open House Sunday To Inspect Facilities

The new Forks clinic will have its open house Sunday, hospital commissioners there announce.

The public is invited to inspect the building built by Clallam County Public Hospital District No. 1, for the residents of western Clallam county. Thomas Mansfield is chairman of the hospital district commission.

The open house and conducted tours are sponsored by the Hospital Service Guild. Members will serve refreshments during the day.

The clinic is now serving the area west of Lake Crescent. Mansfield urges all the people of that area, including western Jefferson county and other parts of the peninsula, to attend the open house and inspect the facilities.

The Hospital Service Guild has been active for several weeks. A recent food shower sponsored by the organization brought a good assortment of home-canned fruits, jellies, vegetables and meats for hospital use.

OPENED NOVEMBER 5

The building is a 13-bed hospital complete with solarium which can be converted into a ward. It also houses delivery and surgical rooms, nurses and doctors quarters, kitchen, laundry, reception room and office.

The clinic assumed full operation Nov. 5 but had been taking maternity cases and minor illnesses prior to that time.

Financing of the building was through a government grant, sale of bonds, local pledges and contributions from individuals, organizations and business firms. It was built by Clallam County Public Hospital District No. 1 under the state public hospital bill introduced in the state legislature by the late Dr. U. S. Ford of Forks, a former state representative.

Hospital commissioners are Mansfield, George Warnock Sr., and J. Paul Johnson.

JUST SLIPPED DOWN—Little Gail James, 3, doesn't show it in the picture above, but she had a 1¾x¾-inch key in her tummy at the time. X-rays showed doctors at Olympic Memorial Hospital the key was too large to pass through the child's duodenum, so they performed a gastotomy Friday evening. Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. James, 1115 South Albert, swallowed the key Wednesday. Mrs. Milton Johnston, nurse, tries to keep Gail interested in her rabbit jig-saw puzzle to forget how hungry she was before the operation.

Sutton Commended For 49 Years Of Weather Observing

For 49 years service in weather observing, Leon G. Sutton, of Port Angeles has received a personal letter of commendation, a service pin and his photograph, from Commerce Secretary Sawyer.

Leon G. Sutton

Sutton entered the service as a 19-year-old boy August 1, 1902, at Neah Bay. He retired as a meteorologist here in 1933 and since then has been a volunteer observer at the Laurel bluff station.

The other Clallam county volunteer honored is Mrs. O. J. Ford of Forks, with 14 years service. Prior to that time Mr. Ford was volunteer observer at Forks since 1905.

The secretary of commerce commended 10,000 volunteer observers in the nation, including 1,857 who have served more than 10 years. In the latter group are 49 in the state of Washington.

The commendation came by personal letters, and also in a volume entitled "The Cooperative Weather Observer".

Only two volunteers in the state have longer service than Sutton.

Oldest in point of service in the state is 79-year-old Alice B. Scudder of Yakima Terrace Heights who has served 59 years. She served at Moxee from 1892 until moving to her present home in 1945.

Clallam county has two other volunteer weather observers, W. L. Longfellow, Lake Sutherland; and John B. Logan, Sequim. Neither has 10 years service but are included in the volume issued by Secretary Sawyer and praised for their "patriotic service".

Rayonier Gets Loan For Mill Improvements

SEATTLE—(AP)—Rayonier, Inc., has completed arrangements for a long-term $40,000,000 loan from the Prudential Insurance Co., of America, Rayonier President Clyde B. Morgan said today.

Morgan said proceeds of the loan would be used to pay off existing loans of $10,250,000, and to provide for expansion of mills at Hoquiam, Port Angeles and Shelton, Wash., and Fernandina, Fla.

The expansion projects will add substantially to Rayonier's productive capacity of purified wood cellulose by mid-1952, he said.

(Resident Manager Harry K. Thurlow explains that the financing is providing for improvements already completed or in progress in the Port Angeles mill. Chief of these is a ninth pulp digester, with stainless steel lining.

(The work also includes installation of an additional washer to improve pulp quality, a concrete tile-lined chest replacing the old wood "beer keg", a new vacuum washer, and a newer and faster winder for the finishing room. These replacements and additions, with others completed in 1950, are designed to improve and speed up pulp production.)

The Prudential loan will bear interest at 3¾ percent and mature December 1, 1971, with optional provisions for prepayment.

Claims Reds Hold Only 5,000 U.S. Prisoners of War

MUNSAN, Korea —(AP)— A communist correspondent hinted today that no more than half of the 10,000 Americans reported missing in Korea are prisoners of war.

The report came from a Chinese newsman at Panmunjom, where allied truce negotiators today opened a major effort to reach agreement on a compromise program for policing an armistice.

The allies dropped their demand for joint UN-communist inspection teams. They also told the reds the question of withdrawing troops from Korea could be "brought up and discussed later". But they said troop withdrawal early in the armistice definitely is out.

Chu Chi-Ping, a communist correspondent covering the armistice negotiations, told allied newsmen he knew of no war in which more than half of the soldiers listed as missing were prisoners.

"I do not see why the Korean war would be different from other wars in this respect," he said.

Chu referred to the fact that only part of those reported missing in action are taken prisoners. The others are killed in action and their bodies not recovered. Allied correspondents did not construe his statement as confirming the recent report by Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the U. S. eighth army's judge advocate's section, that the reds had slaughtered approximately 5,500 American prisoners.

Other red correspondents at Panmunjom said all allied prisoners are being held in big camps in Korea near the Manchurian border. He said none have been taken to China.

STUDY PROPOSALS

The reds said they would study these revised proposals:

1. All armed forces to withdraw from enemy-controlled territory within five days after an armistice. The UN would retain coastal islands it holds off North Korea.

2. Both sides designate an equal number of members to form an armistice commission to supervise the armistice.

The UN spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, said there was general agreement on the following three proposals:

1. All armed forces to cease hostilities within 24 hours after the armistice goes into effect.

2. All armed forces withdraw from the demilitarized zone within 72 hours after the agreement.

3. All armed forces, except agreed military police, to keep out of the demilitarized zone.

The subdelegates will meet again Saturday at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. EST Friday).

Planes With 28 Aboard Missing

By The Associated Press

Two U. S. air force planes carrying a total of 28 persons were missing today. Both may have been forced down at sea. Search planes were out for them.

A U. S. air force cargo plane with 10 aboard disappeared last night after radioing in only 40 miles from its destination at Marseille, France. The plane, a twin-engine C-47 on a flight from Tripoli, may have crashed in the mountainous terrain along the French Riviera or in the Mediterranean.

Kindley field near Hamilton, Bermuda, reported a B-29 with 18 aboard overdue on a flight from the Azores. The plane left Lages air force base at 11:25 p.m. Thursday, and was due at Kindley field at 10 a.m. Friday.

Germany Will Prove Reliable Partner Of West—Adenauer

LONDON—(AP)—Dr. Konrad Adenauer declared today Germany will prove herself "a reliable and unflinching partner of the free nations" in the pursuit of peace.

Addressing the Foreign Press Association in London, the West German chancellor said the German people have found the path to a democratic commonwealth and are firmly determined to join their fate to that of the western democracies.

"The German people have with an overwhelming majority pronounced themselves in favor of those political parties which uphold democratic principles," he said.

Adenauer said perhaps too much attention had been paid to activities of German veterans' organizations and neo-fascist groups.

"The federal republic," he said, "is determined to bring the entire weight of the law to bear upon all those who act contrary to the constitution. The events which took place between 1930 and 1933 will not be repeated."

Earlier Adenauer went to Buckingham Palace and was received by King George VI. He was the first German leader to go there since Ribbentrop shocked all Britain by giving George V the nazi salute in the middle thirties.

POLITICAL TALKS

Adenauer ends his five-day visit here tomorrow. He has had political talks with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden believed aimed at mapping Anglo-German relations once the planned "peace contract" is signed.

Scattered left-wing demonstrations have followed Adenauer's off-duty swing round the sight-seeing trail. But in the main the British press and people have given him little attention.

JUNEAU IMPROVES STREETS

JUNEAU, Alaska — (AP) — Juneau voted 6-to-1 yesterday for a special $465,000 bond issue to finance city hall and street improvements and to rebuild the fire alarm system.

Only 520 voters cast ballots. The vote was the lightest ever polled here.

Judge Suspends Basketball Stars' Sentences; Assails School Head

NEW YORK —(AP)— Judge Saul S. Streit today gave suspended sentences to three former Bradley University basketball stars in the bribery scandal and assailed David Owen, Bradley president, whom he said gave "university sanction to their moral debasement."

In Peoria, Owen said he had no immediate comment to make.

The former players were Gene Melchiorre, George Chianakas and William Mann.

They had pleaded guilty Oct. 24 to a charge of conspiracy to fix a March 19, 1949 game with Bowling Green in Madison Square Garden. They faced a maximum sentence of three years in prison.

The three were among 31 former players from seven schools involved in point-fixing scandals. Of the others, five have been sentenced to jail and nine others have received suspended sentences.

"The defendants at the bar were corrupted and demoralized by a system which set athletic success above education," Streit said.

Declaring Owen "failed to guard the preeminence of academic standards," Streit declared:

"By his acquiescence in their subsidization and his extensive travelling with the members of the team while their studies were ignored, he gave official university sanction to their moral debasement."

The general sessions court judge coupled his denunciation of Owen with an attack on "booster clubs" that want the best team "money can buy."

It was the second broadside Streit delivered in the past month against commercialism in college athletics.

Streit on Nov. 19 hit college football and basketball as sordid big business while sentencing five former players to jail and suspending sentences of nine others in the hoop scandal.

The judge noted that all three Bradley defendants were products of "normal home environments," reared by respectable, religious and God-fearing parents."

Then he said:

"So that here we find three products of acknowledged and inherent intrinsic value, turned over to an institution chartered by the state of Illinois to develop and improve character, who were returned after four years of tutoring with visible moral blemishes."

Streit told of cash paid to the three players by the Bradley Booster Club and said they took snap courses and got credits for activities ranging from "elementary badminton" to a co-ed dancing class.

ASSAILS PRESIDENT AGAIN

Returning to Owen, the judge said:

"It is interesting to note that until this past year the president of the university, Dr. Owen, traveled and made all trips with the team, or met them at their point of destination, whenever their schedule required them to play away from Peoria, including a trip to Honolulu.

"President Owen stated that he made it a point to speak to alumni wherever he went. The Bradley catalogue fails to disclose any Honolulu alumni."

The three former players stood for more than an hour during the court proceedings. Their faces were pale and tense.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor told the court District Attorney Frank S. Hogan recommended clemency for them so that they might return to "useful lives."

"He honestly poured out the depths of his heart and soul to give the jurors every possible ounce of his thoughts and intentions, both favorable and unfavorable to him," O'connor said.

Clear Way For Car Price Increase

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government cleared the way last night for a third round of increases in auto prices in a year. Two boosts okayed previously were estimated to have raised prices an average of 8½ to 9½ per cent.

The office of price stabilization (OPS) said eight of the ten auto makers have indicated they will apply for further hikes under the order, issued last night, which allows them to calculate new ceilings and submit them to OPS for approval.

The order was issued under a provision of the revised economic controls act which requires OPS to allow for all cost changes which occurred through last July 26.

OPS Director Michael V. Disalle said the order "undoubtedly . . . will result in some increase in manufacturers' ceilings".

Senator Wants Big Output Of Atom Artillery

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Monroney (D-Okla) said today the Pentagon should submit to congress promptly next year a program for production "on a sizeable scale" of new U. S. atomic artillery weapons.

That was his reaction to last night's declaration by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, that the U. S. has developed such weapons which will "greatly enhance the power of defense" and will be ready for use before too long.

Asked when, Collins replied: "It is not in the too distant future, but that is all I am going to say."

Monroney, noting that the senate-house atomic energy committee has gone on record as favoring all-out expansion of the nation's atomic program, said the defense department should promptly outline a program for mass production of atomic artillery weapons.

"Any delay in getting into production could waste years of advance production and experience that could not be recaptured," he told a reporter. "If necessary, some of the old-line orthodox weapons could be shunted aside in favor of the new weapons."

Collins said the army is already making plans for the day when atomic artillery and guided missile battalions will replace some conventional artillery. He said the new weapons will not make present artillery obsolete.

Speaking on the MBS radio program "Reporters' Roundup," Collins said the new weapons "will greatly enhance the power of the defense." He added "that has great merit and great worth to us, because the business of our operations in a future war will almost certainly be on the defensive, initially."

UP TO MILITARY

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), a member of the atomic energy committee, said he would leave it up to the military to decide on the potential usefulness of the weapons.

"I have always maintained that the military have to decide on the value of weapons themselves—when and where to use them," he said "I would favor their use in any case attested to by the military."

But Senator Welker (R-Idaho), in a separate interview, called for their use promptly in Korea where, he said, "we should either win the war or get out."

"The people are awaiting a little action rather than so much talk on this thing," he said.

British Support White Russia For Security Council Seat

LONDON—(AP)— Britain is supporting white Russia for a seat in the United Nations security council despite the opposition of the United States.

The United States is backing Greece for the seat.

"We'll keep on backing white Russia unless it becomes apparent that Greece is going to muster the necessary two-thirds majority," said one official. "Then we probably will switch over to Greece.

"You'll recall we did something similar in 1949. We supported Czechoslovakia, while the United States supported Yugoslavia. We finally switched to Yugoslavia when it became certain Yugoslavia would get the seat."

Officials said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden decided to back white Russia even though he knew it would be highly unpopular with Greece and the United States.

Japanese Ex-Envoys Still Insist They Knew Nothing About Pearl Harbor Plot

By Don Huth

TOKYO—(AP)—Two Japanese who 10 years ago talked peace in Washington while their navy churned toward Pearl Harbor still insist they knew nothing of the impending attack.

They are Kichisaburo Nomura, retired admiral whom the then secretary of state Cordell Hull tongue-lashed on that Dec. 7, and special envoy Saburo Kurusu.

Nomura was ambassador to Washington. Kurusu was sent at the last minute with Japan's reply for maintaining peace while his country's militarists kindled the flames of war.

Purged now and living quietly in Tokyo, both men have expressed hope that the people of the United States now understand the position into which they were thrust.

"We never knew the attack was coming," said the ailing, 65-year-old Kurusu.

"The situation was very critical. There was a possibility. But we saw a chance of maintaining peace.

"We tried everything possible but our efforts came too late. There were too many ifs. It was a great disappointment to me that our efforts failed."

Robust and jovial, Nomura—who will celebrate his 74th birthday on Dec. 16—said:

"They never told us the attack on Pearl Harbor was coming while our discussions were going on in Washington."

Both men have many friends in the United States. They spoke with high regard for the men with whom they conducted their talks. Each said he was extremely worried whether there was resentment against them personally for what had happened

Infant's Heart Outside Body

TACOMA—(AP)—With every passing hour medical history was being made at St. Joseph's Hospital here today. The infant daughter of a Puyallup couple, born with her heart outside her body, was under constant surveillance after surgery performed almost immediately after birth.

Medical men here said that out of the 88 known recorded such cases in medical literature, only five operations have been attempted to right the mistake made by nature. Of the five, none of the babies lived more than 11 hours, they said.

The tiyn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvon Angelo was going into her third full day of life with nurses hovering near the air lock which has made her chances of surviving greater than doctors could formerly hope for.

Resting comfortably and doing well in Puyallup, Mrs. Angelo will see her little daughter for the first time today. A picture of the well-formed six-pound girl will be taken to her bedside.

HAL BOYLE SAYS:

Trunks in American Attics Contain Clothes That Could Save a Human Life Far Away

NEW YORK—(AP)—In almost every American attic today there is an old battered trunk that could save a human life far away.

The trunks contain old clothing, keepsakes of yesterday that thrifty housewives packed up for sentimental reasons—or just because they hate to throw things away.

This clothing is desperately needed by our allies in South Korea, knit to us now by almost 18 months of steady blood-letting.

In a war that has already cost perhaps 2,000,000 casualties the Korean civilians have been among the greatest sufferers. The battles, ranging up and down their weary peninsula, have made millions of homeless migrants. Life has become a pilgrimage of despair to them.

With winter again gripping the land their chief problem is how to protect themselves against the bitter cold. A national drive is now underway to get the American people to contribute all the spare clothing possible.

What kind of clothing? Anything from a pair of museum high-buttoned shoes to dad's old golf knickers. Bolts of old material. Linen of all kinds. Blankets. Leftover children's wear. Mufflers, gloves — anything that can help to cover a human body.

The plight of the refugees has done more than anything to kindle a feeling of sympathy between the American soldiers and the Korean civilians.

Last winter thousands of G. I.'s gave away part of their own equipment to help clothe shivering Korean orphans.

A year ago the population of Seoul, the republican capital, was being evacuated in a flight of mass distress. There have been fewer scenes of greater misery even in this century of war upon war.

Families huddled for days in the open flat cars in the train yards outside the city. Others, thinly clad, took up the long march south on foot, wading the icy streams in their path and leaving raw blood marks in the snow. Their dead they had to abandon where they fell. Women gave birth to their babies in ditches, and got up and struggled on through the biting winds.

MANY FREEZE

Men and women strapped themselves to the sides of box cars, holding their children in their arms. Sometimes at night they dozed, their weary hands let go—and a child would fall to the tracks . . . and the trains rolled on through the darkness. At every stop they lifted off the frozen dead.

I remember also the walking dead—those with the rags wrapped around their frost-bitten faces. They were gangrenous, but there was nothing for them to do but keep on moving until they dropped.

If the American people could have seen these sights, there could be no limit now to the generosity of their response to the present appeal for clothing now.

Everybody likes to play Santa Claus. And this year there is an easy way to do it. Simply go up to that old trunk in the attic. . . Those closets hung with old clothes you no longer have a real use for . . . and bundle up everything you can find . . . and give it to the people of Korea.

In a very real way you may thus easily postpone death for someone . . . a child or a grandma . . . in a land where, if you forget, there will be no Santa Claus this Christmas.

The Port Angeles Ministerial Association is conducting a drive to collect clothing, shoes or money to aid suffering people in Korea. Churches in the Ministerial Association are receiving stations for the contributions.

Clothing packages in the drive delivery to the Salvation Army should be marked for delivery to Korea if that is their destination. The unit is joining the drive, but also constantly gets clothing for local distribution.

Police Commissioner B. Hebo of the town of Esbjerg decreed today that Santa Claus will be arrested on sight.

The reason, said Commissioner Hebo, is that criminals hide behind a Santa Claus beard to commit their crimes and he's not going to have any of that in Esbjerg.

He called attention to a law which makes any person appearing publicly in disguise liable to arrest.

tect Frank Lloyd Wright is in San Francisco with a great promise—to make available within a year, a home for $6,000.

He said the home, of concrete blocks and glass, can be built by an amateur entirely without the use of skilled labor—and will compare favorably with $12,000 houses.

COLLECTOR WANTS STAMP

BUFFALO, N. Y. —(AP)— The internal revenue bureau here now has 11 applications for the new federal gambling stamps — but one of them came from a stamp collector.

The philatelist wrote Collector George T. McGowan:

"I am no gambler and I would like this stamp for philatelic purposes. . . . I would gamble that this stamp will be a prize collector's item some day."

Promise Multi-Bomb Carrier Attacks

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —(AP)— Admiral William Fechteler said Thursday that as atomic bombs get smaller and lighter a carrier can launch a multi-bomb attack from any place on the world's oceans at targets up to 600 miles away.

At the same time, the chief of naval operations suggested conversion of ships in the mothball fleet to various types of guided missile launching ships.

Fechteler discussed the present and future roles of the navy in atomic age warfare in an address prepared for a meeting of the navy league here. In it, he said:

"Our new and modernized carriers are capable of delivering the atomic bomb.

"The usefulness of carriers in delivering the atomic bomb increases as the bomb becomes smaller and lighter. This means that the navy has the capability of delivering an atomic bomb, or many atomic bombs, from anywhere on the earth's surface that is covered by water to a target within the radius of action of carrier-based planes — a distance of some 600 miles.

"During a war this means, further, that within the radius of the carrier's planes we can launch an attack without using a previously prepared position or airfield on land. And more importantly, it seems to me, we are able and we are free to launch an atomic attack from the high seas, from international waters."

(The navy has used simulated atomic bombs in two types of planes up to now — in the long range patrol bomber, the Lockheed P2V, a land-based bomber which can be launched, but not landed by a 45,000-ton carrier; the North American AJ, a combination piston-jet plane, heaviest carrier-based type used. Presumably, smaller and lighter nuclear bombs could be used in any carrier-based plane equipped for handling conventional bombs or rockets.)

The admiral said the cost of the mothball fleet, at current replacement prices, is between 40 and 50 billion dollars, "an investment which has been bought and paid for and is readily available." Then he added:

"A few of these ships are being converted for use as launching platforms for guided missiles.

"In view of the large and continually mounting costs of delivering the atomic weapon at its target, the paid-up investment in the reserve fleet suggests a means of reducing the costs of delivering atomic weapons by conversions of ships of all types to guided missile ships."

ONLY KNOWN METHOD

(Currently, the only known method used for atomic weapons delivery missions in war, or by navy planes.)

Fechteler's comment about a few ships being converted to guided missile vessels appeared to refer to the hulls of the 45,000-ton battleship Kentucky and the outsize cruiser Hawaii, on which construction was begun during world war II. Work was started several years ago converting the hulls into guided missile ships, but it subsequently was stopped until the navy could decide what form the missiles would take.

Telling about the expansion of the navy in the last year and a half, Fechteler said that since the start of the Korean war the navy has added 526 ships to the active fleet. All but four of them — one carrier and three submarines — came out of the mothball fleet.

ROSES

INGLEWOOD, Calif.— (AP)— "A rose is a rose is a rose," according to novelist Gertrude Stein, and that's the way it seemed in Inglewood superior court yesterday.

Agnes C. Rose won a divorce from J. Frank Rose, and Eleanor A. Rose was awarded $100 a month temporary alimony from Wallace Rose. And Edwin R. Rose was divorced from Elizabeth Rose, who lives in Rosemead.

8 DIE IN HUK RAIDS

Mrs. Ed Gosnell Feted At Shower

A shower party Wednesday evening at the Angels Grange hall surprised Mrs. Ed Gosnell. Thirty-six friends and relatives made the event a gala occasion and presented the guest of honor many gifts. The group played a variety of games and competed for prizes.

The table centerpiece was a mirror pond with floating water-lilies bearing miniature baby dolls in their petals. The guests were served a salad luncheon and the paper bird appropriate for baby showers topped each roll.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Nellie Parr, Mrs. Gwen Warner, Mrs. Thomas Parr and Mrs. A. W. Fry.

Mrs. Thomas Moore Has 90th Birthday

Mrs. Thomas Moore, pioneer resident of Port Angeles, celebrated her ninetieth birthday recently at her Riverside, Calif., home, where two of her children live.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore came to Port Angeles more than 60 years ago and lived at the family home, a square house still standing on the north side of East Front street between Albert and Eunice street. The family left here in 1904 and have lived in California since, where Mr. Moore died several years ago. While here Mr. Moore was prominent in civic affairs.

Two of the children, Frank Moore and Mrs. Walter White, live in Riverside. Two other daughters, Mrs. Ashley Barkelew and Mrs. Albertine Goethals, live in Glendale, Calif. She has five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

In letters to friends here, Mrs. White says her mother has not been well, and observed her birthday quietly.

Weather Hampers Korea Air War

SEOUL—(AP)—A few allied jets hunted unsuccessfully through storm clouds today for communist MIG-15s in hopes of extending their record breaking 11 day series of victories over the red jets.

The weather was so bad over Korea the U. S. fifth air force was held to only 103 flights up to 6 p.m.

The reds launched five small probing attacks shortly after midnight southwest of Kumsong on the center of the 145 mile Korean front. United Nations outposts beat back four of these stabs.

Otherwise, the U. S. eighth army's evening communique said, the fronts were quiet.

Glib Tongues Get Pop Out of Jail

DETROIT—(AP)—Because his three children have innocent faces and glib tongues, 40-year-old Merill Bolstar is home with his family instead of serving a 10-day jail term.

But because they also have vivid imaginations, recorder's court officials know it was a nicely executed hoax that got him out.

Bolstar's children—Merrill, Jr., 15; Harold, 13, and Barbara, 11—showed up at court Wednesday when he was due to pay a $5 fine or go to jail on a charge of drunkenness. They took along a couple of neighbor children, aged 15 and 13, to make their case look more convincing, and the neighbors also identified themselves as little Bolstars.

The children explained they had been saving $5 for their mother's Christmas present, "but it was more important to get daddy out of jail."

But later reporters noted the ages of the children and decided they couldn't all be members of one family. Pressed for an explanation, Barbara said:

"We lied to get daddy out of jail. Mama told us to borrow the $5 from the grocer and tell him we would pay him Saturday."

Grocer Sam Cini confirmed her story.

"I just wanted to help the kids out," he explained.

Enemy Casualties Set at 1,483,982

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The army today estimated total enemy military casualties in Korea through Nov. 29 at 1,483,982. This is an increase of 11,087 since the previous week.

In addition, the army listed 33,149 civilian internees.

Total communist battle casualties were placed at 1,095,563, non-battle losses at 251,964 and counted prisoners of war at 136,455.

Total announced UN battle losses are 109,459. This figure included the overall total reported by the United Nations Dec. 3, the announced U. S. battle losses for last week and addition Canadian casualties reported from Ottawa.

The announced United Nations total does not include an estimated 215,544 South Korean casualties reported last June.

DOLLAR BASIS OF SUIT

CHEHALIS—(AP)—A silver dollar said to have been minted in 1804 is the basis of a suit filed in Lewis county superior court by W. E. Skelton, former Chehalis automobile dealer, now living in Grays Harbor county. George Monahan, Chehalis grocer, is the defendant.

Monahan claims the coin was passed on to him by a friend now deceased. Skelton alleges it was promised to him. Superior Judge E. Murray has set December 10 as the date for hearing the argument.

STATE TRAVEL HIGH

OLYMPIA—(AP)—Gas tax collections show motor travel in Washington continued at a high level last month despite several days of inclement weather, state treasurer Tom Martin reported today.

He said state gas collections totaled $4,294,333 in November as compared to $3,888,944 in October and $3,783,071 in November of 1950.

Operations On Women Unwarranted

By Rennie Taylor
Associated Press Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES—(AP)— The child bearing ability and glandular balance of many American women are being sacrificed needlessly by the unwarranted removal of normal ovaries, says a Beverly Hills, Calif., surgeon.

Fear of cancer or a desire to avoid pregnancy are responsible for some of these operations, Dr. James Doyle told the American Medical Association.

Dr. Doyle studied the records of operations on 546 women in the Los Angeles area during 1948. In each case one or both ovaries were removed even though they were normal or nearly normal. In some instances the womb also was removed.

Removal of normal ovaries is justified, Dr. Doyle said, if there are medical indications that serious disease might develop if they were not taken out.

But in many of the cases, he added, operations were performed when the symptoms indicated only minor or temporary ailments. In a few instances ovaries were removed when there were no symptoms of illness. Some of these few might have been justifiable, he said.

'NEBULOUS REASONS'

However, more than one-third of the diagnoses which preceded the ojerations gave "nebulous" reasons for ovarian removal, Dr. Doyle asserted.

In some instances the diagnoses which might have warranted removal were found to be in error after the operations had been performed.

Removal of both ovaries not only stops child bearing but also affects the system generally because these parts of the reproductive system produce hormones needed for glandular balance and well being.

ROME'S OPERA SEASON OPENS

ROME —(AP)— Rome's winter opera season opens tomorrow for a program that includes the first Europe presentation of American composer Louis Gruenberg's "Emperor Jones" and two other works never before performed here.

Gruenberg's opera from the Eugene O'Neill play, will be sung Dec. 19, in Italian. In the title role will be Nicola Rossi-Lemeni, one of the Rome opera's best-known young singers, who scored a smash hit in San Francisco during the fall.

The two operas getting their Rome premieres are Liviabella's Antigone, March 6, and Janacek's Jenufa, April 17.

Kitch's Korner

By E. A. Kitchen

The duck hunters are still at it. Their season runs for about two weeks more, to December 24. So the ducks, though they may not know it, can spend Christmas day in peace and feasting.

At the beginning of the season the local hunters enjoyed some good shooting and it was not unusual for them to bring home the limit of six ducks. Then the shooting began to fall off and many hunters returned empty-handed. What was the reason?

Are the ducks plentiful? Yes, the ducks are plentiful, thousands of them.

Do they come in on the hunting grounds to feed? Yes, they come in every day. Well, why don't the hunters get them? The local hunters can tell you why.

It did not take the smart ducks very long to realize that if they came over the flats and fields in the daytime they were met with a hail of shot. So the only safe refuge they had was the open salt water. Here they remain and rest during the day. They also seemed to have learned that the closing hour is just before dark, so at that time in they come by the hundreds to alight in the fields, undisturbed, for the night. In the early morning they leave the fields to spend the day on the open water.

From the ducks' point of view there is only one drawback to this daily schedule. If a heavy wind comes up, or a storm, the ducks have to seek shelter which can be obtained only by coming onto the flats and fields again.

Most of the local gun clubs here have an unwritten agreement to shoot only on Wednesday, Saturdays and Sundays. In this way the ducks have four days out of the seven to rest, and are not driven out of the country like they would be if hunted every day.

STORMS INTERFERE

Lately it has so happened that most of the three shooting days each week were mild and quiet, bluebird weather, and the ducks stayed out on the open waters. Many hunters came home empty-handed and discouraged.

Although the ducks seemingly have outsmarted the hunters, some of the sportsmen in turn have come up with a new idea. They propose now that instead of shooting only on the three special days they intend to go out on stormy days no matter which day of the week.

This is not a bad idea. The few ducks they can shoot before the end of the season will not cut down to any extent the numbers of the ducks that are wintering with us.

For the life of me I can't see why more of the Dungeness land owners don't create more duck ponds on their acreage, and rent the shooting privileges to the city hunters. With their modern machinery, it would only take a day to create a pond to be filled with the irrigation water that runs through their place. I can think of no better way to make some easy money.

RARE DUCKS

Duck hunters should be on the lookout for two rather rare ducks that show up at this time of year. Both seek the company of the widgeon and fly with them.

The rarer one is the European widgeon, really an Asiatic bird that should migrate along the shores of Asia but that sometimes joins his American cousins and comes down with them.

He can be told at once because the sides of his head are red instead of the bright green as seen on our bird. If anybody should shoot one it should be preserved as a scientific specimen rather than have somebody eat it.

The other duck is the gadwall, a rare frequenter of our shores. They also seem to show up in December with the last flight of widgeon. Gadwall are a slightly bigger bird, more like a small hen mallard. Their feet and legs are a bright orange-yellow to distinguish them from the dusky gray legs of the widgeon. They are sometimes called "yellow-legged widgeon."

SWEET RAIN — The reason those Japanese kids at the bottom of this picture are running around like crazy is that the two U. S. Air Force planes above them are dropping candy. Sponsored by the Mainichi Press, it was part of an air show over Tama Park, Tokyo.

U. S. GI's Will Have Traditional Christmas Dinner

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Right up to the front line in Korea, American GI's will have a traditional Christmas dinner, served hot, with a pound of turkey per man and all the trimmings.

Generally, the menu will be the same as the troops had on Thanksgiving day and will vary only slightly in different areas. Army cooks will prepare the dinner from a master menu set up here by the quartermaster corps last August.

Here's what they'll be eating in "ZI"—that is, Zone of the Interior, or the United States proper:

Breakfast—Chilled fresh frozen orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, fresh milk, scrambled eggs, jam, toast and butter, coffee.

Dinner—(mid-day)—Celery hearts, stuffed olives, sweet pickles, spiced tomato juice cocktail, roast turkey, giblet gravy, celery dressing, cranberry sauce, whipped potatoes, glazed sweet potatoes, buttered green beans, lettuce wedges with Thousand Island dressing, Parker House rolls with jam and butter, hot mince meat pie, fruit cake, coffee, ice cream, tangerines, grapes, mixed salted nuts, assorted candies.

Supper—Turkey rice soup, crackers, assorted cold cuts, assorted cheese, hot potato salad, chopped onion and green pepper salad, rye bread, butter, chilled pears, coffee.

In the eastern command, including Japan and Korea, the menu will be much the same, except that grilled bacon and hot biscuits will be served for breakfast; a shrimp cocktail, fresh frozen buttered corn and lima beans will be added to the dinner, and there will be no soup for supper. Turkey stuffing will be spicier and there will be fruit punch.

Menus in the European command will be about the same as those in ZI and the eastern command with the exception of different vegetables.

STUFFING RECIPE

Here's the recipe for that poultry stuffing they will use in the eastern command, the portions calculated on the basis of 100 men: 5 pounds celery, 10 pounds white bread, 5 pounds onions, 3 ounces poultry seasoning, 6 No. 1 cans evaporated milk, 25 ounces of dehydrated eggs and 2 pounds lard.

With the exception of desserts, the boys are getting pretty much what they favor most in the way of food as determined by extensive tests being conducted throughout the service. Turkey and pot roast with brown gravy are popular in the meat line. Fresh milk is top drink. Green beans, canned, frozen or fresh, are the favorite vegetable, and banana cream and lemon meringue pies are the favorite desserts.

SEEK LOW LEVEL TALKS

That was one of the signs carried yesterday by hoboes marching in front of the Russian United Nations delegation's Park Avenue mansion. Other signs carried by 10 hoboes, including Smoking Queen, "Box Car Betty," read:

"U. S. hoboes and Russian tromboniks (hoboes) must meet to discuss peace."

'Stalin, you send the vodka, we'll bring the beer."

"Stalin can't call this a capitalistic plot."

Storm Damage Heavy

Last week's windstorm raised havoc with telephone service in Port Townsend, when a power line blew across telephone cables and knocked out hundreds of telephones. The shorts caused great electrical flashes to leap out from behind switchboards on the telephone exchange office. The storm also washed out a roadway at Beckett point, and filled a lagoon with hundreds of big logs and quantities of debris.

Coroner's Jury Studies Death

A coroner's jury held an inquest last Thursday in the automobile death of Mrs. Dorothy McComb, 19, former Gardiner resident, then recessed to hear testimony of investigating officers at a later date. Mrs. McComb was killed when a truck driven by her husband, Billy McComb, 23, left the road and crashed into a ditch near Chimacum November 28.

DISCUSS BETHLEHEM YULE

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Israel and Jordan discussed today arrangement whereby Christian Arabs and others living in Israel could take part in the Christmas eve service at the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem.

Bethlehem is in Jordan territory. Israel proposed that the traditional "Christmas Road" directly south from Jerusalem to Bethlehem be made available for Christian worshippers. Last year the pilgrims had to go via the official armistice frontier post at Mandelbaum gate, a somewhat longer route.

Vice Cleanup Follows Probe

SEATTLE—(AP)—A statewide vice cleanup has followed recent hearings by the legislature's crime committee, the committee chairman reported yesterday.

Sen. Albert Rosellini (D-Seattle) said Aberdeen, Olympia, Everett and Walla Walla have opened campaigns against prostitution and other forms of crime and vice, and some county prosecutors have served "cleanup ultimatums" on mayors and police chiefs.

Rosellini said action was taken in Grays Harbor superior court last week to close "one of the biggest and oldest houses of prostitution in the state" located in Aberdeen.

In Spokane, meanwhile, church, police and city officials said they would welcome an investigation of conditions in the city. Earlier in the week, the committee reportedly settled on Spokane as the site of its next on-the-spot study. Rosellini said later, however, the report was incorrect and other committee members doubted the next hearing would be held in Spokane.

"ALL HE WANTS . . ."—If Santa Claus will just bring Paul Cecil, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a couple of new front teeth, it will complete his happiness. He's pretty happy now because loss of the teeth and a couple of bruises were the only injuries he suffered when he jumped out from behind a parked car and was struck down by passing auto.

Rep. Jackson Plans Visit Late in Month

Congressman Henry M. Jackson told the Evening News late Thursday in a telephone conversation from his Everett home that he will spend a day here before returning to the next session of congress in January.

He particularly wants to visit the salvage logging area in Olympic National Forest where the September fire killed half a billion feet of federal timber. Forest Supervisor Carl B. Neal invited the congressman to accompany him on such a visit, and review the government's plans to salvage the dead timber within two years to prevent excessive losses through decay.

Jackson told the Evening News he still plans no early decision whether to enter a statewide race next year instead of seeking reelection as second district representative.

He was first elected to congress in November 1940. During the past year he has been making speeches all over the state, as though warming up for a possible contest in 1952 for U. S. senator or governor.

Jackson denied an Associated Press report from Spokane, carried in the Evening News Monday, that he was present during a statement that he would run for either senator or governor next year.

Most of the editorial force . . . chased the big hopper around the office . . . and recaptured him . . . and put him in a glass jar . . . to be in the freak window . . . The grocery folk said they opened a crate of lettuce . . . and found the big beast . . . that is fully three inches long . . . with legs almost as large as a chicken . . . New Yorker Editor Dies

BOSTON —(AP)—Harold W. Ross, 60, whose sharp wit was reflected in the New Yorker magazine which he founded 26 years ago, died last night of a lung ailment.

The exact nature of the ailment was not revealed but he had just undergone a lung operation at the New England Baptist hospital where he had been receiving periodic treatments since last April.

Critics gave Ross, a former newspaperman, most of the credit for the New Yorker's subtle wit and sophisticated satire.

Dale Kramer, in a recently published biography of Ross, said a major reason for the New Yorker's success was his ability to recognize talent and to drive gifted artists to work.
