Lowland lakes trout season opens Sunday; area prospects good

Lowland lakes of the state open for trout fishing Sunday and close Oct. 31.

Three Clallam County streams, open to juveniles only Sunday morning and close Oct. 31. Children under 14 years of age may start fishing Sunday in Peabody and Valley Creeks in Port Angeles and Mill Creek in Forks.

The State Game Department, in anticipation of opening day, recently planted 26,000 rainbow trout of legal size, between 6 and 9 inches, in Lake Sutherland.

The planting was made last week at Maple Grove by a tank truck from the Shelton state trout hatchery.

Favorite lowland lake fishing spots near Port Angeles for opening day are Sutherland and Aldwell.

Reports say that due to the mild winter, trout have been jumping and feeding in the lakes. Silver trout have been observed schooling in Lake Sutherland.

Resort owners on Lake Sutherland announce no boats, except fishing craft, will be launched at their places on opening day.

Licenses are required to fish in lake waters.

The daily catch limit is 15 trout 6 inches or more in length. The total catch may not exceed 7½ pounds and one fish.

Juveniles under 16 years of age need not have a license to fish for trout.

Lowland lakes in Olympic National Park, including Crescent and Mills in the Port Angeles area, do not open to trout fishing until May 15.

Lake Pleasant is closed. Lake Ozette is open all year around.

Other than Sutherland and Aldwell, near Port Angeles, good opening day fishing lakes are Beaver and Ozette in the west end of Clallam County.

Clallam County lakes listed as opening Sunday are Sutherland, Aldwell, Beaver, Dickey, Elk, Mud, Smith, Hobuck, Undi, Wentworth and Blake's Pond.

Game Protector for the Port Angeles district is J. H. Laney who predicts early fishing in lowland lakes will be good.

Fish will be fat, fighty, big and plentiful for the Sunday opening of Washington's angling season an Associated Press story says.

Even the State Game Department's habitually pessimistic biologists say 1958 will be a year for fishermen to remember.

And the same biologists, expecting temptation to be great, warn that the bag limit on trout is 15 fish or 7½ pounds plus a fish. Several lakes, they say, will produce the pound limit 'well short of 15 fish."

Which lakes? We-ell, the biologists don't say.

But 14-pound rainbow trout have been taken in the Balancing Reservoir near Coulee City and a 15-pound bass came out of Big Goose Lake in Okanogan County —both waters which are open the year around.

While most fishing will be for trout, a good many anglers will try for the spiny rays. These, with a few exceptions, are covered by no bag limit. There are 50,000 acres of spiny ray waters in the Columbia Basin area alone.

Always a good bet are the rehabilitated lakes, loaded with fearless trout which don't know a hook from a hoe handle. Twenty-two such lakes will be opening this season, ranging in size from 319-acre Williams Lake in Spokane County to 7-acre Rainbow in Grant County. One of these, 10-acre Connor Lake in Snohomish County, is limited to

JUVENILE FISHING

From all over the state the Game Department's district supervisors have echoed the report: The lakes are loaded.

It takes a lot of fish to go around. About 400,000 fishermen will dip leaders Sunday, three-fourths of them license holders and the rest juveniles—out to teach pop and mom the secrets of fishing.

City comfort stations again discussed

The recurring problem of providing comfort stations for tourists was again brought up at the City Council meeting Thursday night by Councilman Dalton W. Thorne.

Thorne said that with the tourist season only about six weeks away he felt something should be done. He suggested that a restroom at the Salmon Club on Ediz Hook and one at the Tourist Information Center were of prime importance and should be started now.

Mayor W. Ivor Smith said there has been some service club discussion of construction of a restroom on Ediz Hook but that extension of the Coast Guard runway affected plans for the project.

Council members recalled the problem had previously been referred to the Planning Commission, and again said that maintenance is a problem. The Council will further study the problem before the next meeting.

ALLEY REPAIR

Leslie Everett, 814 E. 2nd St. asked the council for action in repairing the alley between Francis and Race Sts., near Erickson Playfield. Everett said hot-rodders are using the alley, throwing up a heavy cloud of dust. He asked the Council if blacktopping and a drainage ditch could be provided. Smith promised an immediate check into the situation.

The Council voted to hire an intern in political science for the summer months after some discussion Councilman Margaret Matthieu said she felt the city was benefitted by the extra help as well as the college student who gains experience.

DOUBTS WISDOM

Thorne said he doubted the wisdom of the city spending a thousand dollars to hire the intern with the economy in a decline. Councilman James Maxfield asked if any specific program had been laid out if the intern is hired. The council voted to hire the intern, with Thorne opposed.

Action on a new contract with the Clallam County Physicians Service was deferred until city employes can discuss it. The new proposal offers increased coverage on room and board for hospital patients, but fees also are advanced.

Crown Z reports lower income

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Crown Zellerbach Crop. reports lower net income for the first three months of 1958, compared with the same period last year, due partly to a strike in British Columbia's pulp and paper industry.

Net income for the first quarter this year was $7,300,000, compared with $9,459,000 last year.

Earnings per share for the first quarter were 51 cents, as against 66 cents for the first three months of 1957.

First quarter sales this year were $108,500,000, compared with $110,723,000 the first quarter in 1957.

Production of paper and paperboard was 372,000 tons, against 438,000 tons, a drop of 15 per cent.

President A. B. Layton, also said in a report Thursday that incoming orders dropped in December to the lowest level of the year.

Zoning ordinance adopted today

The Board of Clallam County Commissioners adopted an enabling act this morning that paves the way for zoning in any area of the county where residents request it

The commissioners took official action on the controversial zoning problem at 11 a.m. and adopted Clallam County Zoning Ordinance No. 1, as amended.

Their vote was split 2-1, with Thomas Mansfield, commissioner from the west end, voting against it.

HARD WORDS—Secy. of State John Foster Dulles has charged that Russia is endangering world peace, by prostituting diplomacy for propaganda purposes. Dulles, in an angry outburst at a news conference in Washington, D. C., used the words "prostitution" and "debauchery" in describing Soviet use of diplomacy. Government loosens curbs on interest rates, reserves again

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has loosened another notch in its curbs on the nation's money supply.

Twin antirecession actions yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board came as House Democrats pushed forward a billion-dollar emergency program of help for the jobless. The Democratic program goes far beyond a 600 million-dollar plan President Eisenhower has proposed in this field.

Meanwhile, rival party leaders in the Senate argued over whether the Eisenhower administration is being vigorous enough in fighting the economic slump. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson D-Tex bemoaned what he said is "a policy of letting things ride." But Sen. Knowland R-Calif said Eisenhower has taken effective steps while cooperating with Congress in other antirecession moves.

DISCOUNT RATE

For the fourth time in five months, the Federal Reserve Board reduced its discount rate - the interest charged member banks borrowing from reserve banks. The action, cutting the rate from 2¼ per cent to 1¾ per cent, is effective today in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Minneapolis. The seven other Federal Reserve districts are expected to follow suit in time.

In another move aimed at making more money available for lending, the board reduced the amount of reserves which certain banks must maintain against demand deposits.

Effective yesterday, the reserve requirement at central reserve city banks in New York and Chicago was dropped from 19 per cent to 18½ per cent. Next Thursday, it will go down another half of 1 per cent.

Also next Thursday, the reserve requirement will be trimmed from 17 per cent to 16½ per cent in reserve city banks, located in most other large cities. Country reserve banks were not affected.

GOLD MOVED

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve Board said about 600 million dollars in gold has moved out of the country in recent months, mainly because the situation in Europe has been relatively calmer than in the past. This has tightened the domestic money supply and the board spokesman said the bank reserve reduction was intended as a counter measure

There were these other developments bearing on the economi situation:

1. Government experts anticipated that new figures due out next week will show that the cost of living hit another record high in March, due to advancing food prices.

2. Following up Eisenhower's signing of a highway speedup bill, the Commerce Department made available to the states an extra 600 million dollars for such work. The new outlays are over and above $2,875,000,000 previously apportioned for the fiscal year starting July 1.

State's share of road funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The states of Washington and Oregon will get more than 8½ million dollars, and Idaho more than six million in new federal highway aid money.

In allotments announced Thursday, the three Pacific Northwest states were accorded upwards of 24 million for four types of road construction.

Washington gets $3,024,553 for primary roads, $2,019,980 for feeder roads, $1,517,702 for urban road and $2,231,412 for interstate roads. Total $9,973,647.

The Oregon allotment, broken down in the same order: $2,994,992; $2,097,386; $806,538; $2,694,946. Total $8,593,862.

Idaho: $2,195,857; $1,546,771; $193,581; $2,034,830. Total $5,971,119.

In addition, Alaska will get a total of $6,178,599.

State considering excise tax on pleasure boats, motors

By LEROY HITTLE

OLYMPIA (AP) — A state excise tax on pleasure boats and outboard motors was under consideration Friday by the Legislative Council's subcommittee on revenue and taxation.

Subcommittee Chairman John N. Ryder said the levy would be in lieu of the personal property tax now placed against marine equipment.

'County assessors are not collecting the personal property tax on a number of pleasure boats," Ryder said.

"Under the proposed legislation, boats would be licensed and pay an excise tax just like automobiles."

Thousands of boating fans on the vast Washington waterways would be affected by the excise tax.

OVER 15 FEET

It would be applicable to all pleasure boats 15 feet or more in length. The tax would vary depending on the length of the boat and the horsepower of its motor.

It would be levied against outboard motor owners too, even though they do not own a boat.

Commercial vessels would not be affected.

A staff employe of the Legislative Council said a preliminary check indicated the tax would hit some 40,000 pleasure boats in the Seattle Coast Guard area alone. The figure does not include the thousands of outboard motor owners who would be affected.

The boat registration and tax proposal was being considered by the state legislators in connection with a bill pending before Congress to put back at the state level all regulation of pleasure boats now handled by the Coast Guard.

PART TO COUNTIES

Ryder said counties would receive a part of the excise tax collected by the state to enforce a boat safety program within their respective jurisdictions.

The Seattle senator acknowledged that there were likely to be a lot of squawks from boat owners and outboard motor enthusiasts, but he said they were in an indefensible position.

"Why shouldn't they pay an excise tax if they are relieved of the personal property tax?" Ryder asked. 'There isn't any reason why a fellow who is solvent enough to own and operate a boat shouldn't pay a tax."

The initial draft of the proposed law calls for a minimum excise tax of $3 on boats between 15 and 20 feet, an additional $1 for each of the next 10 feet in length; $2 for each of the next 10 feet, and $3 for each foot thereafter.

The tax on motors, including those permanently installed in the boats and outboards, has not yet been worked out, but Ryder said it probably would be based on horsepower.

Montana man calls for food subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Metcalf (D-Mont) called Friday for a federal food subsidy for the poor people of the nation.

Speaking for the entire Montana delegation in Congress, he urged a House Agriculture subcommittee to approve his bill to set up a national food allotment plan.

Under the plan, low income families would pay less for food coupons than would those with more money. In effect, Metcalf told the subcommittee, the government would subsidize low income groups.

"It would be a federal subsidy just like a rapid tax writeoff or a subsidy to an airline or to the publisher of a big newspaper or a magazine—except that this subsidy would go to low income people instead of high income groups," Metcalf said.

The Montanan said the agriculture surplus problem "is not one of overproduction but one of underconsumption.

Billion dollar relief plan approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee approved a billion dollar unemployment relief program Friday. One Republican denounced it as exceeding "the wildest dreams of the New Deal."

Backed by the Democratic committee majority, the plan calls for federal financing of 16 weeks or ments for workers who exhaust their benefits under the existing program. The new program would remain effective until July 1, 1959.

It also would provide for an entirely new federal program of unemployment relief for some 1,800,000 workers not now covered by the unemployment insurance program. They would receive 16 weeks unemployment benefits, subject to existing state qualifications applying to covered workers.

This group would include domestic workers, agricultural laborers, state and local employes and employes of small firms now exempt from the federal-state unemployment insurance program.

The total cost was estimated at between a billion and a billion and a half dollars, which would be borne by the federal treasury.

ABSOLUTE DOLE

Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis), a member, said the committee proposal "embarks this country on an absolute dole."

A caucus of the 15 committee Democrats agreed Thursday to push the plan to a House vote next week.

The Democratic-approved program represented a compromise of proposals put forth by President Eisenhower and those sponsored by Chairman Mills (D-Ark) of the Ways and Means Committee

In its tentative form, it calls for:

1. Sixteen weeks of added benefits for insured workers who have exhausted compensation rights under state programs.

2. The same number of weeks of benefits for noncovered workers who are not eligible for state benefits.

3. Payments to be financed by the federal government in conformity with the existing level of benefits now provided under state programs, with no change in state standards.

VARIANCE

Unemployment benefits vary from state to state in amount and duration of payments. Workers coming under the program are paid from an insurance trust fund created from employer payroll taxes. Among noncovered workers for example, would be employes of tax-exempt concerns with fewer than four on their payrolls. Domestic and farm workers also are not now eligible.

The democratci plan rejected President Eisenhower's proposal for eventual state repayment of federal benefits. It also turned down his request to limit additional coverage to 50 per cent of the number of weeks provided under the various state plans. This would limit the extension to a maximum of 13 weeks in most large industrial states.

The Democrats dropped their original proposal to fix the amount of payments at a minimum of 50 per cent of the individual's average wage. Instead, amounts would remain in conformity with present state standards.

JUDGE ELECTED

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — The International Court of Justice has elected Judge Helge Klaestrad of Norway its president for the next three years, the court's registry announced Friday. Klaestrad succeeds Judge Green H. Hackworth, the U. S. member, who had been president since 1955. Hackworth is a native of Prestonburg, Ky.

REMEMBER POUND? — A motion to release controversial poet Ezra Pound, 72, from a mental hospital may be heard in Washington, soon. Pound is shown in 1945 as he was returned from Italy to be indicted for making propaganda broadcasts during World War II.

Treason charge against Pound dismissed today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The treason indictment against Poet Ezra Pound, 72, was dismissed Friday opening the way for his early release from a mental institution.

The bearded Pound has been confined to St. Elizabeths Hospital since 1946.

The treason charge was based on pro-Axis, anti-American broadcasts made by Pound from Italy during World War II.

The indictment was dismissed by Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws in U.S. district court when the government, in effect, joined in a motion asking this action.

Pound sat among spectaotrs during the brief court proceeding. Mrs. Pound, a gray-haired woman who has been a frequent visitor at the hospital in the years her husband has been confined there, sat at the counsel table.

Pound wore a threadbare blue striped coat, unmatching blue slacks and a light sport shirt open at the throat with the tails sticking out from his trousers.

He was brought into court by a hospital attendant.

Both Pound and his wife declined to talk with reporters. But Thurmond Arnold, an attorney who spoke for Pound, said Mrs. Pound plans to take her husband to Italy. Pound had lived in Italy 21 years before he was seized by American troops in 1945.

French minister asks for U. S. explanation

PARIS (AP) — Foreign Minister Christian Pineau called U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton to his office Friday to ask for an explanation of press reports that the United States would like to see French negotiations with the Algerian nationalists.

The French afternoon newspapers gave prominent positions to the stories distributed Thursday night that Washington now tends to favor negotiations to end the fighting now in its fourth year. The morning newspapers had almost ignored the stories.

One suggestion was that talks be held with an Algerian committee of liberation which might be set at the conference between the dominant parties of Tunisia and Morocco and Algerian nationalist representatives opening in Tangier, April 27.

Gromyko charges U. S. sending H-bomb planes near Soviet Union

By ANGELO NATALE

MOSCOW, (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko accused the United States Friday of sending planes armed with atomic and hydrogen bombs across the polar region toward the Soviet Union. He announced a protest against these 'provocative flights" was being sent to the U.N. Security Council.

Gromyko told a news conference summoned suddenly at the outset of groundwork talks on the possibility of a summit meeting that such flights were "unheard of in times of peace" and the Kremlin demands their immediate cessation. He said they carry the danger of worldwide atomic war.

If the United States is trying to intimidate the Soviet Union with these flights, he said, it is wasting its time.

"The Soviet Union has sufficiently strong nerves and its armed forces can if necessary deliver a crushing retaliatory blow to any aggressor," he said.

The foreign minister said he would like to believe the U. S. Air Force took action without the sanction of the U.S. government or President Eisenhower personally. But there has been no statement to the contrary, he added.

PROFOUND INDIGNATION

Gromyko expressed the "profound indignation" of the Soviet government that such flights were being launched at a time when the Big Four powers were finally entering diplomatic talks aimed at convening a summit conference.

"The situation in the world today is such that an atomic war can befall the people as a result of the smallest error of an American technician, lack of attention, miscalculation or misconclusion of an American officer," he said.

The diplomatic talks have not yet reached the stage of actual negotiations, U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson told correspondents. He said preliminary talks Thursday night and Friday "do not constitute the starting of negotiations as envisaged in our note," but he declined to elaborate. No further meetings between Gromyko and the Western Big Three ambassadors appear to have been scheduled thus far.

REDS STAND FIRM

The Soviet Union, Gromyko told his news conference, stands pat on its position that diplomatic talks must be limited to setting only time, place and composition of a foreign ministers conference which, itself, would be preliminary to a summit conference.

Gromyko said he did not bring up the Kremlin protest against the alleged American flights in his talks with the Western ambassadors.

Dejean said earlier the talks with Gromyko were "preliminary in nature."

Gromyko said the Soviet government felt talks on a diplomatic level could drag on for months or even years and the Soviet government is interested in a summit meeting as early as possible.

"That is why we are meeting — to narrow our differences," the foreign minister said.

Gromyko declared one slip by a U.S. technician manning the radar screens of the American Early Warning System could precipitate a global atomic war.

The U. S. Air Force command, Gromyko said, has confirmed that American bombers carrying atomic and hydrogen bombs are repeatedly sent across the North Pole toward the Soviet Union.

WHEN BLIP APPEARS

This happens, he said, every time a blip appears on U. S. radar screens.

American radar screen operators have mistaken electronic disturbances or meteorite showers for guided missiles or ballistic rockets, he said.

In every instance so far the bombers were turned back as soon as the error was discovered, he said.

"But what would happen if these generals—whose nerves, as the facts show, often give way—were not able to distinguish in time a flying meteorite from a guided missile and the American bombers continued their flights and approached the borders of the Soviet Union?"

The Soviet Union, Gromyko said, would be forced to take "immediate steps to remove the approaching danger."

Gromyko charged the United States picked the present delicate moment in international negotiations to launch the flights in an attempt to obstruct the convening of a summit conference.

Defense chief says charges 'not true'

WASHINGTON (AP) —The White House put a 'not true" brand Friday on a Soviet charge the United States sent planes armed with atomic and H-bombs across the polar area toward Russia.

The charge was made by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a Moscow news conference.

Gromyko said the Kremlin was sending a protest to the United Nations Security Council against what he called provocative flights.

"Mr. Gromyko's statements are not true," White House press secretary James G. Hagerty said in reply to newsmen's inquiries.

Hagerty added that a more complete statement would be made by the State Department later.

President Eisenhower, informed of the Gromyko charge, discussed the matter with Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles and Under Secretary of State Christian Herter.

Herter and Quarles stayed on at the White House for the discussion after attending a Cabinet meeting which dealt with other matters.

They were sitting in for Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense McElroy, both of whom are away from Washington.

In response to questions, Hagerty said his characterization of the Gromyko charges as "not true" applies to all of the foreign Minister's remarks contending U.S. planes armed with atomic and hydrogen bombs were sent across the polar region toward Russia.

There was some speculation in diplomatic quarters that one purpose of Gromyko's charges was to try to put the United States on the defensive at the start of summit conference negotiations with the West.

Scientists working to build protein block; basis of life

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — From simple chemicals which presumably existed on the dead earth millions of years ago scientists have produced substances they believe to be identical with those which formed the first living things.

These materials include an assortment of amino acids, the constituents of protein, and finally combinations of these acids into protein-like materials. Protein is the basic substance of living matter.

The steps they followed in the test tube experiments were something like those taken by other scientists in attempting to synthesize protein, one of the great goals of biological science.

FORMATION OF LIFE

However, their object was not to make protein for its own sake but to demonstrate how the first building blocks of life could have been formed.

These scientists presented the results of their work in paper before the American Chemical Society yesterday.

Dr. Stanley L. Miller of Columbia University showed how he produced amino acids from methane, a common natural gas, water, hydrogen and ammonia, with the aid of an electrical discharge.

Miller followed the conclusions of other scientists that the young, lifeless earth had these substances in its air and ocean water, and that their coming together could have been the result of lightning flashes during storms.

He demonstrated also his idea of how more complicated materials such as the basic materials for self-reproduction of the first primitive cells may have been produced under similar conditions.

MILD HEAT

A slightly different procedure was postulated by Dr. Philip Abelson of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. He expressed belief that the original raw chemicals, hydrogen, water and carbon dioxide, came from the gas of erupting volcanoes, and that mild volcanic heat put them together in combinations similar to those of Dr. Miller.

The protein-like substances made from these primitive building blocks were produced by Dr Sidney W. Fox of Florida State University through the use of heat.

Whether this primitive substance has biological activity - that is, the ability to accumulate other simple substances and use them to build itself into something alive or nearly alive-Dr. Fox declined to say.

However, he indicated he believes the material has some talent for acting upon or with other materials.

Kenneth Klint to preach Sunday

Kenneth Klint, leader of a gospel team from Whitworth College, will give the Sunday morning sermon at the Presbyterian Church.

Kenneth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Klint, former residents of Sequim now living in Anacortes. He graduated from Sequim High School and is finishing his junior year at Whitworth.

Others on the gospel team are Clifford Whitlow, song leader, Elizabeth Varhaug, soloist, and Marie Hooper, pianist. The young people are expected Saturday evening. The boys will be house-guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Davis. The girls will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Sherman.

The team will also conduct the 9:30 a. m. service in Gardiner on Sunday.

When Prince Carl Bernadotte, now 46 years old, lost his title of Prince of Sweden by marrying the daughter of a commoner, he wasn't out of the royal brackets for long. He was then given the personal title of prince by his brother-in-law, the former King Leopold of Belgium

Presbyterian women to meet

The Presbyterian Women's Society met at the church Tuesday afternoon. Dessert luncheon was served by Mrs. Michael Balleau and Mrs. M. K. Snyder. Mrs. Edd Crawford, in charge of the program, presented a skit, "This Is Your Life, Mrs. Churchwoman."

Mrs. J. J. Sherman portrayed the part of Mrs. Churchwoman. Mrs. Russell Adams was the narrator. Others assisting were Mmes. R. A. Herrell, C. B. J. Peterson, Arthur Boyd and daughter Janice, Michael Balleau, Harold Herrett; the Rev. Edd Crawford, and Dr. J. J. Sherman.

Mrs. William Lawrence closed the program with devotions.

Mrs. Carl Howard and Mrs. Roy Dowell reported during the business meeting that 40 pounds of clothing had been sent to Moses Lake to be used in the work for migrants. Six cartons of clothing had been sent to Neah Bay for use in the Indian Mission. Fourteen boxes of used Christmas cards were sent to Florence Logan in Formosa. These are used as rewards for the children learning Bible verses.

Mrs. Herrell reported she had made 25 calls during the past month on members and friends of the church.

A letter was read from Nancy Neinhuis, a former Sequim teacher, who is now in Iraq teaching in a school for children of missionaries. She told of an Easter sunrise service which was a new experience for the natives.

The next meeting will be May 27 instead of May 20. The Rev. Ralph G. Turnbull of Seattle will be conducting special services that week.

Community service to close festival

Sequim's 63rd Annual Irrigation Festival will close on May 18, Festival Sunday, with a community service at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The service is sponsored by the Sequim Ministerial Association, and pastors of all Sequim churches have been asked to participate, and all choirs to take part, according to the Rev. Edd W. Crawford.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph G. Turnbull, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle will be guest speaker at the afternoon service.

Sequim Personals

Mrs. George Spath returned home Thursday after a two day visit in Seattle with her sister-in-law, Mrs. O. R. Elwell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bryce returned Monday from Chapala, Mexico where they spent the winter.

ENGAGED — The engagement of Miss Barbara Jean Fox, daughter of Mrs. Carl Lueckeman and Robert Fox of Aberdeen, is announced to Kenneth Huether, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Huether of Sequim. Miss Fox graduated from Central Washington College of Education last year and is teaching in Jefferson School in Port Angeles. Huether graduated from Sequim High School and operates a dairy farm near Sequim. The wedding is planned for June 15 at the Presbyterian Church of Aberdeen.

Patricia Clay feted at bridal shower

Mrs. Nick Kovach of Agnew entertained Monday night at a miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Patricia Clay. Mrs. Axel Petroff and Mrs. Aaron Gebhardt assisted the hostess.

Guests played games during the evening and watched the bride-to-be open her gifts. Prizes were won by Mrs. Aaron Gebhardt, Miss Mariana Wade and Mrs. Louise Leamons.

The refreshment table was centered with a decorated cake in the shape of a Maltese cross. The cake was baked and decorated by the hostess.

Guests from Port Angeles and Agnew were, in addition to the prize winners, Mmes. James Waddell, Gunnar Carlson, Arthur Rand, Frank Harris, Thomas Norris, Donald Sorenson, Chester Babcock, Ollie McNeece, Newton Kell, Elmer Galloway, Henry Simonson, Laura Barr, Axel Petroff, and Wilson Wade.

Also from Port Angeles were Misses Alice Rand, Jayette Babcock, Donna Petroff, Mary Galloway and Anna Simonson.

Guests from Sequim included the guest of honor; Mmes. Kenneth Clay, Ward Ball, Larry McCauley, Obert McNeece, Albert Sampair, Milton Lynch; and Misses Katherine and Louise Clay; Darlene McCauley and Sharon Sampair.

Gifts were sent by others who were unable to attend.

Vesta Yoakum on EP PEO program

Chapter EP PEO met Monday night at the home of Mrs. E. C. Bigelow. Mrs. Ray Parker, president, presided over the business meeting and stated it would be impossible for her to attend the state convention in Yakima in June. Mrs. D. C. Showman, alternate, was named the delegate and Mrs. Harrison Tout was elected alternate.

The president thanked Mrs. Irene Cline in behalf of the chapter for her gift of an altar cloth.

Miss Frances Laurenson and Mrs. Fred Beale had charge of the program. Miss Laurenson reviewed parts of the constitution and by-laws of the sisterhood.

Mrs. Beale's topic was "Appreciation of Poetry." She introduced as guest speaker Mrs. Vesta Yoakum who gave a number of her original poems.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the meeting adjourned to meet March 28 with Mrs. H. J. Witte.

School Notes

Junior Prom
The Sequim Class of '59 is presenting the annual Junior Prom, "Dreamboat Adrift," in the old gym on April 26.

Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. There will be entertainment and refreshments.

Co-chairmen Hazel Messenger and Jeff Shold and committee chairmen are working to make this year's Junior Prom one of the most successful dances ever held in the high school, they say.

Follies
The High School Follies co-chairmen will be selected at a student council meeting today. The Follies, formerly scheduled for April 18, will be presented May 16 in conjunction with the Irrigation Festival.

Honor Society Visits UW
The High School Honor Society visited Open House at the Engineering Dept. of the University April 11. The students saw a 25 foot model of the Hood Canal floating bridge, heard hi-fi music set up by the invisible power of electricity, and ate hot dogs cooked by radio frequency.

A closed circuit television on the campus showed students how they looked as they went in and out of the buildings.

Visit Dairy
Mrs. Ruth Beverage's sixth grade students, who are studying a dairy unit, visited the John Knapmans Wednesday to see a pipeline milker. On Monday, W. B. Cooper, Seattle milk sanitarian, talked to the class on milk inspection.

Band on TV
Sequim residents who viewed the Puyallup valley daffodil parade on television Saturday saw the Sequim High School Band, song queens, and cheer leaders. The unit was given honorable mention and announced as the only high school band present from the Olympic Peninsula.

School Lunch Menus
April 21 through April 25
Monday
Italian Spaghetti, buttered green beans, carrot stix, buttered french bread, choise of canned fruit, milk.
Tuesday
Hot Dog, mustard, potato salad, buttered corn, cherry cottage pudding, milk.
Wednesday
Chili, carrot-raisin cole slaw, whole wheat muffin, apple sauce, peanut butter cookie, milk.
Thursday
Browned pork on golden noodles, buttered spinach or sauerkraut, pear or peach cheese salad, cinnamon rolls, milk.
Friday
Oven broiled fish fillets, tartar sauce, hash brown potatoes, harvard beets, peanut butter sandwich, fruit cobbler, milk.

Scottish historian Dr. Annie Dunlop says: "If Scotland can learn to live with England—and it has—there's no reason why the rest of the world can't get along too."

Otto Sporseen dies; rites set

Otto Sporseen, 90, Sequim, died Wednesday after an extended illness.

Funeral services will be held at Sequim Trinity Methodist Church Saturday at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Carl E. Fischer officiating. Burial will be in Sequim View Cemetery under the direction of the Harper Funeral Home.

Pallbearers are Harvey Klinger, John Kirner, William Laurenson, Iris Marshall, William T. Alton, Gary Edwards.

Mr. Sporseen was born in Sweden June 6, 1867. Mr. and Mrs. Sporseen came to the United States in 1898. They settled on a farm near Sequim in 1907. Mrs. Sporseen died at Sequim in 1917.

He was a member of the Sequim Masonic Lodge and Holy Trinity Lutheran Church.

Surviving relatives include two daughters, Mrs. N. E. Dobbins, Bellevue, Wash., and Mrs. Dagny Cisney, Manchester, Wash.; two sons, Stanley Sporseen, Portland, Ore., Solomon Sporseen, Raymond, Wash.; and seven grandchildren.

Rhododendron confers degrees

The Rhododendron Grange met at the Gardiner school April 11. The first and second degree were conferred on the following new members: Jack Blank, Shirley O'Dell, Robert Warman, Jewel Warman, Mary Jane Warman and Wright D. Doane. The Quimper Grange degree team exemplified the first degree and the Rhododendron team the second.

The home economics chairman announced the sewing contest for the State and National Grange would close on April 30 and would be judged on May 9. All entries must be entered by 10 a. m. that morning, she said.

Mrs. Ina Major was chairman of the refreshment committee for the evening. She served in place of Mrs. Mae McGregor, Grange chaplain, who was ill.

On April 5 at the Quimper Grange in Port Townsend, the first and second degrees were given to the following new members of Rhododendron Grange: Marvin Cassalery, Richard Bekkevar, Helen Northup, Joan Murry and Grace Echternkamp.

Grange members at the April 11 meeting voted to donate the coin collection taken that night to the State Home Economics Scholarship Fund and the Care Fund.

Mrs. Isabel Marion feted on birthday

Mrs. Isabel Marion celebrated her 89th birthday on April 12 with a birthday cake and open house. Friends and relatives who called to offer their good wishes were: The Rev. and Mrs. W. G. R. Dann; Mmes. Carol Munns, Fred Damman, Arthur Becker, Carolyn Roberts, Delores Googlman, Maude Ross, Ina Hilliard and Mildred Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Teterud, Myron Teterud, and Donald Van Hoozer.

PLANS JUNE WEDDING—Miss Patricia Clay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clay, has set the date of her wedding to Frederick Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Babcock of Port Angeles, for June 20th at the Port Angeles Church of Christ.

VISAS GRANTED
MOSCOW (AP) — The U.S. Embassy granted visas Friday to five Soviet war veterans who will go to Washington for a reunion with Americans who met the Russians at Germany's Elbe River in 1945. The reunion marking the historic World War II linking of forces will begin next Tuesday and continue through Sunday.

FIELD MOUSE OUTBREAK

The biggest field mouse outbreak on record is continuing to plague Washington farmers and ranchers.

David Brannon, WSC Extension entomologist, said that reports from WSC's county Extension agents and from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologists indicate the pests are seriously damaging grain crops, alfalfa and clover stands, and pastures.

Reports of field mouse infestation have been received from Benton, Clark, Columbia, Cowlitz, Garfield, Grant, Kittitas, Lincoln, Lewis, Okanogan, Spokane, San Juan, Walla Walla and Whitman counties.

The field mouse buildup began last summer but was unnoticed until late fall. Control of these mice is normally required only in orchard districts to prevent tree-girdling damage, Brannon said.

Recent surveys in Kittitas county recorded populations of nearly 1,000 mice and more than 5,000 burrow openings per acre in alfalfa and pasture lands. Serious root damage occurred following dormancy of surface vegetation on which these mice normally feed.

Brannon cautions that unless the mice are controlled, they can reduce grain yields. And the infestation could get serious enough to menace other growing vegetation.

CONTROL MEASURES

The WSC Extension entomologist recommends the following control measures:

Use grain baits treated with either strychnine or zinc phosphide. From 3 to 5 kernels of either bait are required to kill one mouse. Teaspoonful quantities of the bait should be distributed in trails, burrow openings, under litter piles, etc. Burrows and runs in dense cover should be exposed by kicking away such cover and replacing after baiting.

Both zinc phosphide and strychnine poisoned grain baits prepared by the Fish and Wildlife Service can be obtained from local distributors. The strychnine bait, only should be used in game bird areas. That's because pheasant, quail, grouse and chickens possess a high immunity to strychnine. Zinc phosphide, on the other hand, is toxic to all warm-blooded animals.

Brannon warns that both baits are poisonous and should be handled with care.

The strychnine bait, Brannon said, is made by a formula too complicated for home mixing. Growers who so desire, however, can prepare their own zinc phosphide bait. The formula: Thoroughly mix one pound of zinc phosphide and one quart of salad oil with 100 pounds of wheat.

Brannon stresses the importance of spot baiting in runways and nest openings. He said broadcast baiting by tractor-drawn fertilizer spreaders, drills, or by aircraft has not given adequate control.

CLAM FARMING

A plan of clam farming in Washington state waters is to get a new start under Governor Albert D. Rosellini's fisheries program, Director of Fisheries Milo Moore announces.

"We started a clam farm program back in 1948 which, due to lack of interest, was not followed up. Since that time I have studied Japanese clam farming operations in several areas of Japan where the annual hardshell clam production exceeds 300 million pounds, produced largely through simple methods of farming tidal areas." Moore stated.

"We can easily apply the same methods and principles here to step up our present annual take of 1½ million pounds of hardshell clams ten to twenty times," Moore explained. "The Department is planning to set up several clam farms in various sections of the state as experimental test plots. Some areas will be for growing seed to be later transplanted, and other areas will be for farming clams."

NEW TYPE CLAMS

In addition to assisting the growth of native clams, the fisheries department has new types of seed clams en route from Japan and hopes soon to receive a shipment of Eastern cherry stone clams from the State of Maine. These new types of clams grow in sandy, muddy soil similar to the many thousand barren acres of tidelands we have in Puget Sound, Grays and Willapa Harbors. The meats of these new clams are considered equal to our native hardshell clams.

The Bowman's Bay salt water station is being readied to receive the clams upon arrival from Japan to observe their acclimati ation to our waters — later they will be transferred to test plots.

"Clams and oysters if properly developed could become one of this state's greatest recreational attractions — along with salmon — as well as an important industry. We have 200 to 300 thousand acres of tide lands and miles of beaches that might be brought into production. At one time (back in 1900) approximately 500 persons were employed harvesting oysters in the lower Puget Sound alone. It is possible that Washington's shellfish industry would grow by leaps and bounds once it is started.

"A great aid to restoring our beaches with clams will be through the development of seed-catching areas and also through the distribution of clam seed to areas ideal for growing clams but lacking conditions suitable for seed reproduction.

"We intend to lay out a plan for presentation to the next Legislature requesting funds to develop clam farming," Moore said.

THEIR BRIDGE—OUR CONCERN

(Editorial from Walla Walla Union Bulletin March 31, 1958)

While scores of Washington communities lying east of Puget Sound are finding highway access to the state's metropolis increasingly impaired because the floating bridge over Lake Washington is frequently overloaded, a persistent small group in Seattle will not desist in efforts to get authoriztaion and funds for a purely local span estimated, at current costs, to require close to $26 millions.

Against a concentrated sentiment in behalf of a parallel span which would be a part of transcontinental U.S. Highway 10 and thus eligible for federal matching funds, this lesser group working for a toll bridge to Evergreen Point is pressing a claim for all of Washington's share of pump-priming, anti-recession funds to be allocaetd this state in the Gore highway bill. That sum is $6.5 millions.

Now this proposed bridge is on no present state highway, much less on a federal highway, and it wouldn't help Walla Walla, Tri Cities, Yakima or any other eastern Washington area which now utilizes U. S. Highway 10 to reach Seattle by truck, bus or private auto.

The $6.5 million would fall considerably short of subsidy needs for the proposed Evergreen Point project, even should it have any merit for the rest of the state — which it hasn't. The project is almost wholly a Seattle and suburban commuter accommodation, which some smooth operators would use state and federal money to finance.

People in this part of Washington should be aware of the efforts this small Seattle group are making in behalf of a structure with purely local benefits. Any state and federal funds that can be scraped together should go, by all means, to the benefit of those who must use the existing route, where a parallel bridge can be justified right now.

AIRMAN KILLED

GRAND FALLS, N.B. (AP) —An American airman was killed and another injured early Thursday when their car jumped a ditch, turned over and was impaled on an iron post marking the U. S.-Canada boundary.

Artiero Martinex, 20, Ogden, Utah, was killed. His companion, Fritz William Anderson, 21, Buckley, Wash., was hospitalized suffering mainly from shock.

Both men were stationed at Caswell Air Force Base at Limestone, Maine.

The pair were returning in Anderson's car from a dance. Anderson was able to walk to a nearby house for help.

The Chinese language and its dialects are used by nearly 500 million people.

THE WORLD TODAY

Eisenhower may soften up on plans to streamline Defense Dept.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Eisenhower had talked a little more clearly there might have been less bellowing from Congress over his plan to streamline the Defense Department.

And Eisenhower, who seemed prepared a week ago to fight like a tiger for his plan, may have decided against butting his head too hard against the legislators. This would be consistent. He has pretty much avoided all-out fights.

He outlined his proposal in a special message April 3. Since then it has been attacked in Congress on various points, but particularly because of the power it would seem to give Secretary of Defense McElroy over defense spending.

Congress is jealous of its power to vote money for specific purposes. In the case of the Army, Navy and Air Force it has always voted money to each according to its idea of their needs.

VAGUE

But Eisenhower — although he used 7,000 words to explain his proposal — was extremely vague on what kind of control he wanted for McElroy over Defense Department funds.

He said: "I strongly urge that in the future Congress make appropriations for this department in such fashion as to provide the secretary of defense adequate authority and flexibility to discharge his heavy responsibilities."

What did "flexibility" mean? Did it mean Congress would be asked to vote money for the Defense Department—instead of for each individual service — and let McElroy decide who got what?

That same day in a news conference McElroy himself seemed to indicate that Congress would vote money for the individual services, as in the past, but he'd have power to switch some of it around in an emergency.

But that same day also two of Eisenhower's aides, Bryce Harlow and James Hagerty, the President's press secretary, gave a different explanation.

Harlow, asked if Congress would be asked to vote money to McElroy, said: "It would be to him." And when a reporter asked if the money would go to McElroy instead of one third to each service, Hagerty said: "That's right."

TOO MUCH

This was too much for some of the leaders in Congress-Democrats and Republicans — because they thought it would give too much power to one man.

While the fight roared on Eisenhower had a news conference. That was last week.

From the way he talked reporters concluded he was ready for a knock-down, drag-out fight for his plan. He said he didn't care who was against it, that he'd go on TV as often as he could to battle for it. He was talking of the plan as a whole, and still didn't spell out what he wanted Congress to do about appropriations.

Yesterday, some of the Republican leaders in Congress went to see him.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said later it was a misconception to think Eisenhower wanted McElroy to have complete control of the military purse strings. Knowland said Eisenhower wanted only limited flexibility for McElroy in handling defense spending.

This apparently was an attempt to quiet down some of the opposition to the plan. But it still isn't clear — because Eisenhower has never made it clear — just what he means by flexibility or how much authority he wants for McElroy.

It seems reasonable—since his message took 7,000 words — that he would have used a few more to spell out exactly what he had in mind.

This attempt at clarification by Knowland may indicate Eisenhower is going to be a lot less fiery than he appeared at his news conference last week.

HOW TO SMOKE-CURE SALMON

There are many ways of cooking salmon, but one of the oldest and still best is smoke-curing. The Pacific northwest Indians smoke dried their fish for the winter and perhaps you have eaten charcoal broiled salmon. While both of these methods can be called smoking, true smoke-curing combines both heat and smoke to give a cooked fish with moderate keeping qualities and a meat quality only slightly drier than barbecued salmon.

There seem to be few trade secrets in the fish smoking business, but there are several important rules to follow. At least this seemed to be the opinion of one smoke-house proprietor I visited. Experience counts too—your hundredth smoked salmon will likely be better than your first.

There are three ingredients to successful fish smoking — good salmon, proper preparation of the meat, and good smoke. There seems to be some tradition that the dog or the chum salmon smoke best, but experience shows that kings and silvers are better on two counts. They have more fat which makes for moister meat and they have a more desirable —and salable—dark red color. Salmon entering fresh water are poor for smoke-curing because their scales are gone, they are often slimy, and their fat content is already somewhat diminished.

CARE IMPORTANT

Even a poor salmon properly prepared is better, however, than the best salmon improperly taken care of. Clean the fish within the hour it is caught, but don't scale it. Scaling causes loss of the fat under the skin during smoking. Ice it and wrap it in newspaper if it has to be taken any distance in warm weather. Don't seal the fish tightly in plastic or foil — it has to "breathe."

Before smoking, fillet the fish and dip it in a weak salt solution. Cut the center bones away from the meat, including the dorsal and anal fin bones. It is advantageous not to remove the lateral fins—pelvic and pectoral — since there is lots of fat around them which increases smoking quality. Cut each slab of meat crossways so that you have pieces of fairly even thickness. The pieces usually are square — as long as the fillet is wide. The reason for this is that different thicknesses require different cooking times.

TRADE SECRET

The last step before smoking is to dip the slabs of meat in a weak solution of salt and allow the excess fluids to either soak in or drain off overnight. One professional smoker uses a dip of brown sugar and salt, but considers the exact proportions her own development and trademark, and therefore secret.

With a little experience, you can develop your own favorite dunking solution and have just as much right to keep quiet about it as she does. The general diea, anyway, is that the dip and the overnight standing at room temperature brings the seasoning and the moistness to just the right point for smoke curing.

While there are many modern innovations such as fast-curing liquid smoke, etc., there has really never been anything to replace wood smoke. The favorite woods are alder and apple, although any fruit or broadleaf tree is usable. The smoke adds its flavor to that of the fish, so don't use any woods which contain pitch or oils. This means not even using a few sticks of cedar to start the fire. Ham dripping, bacon fat, or even apples can be placed in the fire to add their flavor to the fish.

The fire should be some distance from the fish so that cooking proceeds no faster than smoke penetration. In the smoke-house I visited the fish lay skin-side down on wire screens five to eight feet above a moderate-sized fire. Even then it paid to change the positions of the screens because the bottom fish more nearly barbecued and the top fish would be too strongly smoked and dry if left in their respective positions all the time.

TWO DAYS

The average smoke - curing time is about two days depending on the outside temperature and meat thickness. If the weather is cold or rainy, it takes longer to heat the smokehouse and more heat to keep it going than during summer weather. Some smokehouses are heavily insulated for this reason.

The fish is done when the center is firm. If it also has a nice sheen, there was adequate fat in the fish. If the fish is dull colored and dry, try brushing on some vegetable oil or butter. If you can't tell from the outside if the fish is done, break it open and see.

Smoke-cured fish keeps about like bacon or ham — it tends to collect mold. But to get around this you only have to add some vegetable oil and can your smoke-cured fish for ten minutes at ten pounds pressure. Then you can enjoy the fruit of your efforts any time.

Such fish as sole, cod, and halibut don't smoke well, but smoked smelt, razor clams, trout, and oysters are delicious. The reason they are only rarely for sale on the market is that the amount of labor involved makes them prohibitively expensive. So if you really want to try them, do it yourself.

THREE DROWN

PORTLAND (AP) — Three men crowded onto a four-foot-long raft to go fishing in the Columbia River Slough Thursday, and two of them drowned when the raft tipped.

Police recovered the bodies of Essex Leonard, 45, and George Bell, 41, both of Portland, Friday morning.

Walter Edwards, 52, managed to stay aboard the raft, and paddle it to shore.

He said the other two were trying to tie the raft to pilings in the slough, north of Portland, when the raft tipped.

Boy convicted of second degree murder

REXBURG, Idaho (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Tommy Brophy cried in his jail cell Thursday night after an all-male jury convicted him of second-degree murder in the slaying of his mother.

Sentencing of the slight- good-looking high school student was set for 1:30 p.m. Monday by Judge Willard Burton.

Tommy had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. He admitted in statements that he pumped two shotgun blasts at Mrs. Nellie Mae Hinckley last Feb. 17, then shot her in the head with a .22 rifle.

The charge is punishable by a prison term of 10 years to life.

Testimony brought out that a divorce had disrupted Tommy's life while he was a small child, and that he had strong emotional ties to a sister who died several years ago of leukemia.

During the final hours of the trial, letters were read indicating the boy had plotted the murder of 20 persons living near his home. There were details on how the executions were to be accomplished.

Dr. David Burnet, Idaho Falls psychiatrist, said parts of the letters supported his contention that the boy is a paranoid with delusions of persecution.

Among prosecution witnesses, Dr. D. H. Passey, Rexburg physician, agreed the boy is mentally ill but said he was sane enough to plot a crime.

'TOGETHERNESS'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Encourage the wife to visit your office; it'll make for a happier home.

Author of this advice is Prof. James A. Peterson, marriage counselor at the University of Southern California.

"Married couples today are in effect leading two separate lives," Peterson told an interviewer. "Wives must get better acquainted with the husband's work. . . . The first step is in not infrequent visits to his office.

"It will give her some insight into the pressures under which he works. And it will bring husband and wife closer to leading one life together."

GOOD REASON

NEW YORK (AP) — Police converged on Manhattan Bridge Thursday and one of them climbed toward a man perched 40 feet up on a girder.

Half way up, the cop persuaded the percher-in-peril to come down.

"Why did you do it?" the cops asked Edward J. Haggerty, 50.

'Because it's my job," he snapped. "I'm an inspector in the department of public works and I have to look over the steel work every Thursday."

So the police went away and Haggerty climbed back up among the girders.

Makah road project begins Saturday

(From Evening News April 17)

The Makah Community Project, extension of the road on the reservation to Shi Shi beach, is gaining momentum, Chairman Don Ostrom reports.

Work days for the community project are this Saturday and Sunday.

Gathering place will be 8 a. m. each day on Neah Bay's main street and transportation will be available to the work site.

Objective of the project, Ostrom explains, is to give access to the ocean area at Shi Shi beach, that is a short distance north of Point of Arches on the southern end of of the Makah reservation.

Cooperating in the community road building project are the Makah Tribal Council, Makah Air Force Station, the Clallam Bay-Sekiu-Neah Bay Lions Club, logging companies, business men and individuals.

Ostrom, president of the Clallam County Park board and of the Clallam Bay-Sekiu Neah Bay Lions club, has been active in the promotion of the community affair.

He was in business at Neah Bay nine years but recently sold out there and now resides at 309 E. 13th St. Port Angeles.

Ostrom reports volunteer workers and equipment will be appreciated and he may be called at telephone GL7-4915.

A large amount of road building equipment is listed and many workmen have signed up, but more can be used, he reports. Lunch will be served at the project each day.

"The project is not a one man or one group affair but is a truly Makah community project with scores of volunteers giving equipment and manpower," Ostrom explains.

To reach the project site visitors drive through Neah Bay then turn left and cross the Wyaatch and Suez River and continue southwest toward Shi Shi beach and Point of Arches that are on the Pacific Ocean Coast near the southern end of the Makah Indian reservation.

Shi Shi beach is a long stretch of sandy beach. Out from it are rock pinnacles and beyond its southern end is Point of Arches, a high headland extending into the ocean.

North Olympic Chambers group adopts road plan

(From Evening News April 17)

The executive committee of North Olympic Chambers of Commerce recommended five highway projects to be pursued by the organization.

The organization at a meeting Tuesday evening at Port Ludlow, voted to adopt the program as a project this year.

Highway work recommended is:

Construction and rehabilitation of any or all Pacific Coast highways from Tahola north along the coast to Queets.

Primary State Highway 9 to be standardized from its junction with US 99 into Port Townsend to form a US 99 scenic alternate from approximately Olympia over the present US 101 to the head of Discovery Bay. From there to the Port Townsend - Keystone ferry crossing at the junction of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and Puget Sound. From there over Whidbey Island and Deception Pass bridge to US 99 at approximately Burlington-Mount Vernon.

Construction of a road from Cape Flattery south past Lake Ozette on the ocean side of the lake.

A toll free bridge between Lemolo and Keyport. Request the State Highway Commission to extend State Highway 21B through Keyport to join 21A and abandon 21-B from Keyport to Highway 21.

Inquiry of the State Highway Commission about plans for roads at Hood Canal bridgeheads.

Manager E. D. Birse, of Washington State Ferries, reported to the meeting that ferry boats, now being renovated to carry more cars, will be put on the Winslow-Seattle and Edmonds-Kingston run this spring or summer.

Subject for general discussion was the Hood Canal bridge, now under construction and a proposed Puget Sound bridge.

Pres. J. M. Reynolds reported the executive board meeting was held at Poulsbo April 1 with representatives of seven Chambers of Commerce present.

Steady rain hurts visits at Brussels Fair

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Steady rain kept down attendance at the 1958 world's fair Friday, but thousands paid their money to see the billion dollar show.

Beneath soggy, dripping flags the biggest crowds flocked to four places during the morning and early afternoon:

The 334-foot-high atomium—a fantastic looking structure that represents an iron crystal magnified 150 billion times. Through its connecting metal tubes runs an elevator and escalators.

The Vatican's exhibit.

The American and Russian pavilions.

The Americans continued to draw more people than the Russians. Thirty minutes after the morning's opening an unofficial check showed an average of 30 persons entering the Soviet exhibit every minute against 80 at the U.S. show.

Big crowds jammed the Soviet restaurant, where the air was heavy with the smell of borsch, frying onions and roasting shashlik. Scores stood in line at the United States soda fountain—a replica of thousands found along the main streets of America.

Taking part for the first time in a world's fair, the Holy See has a huge exhibit known as Civitas Dei (God's city). It consists of restful lawns, striking murals on humanitarian themes and a church seating 2,000.

Masons to hold potluck dinner

Angeles Chapter No. 38, Royal Arch Masons, invites all Masons and their families to a potluck dinner Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the Sequim Masonic Temple.

High Priest E. B. Kindred reports invitations have been sent to Port Angeles, Mount Olympus, Sequim, Quilcene, Jefferson, Port Townsend and Bremerton lodges.

In addition to a guest speaker from Seattle, the program will include musical selections arranged by Mrs. John Kirner of Sequim. The Rev. W. G. R. Dann is assisting.

Toastmaster will be Vernon R. Phillips, past deputy of district 11.

After the entertainment, Royal Arch members will convene in the lodge hall to exemplify the mark and past master degrees for a class of candidates.

The ladies will be entertained in the social hall by wives of Sequim members. Kindred said, "This will be one of the outstanding events of the year for Masons." He urged them all to attend. Those wishing transportation may call GL 7-6270.

Personals

Mrs. Anna Conaway is a patient at Olympic Memorial Hospital recovering from pneumonia.

Marcia Lee Holeman becomes bride of Fred Norman Hoke of Forks

Now at home in Forks are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norman Hoke whose wedding was an event of March 21 in the Forks Congregational Church.

The Rev. Norman Scruton read the double ring service at 8 p.m. before a congregation of 150 friends and relatives. Baskets of yellow snapdragon, iris and white stock decorated the sanctuary. Arrangements of daffodils and greenery adorned the altar. Miss Janice James sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is the former Marcia Lee Holeman, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Norman Holeman of Sappho. Mr. and Mrs. John Rollins of Forks are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace over white satin. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice with scoop neckline, three quarter sleeves, and a scalloped front opening fastened with satin-covered buttons.

A seed-pearl tiara, lent by Mrs. Bonita Ulin, held her veil of French illusion. For something old, the bride wore her mother's pearl necklace and a blue garter, a gift from her sister. She carried a white Bible adorned with a cascade bouquet of white hyacinths centered with a white orchid. The Bible was the gift of her Sunday school teacher Mrs. W. K. Merridith.

Miss Viola Holeman was her sister's maid of honor. She had a frock of pale yellow cotton satin in princess style with a cummerbund and head band of pale yellow dotted nylon. She wore white gloves and earrings and carried a nosegay of yellow carnations.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Sue Brager and Sandie Gossage. They wore dark green princess style frocks with light green head bands and cummerbunds, white gloves and earrings. They had nosegays of green carnations.

Laurie Eaton was flower girl. She wore a pale yellow dress and white gloves and carried a basket filled with yellow flower petals.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Holeman chose a blue lace dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother Mrs. Rollins wore a dress of blue lace and linen with white accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

The bridegroom's brother Raffie Hoke lit the candles in the seven-branch candelabra. Curtis Bagby of Bremerton was best man. Serving as ushers were William Horton and Emitt Treichel, both of Forks.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

A reception was held in the West End Sportsman Club after the ceremony. Daffodils and greenery in tall baskets decorated the room.

Arrangements of daffodils decorated the mantel and were used with white tapers on the serving table. Centering the table was the white and silver Maltese-cross-shaped wedding cake made by Mrs. William James and Mrs. Rollins.

The bride's grandmother Mrs. W. J. Hodsdon of Lynwood and the bridegroom's grandmother Mrs. Peter Haller of Pe Ell poured. Cutting and serving the cake were the bride's aunts Mrs. C. I. Depew of Edmonds and Mrs. Calvin Holeman of Port Angeles.

The Misses Judith Huggins and Carol Bradeberry had charge of the gifts, and Miss Reba Woody, the guest book. Miss Laurie Eaton passed the groom's cake. Miss Janice James ladled the punch.

Here from out of town for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Haller and daughter Susie, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ross, all of Pe Ell; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rollins of Spokane, Miss Caroline Rollins of Winlock, Gene Rollins of Bellevue and Mrs. W. J. Hodsdon of Lynnwood.

Coming from Edmonds were Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Depew and son Douglas and Mrs. George Depew. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Holeman and son Robert and William Sonnebend and James Fernn came from Port Angeles.

For traveling the bride wore a gray and white plaid chemise dress with white and pink accessories.

Today's food tips

SATURDAY SUPPER

This sauce is fussy to make, but it's definitely worthwhile.

Baked Ham Stuffed Potatoes
Chinese-type Plum Sauce
Salad Bowl Rolls
Mandarin Orange Compote
Almond Cookies Beverage

CHINESE-TYPE PLUM SAUCE

Ingredients: 1 can (1 pound and 14 ounces) purple plums in heavy syrup, ½ cup soy sauce, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 small cloves garlic (crushed), ¼ cup dark brown sugar (firmly packed).

Method: Drain syrup from plums into 1 ½-or 2-quart saucepan; reserving about ¼ cup. Remove skin and pits from plums; put plum pulp through a food mill or sieve; add to syrup in saucepan with soy sauce. Stir cornstarch with reserved plum syrup until there are no lumps; add to other ingredients with crushed garlic. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until slightly thickened and boiling. Remove from heat, stir in brown sugar. Return to moderately low heat and allow to boil gently for 5 minutes; stir almost constantly to prevent scorching at bottom of pan. Put through a fine strainer to get rid of any crushed garlic strands. Makes about 2 ¾ cups. Pour into small jars, cover tightly and refrigerate. Serve with ham, chicken, duck or spareribs.

Note: The soy sauce used in testing this recipe was the dark imported variety.

YMCA FESTIVAL

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Teams from four states and British Columbia will compete here this weekend in the annual Pacific Northwest YMCA sports festival, with more than 1000 athletes in action.

Timber industry hardest hit by unemployment

OLYMPIA (AP) — Unemployment in Washington state the past winter was especially heavy in the forest products industries, Peter R. Giovine, state commissioner of unemployment security, reported Friday.

He said one out of every five qualified workers in the forest products industries drew at least one unemployment compensation check during March.

He said 16,464 jobless workers in logging, lumber, pulp and paper were paid benefits totaling $1,562,639 last month.

Giovine said the unemployment was concentrated in certain nonmetropolitan areas, resulting in a noticeable effect on the economy of various areas.

In Centralia, Giovine said, 68 per cent of the 2,279 jobless persons who drew unemployment checks formerly worked in wood products.

Port Angeles, Aberdeen and Raymond also reported that 60 per cent or more of the persons who drew unemployment compensation in March had worked in the forest products industries, he said.

Giovine added that the volume of unemployment in forest industries also was high in Everett, Vancouver and Tacoma, but in these areas it represented a smaller proportion of total unemployment.

REAL GONE FEELING

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Jake Trussell of the Kingsville Record held hands with Jayne Mansfield while posing for a photograph during a news conference.

"I must report exactly how it felt to hold her hand," Trussell told his readers. "The sensation I got was of a long personalized sort of slightly over-heated peach fuzz expanse, or perhaps the snuggly softness of a glamorized baby duck's down. Anyway, it was a real gone sensation."

A picture of Miss Mansfield and Trussell showed she was wearing gloves.

Jilted, train leaves in huff

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP) — The 7:10 may be just a train, but it's got feelings. Its iron heart was pained when a lady left it waiting at the station here two mornings in a row.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's 7:10 had been making unscheduled stops here for about a week to accommodate the lady, who had some temporary work here.

When she failed to show up twice earlier this week, rumor spread that she had been seen aboard a rival train.

The jilted 7:10 decided it was to call off the romance. It roared nonstop through town yesterday and didn't give a hoot.

Bank leader optimistic about slump

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The head of the world bank said Thursday, "I am not pessimistic about the current economic situation."

President Eugene R. Black made the statement in a report to the U. N. Economic and Social Council.

The 59-year-old banker from Atlanta, Ga., conceded that "the slowing down of economic activity in North America is being watched throughout the world with some fear that it may forebode a slowing down of investment and economic growth everywhere.

"Whatever the prospects for the short run, I think it is clear that in the longer run they are good," he added. "There is still great momentum in the economic progress of the underdeveloped countries."

He said the times call for intelligent planning, hard work and thrift.

The bank's program of loans for productive purposes, and encouragement of investment hit a peak this year, Black said in his annual report.

Hint Sputnik III nearly ready

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Russians indicate they are planning soon to launch Sputnik III. There are hints that the show is being held up to coincide with Gamal Abdel Nasser's visit to the Soviet Union.

Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic of Syria and Egypt, is due in Moscow the end of this month on a state visit. A new Sputnik, coinciding with his stay, would have propaganda impact throughout the Arab East.

The Hungarian communist youth newspaper, Magyar Ifjusag, has quoted the Soviet scientist Nikolai Varvarov as saying Sputnik III was just around the corner.

Varvarov, according to this report, described the prospective new artificial earth satellite as exceeding five tons in weight. He claimed this satellite would travel almost 25,000 miles per hour, as compared with Sputnik II's 18,000.

Water requires more heat to warm it and more cold to cool it than any other common substance known, according to scientific measurements.

Here's simple test to see if you're getting old

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Science raises the possibility that a man can buy a ticket to the nearest star and come back maybe a boy.

This idea is based on the theory that the faster you go the younger you get. We have seen this tried many times and can't count any winners — although we recall a number who died smiling among their wrinkles.

The conception of time is a hard thing for any human to embrace. It makes him a prisoner of the calendar, the moon, the seasons, the years, the watch upon his wrist, his own suspicions or the estimate of others. He feels, even though his years cannot accurately be measured by his falling hair, he still, like a tree, has his inevitable annual rings, made visible to others in ways he does not know.

Is he older than he feels? Is he younger than he knows? How tell?

Here is a Baedecker of personal antiquity:

ON RAISES

You're older if you pause before a flight of stairs, take a deep breath — then gallop up them a step at a time.

You're younger if you boldly wink at a pretty girl. . .and don't pretend to wipe clinker out of your eye.

You're older if your wife has to gear your pride up to make you ask for a raise.

You're younger if you think raises come for merit and you feel too proud to ask for one.

You're older if you forget to wear your rubbers in the rain.

You're younger if you wear a hat in the summer merely to be better dressed and hope that'll make a sale.

You're older if you see a beautiful girl and she reminds you of a girl you used to know.

You're younger if you see the same girl and feel your life won't be complete until you know her.

You're older if you think that over the hill lies the poor house.

You're younger if you think that every molehill is a fresh stepping stone to opportunity.

You're older if the boss puts his arm around your shoulder and you feel the loneliness in his fingers.

You're younger if, putting your own hand around the boss's shoulders, you absent-mindedly feel for a soft spot.

You're older if, on a moonlit night, your wife sighs and you know what you are both missing.

You're younger if you look at the moon and wonder who'll be first to land on it.

You're older if, while on a picnic, you see an ant and pause to watch it wrestle a crumb toward home.

You're younger if you press your thumb on the ant, then eat the crumb yourself.

You're older if you can't have what you want.

You're younger if you don't know what you want—and can't have.

You're older if now and then you like to get up all alone just to watch the sun rise.

You're younger if you're too busy talking at a cocktail party to pause and admire a sunset.

You're older if all this stirs an echo in you.

You're younger if it doesn't.

Obituaries

HAROLD Y. BROWN

Harold Y. Brown, 66 of Rt. 3, Port Angeles died Thursday in Seattle after a short illness.

Funeral services will be held at the McDonald Funeral Home Saturday at 1 p. m. with the Rev. Mackenzie Murray officiating. Burial will be in Ocean View Cemetery.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Brown, born Nov. 1 1891 at Winthrop, Iowa. He married Vera Bidinger Dec. 25, 1912 in Quasqueton, Iowa.

Mr. Brown was a carpenter employed here over a long period of years. He was a member of the First Presbyterial Church, Naval lodge of Elks, Eagles, Moose lodges and Port Angeles local of the Carpenters' Union.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Vera Brown, Port Angeles; a daughter, Mrs. H. J. Maddock, Port Angeles; grandchildren Gar Maddock, Seattle, Judy Burdick, Port Angeles; grandchildren Gary Brown and Oliver H. Brown, and sister Mrs. Agnes Conrad, all in Iowa and several nieces and nephews.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) --Five exchange teachers from Britain each were given a $250 bonus by the school board, because their salaries from England were not quite up to the cost of living here.

Bonanza of glass floats at Moclips

MOCLIPS, Wash. (AP) — Some beachcombers hunt for years and only find one or two glass fishing net floats. But the Norman Cornish family here garnered 223 of the floats—including some of the unusual rolling pin type — on a single tide Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornish and their children, Norman Robert, 16, and Barby Ann, 10, made the collection between 7 and 10 a.m.

"They were coming in on the high tide," said Cornish, former president of the Olympic Beaches division of the Hoquiam Chamber of Commerce. "And we were not the only ones getting them. Three men in a jeep ahead of us were jumping in and out like jackrabbits."

Indians hit warpath over power line

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —A skirmish broke out Thursday between Tuscarora Indians and white men as surveyors for the state tried to map reservation land for a power project.

Cooler heads prevailed, and the outbreak quickly ended with the arrest of three Indians and a white man.

An army of 30 state troopers and 32 sheriff's deputies was on hand because of a faction of young braves had threatened trouble even though their chief preferred passive resistance.

The State Power Authority has appropriated a fifth of the reservation for use in a 600 million dollar Niagara power project.

The Indians arrested included Mad Bear Anderson,, leader of the young braves. The three were charged with unlawfully assembly.

on the complain of an Indian woman who said he kicked her.

The survey team retired twice Wednesday under a barrage of Indian oratory and threats. Thursday more than 125 Indian men, women and children at first stolidly refused to budge as the surveyors tried to go to work. They included head chief Elton Green, 68, and the 32-year-old Anderson.

NAVY HERO DEAD

GIFFORD, Scotland —A British naval hero Sir Archibald Cochrane died at his home here Wednesday, aged 73. He joined the Royal Navy in 1901, served in the Battle of Helgoland and commanded a submarine on exploits against Turkish shipping in the East Mediterranean in World War I. He was governor of Burma from 1936 to 1941.

Sydney, founded in 1788, is the oldest city in Australia.

Algerian get chance in ring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lahouari Godih, who three days ago didn't know when he'd crash an American ring, gets the opportunity Friday in a 10-round bout with Larry Baker of Mt. Vernon, N.Y

Godih is a 28-year-old Algerian who last year won the French lightweight title. He came to the United States this year with ambitions of challenging world champion Joe Brown.

Godih hasn't made it that far yet. But he's getting a shot at Baker because of postponement of the fight originally scheduled for Friday night's regular Friday TV radio hookup (NBC, 7 p.m. PST) Alex Miteff of Argentina, who had been matched with Willie Besmanoff of Germany, had to withdraw because of a severe body rash and nose injury.

Since turning pro in 1952, the 27-year-old Baker has won 21, lost 3 and drawn 3.

Godih is 45-3-2 for eight years in the ring.

Hicks wins by quick knockout

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle high schoolboy Bobby Hicks decked Reno lightweight Davey Lee with a pair of rights Thursday night and sent him to the canvas at 1:17 of the second round of their scheduled 8-rounder.

Hicks, unbeaten in his brief professional career, weighed 137 and Lee, who had 30-odd fights under his belt, scaled 135

The two fought on even terms in the first round but early in the second Bobby clobbered Lee with a looping right that sent him bouncing into the ropes. A second right caught Lee flush on the jaw and he went down for the 10 count.

The card presented three eight round feature bouts.

Terry Lewis, 233-pounder from Spokane won with a technical knockout over Dave Roy, 199, Vancouver, B.C., at 1:32 of the second round.

In the other main event, Lee Walters, Vancouver, B.C., 132 was awarded a split decision over substitute fighter Jimmy Zale of Portland, 137.

Zale subbed for Pete Gorrell of Reno, who failed to show in time for the noon weighin. The Portland fighter gave Walters plenty of trouble but the Canadian displayed superior boxing ability to earn the slight edge.

Johnny Riggins, 178, Detroit, won a fifth round TKO over Bull Halsey, 170, Portland, in a six round prelim and Jimmy Street, 167, Ft. Lewis, Wash., defeated Dave Gottschalk, 161, Seattle in a four rounder.

McCarter heads N. W. boxers

BOSTON (AP) — Jim McCarter, heavyweight titlist two years ago from Seattle, was back to try and regain the crown Friday as the National A.A.U. boxing championships got under way.

The lone defending champion was Vin Shomo, Washington, D.C. in the 139 pound class. The tournament ends Saturday night.

Seattle and Portland teams are entered from the Pacific Northwest.

Giants draw large crowds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — All signs point to a banner year at the gate for the transplanted Giants.

In their opening three game series with the Los Angeles Dodgers, the Giants played before 58,703 spectators. It took them seven games to reach that figure in New York last season.

Seals Stadium has a seating capacity of 23,488 compared with 55,000 in the Polo Grounds.

Four out of five scheduled games played Thursday in Coast League

By WARD SIMS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The waterlogged Pacific Coast League gave the back of its hand to an unfriendly weatherman last night as the Vancouver Mounties, last year's No. 2 finisher, climbed to the top of the standings at the expense of Salt Lake City.

Since the PCL season started Tuesday night, the weatherman, in one way or another, has administered knockout drops to eight of 16 games, including Thursday night's Seattle-Spokane get-to, which got the wet grounds treatment.

Four of last night's five scheduled games were played, with Vancouver popping the Bees 7-2 and 10-9; Portland's Beavers winning their first, 9-1, over the Sacramento Solons; and San Diego making it two straight over Phoenix' Giants, 6-4.

The Mounties only got six hits in beating the Bees in the opener at Vancouver, but stirred in with five walks and two Salt Lake errors the six safeties were enough for the victory.

Vancouver got five of their runs in a big sixth inning.

The Mounties barely managed to stand off the Bees in the hit-spattered nightcap, winning 10-9.

The Beavers wasted little time in getting their victory on the road. With one mate aboard in the first stanza, George Freese belted one of Joe Stanka's pitches out of the park.

Proving it wasn't a fluke, Freeze latched on to another pitch in the eighth, driving it into left field bleachers and pushing two runs in ahead of him.

Sacramento's lone run came on Nippy Jones circuit clout in the sixth.

The Padres spotted Phoenix a 1-0 lead in the third inning in the Giants' home park and then went ahead in the fourth when Earl Averill tripled in one run and scored himself on another hit.

San Diego put two more across in the fifth and struck for single-tons in the eighth and ninth. The Pads got 12 hits, the Giants 11.

Stan Musial hangs up record but his team loses to Cubs

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Stan The Man Musial has yet another National League record in the bag today, but the St. Louis Cardinals are still looking for that first victory in what some folks picked to be their pennant year.

Musial, at 37 closing in on a cluster of standout hitting records, slammed past Mel Ott's league record for total bases with a home run and a single last night, but it wasn't enough to ward off a 4-3 defeat by the Chicago Cubs.

Musial has collected 5,046 total bases on 2,960 hits while padding his NL record of long hits to 1,157 with his 382nd home run. Ott totaled 5,041 bases in his 22 seasons. Musial, in his 17th season, now ranks No. 5 among the major league total-bases leaders, topped by Ty Cobb's 5,863.

While the Cubs stayed unbeaten, the defending champion Milwaukee Braves whipped Pittsburgh 8-1 Ed Mathews again belted a pair of homers.

San Francisco clobbered Don Newcombe early and defeated Los Angeles 7-4 in the only other NL game scheduled.

YANKEES WIN

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 3-1: the Chicago White Sox won their first, beating Detroit 1-3: Baltimore took a full share of first place with a 4-0 decision over Washington: and Cleveland rallied in the ninth for a 3-2 victory over Kansas City.

Dale Long's sacrifice fly scored the Cubs' deciding run in the eighth. Rookie Tony Taylor lined a two run single and John Goryl capped a homer for a quick 3-0 lead against loser Lindy McDaniel.

Musial's homer, giving the Cards their first run in 13 innings this season, came off rookie Glenn Hobbie, who won his first victory with relief help.

Mathews, who led the league with 47 home runs in 1953 and hit 32 last season, rapped loser Vern Law for a two-out, three-run homer in the fifth, breaking a 1-1 tie, and then slugged No. 4 in the seventh off rookie Bennie Daniels.

Lew Burdette walked no one and gave up seven hits. A triple by Roberto Clemente and Gene Baker's sacrifice fly ruined his shut-out bid in the fifth.

Winner Curt Barclay and Marv Grissom shut out the Dodgers on three hits over the last 5 1-3 innings in relief of Johnny Antonelli, who blew a 3-0 lead by giving up five hits and six walks. The Giants took the lead for keeps, 3-4 in a three-run fourth, when Newk pulled out with a pulled muscle after rookie Bob Schmidt rapped him for a home run that tied it 4-all.

NWL contest is rained out

CLARKSTON, Wash. (AP) — Another scheduled exhibition Northwest League doubleheader between the Salem Senators and the Lewiston Broncs was rained out Thursday.

Opening day is six days away, and things look mighty sparse around the Senators' training camp here. The club has been plagued by bad weather and a lack of players until the amount of training time can be counted in hours.

Shi Shi beach

The whales play in the ocean in the spring off Shi Shi beach. South of the beach is Point of Arches, that mysterious headland jutting into the Pacific Ocean.

Long Shi Shi beach is a stretch of clean sand on which the big waves break when tide is in and is white and smooth when tide is out.

You cross the Wyaach and Suez Rivers on bridges to reach Shi Shi but the southern end of the trip, up until now was made on foot.

When the Makah Community Project is completed the road on the Makah Indian Reservation will be extended parallel to much of the beach and Point of Arches will be but a short walk away.

The road will make accessible by car some of the most beautiful and awe inspiring seascapes on the northern Pacific ocean. But few people, even folks living on the Olympic Peninsula, have explored that stretch of ocean beach between Cape Flattery and Point of Arches. Starting at Mukkah Bay, near Cape Flattery, that whole stretch of ocean side area is a great attraction.

The Makahs and their friends are cooperating to make the area more accessible by building a road so folks from all over the world may know the beauty of an area they have long known and loved.

Next time you drive to Neah Bay, don't just stop at the village, but turn your car oceanward and watch the seascape, sandy beaches and uplands unfold their beauty before you.

That will be one way of letting the Makahs and their friends know you appreciate their work in opening up their treasure chest of beauty.

King salmon and garden peas

The fact that young salmon and garden peas are popping out at this time of the year is not the only thing these two living organisms have in common. There is a striking resemblance between the needs of ordinary garden seeds and salmon eggs, comments biologist Harold A. Gangmark of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Seattle, who is engaged in salmon research and who also gardens for a hobby.

For successful incubation of salmon or germination of garden peas, whichever the case may be, the seed must be planted in a well-worked, friable nursery area. In nature, Mrs. Salmon cultivates the garden (a stream with gravel bars) before planting her seeds. She loosens and cleans the nursery bed thoroughly by hydraulic force generated by the sheer power of the muscles of her tail. But again like planting garden peas, where it is usual for one to hope for some help with the heavy work, Mrs. Salmon may not be too proud to accept assistance. In rivers and their tributaries, stream erosion is often severe. This is especially true in the southern range of the salmon. Mrs. Salmon must then loosen and clean her spawning bed under the most trying conditions, since flood swept streams are denuded of loose gravel that would provide good nursery area.

Service biologists have often observed Mrs. Salmon moving right in, to take over improvements in the stream that are man-made. When the biologist is so kind as to loosen solidly lodged gravel, or if he removes oversized boulders, or even better, prepares a ready made hole in the stream, mother salmon can harly wait to assume occupancy.

In providing this kind of service, the biologist uses hydraulic force also, only in his case it is provided by a high pressure pump, hose, and nozzle instead of the tail of the salmon.

MORE SIMILARITIES

"There are many other similarities between raising salmon and vegetables," continues biologist Gangmark. "For example, a ground-loving bird, the towhee, may be a menace to your newly planted garden peas; a small fish the sculpin, finds newly hatched salmon to his liking."

"Perhaps you have had trouble with various insect larval forms in the garden and have had to anti-insecticide the soil. Incubating salmon eggs in the streambed are also exposed to larval forms of insects, some of which prey on the eggs."

It is not so well known that germinating peas must have oxygen (one reason for friable soil) —so must the salmon egg. Garden peas will not grow when it is too cold—neither will incubating salmon. The best temperature for king (chinook) salmon eggs is between 45 deg. and 55 deg. F., which is slightly colder than the best temperature for peas.

Nutrients may be leeched from your garden by excessive run-off from a rainy spell. In the salmon stream, flooding not only deprives the spawning area of desirable spawning gravel but flushes the food of young salmon, in the form of small aquatic life, out to sea Again loose, cultivated soil allows misture to reach your planted garden seeds. Similarly, but on a greater scale, salmon eggs depend on seepage to supply them with oxygen and cleanse them of metabolic and respiratory wastes

A French scientist, P. Portier, goes further in this comparison between plants and animals. As plants are known to do, he claims that the incubating young of chickens and fish also are assisted by the absorption of small amounts of dissolved carbon dioxide.

As the presence of decomposing humus deprives your garden bed of nitrogen, so will humus deprive the stream incubating bed of oxygen which the young salmon need. However, nitrogen may be replaced in the garden but oxygen is not so easily regained for salmon.

These are some of the interesting observations that have been made by biologists of the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries in their program directed toward conservation of Pacific Coast salmon under Clinton E. Atkinson, Chief of Pacific Salmon Investigations, Seattle.

Gangmark's studies are taking place at the Mill Creek Fisheries station at Los Molinos, Calif., 16 miles south of Red Bluff. The Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers are the southern limit of king salmon spawning and Mill Creek is one of the salmon-producing tributaries of the Sacramento river.

Canadian team beats Boston

MONTREAL (AP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, the fiery hockey veteran with a flair for dramatics and a devastating shot, rifled in an overtime goal Thursday night to give the Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 win over the Boston Bruins and the same 3-2 margin in the Stanley Cup final.

The end to the sudden-death struggle came at 5:45 of overtime play. It was a blow to the fighting Bruins but typical of the Rocket's explosive accomplishments. The shot was only the second he had been able to fire on the Boston net throughout the long struggle.

The big goal that once again gave Montreal the edge in the best-of-7 series marked the sixth time Richard has broken up overtime games in his 13 appearances in post-season play.

It was also the 18th time he has scored the winning goal in playoffs.

LITERATURE HELD BEST 'TONIC' BEFORE TV SERVICEMAN COMES

CHICAGO, March 24. — What do you do when your TV set is on the blink and you're waiting for the serviceman to arrive?

"Read a good book," advises Herbert V. Hedeen, executive officer of the National Electronic Distributors Association. "There isn't anybody who would operate on himself until a doctor got there. Neither should he tamper with his TV set."

Mr. Hedeen's remarks were made here today as the industry kicked off its celebration of National Television Servicemen's Week.

"Monkeying with a TV set can turn a minor ailment into a major electronic illness. And poking into the wrong places can be quite a shock because high voltages stay in a set long after it is unplugged," Mr. Hedeen noted. "So when your set starts acting up, just relax with a good book. Your TV service technician will bring back your TV enjoyment."

Local couple rescued after boat capsizes

NEAH BAY, (AP) — A Port Angeles couple was rescued Thursday after 65 m.p.h. winds capsized their anchored 42-foot fishing vessel inside the Neah Bay jetty.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Seavey were pulled from the water by a passing tugboat, the Arthur Foss, about half an hour after they jumped from their boat. They were treated for shock at the Neah Bay lifeboat station.

The Coast Guard said the Sealey's craft, the Radio, was lying at anchor when she swung broadside by the wind. One huge wave capsized the boat. It floated bottom side up for several minutes before it sank.

Britain joins U. S. on fishing limit proposal

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Britain threw its support Friday behind an American proposal for extending the limit of territorial waters from three nautical miles to six.

The announcement by Sir Reginald Manningham - Buller, Britain's attorney-general, put an end to a two-week divergence between Britain and the United States at the world conference on the law of the sea.

A new delimitation of territorial waters is the major subject before the 86-nation conference.

The main U. S.-British difference arose from an American suggestion that coastal states should have a three-mile territorial water limit, but exclusive fishing rights up to 12 miles offshore.

Manningham-Buller said this was totally unacceptable to Britain because it would have disastrous consequences for her fishing industry

U. S. delegate Arthur H. Dean modified the U. S. position Tuesday to six miles of territorial waters, plus exclusive fishing rights up to 12 miles except to permit foreign fishermen who have regularly operated in the 6 to 12-mile zone to continue.

Manningham-Buller said Friday Britain reluctantly had decided to vote for the new U. S. proposal in the committee stage. However, he added, Britain would carefully consider its attitude in the full conference in the light of other proposals.

Ralph E. Casey, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute, urged the Western seafaring nations in a cable Friday to block a proposal to require a "genuine link" between ships and the nations whose flags they fly. The proposal was adopted by a 40-7 vote in committee despite U. S. opposition.

Less than 1,000 persons now live in this city which, during the gold rush days of the 1870's, boasted a population of about 30,000.

Man begins jail term on jobless pay fraud count

A local man began serving a 90-day term in the county jail Wednesday after being convicted in justice court on three counts of giving false information to obtain unemployment compensation.

The man, Bernard G. Barnes, 30, Rt. 1, came into the sheriff's office voluntarily Monday afternoon after the sheriff issued four warrants for his arrest.

Judge Fred Filion sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail Wednesday on each of three counts. The jail sentences are to run consecutively, making a 90-day term. The judge gave him credit for the time he has already served and fined him for the court costs.

A fourth count against him was dismissed on the recommendation of Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Frank B. Platt.

Barnes was charged with claiming unemployment compensation for the weeks of Jan. 5-11, Jan. 19-25 and Jan. 26-Feb. 1 during which time he was self-employed as a logging operator.

Rodney Olson from the state Employment Security Department which pressed the charges said his office has received reports of other violations and is continuing its investigations in this area.

He stated his office will enforce the law strictly and prosecute any violations it uncovers.

Makah community project postponed because of rains

Work on the Makah Community Project at Shi Shi beach is postponed one week because of heavy rains in the Neah Bay area.

The community work days were to be this Saturday and Sunday. Instead they will be Saturday and Sunday, April 26-27.

Announcement of the postponement is made by Chairman Don Ostrom of the community group. At trip was made through the Makah reservation Thursday by road makers and their report shows the ground is too wet for work.

Power outage

Winds of 45 miles an hour caused work for City Light Department repairimen Thursday. At 11 a.m. limbs from trees fell on power lines at the southwest end of town between 11th and 12th Sts. on Cedar. At 5:45 p.m. wind was blamed for a 20 minute power outage in the northwest section of the city. No physical damage was noted which led the repairmen to believe wind slapping at the feeder lines had caused the interruption of power.

Is preservation of your life worth 45 minutes

"Is preservation of your life worth spending 45 minutes of your time reading the message contained in testimony offered before the United States House of Representatives Committee on un-American Activities, at Washington, D. C.?"

That is the bold question asked in the headline of two pages to be carried in Saturday's Port Angeles Evening News, in cooperation with Port Angeles organizations and businesses.

This testimony publication is in keeping with a national drive to expose the true nature of communism, following the example set by the Wall Street Journal.

HOW MUCH FREEDOM

It asks, "How much freedom does the future hold?" and goes on to answer, "Not Much —Unless—You and other free Americans begin to understand and appreciate the benefits provided by God under the American free enterprise system.

"Unless — You and other free Americans awaken to the true meaning of communism and understand that it is your enemy.

"Unless — Your children, and their educators, quit swallowing whole the false, sugar-coated, one sided description of vicious communism supplied by dedicated Communist sympathizers.

COMMUNISM NOT JUST POLITICS

"Unless — Americans generally begin to understand that communism is not just another political party.

"Unless — Otherwise well-meaning Americans begin to understand that "academic freedom "without morality leads to national suicide." The introduction concludes "Communism Is Out To Detroy You!"

Read the complete testimony of Dr. Schwarz in Saturday's Port Angeles Evening News. It not only bares the facts of communism but gives concrete steps that might be taken to stop it.

NO GOLD YET

DALLAS (AP) — Armed with faith and an air hammer, a Dallas family continued today its quest for gold believed buried beneath a modest home.

The family of Eugenio Gaytan, 77, has dug a pit 12 feet deep beneath his home in the search for gold a friend told them early Spaniards buried there long ago.

An air hammer was pressed into operation when a large limestone slab was uncovered at the bottom of the pit. It was removed, but only more slabs were found beneath it.

Former PAHS students rank high in math

Harry Shields, teacher of mathematics at Port Angeles Senior High School, reported to the school board at its monthly meeting this week, that graduates of Port Angeles High School attending the University and the State College of Washington are doing outstanding work in the fields of mathematics.

The university and the state college have sent to the senior high school the records of students enrolled at those institutions. The figures released by the university revealed the local students enrolled in the math department averaged 2.2 which is a C plus.

The State College of Washington reported local students enrolled in math at that institution averaged a 3.0 or a B. Shields gave these figures as a part of a report by the teachers of mathematics at the junior and senior high schools to the school board.

WSC officials cited the outstanding work of Don Hyden and Jim Heckman, local graduates who earned straight A's in the field of mathematics since they have enrolled at WSC. Shields also reported the records made by thirty-one students who took four years of high school mathematics, revealed their grade point average the first quarter of college was 2.8, whereas the 23 students who took three years of high school math earned a grade point of 2.3.

Shields commented, "It appears that four years of math helps prepare the students for the field of mathematics at the college level."

Math teachers John Kays, Jack Bedient, Bill Madden and Shields reported on the math program of the junior and senior high schools as a part of the regular curriculum report to the school board.

They were introduced by Curriculum Director, Robert Groeschell who gave a report of the math and arithmetic achievements over the years and who cited the achievement of the students in the third, fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth grades of this year as averaging above the national average in achievement.

The four teachers reported what actually happens to students in the various fields of mathematics, including general math, algebra, advanced algebra, geometry, solid geometry, and trigonometry.

The group also discussed the pros and cons of accelerating the math program for superior students.

Fir prices pick up for second week

PORTLAND (AP) — Douglas fir prices, long in the doldrums. advanced this week for the second consecutive week.

Varied reasons were credited, and one market publication warned lumbermen that prices may soften in a week or 10 days.

Douglas fir prices advanced $3 to $6 a thousand board feet at the mill for green lumber, the market news report, Random Lengths, said. Kiln-dried stock also increased slightly.

Random Lengths said much of the increase was traceable to buying by wholesalers who held firm orders until the last moment this spring.

Crow's News Service said spring road trouble in British Columbia was a major factor in bringing about increased business and increased prices for U.S. mills.

Both publications agreed, however, that an increase in consumer buying could be detected. Random Lengths said prices probably will soften within 10 days, but that they will retain much of the recent increases.

Scattered pine price increases also were reported.

STUCK ON JOB

DENVER (AP)—His parents told him that's the way Santa Claus entered, and besides who else is a fella going to get his toys from a locked house?

That was 5-year-old Sparky Moore's reasoning when he went to retrieve his toys from a neighbor's home.

Halfway down the 7-by-15-inch chimney, Sparky got stuck. His wails attracted a passing saleswoman who climbed the roof and calmed him. Sparky's mother also arrived. She and the saleswoman rescued the youngster with a garden hose.
