Legal point

Councilman A. T. Sandison discusses a legal point of city administration with City Attorneys Tyler C. Moffett and Andrew Severyns at the City Council session Thursday night. Moffett advised the Council he did not think an ordinance governing gravel pits would stand a court test. (Evening News Photo.)

Council hears report on Sunrise Heights LID

Field engineering work for a vast new local improvement district embracing nearly all the Sunrise Heights area has been completed, City Manager M. W. Slankard told the City Council Thursday night.

The city engineering department has been working on the project for about a year, after several petitions asking for "curbs, gutters, storm sewers, and paving of streets and alleys with asphaltic concrete pavement' were received.

The original petition covered an area from the alley between 5th and 6th Sts. to the alley between 8th and 9th Sts. and from Race St. to Jones St.

AN ADDITIONAL petition covered the area from 1st St. to the alley between 5th and 6th Sts., and from Race St. to Alder St.

These petitions were referred to the City Planning Commission for study. When the Planning Commission recommendation was received, the City Council directed the city engineer to prepare the necessary surveys, plans, and specifications.

Slankard's report said the engineer has increased the size of the projected work to include other areas which terminate at existing pavements or which complete certain areas.

Slankard said that about $10,000 has been spent by the engineering department on the project, and that from one to four engineers are working on the plans full time, though routine work of the department is continuing.

Slankard estimated the project will be ready for public hearing in late May.

A LETTER FROM Mrs. Gerald Feltz, Rt. 3 again asking for an ordinance governing gravel pits was read.

City Attorney Tyler C. Moffett said it still was his opinion that such an ordinance was beyond the police powers of the City Council.

Mrs. Feltz said she had discussed the matter with the Tacoma city manager, and that Tacoma does have such an ordinance.

Moffett pointed out that Tacoma is a charter city while Port Angeles is not.

The Council directed Moffett to request the prosecuting attorney to obtain an opinion from the state atorney general.

BIDS ON A STATION WAGON for the engineering department were opened, with Anderson Motor Co. the apparent low bidder at $$2,395.

Increase in unemployment pay given blessing by Rosellini

OLYMPIA (AP) — An increase in employment security benefits received the official blessing of Gov. Albert D. Rosellini Friday, in the form of the first executive request bill received in the 36th Legislature.

The legislation was recently rejected by the Legislative Council.

Sponsored by Democrats Gordon J. Brown, Tacoma labor official; Bernard J. Gallagher, Spokane and Samuel J. Smith, Seattle, it also has the backing of organized labor.

It would increase the maximum benefits to $44 for the base year beginning July 5, 1959, and eventually to one-half the average weekly wage for the base year.

It would provide a graduated scale of $1 for each $125 or portion above the minimum qualifying annual wage of $800 and extend the maximum benefit period from 26 to 30 weeks.

JUNIOR COLLEGES

Bipartisan legislation in the House would permit establishment of more junior colleges along lines recommended by Superintendent of Public Instruction Lloyd Andrews.

It would repeal provisions of existing laws which bar establishment of public junior colleges in counties where there is another institution capable of offering courses beyond the high school level.

It is sponsored by John Bigley, Kent, Maurice Ahlquist, Walla Walla and Keith Campbell, Spokane. All reside in counties which are included within the restrictions of the present act.

The measure also provides for public school support, as distinguished from support for institutions of higher education.

Meanwhile, minority members were in an investigative mood in both houses of the Legislature.

A Republican resolution in the Senate called for a joint, two-member committee to investigate the decrease in State Liquor Control Board profits, in the face of rising gross income.

The committee would be required to report back on the 31st day of the Legislature.

The Liquor Control Board has said its drop in profits was caused by increased expenses.

Republicans in the House proposed a $25,000 appropriation to Thurston County to finance a grand jury investigation into the division of purchasing.

The companion Legislative Council bills in the Senate would eliminate all printing and duplicate equipment in state agencies other than the state printing plant. Provisions would be made for acquisition of the equipment by the State Printer.

A second measure would make it illegal for any state agency other than the state printing plant to do any printing, either for itself or any other agency.

Institutions which operate printing equipment used solely as part of a course of study in the printing profession would be exempt.

FIRE PROTECTION

Additional fire protection for all future new public schools would be provided under terms of a House bill.

It would require all walls, partitions, ceilings and corridors be constructed of materials which would remain fire-resistant for at least one hour.

A guide dog would be permited to accompany his blind master in any public place if a measure presented in the Senate is enacted into law.

Other proposed legislation in the two houses included bills enacting a modern uniform commercial transactions code, a new investment securities act, one increasing certain superior court fees and one establishing a new department of Motor Vehicles to take over all motor vehicle functions of the Department of Licenses.

MARSHALL SATISFACTORY

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, 78, who suffered a slight stroke, is in satisfactory condition in a hospital here, his doctors said Thursday night.

Marshall was stricken Thursday at his home in the resort town of Pinehurst, 60 miles away.

Sandison sees tough legislative session; assignments listed

State Senator Gordon T. Sandison, home for a short visit the middle of the week, says the legislature, now in session at Olympia, faces a tough session.

Mounting state expenses, increasing the budget, make it necessary to raise more tax revenues. Where the tax money is to come from is the problem the legislature faces, Sandison says.

Sandison, former state representative, is a freshman senator, but has been named as chairman of the senate standing committee on higher education and libraries and is a member of six other senate committees.

The other committees are game and game fish, highways, insurance, public institutions, public utilities and ways and means.

Paul H. Conner, Democrat, of Port Angeles, is a newly-elected state representative from the 24th district. He is on five standing committees of the house of representatives.

He is vice chairman of the Public Utilities Committee and a member of the Constitution, Election and Apportionment committees and the Education, Fisheries and Highway committees.

Dr. J. L. McFadden, Port Angeles, is on five committees. He is a Democrat. His committee assignments are: Banks and Financial Institutions, Medicine, Dentistry and Drugs; Rules and Order; Social Security and Public Assistance; State Institutions and Youth Control.

Roy R. Ritner, Democrat, of Shelton, is vice chairman on the House Insurance Committee. His other committee assignments are Fisheries; Liquor Control; Social Security and Public Assistance; Ways and Means, and the subcommittee on revenue and taxation.

Republicans seek investigation of Rosellini administration

By LEROY HITTLE

OLYMPIA (AP) — Republicans in both houses of the Legislature sought investigations of the Democratic administration of Gov. Rosellini Friday.

A new GOP resolution in the Senate called for a legislative probe of State Liquor Board activities, while in the House the Republicans asked for a $25,000 appropriation to finance a Thurston County grand jury investigation of state purchasing practices.

The Senate resolution called for a four-man bi-partisan committee of legislators to investigate the reason the State Liquor Board made less profit last year than in 1957, despite an increase in its gross business.

Liquor Board Chairman Don Abel earlier attributed the drop in profits to a heavy increase in expenses last year.

The proposal for a study of the liquor board's policies, activities and operations was submitted in the Senate by Sens. Perry Woodall of Toppenish, GOP floor leader; Albert C. Thompson Jr., Bellevue, and John N. Ryder, Seattle, all Republicans.

The request for the grand jury investigation of state purchasing practices was introduced in the House by three Republicans: Richard Rueff and Daniel J. Evans of Seattle and Dr. Alfred O. Adams of Spokane.

A similar GOP move in the Senate for a legislative investigation of purchasing activities was sidetracked to the state government committee and almost certain death when it was introduced in the upper chamber Wednesday.

Just before filing away the Republican request, the Democrats used their 35-14 Senate majotiry to force through a measure commending Rosellini for taking prompt action when irregularities in the state purchasing division were brought to his attention.

The GOP moves for an investigation by legislators or court officials armed with the power of subpoena stemmed from a private investigation by the Seattle Times last month.

The Times said it found evidence of favoritism lack of competition and irregularities in the purchasing of items for state agencies.

SCHOOL BUDGET

Meantime another fight shaped up over Gov. Rosellini's budget recommendation that schools receive 12 million dollars less than the state superintendent of schools Lloyd J. Andrews, asked.

The governor recommended 312 million dollars from the state general fund and the current school fund for the support of public schools.

Andrews had asked for 324 million dollars. The state school directors had recommended an even higher figure.

The 312 million proposed by Gov. Rosellini was 48 million more than is expected to be spent on schools during the current two-year period.

After Rosellini announced he was recommending 12 million less than Andrews, the school superintendents said "any substantial reduction in the budget for school operations would be false economy of the worst kind."

Rosellini said he proposed to reduce the Andrews' figure in the request he had made for operation costs.

"I found that operation costs were over-estimated by some 12 million dollars, the governor said in his budget message.

Andrews said a 12 million cut in his request for operations funds could bring maintenance to a standstill and cause rapid deterioration of the one billion dollar investment in school buildings.

Andrews said the governor's economy move would jeopardize the health and safety of school children.

"We do not want to experience a 'Chicago Fire' in our state," he declared.

Mrs. Arthur Skelton, president of the Allied School Council, said the governor's budget was not realistic and would not accomplish the improvements he indicated in his message that he desires.

U.S. has tiny new A-device

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has achieved a significant breakthrough in development of a small atomic device for production of electricity.

The White House announced the spectacular development, termed a major achievement by Atomic Energy Commission officials.

Newsmen were told of it after President Eisenhower had conferred with John A. Mc Cone, the AEC chairman.

DISPLAY MODEL

AEC officials, displaying a model at a news conference, said the device is capable of powering the instruments in a satellite, for example, for at least a year.

They said it would take 1,450 pounds of batteries to produce the electrical energy the new device can power without batteries.

The device generates heat, using a radio isotope—polonium in this case — and has no moving parts.

GROUND TEST

The device so far has been tested only on the ground. But AEC officials made it clear that it could be put into satellites shortly. They said it also has other potential uses, such as in the field of navigation aids.

Comparing the device with present means of electrical power development, AEC officials said the 4½ ton Atlas which this country recently put into orbit around the earth carried 20 pounds of batteries which lasted only 18 days. The officials said the new device, in contrast, could generate power for at least a year.

The test model displayed at the White House weighs five pounds.

Federals crack down on Mafia

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal government is making the Mafia and its traffic in narcotics a primary target in a nationwide war on organized crime.

Income tax violations, gambling and vice also are among spheres of Mafia activity to be dealt with.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers' special task force fighting crime is working out of offices in Washington, New York City, Chicago, Los Angeles and Miami.

A nine-month veil of secrecy over the work of the anticrime task force was lifted a little Thursday when contempt proceedings were started against an alleged leader of the Mafia.

The government complained that he refused to answer questions about the Mafia, the worldwide band of criminals and terrorists which had its roots in Sicily many years ago.

The questions, asked before a special U.S. grand jury, were about the secret underworld's links with the narcotics traffic.

The balky witness is Giacomo Reina, now serving a five-year term for conspiracy and possession of narcotics.

Help for Mike . .

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP) — From time to time as Mike plays with his toys, the pain comes in his chest.

He knows, then, that it's time to go sit in a corner and wait for it to happen.

It always does.

Mike faints.

When he wakes up, he rests until he is strong enough to play again.

This will go on, physicians say, for perhaps another three years. Then Mike, now 4, will die. Unless he has an operation.

Mike has heart trouble. There is a hole between two of the chambers of his heart. This makes his heart work too hard. When it slows down Mike turns blue.

60 PINTS

Doctors at St. Vincent's Hospital in Los Angeles are going to patch up Mike's heart March 27. To do this, they'll need at least 60 pints of blood.

The going rate is $25 a pint.

The hospital will accept blood in trade at the rate of two pints for each pint the boy needs.

The Santa Maria Times, after an appeal for blood donors, announced Thursday about 200 pints have been offered.

Most of the volunteers are men at nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Maj. Francis L. Manning, whose 392nd Field Maintenance Squadron offered 82 pints, told the paper: "Count on us for all the blood that boy needs."

PLEDGES COMING

Other Air Force units and other civic and religious groups swelled the total to 200 pints. The pledges are still coming in.

The cost of the operation will be borne partly by the Crippled Children's Society, San Luis Obispo County. The rest is being raised.

Mike's mother, Mrs. Lynne Pappas, is divorced. She and the boy are living with her parents in nearby Arroyo Grande. She had to quit her job to take care of Mike.

Now a whole community has pitched in to help her.

East versus West

Fishermen, by nature, are a crochety lot. They have definite theories and preferences which seem to be changed only by divine intervention.

Pit an Atlantic salmon angler against a West Coast steelheader and you've got a lively dispute on your hands, says E. L. Rogers of Outdoors Inc. A man championing one of these fine battlers is usually a man of singular purpose. He's got eyes only for his particular brand of fishing.

Actually, both of these gamesters are trout — seagoing varieties that grow fat on abundant ocean foods and dwarf their stay-at-home cousins. This nautical roving produces fish which can spit a bucktail streamer right back in your eye, or strip off a hundred yards of line and smash equipment without working up a sweat. They're the darlings of the angling fraternity, an epic in the lives of their pursuers.

But to compare Atlantic salmon to steelhead, when you get down to cases, is just like matching merits of apples grown in different sections of the country and judged by highly-prejudiced proponents. They are very similar and, regardless of their attributes, perform equally well on light monofilament.

The principal difference between the two is when they are caught. Steelhead enter the coastal rivers of the Far West from December through March; Atlantic salmon season normally extends from April to September, depending on the stream.

The wise individual is the one who quits fighting over which fish is superior and pursues both. If you've got the means and inclination, it's possible to seek these prizes nine months out of each year. . .but only if you've got the stamina to match that of these fish.

Skindivers' advice

Scuba diver John D. Uzar, writing in Skin Diver Magazine for October, says "a fish is like a woman — you don't know it until you've lived with it.' On this interesting note diver Uzar summarized some of his observations on salt-water fish and fishing (from the viewpoint of an experienced Scuba diver) for the benefit of hook-and-line anglers. He has formed some conclusions which may challenge traditional beliefs of long standing among surface anglers, as follows:

1. Most fish will bite on just about anything, a lot governed by the movement and size of it.
2. Best type lure to use for fish in general is something luminous. . .When using live bait, tie luminous disc about two feet from bait.
3. Time to fish—anytime, depending on type fish you're after.
4. Tide—any tide in deep water. Less chance from shore at low tide. . .
5. Clarity of water immaterial.
6. Best sound to attract fish is a thumping. . .Bang on floor of boat at 5 minute intervals.
7. Keep line moving slow, then snapply jerks up and down and sideways at intervals. . .
8. Size bait — small preferred. will strike larger pieces but more brazen with small.
9. When first fish caught, tie on line and leave in water. His noise will attract other fish. . .
10. If fish isn't caught within 15 minutes after trying above method, move about a mile or more from area. Reason: No fish.

Young outfielders are hopefuls of Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Of the 16 newcomers on the Los Angeles Dodgers' 1959 roster, it is safe to say that a trio of young outfield hopefuls — Ron Fairly, Frank Howard and Don Miles — are the prize prospects.

Especially Fairly, only 20, who seems destined for a long and fruitful career in the National League.

At least, that's what Dodger Manager Walt Alston believes along with other veteran observers who watched the kid perform last year. Alston is high on this left handed hitter from Macon, Ga.

"Ron played 15 games for the Dodgers last season and I didn't see him make a single mistake," the Dodger pilot said. "I like everything about him."

After hitting .297 at Des Moines of the Western League, and .29[illegible] in 18 games for St. Paul in the American Assn., Fairly finished with a .283 average for Los Angeles. He had 15 hits in 53 at bats, homered twice, drove in eight runs and fielded flawlessly in center field.

TALK OF LEAGUE

Howard, ex-Ohio State star who received a reported $100,000 for signing a Dodger contract, was the talk of the Three-Eye League last year with his fence-busting wallops.

Playing at Green Bay, Wis., the 22-year-old giant batted .333, drove in 119 runs and poled 37 home runs.

The Dodger brass thinks that with another year under his belt, probably at either Spokane or Montreal, he'll be ready for the majors.

Miles, also 22, is a left-handed hitter who collected 23 homers with Victoria of the Texas League and St. Paul. Eighteen of these were hit at Victoria where he batted .325.

Last year he was tabbed by the Dodgertown spring training brain trust as the best new player since Mickey Mantle. He still has quite a way to go but the Dodgers are willing to wait.

Five pitchers, a catcher, five infielders and as many outfielders comprise the new batch of Dodgers. Bill Harris, a 28-year-old fastballer with a 14-10 record at Montreal, may be the best of the pitchers.

Sherry's batterymate brother, 26-year-old Norm, has hopes to land a catching berth on the Dodgers.

Bob Lillis, 28-year-old shortstop appears to be the best of the infielders. Based on his showing after his recall from St. Paul last September, he may win a regular berth.

Earl Robinson, University of California star who received a $65,000 bonus to sign, will get a trial at third base. The 22-year-old is a graceful fielder with a strong arm although his hitting needs to be emproved.

Substitution is liberalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The NCAA Football Rules Committee is drafting a new rule liberalizing substitutions in football.

As the rule reads now, a player may return to the field only once in any quarter. The committee is framing the rule so that it will be liberalized for the benefit of the small colleges.

"We are not going all the way to unlimited substitution," said Acting Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler of Michigan. "That would allow two platoons. We don't want that, but we want to free the rule so that the small colleges can get a single man in the game with greater ease.

"The smaller colleges are concerned, for example, with a possible injury to a quarterback, but they don't want platoons."

A subcommittee headed by Dr Ellwood Geiges, secretary of the rules committee, will make one of three reports expected to come before the NCAA closing session today.

A subcommittee also is to report on whether goal posts are to stay where they are at the end of the field. Rather than place the crossbar at the goal line, the subcommittee is likely to widen the uprights, which would tend to encourage field goals.

The third report is on clarification of the use of hand and forearm in blocking. Crisler says there is considerable confusion by officials in interpreting the rule, which calls for one-arm offensive blocking.

Huskies play Oregon team

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Washington comes to Eugene tonight to start a two-game series in Oregon that is vital to the Huskies' title hopes in the Pacific Coast Conference.

The season is young, but Washington has managed to win but one of four conference games so far.

The Huskies tonight meet Oregon here, and then swing into Corvallis for a Saturday night game against Oregon State.

Both Oregon and Oregon State —also hoping for a title—will be trying to get above the .500 mark in conference play.

Oregon has a 1-1 PCC record, and Oregon State is 2-2.

Oregon Coach Steve Belko scouted Washington last week, and said that the Huskies — a pre-conference favorite — looked powerful with huge Doug Smart and Bruno Boin in the lineup.

Belko said he plans to start Denny Strickland, Stu Robertson, Dale Herron, Bud Kuykendall and Chuck Rask.

Washington will have the edge in height against Oregon, but against Oregon State will have to face 6-9 Karl Anderson and 6-8 Gary Goble.

OSC Coach Slats Gill said he plans to scout the Oregon-Washington game here. Oregon State is idle tonight.

Casper defends golf crown

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Billy Casper, bulky enough to go bear hunting with a bass fiddle, is going to defend his title in Bing Crosby's 1th National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament.

That news isn't so good for the 300 qualifiers who start the rounds on three courses Thursday, but this is: Cary Middlecoff, who walked off with most of the loot in 1955 and 1956, can't come.

Middlecoff is tied down back East on business.

Casper, of Chula Vista, Calif., won last year's event with a 277. And he teamed with Bob Reynolds, amateur and former Stanford football star, for second money in the pro-am.

Last year's pro-am was won by pro Jay Hebert and Roger Kelly, Los Angeles attorney, with a best ball total of 260. Hebert is back this year.

Singer Bing Crosby annually gives $15,000 to the tournament which he started in 1937 as sort of a friendly clambake in this picturesque Pacific coastal town. To that is added $35,000 by the television sponsor of the Sunday finals. The $50,000 total puts it with golf's richest prizes.

The take from admissions, programs and concessions go to charity. In the 13 years since the war, the Crosby tournament has netted more than $350,000, mostly for four youth centers.

There are a number of celebrities back this year, including comedian Bob Hope (handicapped at 10) and TV star Desi Arnez, with the highest amateur handicap — 13. Singer Gordon MacRae has a six-stroke margin. He's paired with pro Frank Stranahan.

Hope is teamed with veteran Jimmy DeMaret and movie actor Randolph Scott with Canadian star Stan Leonard.

Coast Conference hoop teams play several games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The California Bears, who at 3-1 are tied with Southern Cal for the Pacific Coast Conference lead, invade the Stanford Indians' camp Friday night. If the Bears, defending conference champions, topple their ancient rivals, it will be the first Stanford loss at home in six games this season.

The two squads play a return engagement Saturday night at Berkeley in the TV Game of the Week.

Stanford, with a 3-2 conference score, goes into the game tied for third with UCLA, which has a pair on tap with Southern Cal.

Washington goes at Oregon and Washington State at Idaho. On Saturday, it will be Washington at Oregon State and Idaho at Washington State.

Key figures in the Bears-Indians battle will be Darrall Imhoff, California's 6-10 center who is shooting at a 44 per cent field goal clip for 11.1 points per game, and Paul Neumann, Stanford's captain who's the loop's leading scorer. Neumann has a 17.6 average with a 53.2 shooting percentage.

Imhoff is 5½ inches taller than any of Stanford Coach Howie Dallmar's boys.

The Bears, who have won four straight from their Stanford foes, are in good shape, but the Indians are not—their bench is weak. Second string guard John Stahler, at 5-7 the shortest player in the PCC, is sidelined for maybe two weeks with mononucleosis. The peppery Stahler sparks the second unit Dallmar often uses en masse and calls his "panic five."

Jerry Theusen, 6-7, and Neal Brockmeyer, 6-8, have both been out with the flu, but are expected to suit up for the Indians and may see limited service.

In the USC-UCLA slash, the oddsmakers favor the Bruins by three points off their showing last weekend when they walloped Oregon State and Washington State. The Trojans lost to OSC 63-51 and struggled mightily to beat Washington State in overtime 73-67.

The Uclans are hosts Friday night, the Trojans Saturday night.

Lightweights fight tonight

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lightweight hopefuls Len Matthews of Philadelphia and Paulie Armstead of Los Angeles, battling to get into the title contention picture, meet tonight at Hollywood Stadium in a nationally televised fight.

The 10-round bout goes on at 7 p. m., PST, over the National Broadcasting Co. network.

Matthews, 19, rate as a 2-1 favorites. He is undefeated in 16 fights and has stopped 12 opponents.

Armstead, 21, has won 22 matches, lost four and boxed one draw.

The bout will be scored under California's 10-point per round system — 10 points to the winner, 9 or less to the loser of a round.

Port agrees on price for ferry dock here

(From Evening News Jan. 15)

Commissioners of the Port of Port Angeles and Captain Alexander Peabody, of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, reached an agreement Wednesday on the purchase price of the company's dock at the north end of Laurel Street. The price is $287,000 if the commission purchases it.

Purchase of the dock, President Fred C. Strange of the Port Commission says, is contingent upon three things: (1) that the Black Ball Transport Inc., agrees to lease the dock at $30,000 a year, (2) that Black Ball Transport Inc. constructs a ferry boat: (3) that the Black Ball Transport Co., operate the ferry across the Strait of Juan de Fuca on a year-around basis.

The keel of the Black Ball new ferry Coho for the across-strait run was laid at Seattle Monday and is scheduled to be completed by the fall of 1959.

Negotiations between port commissioners and the Puget Sound Navigation Co., started first in February, 1958, when the commissioners offered $275,000 fo the structure. Negotiations were postponed until it was determined that Black Ball actually was to build a ferry boat. When the keel was laid the negotiations were resumed.

Peabody, spokesman for the Puget Sound Navigation Co., set the price at $300,000 and the Port Commission again offered $275,000. Each party had appraisals.

The price determined upon was a compromise between the two appraisals.

Port Commission President Fred C. Strange explained that if favorable negotiations are completed with Black Ball for lease of the structure a public hearing will be held on the matter and if a favorable decision is made the project is expected to be self-liquidating.

If the dock is purchased, considerable work will be done on it to take care of heavy traffic, Strange says.

The structure is locally known as the Black Ball Ferry dock. Since Black Ball Ferries, of the Puget Sound Navigation Co., ceased to operate out of this port, Washington State Ferries used the dock for across strait traffic and the Black Ball Transport Inc., boat Iroquois lands there. Black Ball Freight Service is using the dock warehouse.

The purchase, if consumated, would include all the physical assets of the dock, including the structure itself, buildings and ferry slips. The dock is on state harbor area leased land.

Port officers re-elected; Evans sworn in

(From Evening News Jan. 15)

Hayes Evans, port commissioner from the first district, was sworn in and started his third six-year term, at the Wednesday meeting of the Port Commission.

In the reorganization of the board, the same officers were elected. They are Fred C. Strange, president, Bert Butts vice president and Hayes Evans secretary.

Strange has served 14 years on the board and Butts four years. Strange is commissioner from the second district and Butts from the third. Their six year terms have not yet expired.

All employees of the port district were re-hired upon motion of the board.

They include Manager Jack P. Hogan a 12-year employee, Thomas Neil, auditor, employed since 1953, Attorneys Tyler Moffett and Andrew Severyns of the firm of Severyns and Moffett and Betty Powell, clerk. Included were a number of other employes at the port terminal.

Present at Wednesday's meeting, with the other two commissioners and port officials, was Bert Butts of LaPush, recently returned from six weeks vacation in California.

Discussed was the port boat haven addition and the project was visited. Piles are being driven on the west wing of the bulkhead.

Dredging operations have been suspended. Action is expected soon from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as to plans for resumption of dredging operations, Hogan told board members.

Heart attack fatal to driver; truck crashes

(From Evening News Jan. 15)

Fred D. Pennoyer, 67, of Rt. 1, Port Angeles, died at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday while being taken to Olympic Memorial Hospital following an accident in which his pickup truck went off Highway 9A, 22 miles west of Port Angeles.

He was driving east on the highway when he evidently became unconscious, State Patrolman Richard Bradley reports. The car went off the north side of the highway and traveled along the shoulder 150 feet, then went down a 25-foot embankment and traveled 90 feet until hitting a ditch and turning over.

Pennoyer was taken to his home at Joyce where he went into a coma. He succumbed while en route to Olympic Memorial Hospital, Bradley reports.

Deputy Coroner Gil Harper reports that Pennoyer was under treatment for a heart condition and probably died of a heart attack. He had no injuries from the accident except a cut on his right hand, Harper reports.

Funeral services for Mr. Pennoyer will be held at the Harper Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Saturday.

New ferry to be added to Sidney-Anacortes run

(From Evening News Jan. 15)

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — The planned addition of a new, large car-passenger ferry to the Sidney-Anacortes run of Washington State Ferries, was announced Wednesday by general manager R. I. Birse.

The state-owned company will start operating out of Sidney March 23, using the Klickitat, newly-enlarged to carry 95 cars. In April the Evergreen State, one of the newest and largest car-passenger ferries on the Pacific Coast, will be added to the service which will run through Oct. 31.

Reports persist in shipping circles here that the CPR will retire the ferries Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth this year and vacate the Victoria-Seattle service. In that event it is expected that Washington State Ferries will extend its Sidney-Anacortes service on a year-around basis.

Former resident here heads new plywood firm

(From Evening News Jan. 14)

A former Port Angeles resident is now the president and general manager of a new plywood firm in Grants Pass, Ore.

Jackson Beamon, former sales manager for the Peninsula Plywood Corp., here is head of a new organization which purchased the Southern Oregon Plywood mill at Grants Pass Dec. 31.

According to the Associated Press, the firm headed by Beamon acquired the mill only three days after the Vancouver Plywood Co., of Vancouver, Wash., bought it for $2,100,000. No sale price was mentioned in the second transaction.

Beamon came here from the Grays Harbor area in 1942. He was sales manager at PenPly from that time until December, 1945, when he took the same position with the Umpqua Plywood Co., in Roseburg, Ore. He also was a shareholder in that firm.

He later moved to Grants Pass where he became general manager of a plywood company before he joined in this latest venture.

St. Louis man in mutilation slaying of wife

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charles E. Montague was charged with first degree murder Thursday in the mutilation slaying of his wife eight days ago.

The murder warrant was issued as the 34-year-old laboratory technician returned to court this afternoon to press his legal fight for release from a mental hospital where police had placed him.

Chief of Detectives James E. Chapman said new evidence had been uncovered warranting the murder charge.

The circuit attorney's office said if Montague wins his release from the hospital on his habeas corpus action he will be immediately arrested on the murder warrant.

Chapman refused to disclose the nature of the new evidence.

The mutilated body of Mrs. Montague, 32, mother of two small children, was found in her car near a home where she had attended a sorority party the night before.

Montague was arrested twice and twice released before he finally was committed to the Malcom Bliss Hospital, a mental institution. Montague was seeking his release from the institution through the courts when the warrant was issued.

Propose Old English camp as National monument

OLYMPIA (AP) — State Parks Director John Vanderzicht Thursday proposed the site of the Old English Camp on San Juan Island be established as a national monument.

The proposal was contained in a letter from Vanderzicht to Rep. Jack Westland (R-Wash).

A detachment of British soldiers was stationed at the campsite during the 12-year period starting in 1860 while a boundary dispute between the United States and Great Britain was arbitrated by the emperor of Germany.

In his leter to Westland, Vanderzicht said the condition of the old English blockhouse is such that in a very short time, without restoration, there will be no original buildings left on the site.

Salesman will put up 'No Riders' sign

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP)—Rod Brand turned on his truck radio Wednesday and got this chilling news:

The police were looking for the two young hitchhikers he had just picked up.

And so Brand, a tire salesman, drove for nearly 20 miles before he could tell anyone of his plight and get police to set up a roadblock.

Finally, Brand drove into Dufur, 20 miles south of here, and waiting police arrested the hitchhikers.

Sheriff Ernie Mosier identified the men arrested as Patrick Daniel Thornhill of Stockton, Calif., and Luther LeRoy Hoots, whom the sheriff said was AWOL from the Navy.

The two 19-year-olds were held in the Wasco County jail here without formal charge.

STATE CAR

Mosier said the pair admitted stealing a car here Wednesday and slugging a service station attendant to steal gasoline.

Then, said Mosier, the youths related that they abandoned the car near The Dalles and hitched the ride with the tire salesman.

The 29-year-old Brand, a resident of The Dalles, said that "I thought they were just kids going south."

After he got the news from the radio, Brand said, "I just acted like I wasn't paying any attention to the radio. I guess they didn't want me to know they heard it. All three of us were trying to act natural."

Brand said he made frequent stops at stores to sell tires. But each time, he said, the youths got out of the truck with him, and he was afraid to try and get help.

LEFT MESSAGE

Finally, after making another call, he got into the truck, then dashed back into the store to get the invoice book he purposely left.

Brand said he hurriedly told the proprietor to call police, and then went back to the truck.

The youths, he said, apparently were not alarmed. Minutes later Brand drove into Dufur—and into the arms of the waiting police.

"I was really glad to see the police," Brand said. "I didn't say anything, but I was glad. Tomorrow I'm putting a no-riders sign on the truck."

Nazi puppetmaster wins stay in extradition effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Andrija Artukovic, wartime interior minister in the Nazi puppet state of Croatia, has won a seven - year fight to escape extradition to Yugoslavia. The Yugoslav government wanted to place him on trial on mass murder charges.

But the man his accusers called "the butcher of the Balkans" heard a United States commissioner rule Thursday there was no reasonable cause to believe him guilty of the crimes charged.

The commissioner, Theodore Hocke, also held that the accusations brought by the Yugoslav government were political and not extraditable for that reason.

Artukovic, 58, lives near Long Beach, Calif., with his wife and five children.

Dr. Conant sees no need for big upheaval in U. S. high schools; urges stiffer curriculum

(From Evening News Jan. 15)
By HELEN RADKE
Member of School District No. 17 Board of Directors

Outstanding ovation was the tribute paid Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard, as he concluded his address in Seattle last week on "Washington's High Schools."

Such a demonstration is as rare as the speech which occasioned it. Probably the president of the Seattle School Board, Mrs. Henry C. Owen, summed up the feeling of many who attended when she said "I count myself fortunate to have heard one such speech in a lifetime."

Dr. Conant's address was given at a luncheon meeting, Jan. 3, at the Olympic Hotel and was one of a series of appearances which will take him to twenty states to report his findings in his recent study of the comprehensive American high school.

DR. CONANT'S APPEARANCE in Seattle was co-sponsored by eight Washington organizations with an interest in public education and was open to the public. The wide appeal of both the speaker and his subject to laymen as well as educators was evident in the composition of the audience. Many of the 900 persons who came from throughout western and central Washington to hear Dr. Conant were lay people.

Our own Port Angeles delegation was probably representative of the cross-section of interests present. Traveling from Port Angeles to hear this noted educator were three school board members, five members of our school staff, a legislator, and four other interested citizens.

Dr. Conant's current study of the American high school began in 1957 under the auspices of the Carnegie Corporation. In visits to more than fifty comprehensive public high schools in twenty states, he has been observing good educational practices and analyzing their effects on the total school program.

DURING THIS TIME, Dr. Conant estimates he has talked to almost 3,000 teachers as well as to many administrators, principals, and counselors. I was particularly interested in the fact that in each school he also talked to a group of student leaders, without supervisors or administrators present.

I was also interested in the fact that the schools Dr. Conant chose to visit were located in cities with a population of from 10,000 to 100,000 and were schools where less than half of the graduates go on to a four-year institution of higher learning.

I mention this last fact because I believe it illustrates Dr. Conant's belief in the importance of the education of all pupils. While some of his recommendations deal with the education of the bright youngster in the comprehensive high school his address gave ample evidence that his concern was for all pupils.

I would like to make two general comments about his conclusions before outlining his specific recommendations.

FIRST OF ALL, I found it most encouraging as a school board member when Dr. Conant stated that he believed no radical changes are required in the basic pattern of secondary education. "I believe it is possible," he said, "to provide in a comprehensive high school for the whole spectrum of abilities and ambitions to be found in the youth of the United States." Dr. Conant does not believe we should pattern our schools after the schools of Europe as so many critics of our schools are suggesting today.

This is not to say that Dr. Conant does not believe that changes are needed in many schools. He stresses that there should be a basic program of general education for all to occupy about half of a pupil's time irrespective of the elective program.

He favors stiffer courses of study, more science, mathematics, and foreign languages for the academically talented. He believes the program of the non-academic students should be planned with equal care, with a sequence of electives keyed to the student's interests and abilities. He believes that pupils should be grouped according to ability, but that this should be done subject by subject. He believes that half of the time devoted to English should be given to composition and that a school-wide composition test should be given annually.

The second comment I would like to make concerns his firm belief that it is impossible to generalize about the present status of public secondary education. He points out that there are 21,000 high schools in the United States and that the great diversity among schools makes the concept of a typical high school without meaning. Criticisms of schools can be reasonably examined only school-by-school or they will have little meaning. "Facts," according to Dr. Conant, "must be ascertained community-by-community."

DR. CONANT NAMED Washington's number one problem at the state level as the need to eliminate the small high school through wise district organization. "Four out of five of the State's high schools are too small to offer an adequate educational program," stated the noted educator.

He went on to say that he had become convinced by what he had seen in the last year that a high school with less than 100 in its graduating class cannot provide a satisfactory education. He stated, "This is particularly true in regard to the education of the more able pupils."

Dr. Conant explained that there is at present great diversity in regard to progress in school district organization among the various states. In California for example 95 per cent of the students are going to schools of sufficient size. In contrast, in some states as many as 70 per cent of the students are going to high schools that are too small.

The State's financial contribution to the support of local schools is another concern in Washington. Dr. Conant stated it was not his intention to go into the complicated issue of the tax structure of any state, but added, "Hardly anyone will deny that more money must be available through taxation (local and state) for the public schools in the coming years."

Other recommendations are summarized for brevity:

REQUIRE EVERY STUDENT to take at least 4 years of English (including literature and composition), 3 or 4 years of social studies (including 2 years of history), at least 1 year of mathematics, and 1 year of science.

LIMIT ELECTIVE SUBJECTS for the non-academic student to about half a pupil's time, and insist that electives add up to a meaningful course of study. Do away with "tracks" of study such as "commercial," "college preparatory," etc. and substitute an individual program based on each pupil's needs.

REQUIRE THE ACADEMICALLY TALENTED (the top fifteen to twenty per cent of the pupil population, nationally, to take at least 4 years of English, 3 years of social studies including two years of history, 4 years of mathematics, 3 years of science, and 4 years of one foreign language. From 15 to 20 hours of home study would be necessary each week for such a course.

Dr. Conant stated that in most of the schools he visited the offerings in mathematics and science seemed satisfactory, though usually this was not the case for languages. He mentioned the fact that the real question seemed to be how many of the really able students were electing these courses and how stiff a total program were such students carrying).

COMPILE AN "ACADEMIC INVENTORY" to determine what courses are actually studied by the bright students in high school. The names of the students would of course not be published but the information obtained would be useful in providing these students with guidance.

OFFER 4-YEAR COURSES IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES. Two years study of a foreign language is, according to Dr. Conant, "like drilling for oil and stopping just before the oil is reached."

AVOID ISOLATING VOCATIONAL STUDENTS. Let them take the basic courses with other students. There should be a sequence in the vocational program and opportunities for employment in the skills being taught.

REWARD SCHOLARSHIP with a yearly "honors list" based on grades obtained in the courses recommended for the academically talented. Some equivalent incentive could be provided for those who elect a non-academic program. Abolish the rank of valedictorian as this honor encourages students of ability to take easy courses to get good grades and thus obtain high class standing.

TEST ALL PUPILS IN ENGLISH COMPOSITION each year. Half of the time devoted to English should be given to composition. To allow time for writing themes, and for correcting them, no English teacher should teach more than one hundred pupils.

SUPPLEMENT THE DIPLOMA with a durable record of all courses studied and grades obtained. This should be so well publicized that employers would ask to see this record rather than the diploma.

COMPILE AN "ACADEMIC INVENTORY" of the course being taken by the bright students to determine whether they are taking a challenging program in line with their ability and if not provide them with more effective guidance.

GROUP STUDENTS BY ABILITY subject by subject. Three groups are usually sufficient. One group would be made up of the more able students, one for those in the middle range of ability and one for those with lower academic ability who require more special attention. The same student may find himself with one group in one subject and with a different group in another subject.

Mother dying of cancer; three children burn

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — While their mother lay critically ill in a hospital here, three Indian children burned to death on the Cocopah Indian Reservation Thursday night.

Hospital authorities are trying to keep news from pretty Mrs. Elaine Jim, 23. In a two-month battle against cancer she has constantly said, "I want to live for my children."

Her children — Sherrill, 5, Frederick 3, and Alfred Jr., 19 months — were trapped when flames engulfed the adobe home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Jim. The grandparents escaped.

Deputy O. D. Jones of Yuma County said children were left with the grandparents when Mrs. Jim was taken to the hospital.

The father received word of the deaths in the Phoenix city jail where he had been serving a sentence for being drunk. Lawmen arranged for his release.

REALISM

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor-director Marlon Brando wanted realism in his jailbreak movie scene. He got it.

Slim Pickens, who plays a deputy sheriff in the film "One-Eyed Jacks," swung a rifle butt at the escaping Brando and connected. Brando suffered a deep gash over his right eye.

Mikoyan proves to be master politician on U. S. selling tour

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP) — "That guy " gasped the veteran West Coast reporter: "There was that one little kid with a big red baseball cap in the whole crowd. This Mikoyan no more gets out the door than he spots him and goes right over to pat him on the head. All the cameras went off at once."

The scene had taken place at Perino's restaurant on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles.

In Detroit an exhausted reporter at the end of a long day sank into his chair at the office: "If Mickey Mantle could only have the legs this guy has got! He must have walked 10 miles today through all those auto plants. And he's 63 years old too."

At the Lincoln Electric Co. plant in Cleveland Mikoyan stopped to chat with a worker who spoke a bit of Russian. After a brief but cordial exchange, Mikoyan extended his hand to give a warm clasp and said: "And please do remember to give my very best wishes to your father and mother."

At a news conference at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles a correspondent asked a ticklish question: "How is it that you have managed to survive through four governments of the Soviet Union when others have not"

'FORTUNATE'

Without a flicker of an eyelash, Mikoyan quipped in reply: "Didn't I say before that I thought I was fortunate . . ."

All these and dozens of other incidents illustrate one fact about Anastas I. Mikoyan. He takes to political campaigning like a duck to water.He has a gift for doing exactly the right thing at the right time in order to win over his audience or grab the stage. He loves being in the limelight. And he doesn't mind an uphill struggle.

"You know if he were to stick around for a while I think he would get elected senator," joked a California businessman.

And in fact in his seven-day, five-city coast-to-coast tour of America, Mikoyan was waging a real political campaign. He was running against the deep mistrust for the Soviet Union which by now is ingrained in the American mind. He was campaigning to establish a picture of a Soviet leader as a warm, friendly, humorous and human type of person. He was campaigning against trade restrictions, against suspicion of Soviet motives. The platform he was running on was peace and an end to the cold war, more trade and more contacts between the Soviet Union and America, and the concept of "let's talk things over even if we don't think we can settle anything."

The Mikoyan technique includes humor, frankness, reasonableness, a warmly human approach and unperturbed stolidity in the face of open hostility.

SENSE OF HUMOR

His sense of humor has made more impression than perhaps any other single eleement in his approach:

On Adlai Stevenson: "After our talk with him Khrushchev and I exchanged impressions. We decided here is a thinking American who desires to understand us better. He lacked a few million votes of becoming president. Perhaps if we had been approached we could have lent them to him."

On U.S. trade restrictions: "Among things permitted for export to the Soviet Union are laxatives. Thank you, but it is impossible to soften us up that way."

Seen at close quarters over a period of time, Mikoyan emerges as a man of enormous vitality and energy. This is not merely a matter of being able to walk miles, make one speech after another before tough audiences, and get by at times with only a few hours sleep. It is a question of having the bounding vigor which makes these things and the other responsibilities of Soviet statesmanship a creative opportunity and not just a chore.

Grocer shot in Portland holdup

PORTLAND (AP)—Two young, masked gunmen Thursday night twice shot a store keeper as they held up his small grocery store

One bullet hit Thomas Michael Feeney in the abdomen. The other hit his hip.

The 52-year-old Feeney was reported in fair condition at Good Samaritan Hospital here.

Feeney told police that the youths walked into his store and said: 'This is a stickup."

"I thought it was a couple of kids from the neighborhood pulling a prank," said Feeney. 'The gun was so small."

After Feeney resisted and was shot, the youths fled with his wallet.

Photograph is clue in Montague death

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A first-degree murder warrant has been issued against Charles E. Montague on the basis of a photograph made of his wife at a sorority party the night of Jan. 6.

The color photograph snapped by an amateur who was concentrating on another subject, showed a profile of Mrs. Ruth Ann Montague, 32, mother of two. She was wearing a large golden earring.

Thirteen hours after Mrs. Montague left the party, her body was found in her car, parked across the street from the apartment house where the party was held. She had been strangled. Her body had been mutilated. No earrings were found on her body or at the scene.

Montague was arrested Tuesday for further questioning. Officers said they found on him a pair of earrings which match the one shown in the photograph. They said Montague told them he found the earrings in his apartment.

Circuit Atty. Thomas F. Eagleton issued the murder warrant Thursday after viewing an enlargement of the snapshot. At the time, Montague was seeking a court order releasing him from Malcolm Bliss Mental Hospital. Police commited him on suspicion of being a dangerous person after Montague, 34, had won a court order Wednesday releasing him from jail.

Montague has been returned to the hospital. He is a ward of the St. Louis Court of Appeals until it rules on his petition for release from the hospital. If and when he is released, he will be arrested on the murder charge, Eagleton said.

Judge advises motorist to break the law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TACOMA (AP) — Up before Judge De Witt Rowland with one traffic ticket, a Tacoman protested that his car was parked outside and he might get another before his case was settled.

"Okay," said the police judge, "you can go out and put another nickel in the meter."

Prosecutor Tom Lowry reminded the judge that re-nickeling a meter also was a ticketable offense and said "both of you would be breaking a Tacoma law" if the meter was rejuvenated.

The court reversed itself and the ticket holder stayed put.

AGAINST THE LAW

OLYMPIA (AP) — Probably few people knew about it, but thousands of parents apparently unwittingly have been violating provisions of the state juvenile code, according to a Legislative Council bill presented to the House Friday.

The measure would repeal an act prohibiting the selling or giving of toy pistols to minors under 18 years of age.

Winter weather again hits in Mid West, East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather, after a short rest, was back in business today, dealing arctic air and gusty winds across most of the eastern two-thirds of the country.

Stiff northerly winds, with gusts up to 40 m.p.h., swept across wide areas of the midcontinent, fanning the cold air southward into the western Gulf region and eastward across the Appalachians.

Sub-zero cold and biting winds stung northern Midwest regions. Most of the north central region shivered in near zero temperatures.

BELOW ZERO

Temperatures of 15 degrees below zero and lower were reported in northern Minnesoto and eastern North Dakota, with similar marks indicated in parts of South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Temperatures dropped as much as 30 degrees in most of the area from the Ohio Valley southwestward into the southern plains. It was freezing in Arkansas and western Tennessee and near the 32 mark in parts of Mississippi.

Heavy snow accompanied the cold in parts of the upper Ohio Valley, western New York and northern New England, with three inches in several sections. Snow flurries fell throughout the Great Lakes region.

FREEZING RAIN

A mixture of snow and rain and some freezing rain slicked highways and streets in southern New York state and southward across western Pennsylvania into West Virginia. Similar conditions were reported in new England and hazardous driving warnings were issued.

The mixture of snow or rain was expected to continue into the Middle Atlantic states, but changing to snow in most sections as colder air moves into the region.

Fairly mild weather prevailed in some areas east of the Appalachians, with temperatures in the upper 50s as far north as Washington.

Now poltergeists are breaking bathroom windows

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — "I'm so nervous I'm jumping out of my rocking chair at the slightest noise, expecting to hear more glass crash."

That is the reaction of Mrs. Charles Papineau, 80-year-old grandmother, at whose home 39 windows have been broken since a week ago Tuesday.

Police investigated, found no evidence of lawbreaking and withdrew.

John C. Parker, a self-styled authority on poltergeist — noisy ghosts—stepped in.

He said he wanted first to eliminate any possible scientific explanation.

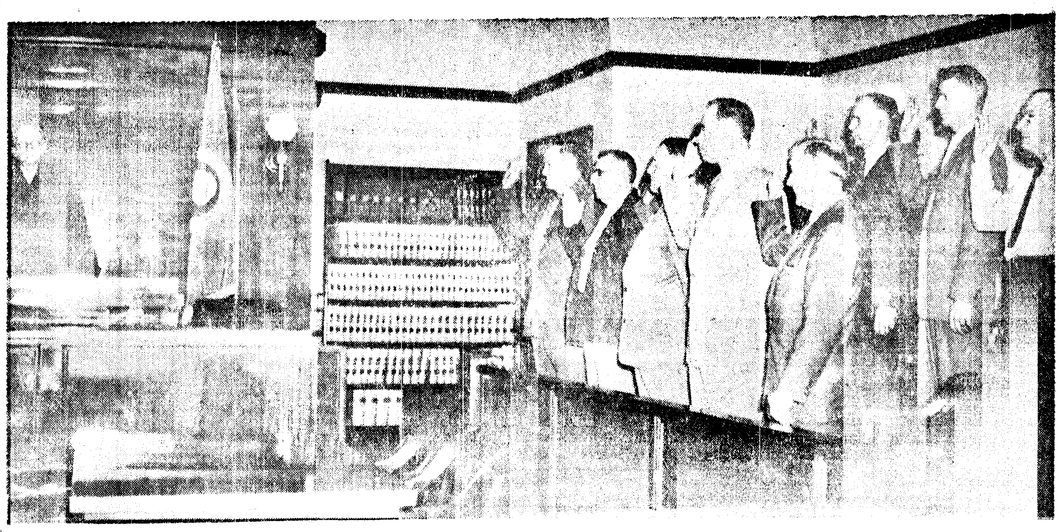
He said he would install a recording thermometer in the bathroom of the 2½-story frame home.

Three windows have been broken in the bathroom. Parker said he wanted to check the possibility that temperature changes might have shattered the windows.

Mrs. Papineau and her 13-year-old grandson, Wayne, have both said they heard strange thumping noises just before windows crashed.

James M. Herrmann of Seaford, N.Y., whose home on Long Island experienced some unexplained bottle-top poppings about a year ago, told the Springfield, (Mass.) Union:

"The only thing to do is put your faith in God and try to go on. Don't be frightened that the things that are happening may not be explainable. Try as much as possible to control yourself and accept what is happening. Accept it as something being visited upon you."



Take oath

Superior Court Judge Max Church administered the oath of office this morning to the county oficials whose terms started at noon today. Woman doctor spends terrifying time with maniac

LONDON (AP)—A woman doctor talked for 15 terrifying minutes Wednesday night with a maniac pointing a pistol at her head.

The wild-eyed young gunman told Dr. Mary McHugh: "I have got to kill—you will do."

Dr. McHugh, 42, mother of three children, had a number of patients waiting to see her at her home office in the Camberwell district of southeast London.

Third to be called in was a man of about 24. She motioned him to a chair.

"I have a problem," he told her, whipping out a pistol. "I have got to kill someone. I'm not joking. I mean it."

She talked about anything that came to mind. 'I knew he was desperate and my only hope was to talk him out of it," she said later. Finally the man got up and went to the door.

"I shall be back," he said. "I must kill."

Then he vanished in the fog.

Market influence absent in grain trading

CHICAGO (AP) — Market influences were virtually absent from grain futures activity today and prices on the Board of Trade ran both above and below previous closes.

The ranges broadened somewhat in late trade, indicating brokers were in a fairly general shift of positions, liquidating some months and buying others.

However, prices held within small fractions of Wednesday's finishes most of the time.

Carlot receipts in Chicago today were estimated at: wheat none, corn 140 cars, oats 29, rye none, barley 22, soybeans 2.

Bank teller put on spot by telephone call

NEW YORK (AP) — You're a bank teller. A telephone caller tells you to get $10,000 ready for a courier within a quarter of an hour or your wife and son wil suffer. You have to make a fast decision.

James Valenti made his. He told his superiors and they nabbed an innocent messenger boy. But Valenti's hunch was right. It was all a complicated deal.

It happened Wednesday at the Hanover Bank near Grand Central Station. Valenti, 24, had to leave his cage to get a phone call.

A man's voice told him: "We're holding your wife, Angela, and son, James. A messenger will come in with an envelope. Put $10,000 in it and nothing will happen to them.' The man hung up.

Valenti frantically dialed his home. There was no answer.

Valenti didn't know that a man had called his Brooklyn home and told his wife a phone company check was being made on the line and that she should ignore any rings for the next 15 minutes. He didn't know that his wife and their 2½-year-old son were going shopping anyway.

A uniformed messenger boy arrived at the bank. As he entered the bank with the envelope the surprised boy was seized by a bank guard.

The boy's employer explained that a "Mr. Carter' had the note sent to the bank. The man said he would await a reply in the Lincoln Building lobby. Police rushed to the Lincoln Building, nearby, but no man was found.

U. S. reassures West Germany it will stand firm on Berlin

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has reassured West Germany that it is standing pat — for the time being, at least — on the policy of seeking German reunification through free, all-German elections.

Official statements, however, did not rule out the possibility of future revision of this policy.

The West German government of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer sought more information after Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference that free elections were the "natural method' but not the only possible way of merging the two parts of Germany into a single nation again.

This was interpreted as meaning that the stand for free elections might be modified if some other practical avenue to unification opened up in prospective negotiations with the Soviet Union.

It is understood that various new ideas relating to the German problem are under discussion in the State Department, even though all in the end could be discarded.

West German Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe and Herbert Dittmann top-ranking emissary from the German Foreign Office, conferred with Dulles for an hour Wednesday.

REAFFIRM POLICY

Grewe then issued this statement, saying that it had Dulles' full approval: "The secretary reaffirmed that it is the policy of the United States government to seek reunification of Germany through free elections. As the secretary said yesterday at his press conference, there are various theoretically possible methods, but reunification of Germany by free elections is the natural method and the formula agreed to (by the Western powers and the Soviet Union) at the summit conference in 1955."

Since the summit meeting, however, the Soviet Union has opposed the election plan and insisted on direct negotiations between the East and West German government on reunification.

State Department press officer Lincoln White also issued a statement saying, "There is no change in the United States position of support for free elections as the best and most logical method of achieving a true and workable reunification of Germany."

While both of these declarations stated emphatically what the present policy is, neither of them ruled out the possibility of moves toward the merging of East and West Germany through some other formula if that can be done.

The Soviets are advocating a German settlement which would demilitarize and isolate that nation as a buffer zone in central Europe.

IKE DENOUNCES

As Dulles had done earlier, President Eisenhower denounced the Soviet plan Wednesday and called it "an exercise in futility." The Germans are too strong and active a people to accept such a status, he indicated.

But he offered the Soviets "any assurance, any material moves to show that there is no danger from these (German) people and they shouldn't insist on isolating them."

Eisenhower, replying to questions at the National Press Club, said he plans to make no new proposal when he meets Saturday with Anastas I. Mikoyan, deputy Soviet premier. But he expressed hope they could "get behind each other's facial expressions," to get some idea of what each is thinking.

OLYMPIA (AP)—First bills of the 36th legislature were passed by the Senate and sent to the House Thursday.

As usual, they provided money for running the legislature.

Three bills appropriated $693,500 for the 60-day session that opened Monday.

One measure alloted $380,000 for general legislative expenses; another provided $90,000 for printing, and the third appropriated $223,500 for the legislators board and room while in Olympia.

Each was adopted by a vote of 47-0. Two senators were absent.

Area teachers hear of state issues in meet

State legislation proposed for the 1959 session will determine the quality of education in Washington for many years to come, school leaders were told at a meeting of educators representing school districts in Clallam, Jefferson and Kitsap counties Jan. 6 in Bremerton.

The hearing was sponsored by the Washington Education Association to help teachers and administrators to become more familiar with issues to be aired in Olympia during the next few weeks. Educators from Port Angeles were Eleanor Naddy, Louise Dunworth, Lyle Lindelien, Phyllis Barger, V. W. Overstreet, Kenneth Howerton, Kenneth Manus and Ronald G. Buehler. The meeting was presided over by Buehler and he lead the discussion of issues.

GREAT CONCERN was expressed regarding the anticipated increase in pupil enrollment, particularly at the more costly secondary level. At least 53,000 additional pupils are expected by the end of this biennium. Only 9,200 will be in the elementary grades; the remainder will swell junior highs, high schools and junior colleges.

Among bills backed by the professional association is a measure which would provide a uniform, statewide sick-leave policy for teachers. Surveys reported indicated that such a program costs a school district less than a more limited sick-leave program. Prevailing practices are inconsistent and result in inequities in some school districts, the group maintained, Buehler said.

A major objective of the school director's budget is to prevent an increase in overcrowded classes. Statistics presented by Eleanor Naddy of the WEA State Board, showed that 61 percent of Washington's elementary school children are in classes of 30 or more pupils.

A STRONG CASE was made for increasing teachers' salaries to prevent the quality of Washington's schools from deteriorating.

"Thirty-eight states gave teachers a greater percentage average increase this year over last year than did Washington," Buehler said.

"Washington ranked sixth in average salary paid teachers last year. This year, we are eleventh."

"Salary increases for teachers this year over last year averaged $149, as compared with the national average raise of $215," he added.

Council hears LID report

Motor Co. the apparent low bidder at $2,395.

The ordinance amendment governing motels and hotels passed on second reading.

Commenting on a police report on the system of checking street lights, Councilman Murray F. Randall said he had received several complaints about burned out lights on the 8th St. Bridge. Randall said the standards themsevles are burned out, and since they soon will be replaced, it is not worthwhile to repair them.

Councilman James F. Caldwell asked if the street lights had been left on longer on dark days, as requested at a previous Council meeting. Slankard said that the photoelectric cell which turns the street lights on and off had been set to include forty more minutes of lighting each day, and that some additional time will be added.

IN OTHER BUSINESS: The Council split a fuel oil bid between Peninsula Fuel Co. and McMahan Fuel Co.

Told Slankard to set a date for a meeting with the Civil Service Commission.

And voted to reimburse Walce B. Smith for one lot deeded to the city and to return two other lots to him. All are located on the I St. hill.

Two minor accidents occurred in the city early this morning and another one Thursday afternoon.

City police report Harry E. Fulkerson, 704 Marine Drive, collided with a city light standard on Front St., between Cherry and Oak Sts., at 3:24 this morning.

The investigating officer reported Fulkerson's 1959 pickup damaged beyond its value and estimated $200 damage to the light standard.

The second occurred on Marine Drive at 2:30 a. m. when the left rear dual wheels on a six-wheel chip truck came loose and rolled into the oncoming traffic, colliding with a car driven by George M. Thompson, 306 W. 1st St.

City police estimated approximately $150 damage to Thompson's car. Robert E. Gusa, 1607 E. Front St., was the driver of the truck.

The accident Thursday afternoon occurred at the intersection of 6th and M Sts. at 2:12 p. m. when cars driven by Esther Rhodes, 49, 535 Vashon Ave., and Lilo E. Homchick, 27, 1450 S. Francis St., collided.

Mrs. Rhodes estimated approximately $200 damage to her 1954 sedan and Mrs. Homchick $150 to her 1952 car.

State gets go-ahead on new lake bridge

OLYMPIA (AP) — A meeting of the State Toll Bridge Authority will be held Monday to authorize the first steps toward construction of a second Lake Washington bridge, Gov. Rosellini said Thursday.

And William A. Bugge, state director of highways, announced construction of a new span at the Evergreen Point - Montlake location could be started by May if no additional hurdles arise.

The way was cleared for financing the proposed new bridge with the announcement Thursday of an abrupt about-face by the federal government on a ruling concerning reimposition of tolls on the existing floating bridge.

RECONSIDERED

At his afternoon press conference, Rosellini was handed a letter from the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in which the agency said it had reconsidered its earlier ruling prohibiting reimposition of tolls on the present span.

The federal government originally ruled tolls could not be reestablished because some $34,000 in federal funds had been used to landscape an area beyond the Mercer Island toll house. The government maintained the area would have to remain open for use without tolls.

RAMP ARRANGEMENT

Under the new arrangement, the state will build a ramp by which motorists can reach the federally landscaped area without paying tolls. The ramp would bypass the toll house and circle the area where federal funds were used.

Rosellini stressed, however, that he was convinced traffic on the new span—at a per-car toll of 25 cents—would be sufficient to retire the $26,700,000 bond issue necessary to finance.

Tolls would not be reimposed on the present bridge unless it becomes necessary, he said.

Rosellini, paid tribute to Bugge, Ernest Ketcham, chairman of the highways commission, and Asst. Gen. Stanley Sender, who he said have been working toward federal clearance for a reimposition of tolls if it became necessary.

Bandits earn their just desserts

NEW YORK (AP)—Two bandits got their just dessert Thursday. They grabbed a cardboard box thinking it was a $3,000 payroll. Instead it contained a custard pie.

Mechanics Gaston Martens of Fort Lee, N.J., and James Rayster of Manhattan were just driving up to the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. garage with the payroll. En route from the bank they had picked up the pie.

They were accosted by two armed men. One thug slugged Rayster with a rubber hose. The other grabbed the box.

Police cruising the Henry Hudson Parkway spotted a car sideswiping several cars. They gave chase and captured Francis Romano, 26, and his brother, John, 23, both of the Bronx.

In the car, which police said was stolen, were a revolver, a pistol, and the pie. The brothers were booked on charges of assault, robbery and violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapons) law.

Maybe he told her to go jump in the river

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (AP)—The couple in the cafe booth appeared to be arguing Wednesday.

Suddenly, the woman got up, walked out the door and went down the street to the center of the Main Street bridge.

There, said Sheriff Jerry Florea, she climbed on the railing and jumped 30 feet into the Kootenai River. She bobbed up, swam to shore, walked back down the street, back into the cafe, back into the booth soaking wet.

A waitress called officers. Florea said the couple gave their names, said they lived in Canada but wouldn't say anything else.

The woman, still all wet, and her male companion then got up, walked out of the cafe, got into a car and drove away.

LONG VOYAGE FOR SPRUCE

HOQUIAM (AP) — Washington spruce logs are floating on Lake Superior.

Cut by the Mayr Brothers Logging Co. here, 250 logs were shipped to Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. and placed in the lake. Because of its durability, the spruce is ideal for use as boomsticks in making huge pulpwood rafts.

The rafts are towed across the lake from Ontario and northern Minnesota to mills in Wisconsin. As much as 14,000 cords of pulpwood are carried in a single raft.
