Solon Wants Report On Prices Paid For 'Voice' Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New York congressman disclosed today he had asked the State Department for a report on prices paid for land for a Washington State site for a proposed Voice of America transmitter.

Rep. Taber, ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee, made public a letter in which he asked for total cost estimates of land purchased for the seven million dollar station at Dungeness, near Port Angeles.

In his letter to Dr. Wilson Compton, head of the U. S. International Information Administration, Taber said the department had listed economy as one reason why the Dungeness site had been selected over a location near Copalis on Grays Harbor.

"I note that no mention is made, in figuring the costs of the two sites, of the purchase price of the land involved," Taber wrote. "This it would seem, will be one of the great, if not the greatest, cost items involved."

Taber's inquiry followed accusations by Rep. Mack, (R-Wash.), that selection of the Dungeness site was political. Mack had announced last fall that the Copalis site, in his Congressional district, had been picked for the transmitter location.

Absent Voter Ballots For Mar. 11 Available At High School

Absentee voters' ballots for March 11 city and school district elections now are available to voters who will be out of the city on that date.

Voters may obtain ballots for the school election at the office of the school district secretary in the Roosevelt High School building, and city election ballots are available at the city clerk's office.

Absentee ballots must be postmarked by 8 p.m. March 11 in order to be counted with the official tally.

The city election board will complete its official count of this week's city primary election not later than Thursday, Feb. 21. This canvass will include the 34 absentee ballots cast in the primary election. The election board for city elections consists of the three city commissioners and city clerk.

Registration files reopened Wednesday at the city clerk's office, for transfer of registrants from one precinct to another only, until 15 days before the March 11 election. No new registrations may be accepted until after the general election.

Government Class To Hear of Budgets

City Commissioner of Finance Vernon J. Robinson will speak to members of the night school city government class Monday evening, Instructor Wendell McCain announced Thursday. Robinson will speak on city budgets. Any interest citizens are invited to attend the class in room 212 of Roosevelt High School.

Thursday evening, Planning Commission Chairman Fred Strange again addressed the group, explaining several details of the proposed street improvement program scheduled to appear on the March 11 ballot.

Thirteen members attended the class session Thursday, compared to 30 who had been attending previous sessions. Monday night will be the last class session for the city government course.

Local Man Has Reunion With Son Returning From War

Two John F. Nicholsons, father and son, were thrilled here early Wednesday morning when the transport Gen. M. M. Patrick picked up a pilot as the sun was turning the eastern sky pink.

John F. Nicholson, Port Angeles businessman, rode into the strait on the Puget Sound Pilot boat Prosper with Capt. Loring F. Hyde at the wheel. His son, Quartermaster 1/c John F. Nicholson USN of Seattle was due to come home from Korea on the ship, which was picking up a pilot here.

As the pilot boat drew alongside the transport, the senior Nicholson failed to recognize his son among the hundreds of returning veterans lining the rail. And the younger man did not pick out his father among the dozen officers from the Seattle Port of Embarkation on the pilot boat.

The officers and the pilot went aboard the transport and left only Capt. Hyde and the elder Nicholson on the pilot boat.

It was then young Nicholson yelled "Hello, Dad" as he recognized his father, and his father saw him.

The two threw conversation and greetings back and forth as the big transport drew away and pointed eastward and home into the pink clouds reflecting the rising sun.

"It was a thrill I will never forget. Even if I had not been greeting my son, back from the war, the morning was beautiful and the sight of the happy boys aboard the transport was heart warming," Nicholson said.

Young Nicholson served in World War II and was a naval reservist called back to duty 17 months ago. He was aboard the USS Meneffe, landing troops in Korea. He is at his Seattle home awaiting discharge later this month, and will resume his former position with the American Mail Line after a month's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Nicholson Jr. and their child will visit his parents here later in the month.

MEMORY OF TRAGEDY TOO MUCH—Cecil Sanders, the only miner entombed in the Dec. 12 West Frankfort, Ill., mine disaster to be brought out alive, collapses at the Illinois Mining Investigation Commission's hearing at Benton, Ill. Sanders was overcome as he attempted to relate his experience in the disaster which took the lives of 119 miners. He was taken to West Frankfort Hospital, where he was reported suffering from shock.

Park Service Biologist Finds No Cougar Tracks in 6-Day Check

During six recent days skiing up three main Olympic National Park valleys, park service Regional Biologist Lowell Sumner counted snow tracks of 221 animals—none of them cougar.

In his first sample count last March, Sumner counted 258 animals in 11 days on six valleys. Four of those were cougar, including two doubtful. Snow was deep then, whereas this winter's snowfall was too light for much good tracking.

Sumner said in leaving for his San Francisco headquarters that only a year-round biologist can make any adequate study of animal populations and movements in the Olympic park.

Following are Sumner's sample counts by species, in both years:

Animals Counted	Feb. 1952	Mar. 1951
Elk	165	171
Deer	27	47
Cougar	0	4(??)
Bobcat	26	12
Raccoon	1	8
Spotted Skunk	1(?)	9
Hound Dogs	0	5
Bear	1	0
Coyote	0	2
Totals	221	238
Total days tracking	6	11

This winter Sumner spent one day up the Elwha and Hurricane Ridge road with District Ranger Jack Broadbent; two days up the Bogachiel with Hoh District Ranger Lee Sneddon and sportsman William Bond of Port Angeles; and three days up the Hoh valley with Chief Ranger Otto Brown.

Sumner spent a seventh day on the Calawah with E. K. Browne, Port Angeles sportsman and Poggie club representative. This was outside the park and therefore not counted in animal tracks listed above.

ELK TRACKS FREQUENT

In the Calawah, Browne said they saw one band of nine elk, the tracks of a band of eight, and tracks of many individual elk.

An uncounted number of deer were seen and tracks of others were very numerous. They also saw tracks of five coyote and one bobcat, but no cougar.

Calawah lowland conditions were such that horned animals left tracks in the snow and mud while other animals, less heavy, would not leave tracks.

Sumner also spent a weekend at Deer Park winter sports area with District Ranger Broadbent. He used several days to work on an annual report on park wildlife for the special Senate subcommittee on wildlife. Sumner arrived in Port Angeles Jan. 24 in the four wheel drive jeep station wagon which helps penetrate snowbound valley roads. He started driving south again last Sunday.

TELLS OF VOLCANO

Last weekend KONP broadcast two Jean Earl interviews with Sumner. To a group of local people at her house, he also showed his Kodachrome slides of three National Park Service areas which he visited last summer — Mt. Katmai National Monument, Glacier Bay National Monument, and Mt. McKinley National Park.

The rugged Mt. Katmai area on the Aleutian Peninsula had special interest, partly because it is least known.

Since residents evacuated after the Mt. Katmai eruption 40 years ago, numerous Alaskan bears weighing up to a ton have had the area pretty much to themselves. Sumner said bear trails are the only way men can walk through the high, dense bear grass along the peninsula.

The Mt. Katmai eruption discussion was exceptionally interesting to Jack Henson of the Evening News, who was living at Douglas, Alaska, when it occurred.

The eruption was about 500 miles northwest of Douglas. Henson recalls he was going to the dock from his home when he thought he was being bitten by mosquitos. Arriving at the dock, he found the boat just in from western Alaska was covered with a thin coat of ashes. The "mosquitos" were small particles of volcanic ash that had blown from the Aleutians across the Gulf of Alaska to Douglas.

An Associated Press story announced the ashes were borne as far south as Victoria, B. C.

On one of the Aleutian Islands was a small fishing village named Douglas, a name similar to the city of Douglas, near Juneau. After the announcement of the eruption, when ashes covered the island and small fishing village, scores of telegrams were received by the people of the larger Douglas, inquiring about their welfare.

Only damage observed to the area around the larger Douglas was that leaves of the vegetation bore scars from the volcanic ash that had been blown there.

WANTS FULL-TIME BIOLOGIST

The regional biologist said national headquarters has been seeking a qualified biologist for year round work at Olympic National Park.

Asked about Adolph Murie, who last year finished several years work at Mt. McKinley National Park, he said Murie transferred to Grand Teton National Park late in 1951. As biologist there, Murie will recommend whether any elk need killing, as authorized under the new law combining the former Jackson Hole National Monument with Grand Teton Park.

Sumner said Murie wrote a Roosevelt Elk report about 1935, but the unprinted document has vanished from Park Service files. He said Rudolph Bueckner of Washington State College is now working on an elk study.

The Port Angeles Evening News now has a copy of Dr. William Graf's revised thesis on Roosevelt elk and plans to publish it serially. While a graduate student at Oregon State College, Graf studied bands of Roosevelt elk intensively on the Oregon coast. He later observed them briefly in the Olympic Mountains, where the species is most numerous.

Bike Licenses On Sale Saturday Morning

Bicycle licenses will be on sale at the city police department again Saturday, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Last Saturday police issued over 200 licenses to young bike owners.

The licenses cost 25 cents each, and youngsters must bring their bicycle with them.

Queen Elizabeth II Leads Britain's Final Homage to King George VI

By The Associated Press

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP) — Britain said farewell to George VI today in a great outpouring of sorrowful grandeur, and buried him here at Windsor with a hymn of triumphant faith.

Elizabeth II, Queen at 25, led the nation's final homage to her father. For 2½ hours she rode in a horse-drawn carriage behind the coffin to the dirge of 10 bands, while more than a million Britons, packed tightly along the chill streets of London, bowed in reverence.

Then she entrained for Windsor with the body and saw it laid to rest in a crypt of Royalty already holding George III and nine other sovereigns.

The Queen, tight-lipped but composed, sprinkled earth on her father's coffin as it sank from sight beneath storied St. George's Chapel in Windsor Castle.

At the close of the 26-minute service the Royal family left the chapel by a side door.

Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, kissed the Queen Mother on the cheek just before they stepped into a waiting limousine.

The King's mother, Mary, stayed in London with the weight of her 84 years, and waved her farewell from a window of Marlborough House.

But the widowed Queen Mother Elizabeth was here with the Princess Margaret to hear the choir sing the hymn she and the new Queen had chosen—a hymn of victory, often sung at Easter:

"The strife is o'er, the battle done;
"Now is the victor's triumph won. . ."

The Archbishop of Canterbury voiced the Commital the Church of England assigns to King and commoner alike.

"Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, in sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life. . ."

A slab of stone had been laid aside in the floor, and the oak coffin was lowered slowly to the side of the body of the King's brother, the first Duke of Kent, killed in a wartime air crash.

Representatives of nations around the globe joined royalty, nobles and lords in the funeral at St. George's Chapel.

There was the Duke of Windsor, who was a king himself when he laid George V to rest here 16 years ago.

There were Winston Churchill, the servant of four sovereigns; there were seven sovereigns from other countries, Secretary of State Acheson representing President Truman; and the ambassador of the Soviet Union.

There also, was Gen. Eisenhower, who led Britons as well as Americans against the Nazis while George VI stood unflinching beside his people in this island Hitler coveted.

And by the turn of time, the dignitaries invited to the funeral included the Chancellor of a new Germany.

Britain and all the Commonwealth fell silent for two minutes at 2 p.m., the hour of the funeral. Then thousands turned to their radios to hear the service. Earlier, the street processions had been seen on television.

Byrd Asks $7 Billion Cut in Truman's $85 Billion Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)— Lawmakers studying Truman's $85,444,000,000 budget today applauded a demand by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) that it be cut by nearly nine billion dollars.

Some members of the Senate Appropriations Committee expressed doubt Byrd's goal could be achieved, but the idea of a substantial reduction won an election-year endorsement.

Byrd, a leading economy advocate, made public Thursday night a detailed analysis and a proposed downward revision of the Truman budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

"The Byrd budget," as he described it, calls for spending of $76,800,000,000 or $8,600,000,000 less than Mr. Truman proposed.

His proposals included:

Wiping out entirely a proposed 2½ billion dollars in economic aid abroad, saying any continuing need in that field would be met by "overlapping" military assistance to friendly foreign nations. Such military aid, Byrd said, should total $7,900,000,000 instead of eight billion dollars as requested by the President.

Cutting $2,700,000,000 from a total of 52½ billion dollars he listed in the President's budget for this country's military program. He said $1,260,000,000 could be saved in salaries and overhead in the armed services.

Slice three billion dollars from the $10,600,000,000 the administration wants to spend on various domestic civilian programs.

CO-ED AT 76—Mrs. Virginia Fountain, 76-year-old grandmother, has entered Wayne University, Detroit, aiming at a college degree "if it doesn't take too long." Mrs. Fountain entered the second grade at 53, after her husband died and her two children were "able to take care of themselves." The elderly co-ed plans to make the most of her college career. "After all," she says, "It's Leap Year and I might meet a nice college boy."

Army Announces Release Plan For Enlisted Members of Guard and Organized Reserve

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced today that enlisted members of the National Guard and the organized reserve now on duty involuntarily will be released as individuals after 20 to 24 months of duty.

About 325,000 men are affected by the decision which means a speed-up in their prospective release from active service. The program will begin next month.

Excepted from the plan to release the men as individuals are National Guard anti-aircraft units.

The Army said plans are to release all guard anti-aircraft battalions from federal service as units, beginning in April.

This program is to be completed by May, 1953. Regular anti-aircraft battalions will be formed to take the place of each National Guard unit as it is released.

The Army said the gradual release will permit putting replacements into units in an orderly manner.

The Army said that the majority of the organized reserve officers now on active duty will be required to complete 24 months of active service.

In some cases, however, officers may be released earlier but in no event before their 20th month of active duty.

Generally speaking, enlisted reservists who were called up first after the outbreak of the Korean War will be released first.

NEED REPLACEMENTS

The Army said the order of release from any particular unit will be governed by such factors as the maintenance of the unit's effectiveness and the availability of trained replacements.

Other factors to be taken into consideration will be the length of the individual reservist's World War II service, combat duty in Korea, and the number of his dependents.

The Army emphasized, however, that these considerations "will not confer on any individual the right to early release from active duty if his replacement is not available."

The Army said its release program for enlisted inactive and volunteer reservists has been completed.

All World War II veterans in the inactive and volunteer categories have been or are being released from their current active duty upon completing 17 months service.

Commission Nation's First Sea-Going 'Voice of America'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's first sea-going "Voice of America" radio station, designed to combat Soviet jamming and reach new listeners behind the Iron Curtain, was to be commissioned today at Hoboken, N. J.

The State Department said the cutter Courier will carry the most powerful transmitting equipment ever installed on a ship. It includes a 150 kilowatt transmitter, with three times the power of the largest American broadcasting station.

Dr. Wilson Compton, head of the "Voice of America" agency, described the cutter and its long-range equipment as "another electronic weapon for combatting Soviet jamming and to enable the Voice of America to cover areas beyond the reach of present broadcasts."

The department said the cutter will operate at secret locations, using captive helium gas balloons 69 by 35 feet in size to carry its radio antenna aloft while at sea.

Allied Artillery Stops Communist Attempt to Wedge Through U.N. Lines

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Allied big guns poured a withering barrage of shells into Communist positions in Eastern Korea today.

High explosive and fragmentation shells rained down on some Red strongpoints for more than an hour. A murderous 15-minute barrage battered Red positions above the Mundung Valley, springboard for one of the heaviest Communist attacks in weeks Thursday night.

Allied aircraft were out Friday afternoon after being grounded by storms in the morning. One Red MIG was damaged in a four-minute battle between 19 U. S. Sabre jets and 30 Communist jets over northwest Korea, the Fifth Air Force said.

Fifth Air Force planes flew 289 sorties during the day in the campaign to cut Red supply lines.

Fog and low hanging clouds shrouded the results of the artillery bombardment.

The U. S. Eighth Army said two companies of Reds spearheaded Thursday night's attack. They stormed down the Mundung Valley, with another 1,000 right behind.

An Allied officer said the Red attack was designed to drive a wedge through the main U. N. lines. Allied fighting men stopped it cold in a 49-minute battle, much of it at close quarters.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter, who watched the fight from a hillside bunker, said the Reds lost at least 160 men.

RED ARTILLERY POWERFUL

Before the withering hail of U. N. firepower beat them back the Reds had powerful artillery and mortar support of their own.

Six Communist mortar shells hit the hillside where Carter was watching from command post bunker. The concussion knocked one soldier headfirst into the bunker, and right on top of Maj. James I. Spellman, 1720 Prospect, Olympia, Wash.

The blast also knocked the helmets off Spellman and Maj. John Petrelli, Rockville Center, N. Y.

Petrelli commanded the Allied troops involved in the fight.

Set Red Losses At 1,577,734

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today estimated total enemy casualties in Korea at 1,577,734 through Feb. 6.

That figure, covering Communist military losses alone, is an increase of 14,260 since the Jan. 25 estimate.

The total included 1,142,099 battle casualties, 303,358 non-battle losses and 132,277 counted prisoners of war.

In addition to the military prisoners, the Army also listed 37,859 civilian internees under United Nations military control.

The latest U.N. casualty report issued Feb. 5, put losses of U.N. forces at 306,070 up to Dec. 31.

Germany's Bobsled Team Wins Top Honor

OSLO, Norway (AP)— Dare-devil Andreis Ostler piloted Germany's two-man bobsled to the Olympic and World Championship today with two fast, final runs down the icy, 1,500 meter course.

The two had piled up a huge time lead—for this fast type of race—of 1.75 seconds over the runner up American No. 1 sled piloted by Stan Benham of Lake Placid, N. Y., Thursday.

Ostler was timed in a total of 5:24.54 for the four heats—two Thursday and two Friday. Benham and his brakeman, Pat Martin of Massena, N. Y., took second with 5:26.89.

TEAM STANDINGS

OSLO (AP) — The United States clung to a slim lead for unofficial team honors today after three events in the sixth winter Olympics.

Team standings, based on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 point score for the first six finishers:

United States	17½
Austria	17
Germany	14
Norway	11
Switzerland	9
Italy	3
France	2
Belgium	1
Sweden	½

Lawmakers Term Subpoena Request 'Unprecedented'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman's request for far-reaching investigative powers for Newbold Morris, his government cleanup prosecutor, today faced prospects of rough going on Capitol Hill.

Key lawmakers were quick to term it "unprecedented" and "a complete departure from established practice."

So far as could be determined, Congress was being asked for the first time to cloak an individual in the executive branch with virtually unlimited subpoena powers, and the tremendous added authority to grant witnesses immunity from prosecution.

The sweeping proposal, certain to run into oCngressional snags, states in effect:

Where it is "necessary to the public interest," witnesses may not be excused from testifying or producing records on grounds of self-incrimination and subjection to possible criminal prosecution.

But when compelled to testify, after claiming Constitutional privileges against self-incrimination, the witness shall not be prosecuted.

This is a power never exercised by any committee of Congress, as afr as could be determined.

The only power to enforce testimony used by Congressional committees is the power to cite a witness for contempt and this is subject to approval by the whole House or Senate.

CONSIDERED UNUSUAL

Similarly, the power to subpoena witnesses and documents outside as well as inside the government was considered somewhat unusual in the present case.

It was said, after a quick check, that not even in the Teapot Dome hearings of the 1920's did Senate staff investigators have the power to subpoena outside the government.

Truce Men Plan Important Session

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Truce negotiators will hold an important full dress session at 5 p.m. PST tonight to hear a new Communist proposal for a Korean peace conference.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator, returned today from Tokyo where he has conferred for two days with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and two high ranking officials from Washington.

Staff officers working on prisoner exchange plans reported some slight progress Friday. The session on truce supervision marked time.

PACKERS PROTEST CURBS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Western States Meat Packers Association continued hammering today against the government's price and slaughter control program.

"High production is the real answer to inflation," E. Floyd Forbes, San Francisco, the association's president, told the final day's session of its annual convention. "But if we are to achieve full production, the unrealistic, arbitrary, confusing and unsound price control system must be abolished."

Snow depth at the ski area was 56 inches this morning, with an inch of new snow on a breakable crust. The road will be open tomorrow, with the usual facilities in operation for the weekend. (Gossard Photo)

Fanatic Wounds Iran Premier's Top Aide

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Hossein Fatemi, 38, right-hand man of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, was shot and wounded today by a youthful Moslem terrorist who shouted, "There is no God but Allah."

Fatemi, former deputy premier, was felled by an single pistol shot fired at point blank range as he was addressing a crowd in a cemetery near Tehran.

He was speaking on the fifth anniversary of the assassination of one of Iran's first Nationalist martyrs.

Fatemi was rushed to a Tehran hospital owned and operated by Mossadegh's son, Dr. Gholam Hossein Mossadegh. Hospital attendands said the chest wound would not be fatal.

The would-assassin was seized by the crowd, which scuffled with police in apparent anger over police failure to prevent the attack.

He told police only that his name was Mohammed.

The Moslem terrorist organization, Fedayan Islam, which has boasted that it assassinated the late premier, Ali Razmara, has publicly threatened Mossadegh and his followers with death unless the government frees Navab Safavi, one of its leaders.

PROTECT MOSSADEGH

Police have surrounded Mossadegh's residence since the threats, and the aged premier has not appeared in public for two months.

Fatemi owns and edits the Nationalist newspaper, Bakhtar Emrooz, one of Mossadegh's strongest backers. As deputy premier, he served as government spokesman and ordered the expulsion of four foreign correspondents.

Avalanches Isolate Austrian Villages

VIENNA (AP)— New snowfalls and avalanches cut road and rail communications in Austria today leaving hundreds of villages temporarily isolated.

Evacuation of farmers from areas endangered by avalanches appeared, however, to have prevented new casualties to add to Austria's death toll of 29 since Sunday.

More than two feet of new snow fell in many areas during the night.

Scores of trains were at a standstill and international passengers waited for hours in stations as transportation between Austria and

THE FROST MAP, showing the month in which the average last killing frost may occur in the spring. There are few places in the U.S. completely frost-free, among them Key West and the Imperial Valley in California. Growing weather travels northward at about 15 miles a day, beginning at the southern tip of Florida and the Gulf coast early in March. There is roughly a month's difference between the last killing frost dates from the southern to the northern edges of each zone shown on the map. Allowance also must be made for mountainous elevations. Gardeners usually wait a week or two after the last killing frost date for the ground to warm before setting out tender plants.

Many Houses Have Poor Ventilation

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

The average American home erected within the last 10 to 15 years has turned out to be too nearly airtight. It has been so snugly constructed in an effort to step up the efficiency of its heating plant, as well as to keep it comfortable in summer, that it is often a poorly ventilated house.

This results in some serious trouble. Letters from many owners of newer homes tell of paint blistering and peeling off their houses, wallpaper staining and loosening, window and door hardware corroding and rusting.

While condensation of excess moisture is the immediate cause of such damage, the real villain in the case is lack of controlled ventilation.

It used to be that houses leaked enough air through floor and wall cracks and around windows and doors to keep them adequately ventilated. One ordinary, well-fitted window, for example, will leak enough air in even a 20-mile wind (which isn't much of a blow) to change the air in a good-sized room every hour.

Because that means wasted heat, weatherstripping and storm sash are used to cut that leakage down to a negligible minimum. Then the use of large sheets of modern building materials, such as plywood or gypsum sheathing, tough sisial-felted building papers, blankets of insulation and tight vapor seals in walls and ceilings have largely eliminated cracks to a point where houses can't breathe like they used to.

"Such a good job has been done with modern building methods," observes one heating expert, "that the normal air leakage in a new house has been reduced from one-third to one-half the amount found in an older house. Modern weathertight houses may have as little as one-half an air change each hour. This often is inadequate to supply the amount of outside air the family needs for its comfort and health."

That commentator, Sheldon Coleman, Wichita, Kan., manufacturer of heating equipment, contends that the modern house needs not only a heating plant, but a heating and ventilating system.

NOT ENOUGH

Heating in winter and coolness in summer are not enough for complete comfort. Seven requisites for proper indoor air are: (1) Satisfactory temperature, (2) adequate density, (3) proper amount of water vapor, (4) constant but imperceptible motion, (5) freedom from dust, dirt, smoke and pollens, freedom from germs and bacteria, and (6) lack of staleness, which means fresh air.

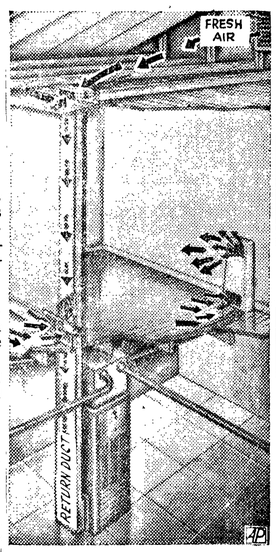
Thermostatic control, humidification, circulation and filtering can meet most of those requirements. For fresh air, you may say that's easy. I open the window.

That provides fresh air, all right, but it upsets all the other factors. It plays hob with the thermostat, wastes fuel; increases or decreases the humidity, depending on the weather; brings in foreign matter, dust, pollen, etc.

The ideal method, if you use a circulating warm air system, would be to bring the fresh air into the heating plant where it could be tempered and filtered to suit.

Of course, there is nothing new in doing that in schools and large commercial installations, but costs have been a restraining factor in adopting the system for homes.

Coleman suggests that the cost of installing a fresh air duct can be circumvented by making use of the reservoir of fresh air contained in a ventilated attic. By removing the fire-stops between two studs, an air shaft between heater room and attic can be readily created. He says such a shaft can be piped to a heating plant for as little as $5 when the plant is being installed.



FRESH AIR from attic is drawn through space between two studs in partition.

CAN CONTROL AIR

This outside air can be controlled and fed automatically into the heating plant, where it is warmed, filtered and humidified for circulation through the house. Drafts and heat wastage from open windows are eliminated. Coleman has used this wrinkle in connection with high velocity blend-air installations in houses and finds it supplies up to 5,000 cubic feet of fresh air per hour.

That volume, plus residual leakage—since no house is absolutely air tight—is considered adequate for the average house. The ventilating requirement for oxygen is about 10 cubic feet of air per minute per person. For cooking and other household odors, there should be a movement of 25 cubic feet per minute per person, according to engineers, so there still is a big place for ventilating fans.

However, the result of Coleman's attic shaft idea is a theoretical pressurized condition in the house with air moving outward through whatever leakage cracks there may be—exfiltration, instead of infiltration.

Excess humidity tends to be removed from the house, because the fresh air from the outside, on being heated and blended, has the capacity to pick up surplus moisture from indoors and carry it outdoors.

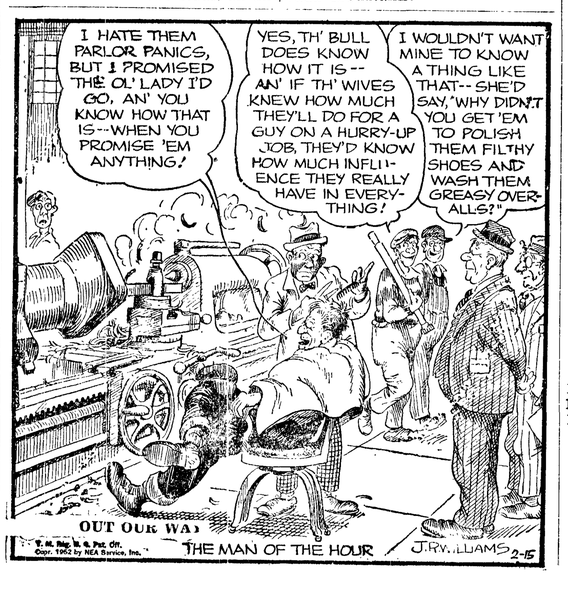
It should be easy to accelerate such movement by opening a window slightly only on the lee side of the house—opposite the wind direction.

PILOT DIES IN AIR

CANDO, N.D. (AP)—The pilot of a light plane slumped over the stick and died of a heart attack Thursday, but the ship was landed safely by a passenger who also knew how to fly.

Ross Case, 50, collapsed when the ship was about 50 feet off the ground. Ansel Christopherson took over in time to avert a crash and brought the plane back to the local airport.

Little water remains in winds after they have bucked over the 14,000-foot peaks of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.



Coast Guard Calls Distress Call Hoax

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Answering a radio distress call, the Coast Guard searched Cuban waters Thursday for a blazing freighter and her crew, then wrote the whole thing off as a hoax.

The SOS, picked up by the Coast Guard Station in Richmond, said the freighter was afire off the west coast of Cuba and had been abandoned by the crew. The call identified the ship as the S. S. George Duketon and her call letters indicated Swedish registry.

An amphibious plane and a 165-foot cutter searched the area thoroughly without finding any trace of a ship or crew.

PATROL GETS NEW CARS

OLYMPIA (AP)—The State Patrol will soon have 50 new heavy duty patrol cars, H. R. Washington, state purchasing agent, said Thursday.

The new cars, Fords with police interceptor motors, will replace an equal number of 1949 models which were traded in.

Washington said the new vehicles will cost $105,824. However, $57,611 was allowed for trade-in, making the net cost to the state $48,213.

Family of 4 Dies in Fire

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — A family of four — the parents and two children they apparently tried to save — perished Thursday night in a fire that damaged four tenement buildings.

The body of Anthony Carcarro, 52, was found with that of his daughter, Jeanette, 2½, clutched in his arms.

Mrs. Eva Carcarro, 35, was found dead near the body of a son, Richard, 5.

Some 30 persons, many of them children in nightclothes, were made homeless by the general alarm fire in sub-freezing temperatures.

Kitch's Korner

By E. A. KITCHIN

I have just finished reading an interesting book, Union Bay, by the co-authors, Harry W. Higman and Earl J. Larrison, published by the University of Washington Press, Seattle.

The book describes life in a city marsh, birds, animals, fishes, insects and vegetation. It is not the results made from occasional observations but rather the findings over a period of years. I know the authors well and their writings are the result of many days spent in their beloved marsh. Many of their observations are described in detail, in such a manner that in reading I could almost find myself sitting in the canoe with Higman, gliding silently among the rushes and cattails.

How few people really know a marsh or swamp, and the life that teems in it. There is so much to see, so many unexpected finds, so much to study. But like the authors, you first have to know your marsh and also learn to travel through it quietly, silently.

LIKE A HOTEL

It is this life in the marsh that the authors have brought out so vividly in their book. In spring and fall they liken the marsh to a hotel, the transit life, passing of the migratory birds north in spring, south in fall.

Each chapter is complete in describing one subject. There is one on the tule wrens, another on the shorebirds, on the various plants that grow so rankly in the swampy water. One on the gulls, another on the pied-billed grebe, even one on the pig of the marsh, the carp, for the fishes are not left out. They describe the dragon flies—almost everything from bees to beavers.

To add to the enjoyment of the reader, the chapters are full of bits of dry humor, delightfully told. There is the episode of the white pigeon (dove of peace) chasing the hen mallard off the feeding station.

The description of the bay covered with floating empty bottles after a holiday was amusing, especially when he so delightedly pressed them under with the blade of his paddle. They were not to be part of the marsh.

There was the afternoon when the author took shelter in the grandstand at the university stadium from a heavy rain. He accomplished three things. He kept dry, watched the birds on the open water, and enjoyed a very close athletic meet. The description of the runners in the two mile event was good. They started with clean white bodies but finished a sorry spectacle of mud and dirt!

SAWYER ILLUSTRATIONS

Each chapter is illustrated with one or more sketches by artist-naturalist E. J. Sawyer. They are remarkably fine and could only be produced by a naturalist-artist.

Through this book the people of Seattle have learned about their wildlife neighbors who live and carry on within the limits of their city. There must be by this time, a new path made by observers around "Union Bay."

Mistake Alarm Clock For Time Bomb

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— A steady muffled ringing interrupted the Quarter Sessions Court of Judge Francis Shunk Brown Thursday.

A court aide investigated and traced the sound to a clerk's desk drawer behind the bar of the court.

There he found a crudely wrapped package. "It looks like a time bomb," he said.

A court officer blushed. "That's my alarm clock. I took it in to be fixed and just got it back at noon," he explained.

Inn Employes Have Hotel of Their Own

MT. POCONO, Pa. (AP) — After a working day is done, the hired hands at one Pocono Mountains resort "check in" at their own hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Strickland, operators of an inn near here, recently bought another nearby hotel for the exclusive use of their 50 employes.

The new property consists of two buildings, one with 28 rooms for women workers and the other an eight-room structure housing male help.

The larger building contains recreational facilities comparable to those provided for paying guests at the inn — including game rooms, lounges and a cozy fireplace. The new property includes plenty of acreage for outdoor fun and relaxation, too.

There's a chef to operate the workers' hotel kitchen. A modern cafeteria is being installed. The employers are supplying everything—food, linens, bedding, heat and light.

A housekeeper daily checks on everything, to see that top hotel standards are maintained.

The Stricklands are no star-gazing idealists but pleasant, hard-working individuals who combine their philanthropy with sound reasoning.

As Ed Strickland put it:

"Most of our employes come from nice families and are used to nice things. And a hard day's work doesn't seem so hard if you can relax afterward in comfortable surroundings.

"So this proposition works both ways. The 'kids' are happier, and happy people do better work. And there's less turnover in hired hands, which means more efficiency and a better deal for our own hotel guests."

BANK EX-PRESIDENT DIES

Mr. Churchill Must Have Had Empire Affairs on His Mind

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Just before Prime Minister Winston Churchill left Washington, he had an important, secret conference with British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks.

As the two men went into a private office at the embassy in Washington, they left word that under no circumstances were they to be disturbed until they came out.

They hadn't been closeted very long when a telephone call came in from Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. He wanted to talk to Ambassador Franks right away. Whoever answered the phone said he couldn't be disturbed, but the Senator refused to take that for his answer.

Finally Aubrey Morgan, counselor on the embassy staff volunteered to take a note in and lay it before the Ambassador, telling him what was up. He did it hurriedly, and tiptoed out.

Sir Oliver read the note and then said to the Prime Minister, apologizing for having to break up the conference, "I've got serious trouble with Senator Connally."

The P. M. looked up surprised and asked, "Trouble in what colony?"

PRICE Stabilization Boss Mike DiSalle had a birthday recently. His staff was pretty puzzled about what to give him as a present because of his Christmas stipulation to his employees:

"No one should accept any gift that can't be consumed in an hour."

Paul Porter, who had himself been a Price Administrator at the end of World War II brought Mike a book. Its title was, "Your Future in Alaska."

Western Europe's trade deficit this year is now estimated at about two and a half billion dollars. Best estimates on how this dollar gap can be met are that half of it will come from U. S. Mutual Security Agency economic aid.

Three hundred million dollars of this is earmarked for Great Britain, the rest for continental Europe.

An estimated $300 million will be spent by the United States in Europe to maintain the 300,000 American troops stationed across the Atlantic.

American procurement of military supplies in Europe for the European armed forces may take care of another $500 million.

Private sub-contracting by American prime contractors with European sub-contractors is expected to account for another $200 million.

THE Republican National Committee was taken into a new field of endeavor when the Rev. W. H. Alexander of Oklahoma City announced he had been made Chaplain of the GOP and was going to leave his pastorate to devote full time to the new work.

Rev. Mr. Alexander will be remembered as the defeated opponent of Sen. Mike Monroney in the 1950 election. The pastor was formerly a Democrat, but told his campaign audiences that in a visitation he was advised to become a Republican.

Showdown on Russian relations with Communist China may come this year.

Under terms of the Russian-Red China 30-year pact signed at Moscow by Mao Tse-tung in February 1950, the Soviet Union agreed to get out of Dairen and Port Arthur in Manchuria, and to return the Manchurian railway to full Chinese control by the end of 1952.

The agreement could of course be extended.

But if Russians do not live up to treaty terms, Chinese should know that the Soviet intends to stay in control of Manchuria permanently.

PIGEON RIGHT AT HOME

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A cocky and determined pigeon strutted through the door of a downtown restaurant Thursday night, marched to the kitchen, and had a meal of peanuts and a drink of water on the house.

Then, Policeman Johnny Padgett reported, the bird sauntered over to a phone booth, laid an egg, and settled down for the night.

Witness Says Reds Planned Bigger Jails For Capitalists

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bigger jails and San Quentins to put the capitalists in were advocated at a 1937 Communist Party school in San Francisco, Government Witness David Saunders testified Thursday at the federal conspiracy trial of 15 party leaders.

Saunders, former waterfront organizer, said under cross-examination that this line was strongly advocated in the class he attended. He added explosively: "I knew what we were going to do when we took over, brother!"

His remark was directed at Defense Attorney Ben Margolis, who immediately asked the witness if he had been coached since Wednesday by the prosecution.

Saunders denied this, adding: "I don't have to be coached--I speak with my own free conviction."

The witness said that "we also were taught that the 1934 San Francisco general strike was a political strike—a manifestation of the political arm of the working class."

Class struggle was emphasized in the school's instruction, the witness said, adding "only, we were told it would be a sharper and bloodier struggle than any before."

Movie Camera Spots Pilferers

CHAPPAQUA, N.Y. (AP) — George Williams, station-master at this suburban railroad depot, was only $1—instead of the usual $2.50—short in his newspaper collections Thursday morning.

George operates the newspaper concession at the station on the honor system, with a money box where commuters can make their own change for the purchase.

For months his weekly shortage has run almost on the nose of $12.50, all lost to riders of one train.

Last week George bored a small hole in the ceiling over the change box, spotted the pilferers--several well-dressed men and one woman—and the next day was ready with a motion picture camera.

He informed his customers Wednesday with an announcement written on a blackboard, that he was prepared to stage an "early show" of his films.

"Obviously, when someone took a buck this morning, one of those birds can't read," he said.

Cherry Growers Seek To Stop Rain

WENATCHEE (AP)— Cherry growers in this area propose to assess themselves $1 a ton for their fruit to provide "rain stopping" funds this season.

State Fruit Commission officials said this week the growers plan to contribute the money toward research to counteract cloud seeding activities of nearby wheat ranchers.

"Cherry growers want to head off the June rains which they expect wheat farmers will try to induce this summer," said W. R. Howard, fruit commission office manager.

"The rains caused considerable damage to the cherry crop last year as they came when the fruit was most susceptible to splitting."

Howard said growers are signing agreements now for the $1 a ton assessment. He said a similar program is under way in Yakima.

Senator Cain Wants Full Hearings Before Exporting Any Northwest Power

Committee on Armed Services
January 28, 1952.

Editor, Evening News:

As you know, the President has asked the Congress for $251,056,407 for water, power and flood control projects in Washington and Oregon for the next fiscal year, as compared with the $196,369,602 being spent in the present fiscal period.

Of particular interest and real concern to me is the inclusion in his request for money for the Bonneville Power Administration and the Bureau of Reclamation to start construction of a power line connecting the Northwest Power grid with the Central Valley system in California.

My concern lies with the President having implicitly made the decision that the inter-tie should be made. I feel strongly that it should not be made unless and until the people in the area affected have had an opportunity to be heard.

To my knowledge, the inter-tie has not been endorsed by labor, by chambers of commerce, by veterans' organizations, by churches, by the Granges, or by any substantial number of interested citizens in the area. My files today fail to show such an endorsement from individuals. On the contrary, they reveal many letters and petitions expressing grave doubt as to the wisdom of diverting any of our power elsewhere.

It is my conviction that before such an inter-tie is decided upon one way or another, hearings should be held both here and out in the State before the appropriate Committees of the Congress.

Certainly this would seem to come within the realm of responsibility of the Public Works Committee, of which I am privileged to be the ranking Minority member. Should hearings be arranged in the State, it would be my hope that I could be free to attend and participate in them.

This is a project vitally affecting the future of the Pacific Northwest, and particularly the states of Washington and Oregon, and no final decision should be reached concerning it without the concurrence of the people in that area.

DRAW FOR BASIN FARMS

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP)—Washington and Oregon veterans were among 33 who Thursday won the right to purchase farms in the Columbia Basin irrigation project.

The names of 17 veterans living in the two states were drawn from a pickle jar containing applications from 2,641 of the nation's ex-servicemen.

Men whose names were drawn will be able to buy the land, scheduled to be irrigated from Grand Coulee Reservoir, when they prove financial responsibility and farming ability. None was from Clallam County.

CHAPTER CR, PEO will meet Tuesday evening with Mrs. Quentin Kintner, instead of with Mrs. Frances Gallagher. Miss Leora Bradshaw is co-hostess. Mrs. Allen Sawalish, program chairman, asks each member to bring to the meeting a suggestion to help with the housework.

URSULA COTTA SOCIETY members saw the film "The Unfaithful Servant" at their meeting Wednesday. They reviewed the first four chapters of the book of Deuteronomy, dealing with the life of Moses. Mrs. Oscar Erickson directed the program. Mrs. J. R. Backlund was a guest at the meeting. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Knute Dorum and Mrs. Gust Fant.

Reading Club Hears Reports

The Wednesday Reading club reversed the order of its meeting this week, hearing their program first. Mrs. Keith Thompson reviewed the book "Two Captains West", and Mrs. Dellmere Peterson discussed the biography of Louis Braille.

In "Two Captains West" the Salisbury family of Seattle journeyed along the trail of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

They visited points of interest reported in the diary of the famous exploring party, but in a much shorter time than the two years of the original party, and with far greater convenience. Excerpts from the diary and many colorful illustrations distinguish the book.

Mrs. Peterson told the story of the founder of a reading system for the blind. Braille was born in 1809, and died at 42 years of age with no recognition of his achievement.

Napoleon backed an exposition in Paris two years later, featuring a blind musician who played from Braille notes. This attracted international recognition. Today every nation fosters the teaching of braille, she reported. Magazines and books are published in braille, typewriters are lettered with the system of raised dots, and the familiar stylus and slate used in writing braille are tools of algebra and higher mathematics. Mrs. Peterson exhibited a slate and stylus used by blind writers.

Mrs. James Bussing was hostess, and Mrs. Hugh Simpson co-hostess at the Wednesday meeting.

Camp Fire Council Sets Committees

The Camp Fire Council board of directors met Tuesday evening and heard a report of the January conference in Spokane, attended by the regional director, Mrs. August Mullich. A discussion on committee organization and local work as recommended by the regional field director, followed her report. Dr. M. N. Carlson, newly-elected president, appointed acting committees.

Mrs. C. H. Willison, former chairman of the Bluebird leaders, introduced Mrs. Harold Green, 1952 chairman, and reported to the extension committee on help needed for leadership of two Bluebird groups. Mrs. Robert Clark reported training recommendations of the Camp Fire guardians.

Mrs. William Wenner gave the report of the personnel committee, asking the group to vote on the appointment of a part-time worker and the establishment of an office at the Camp Fire Clubhouse.

Mrs. Floyd McRevey, camping chairman, recommended sending Mrs. J. H. Schenefeld and Mrs. Jack Peters as representatives to the Northwest Camping Conference at Victoria March 19.

The business meeting adjourned for discussion by the committees.

The Clallam County Peace Forum is sponsoring his talk here.

McCorkel is a graduate of the Yale Divinity School and took graduate study at Harvard. He taught college in India, and during his two years as director of CARE traveled in southeastern Europe, the Near East, Germany, Spain, France and the Scandinavian countries. His topic here is "Signs of Danger and Hope in the United States."

City Council, PTA, Proposes YMCA Rooms In Old Fire Hall For Juvenile Detention

A proposal for separate juvenile detention quarters in the present YMCA rooms at the old fire hall received the sanction of the City Parent Teacher Association Council at their meeting Wednesday night at the Roosevelt High School. The YMCA will move soon to the former General Hospital building at 3rd and Francis Streets.

Council members say they have for some time recognized the need for juvenile detention quarters here, separate from the city and county jails.

The group Wednesday authorized its juvenile protection committee to make plans immediately to push conversion of the YMCA rooms to juvenile detention quarters. Their plan would be for joint use of the space by city and county law enforcement offices.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. P. C. Larsen, the juvenile protection committee plans to place their proposal before the City Commission at an early date.

"For sometime our committee has worked to find separate quarters for juveniles who find themselves in difficulties," Mrs. Larsen explained.

"These boys and girls are not criminals, yet in our city and county, there is no place to house them except with hardened lawbreakers in a common jail room."

According to Mrs. Larsen and her committee, the old fire hall's upper floor can be quickly and inexpensively converted to detention quarters convenient to juvenile authorities.

Other members of the juvenile protection committee include Ralph Bowen, Stanley Taylor, James Gallagher, Harry Kochanek and Mrs. Gordon Bunnell. Judge Max Church also works with the committee in an advisory capacity.

COMPLETE PLANS

Final plans for the city-wide PTA Founders' Day meeting were also approved Wednesday night. Dr. Lovisa Wagoner, retired child psychologist from Mills College, California, will address the meeting. Her talk is entitled "Are Parents Necessary?"

The Founders Day meeting will be Feb. 20 in the Roosevelt auditorium. PTA members from all units are invited to attend, according to the program chairman, Mrs. Quentin Kintner.

Hospital Auxiliary Starts Memorial Fund

Mrs. Andrew Smith today announced establishment of an Olympic Memorial Hospital memorial fund, which she said grew out of several requests for such a fund.

Members of the hospital auxiliary ways and means committee met last week with Committee Chairman Mrs. N. C. Larkin to make final plans for the fund, which already contains $15 contributed in memory of a friend.

"Money in the fund will be kept entirely separate from other auxiliary funds," Mrs. Smith said. "When we have enough in the fund to do some worthwhile project at the hospital, the money will be used. The memorial list of names probably will soon grow too long for a plaque, in which case the usual practice is to keep the names in a book in the hospital lobby."

People desiring to contribute to the fund may call Mrs. Smith or the auxiliary treasurer, Mrs. Wesley Goodwin.

The committee also discussed the sundries bar, scheduled for completion March 1, and the library cart, now nearly completed.

Committee Named For Elks Award

Exalted Ruler Jack Hogan of Naval Lodge of Elks announces the appointment of a youth activity committee of the lodge of 1952.

Present efforts of the committee will be devoted to the organization of a school student leadership contest open to all high school seniors of the county.

Emphasis in 1952 is on leadership and citizenship, rather than scholarship and grades. Preparation of a notebook on their school and community experiences is one of the basic requirements for the contest, Hogan explains.

The committee consists of Chairman Kenneth McCourt, William Goss, Paul Neer and Robert E. Sullivan, Port Angeles; James Astel, Forks; Neil Franklin Clallam Bay and Neah Bay; Henry Lotzgesell and Douglas Lewis, Sequim.

The highest mountain peak in continental United States is Mt. Whitney with an altitude of 14,495 feet.

During 1952 a total of 10,350,000 proof gallons of Scotch whiskey will be exported overseas, according to the Scottish Whisky Association.

Russia Reshapes World Geographically

LONDON (AP)—Russia is reshaping the world geographically as well as politically, acccording to Radio Moscow.

A broadcast today said Soviet Scientist Alexander Izotov has proved that the earth is 2,550 feet thicker through the middle than western scientists have measured it.

The radio said he had also proved that the earth flattens out around the equator, giving it the shape of an ellipse rather than a circle.

Radio Moscow said that these findings would help Russia build better hydro-electric stations, reservoirs and canals. It did not say how.

Youngsters Eager To Learn Life's Ups and Downs

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— The good old days and the simple life are gone forever, it seems.

Look at the case of two schoolboys who decided Thursday no more school for them. Time to get out in the world and make a living.

Attendants at the Federal Building in downtown Philadelphia rescued them from an elevator stalled between floors after hours Thursday night.

Asked how come, they explained they saw no operator on duty and thought the elevator was self-operating. Pulled the wrong levers, they guessed, and that's how they got stuck.

But what were they doing in the Federal Building?

The older one, age 13, solemnly replied:

"Well, to get jobs we have to get our Social Security cards."

ELEPHANTS SNUB MONKEYS

NEW DELHI (AP)— Three Siamese elephants riding high over India served notice today they would not stand any monkey business.

Traveling by air to Britain, the trio snubbed all food while in the company of shrieking monkeys.

A radio message to British Overseas Airways officials here said the relieved elephants quickly started munching sugar cane.

During the three years he has been football coach, the Stackhouse teams have won 10 and lost 15.

New Furniture Easy To Live With

By ED KITCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Easy to live with furniture, whether it's traditional or modern, will create the new look in home decorating.

At the furniture market here, design was spelled with a capital "D." Modern styled casual furniture led the field in quantity of new pieces shown.

The blending of woods—such, as cherry with walnut—was evident. It was used as "trim" on dining room and bedroom furniture. The trend is away from the red finished woods. New finishes, for example, are cocoa brown, warm copper and ginger tones.

Foam rubber, black metal, glass, split bamboo and cane were used effectively. One manufacturer used twisted clear cellophane and wove it like cane to shape seat and back of chairs. Split bamboo now is readily simulated in plastic in a variety of colors.

Edward Wormley, noted designer and creator of decorator pieces, exhibited his new "surf board" coffee table. It was shown with the "Texan," a sand-colored "mile-long" sofa.

Wormley says he sees a trend toward interest in neutral colors. Colors like blue-green, turquoise and gun-metal are emerging from the spectrum as standout hues for home decorating. Orange tones for upholstery fabrics still are strong and popular. There will be a steady interest, too, in amber and gold colors.

LESS SHAGGY

Fabrics are less shaggy in the newer designs. There is less interest in texture in the higher styled lines, although rough textured fabrics are offered in the popular priced market.

Another Wormley design indicates the movement away from the old-fashioned sideboard to something more utilitarian. His serving cabinet is in natural finished walnut and has a specially surfaced top. Electrical outlets are built into the piece. Drawers for storage range in depth from 2½ to 5 inches.

A new telephone bench is fitted with a fold-away seat. A natural-finished hickory tea cart of French Provincial design has become utilitarian with addition of a specially surfaced covered bottom shelf.

Bertha Shaefer went all out to create a desk for home or office. Of walnut, it has a trough set at one end to serve as a catch-all. Richard Kelly created a companion hanging lamp for the desk. It is fitted with a 30-inch fiber glass shade.

A small-scaled sectional sofa by a Huntington, W. Va., manufacturer accomplishes its purpose: it looks big but fits into a small area.

A modern version of the "captain's" chair by Bertha Shaefer may set a trend in future occasional chairs. Its curved back rests on double-unit leg supports.

Charles Eames, creator of molded plywood and plastic chairs, combined wire and leather for his newest design. He selected wire because it is considered a "non-critical" material.

GOOD NEWS!

This car bears special significance for you if the car you are now driving is over two years old. The 1952 Mercury is the only really new car in its price field. Next year everybody will be attempting to copy it. Yet recent government restrictions on machine tools will render these attempts ineffectual. And in all probability, prices on all consumer goods will continue to rise just as they have been rising. Therefore, why not get this most forward-looking of new cars now while the price is right and while you can enjoy its exclusive, advanced engineering features years before the others catch up. If the car you are now driving is over two years old, you will be three whole model changes ahead instead of only one! Let us give you further particulars at our showroom.*

Probers Give SEC Chairman Good Rating

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Committee investigating the Securities and Exchange Commission reported today it has "no credible evidence reflecting adversely upon the honesty and integrity of" SEC Chairman Harry A. McDonald.

McDonald has been nominated as administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation but the Senate Banking Committee has refused to act on the appointment while the House inquiry is under way.

The House group, a subcommittee of the Interstate Committee, made its report on McDonald to Chairman Maybank, (D.-S.C.), of the Senate Committee.

Rep. Heller (D.-N.Y.), head of the House group, wrote Maybank that his committee concurred "unanimously" in the report.

Marine-Air News

The harbor area at the three Port of Port Angeles log dumps is being dredged by the Owens Brothers Engineering and Construction Co. A clam shell dredge, operated by a mobile crane, is doing the work. The crane is mounted on a large scow. The sunken logs are transferred to one scow and the debris, consisting of bark and limbs, to another. The debris is towed to deep water and dumped and the sunken logs taken to the mills of their owners. The logs are identified by brands. The job is an annual operation, as the sunken logs and debris hinder log dumping when it becomes thick on the harbor bottom. Hemlock logs often sink when they hit the water, and clutter up the bottom of the harbor.

A Navy ATA tug spent last night anchored in Port Angeles harbor. The craft came here from the open seas shortly before dark last night and left for the same area this morning.

Among three outbound vessels getting Puget Sound Pilot service off Ediz hook in the past 24 hours, was the transport Pvt. Martinez Thursday. Among the five inbound vessels in the same period was one Japanese freighter, bound for Seattle. The Japanese freighters are becoming numerous. Mostly they carry coal and grain from Puget Sound ports.

Motorist Goes Through 8th St. Bridge Railing

A Port Angeles motorist skidded on the Eighth St. bridge near Francis Thursday evening and went through the railing, but his car stayed on the bridge.

Police Capt. Forrest O. Reed said Wesley Chilson, 1225 Georgiana, told him he was driving east on the bridge when a car ahead of him stopped suddenly to turn. Chilson told the police officer his car skidded when he applied the brakes, went over the walk and broke down the railing.

The car was hanging over the bridge at a 45-degree angle when he arrived, Reed said. Reed called a wrecker, which pulled the car back to safety.

Reed said damage to the car, a big 1930 coupe, was confined to the headlights and front bumper, but he said damage to the bridge was "considerable."

Sen. Taft Defends His Labor Law

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio) stormed this Idaho labor center Thursday night and spelled out a defense of the oft-criticized Taft-Hartley labor law.

The Ohio Republican presidential aspirant also spoke of the government's part in aiding both the workman and the farmer.

The government, he told Idaho Republican leaders at a Lincoln Day banquet, should aid both classes. But, he added, only to the extent of assuring them equality in a free enterprise system.

"The base of the Taft-Hartley law is the assurance of collective bargaining . . ." he said.

Government "intervention" in the farm field is justified for the same reason as in labor, the senator said, adding that the Republican party had encouraged co-operatives so farmers could better deal with large markets and buyers, rather than with "an arbitrary market, or with buyers or large and extensive power."

Broken Hip Forces Woman To Lie In Snow For 2 Days

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—A 53-year-old woman told today how she lay outdoors in rain and snow for two days and two nights after breaking her hip.

From a bed in a Parkersburg hospital, Mrs. Mary Morehead, a woodcutter's wife, said she left her rural home in Central West Virginia Saturday morning for a five mile walk to the home of a sister, where she planned to spend the weekend.

En route, she opened a heavy metal fence gate. It fell on her and broke her hip. She lay there, clad in a heavy coat, until Monday morning.

"I kept trying to move, but I couldn't even crawl," Mrs. Morehead said. "I hollered for a long time, but nobody heard me."

"I begged the Lord to send someone after me. I thought a time or two that if they didn't find me Monday they'd find me dead."

An oil well worker, on his way to work Monday morning found her.

Her husband, Thomas, and her son at home assumed she had reached her sister's house safely. Her sister was not expecting her, so no one was sent to search for her.

Mrs. Morehead said it rained and snowed during the time she lay helpless in the field. And she said:

"I didn't get so hungry, but I wanted water."

Physicians said Mrs. Morehead is exepected to recover.

Williams Tells More About Brewery Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Williams, (R-Del.), said today he was informed that Joseph D. Nunan Jr., got waivers to represent eight other clients as well as the Indianapolis Brewing Co. in federal tax cases.

William commented in a statement on the denial by Nunan, former U. S. Commissioner of revenues now in private law practice, that he ever represented the brewing company.

The Senator said he hoped his statement "will refresh Mr. Nunan's recollection, but if he persists in his denials, I shall feel obliged to follow through and ask him to tell some congressional committee under oath what he does recall of it."

Williams, who was a big factor in setting off the continuing congressional investigations of tax scandals, told the Senate Thursday that the brewery settled for $4,500 an $636,000 claim for back taxes and later got a $35,000 tax rebate.

He said the settlements were made after Nunan had obtained a government waiver authorizing him to represent the brewing company.

Federal laws forbid a former employee of the bureau of Internal Revenue from practicing before it for two years after leaving government service. There are provisions, however, where this can be waived.

Wandering Scribe

Few people . . . of this community . . . realize that an event . . . marking an epoch . . . really community shaking . . . in its ramifications . . . occurred out near the fair grounds . . . last Saturday night . . . It was at that time . . . and place . . . the first frog of the spring . . . croaked in a pond near the Wesley Kidd home . . . And thereby hangs a tale . . . if a frog can have a tail . . . Scribe was down in the basement . . . last evening . . . chopping some very wet wood . . . placing it in a basket to carry up the steep back stairs. . . when a terrific thump . . . wafted downward . . . from the kitchen floor . . . a signal the telephone was calling for the Scribe . . . . Grabbed the basket of wood . . . tore up the back stairs . . . expecting at least that a ship had wrecked . . . or plane crashed . . . or auto smashed a bunch of folks . . . Went panting to telephone . . . and Wesley Kidd broke the world shaking news . . . about the frog croak . . . Was very glad to hear of it . . . because it confirms the theory . . . that spring has sprung . . . Because you can't fool a bull frog . . . Only unusual thing about this telephone call . . . was that Scribe was not in the bathroom . . . when it came . . . Had so many calls when engaged in shaving . . . quit using lather and safety razor . . . because lather was always drying on face . . . during telephone session . . . Now use an electric razor . . . When phone rings . . . throw the switch . . . talk dryfaced . . . Another reason for electric razor . . . is that it is gift from wife . . . who in turn won it.

Rugged Individualist Gets Rugged Time From British Crowd

LONDON (AP)—Britons in their homeland and around the world stood silent for two minutes today to honor their dead monarch, King George VI.

One rugged individualist who did not while walking along oLndon's Fleet Street, was nearly mobbed and had to be rescued by police.

As the guns on the Tower of London roared the signal, Londoners, whether on foot or in cars or buses, came to a halt,, bared their heads and stood in reverent tribute.

The footsteps of one young man clattered up Fleet Street. A middleaged mourner spoke to him but he walked on. As the two minutes ended, nearly 100 people started after him. One man grabbed him by the hair and dragged him almost to the ground, while others booed the sportscoated youth.

He retorted to their insults with:

"I have just as much sympathy for the Royal family as any of you, but I don't see why anyone should tell me what to do."

This elicited cries "take him down to the Thames," and "throw him under a bus."

He then turned and ran into a Fleet Street newspaper office. Police dispersed the crowd and hauled the young man off in a police car.

The two minutes of silence was at the Queen's special request.

PROBE SPUD COMPLAINTS
NEW YORK (AP)— The Office of Price Stabilization is making an investigation into widespread complaints that the Idaho potato is being sold in the black market here.

Arthur Neafsey, acting food chief of the regional OPS, said that he had sent investigators to the markets after learning that some dealers were selling the Idaho potato at 10 to 12 cents a potato instead of by weight.
