Added jobless pay claims due April 10

The local office of the State Employment Security Dept. will begin processing claims for additional unemployment compensation April 10.

Persons who have exhausted their benefits for the benefit year which began in July, 1960, and are still unemployed, are eligible for the extended coverage.

Floyd Hill, director of the local employment office, reports 253 persons in Clallam and Jefferson counties have exhauster their unemployment claims but all of these will not be eligible for the additional funds. Some have returned to work.

Hill also commented this is not an unusually high number of exhaustions for this area as compared with other years. He noted, however, the real determining factor will be the employment picture between now and the end of June. If it swings up, this year will not stand out as an expecially high one for exhausted unemployment claims, but if it doesn't, there could be a real need for the extended coverage.

As the new law now stands, persons exhausting unemployment compensation claims are eligible for extended coverage until April 1, 1962.

Hill will attend a meeting of the State Employment Security Dept. in Seattle next Wednesday to discuss the administration of this temporary extension of unemployment claims.

Weather mild for skiing on ridge

"Good spring skiing" was the word from Olympic National Park headquarters this morning.

At 8 a.m. today the temperature on Hurricane Ridge stood at 33 degrees with a 5 mph wind blowing from the south.

The total depth of the solid snow pack is now 201 inches. At the time of the report there was no new snow, but some snow was falling occasionally.

The general weather was cloudy, but visibility was good.

Early today the road was open and bare all the way to the lodge with the exception of some icy spots which officials expected to melt off later in the day.

The ridge area opened at 9 a.m. today, the first of the long weekend. The area will be open also on Saturday and Sunday.

Ferry fare hike due to bridge delay avoided

OLYMPIA (AP) — A provision which could have meant an increase in ferry fares because of delays in the Hood Canal bridge was eliminated by Gov. Rosellini Thursday.

The governor signed a bill which:

Authorizes the State Toll Bridge Authority to refund all or part of the $38 million in bonds outstanding against the bridge and the state ferry system;

Appropriates $2.6 million to meet the anticipated deficit of the ferry system in the next biennium

Establishes a Puget Sound Reserve Account which will be used to guarantee payment of principal and interest on the bonds.

Officials said the guaantee fund would substitute for a requirement that earnings from the ferry system and the Hood Canal span be equal to 140 per cent of the annual debt service requirement. This requirement had posed the possibility that a hike in ferry rates might be needed to compensate for delays in construction of the floating span.

State officials said the subsidy will not all be needed if the bond refunding program is carried out within two years.

Indian problems highlighted by closure of lake

SEATTLE (AP) — Closure of Lake Quinault to fishing by white men is helping focus attention on Indian problems, an Indian leader said here Thursday.

H. T. Hawkins, president of the Intertribal Council of Western Washington Indians, commented on the closure ordered by the Quinault tribe.

The Quinaults took action after the legislature passed a law banning the shipment of game fish, such as Quinault river steelhead, for sale in other states.

Hawkins was here for an all-tribal council which asked enlargement of the agenda of a hearing to be held in Spokane April 10-12 by an Interior Department task force.

The council adopted a resolution by Steve Cleveland of the Colvilles asking that a law permitting a state to assume civil and criminal jurisdiction on reservations be added to the agenda. Cleveland said the law should be amended to require consent of the Indians.

Whidbey copter crew surveying in Lake County

LAKEVIEW (AP) — A crew with a helicopter from Whidbey Island Navy Air Station continued Thursday a survey of some 100,000 acres of sagebrush and rimrock about 12 miles southwest of Wagontire, in Lake County.

The land is to be offered by the state of Oregon to the Navy in exchange for the Boardman Bombing Range in northeastern Oregon. Legislation signed Thursday by Gov. Mark Hatfield authorizes the state to lease the Boardman property, now used by the Navy, to Boeing Airplane Co.

Law on exemplary damages repealed

OLYMPIA (AP)—Gov. Rosellini has balked at naming a committee made up of members selected by judicial, newspaper and broadcasting groups to make a two-year study of the field of exemplary damages.

The governor signed Thursday a special-session bill repealing the exemplary damages law enacted during the regular session of the legislature. He said he was doing so reluctantly and he vetoed the section calling for the committee.

He said he would be held responsible for the commtttee's work, and he added:

"To impose such responsibility upon me without allowing me any choice whatsoever in making the appointments appears to me to be unfair and inequitable. I want to make it clear that I will not buy 'a pig in the poke'."

Representatives of labor, the press, radio and television sought repeal of the law, contending it would curb freedom of expression. The law provided for exemplary or punitive damages for intentional injury to the person or character of an individual.

Rosellini said he thought the law was worth a try for a "reasonable length of time."

"I am firmly convinced that the fears which have been expressed to me by labor leaders, by members of the press, radio and television are greatly exaggerated," he said.

"Nevertheless, since both houses of the legislature saw fit to pass this bill by overwhelming majorities I feel obliged, reluctantly, to sign this bill with one exception."

The vetoed section would have required the governor to appoint to an interim study commttee one member of the judicial council, selected by the chief justice; a member of the Superior Court Judges Association, selected by the president judge; a member of the State Bar Association, selected by the president of the group; a member of the Allied Daily Newspapers of Washington, selected by its president, and a member of the State Association of Broadcasters, selected by its president.

Warsaw Pact powers declare arms race still continues

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet-led Warsaw Pact powers today said the West is continuing to wage an arms race and announced they are strengthening their defenses.

The eight-nation Communist military counterpart of NATO singled out West Germany as a "major hotbed of war danger" in a declaration that skimmed over strife-ridden Laos and the Congo.

While making the usual plea for "peaceful coexistence" and complete disarmament, the Communist nations announced they had "agreed on measures which they find it necessary to take in the interests of further consolidation of their defense potential and strengthening peace throughout the world."

Coming after three days of talks in the Kremlin amid the usual complete secrecy, the communique was surprisingly mild in tone but appeared to pinpoint Germany as the next pressure point in the East-West test of nerves.

MILD TONE

Some Western diplomats believed the mild tone indicated Soviet Premier Khrushchev still wants to pick up coexistence relations with the Kennedy administration. While the United States was mentioned as one of the Western Big Three behind the rearming of West Germany, it was not singled out for the sort of attack that was routine in the latter days of the Eisenhower administration.

The conference communique mentioned Laos only as one site of what it called "bloody outrages of colonialism" in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

This was expected, since the Warsaw Pact covers only the Communist nations of Eastern Europe and Communist China and other Asian nations attend only as observers. But it was assumed that during the discussions in the Kremlin, Khrushchev outlined the Soviet reply expected this weekend to the British proposal for a cease-fire in the Indochinese kingdom as the first step in neutralizing the strategic jungle buffer state.

Informed sources said the Soviets are likely to come up with a counterplan insisting that a cease-fire be worked out only after an international conference on Laos gets underway.

East Germany's Walter Ulbricht presided at the Kremlin conference, underscoring the emphasis on Germany as the major testing ground in the cold war.

The Warsaw nations backed Khrushchev's repeated demand for a quick settlement of the German question and declared: "In the interests of security and peace it is absolutely necessary to eliminate the remnants of World War II by concluding a peace treaty with both German states, and, in this connection, rendering harmless the seat of danger in West Berlin by converting it into a demilitarized free city."

Rhododendron Festival set for May 14-20

OLYMPIA (AP)—Observance of Rhododendron Week and Port Townsend's Rhododendron Festival May 14-20 was noted by Gov. Rosellini Thursday.

The governor urged those citizens who may find it possible to join with the people of Port Townsend "in tribute to the stately rhododendron."

Timber sale set for April 28

OLYMPIA (AP) — A public auction of 8.9 million board feet of Olympic National Forest timber will be held at the Soleduck ranger station near Port Angeles April 28, the forest office announced Friday.

The timber, mostly hemlock and silver fir, is located in the rugged ridge section of western Clallam county.

$24.3 million new tax package passed

By LEROY HITTLE

OLYMPIA (AP) — The special session of the legislature headed toward adjournment this Good Friday after increasing state taxes almost $50 million.

Biggest tax boost—an increase of one cent a gallon in the state gasoline tax—will go into effect Saturday.

A series of tax raps will begin two weeks from Saturday when a tax package to raise $24.3 million to balance the 1961-63 general fund budget goes into effect.

The latter tax package was passed by the House 52-47 Thursday and sent to the governor for his signature. The Senate passed it Wednesday.

A billion dollar budget bill adjusted so it can be balanced by the additional $24.3 million in new taxes was scheuled to be passed by both houses Friday.

They also planned to pass a $109 million capital construction budget bill and authorization for the state to float a $26.8 million bond issue to pay for part of the construction costs.

22 DAYS

Adjournment probably will come late Friday, ending a special session of 22 days, longest in more than a quarter of a century.

The campaign to get the legislators home for Easter started in earnest Wednesday when Senate leaders locked members of the Democratic majority in until they finally produced and passed a budget-balancing tax bill.

House leaders did the same thing with Democratic members Thursday. They kept the Democrats in closed-door party caucuses until they finally got pledges for 50 votes, the number required to pass the tax package approved by the Senate Wednesday.

On the final House vote on the tax package, 52 Democrats supported the measure while all 40 of the Republicans and seven Democrats opposed it.

Passage came after the Democratic majority battled behind closed doors most of the day to get the 50 votes needed.

The package, which goes into effect April 15, provides:

LIQUOR TAX

A liquor bottle tax of 18 cents on pints and 29 cents on fifths applied to bottled liquor sold by state liquor stores.

An increase in the state cigarette tax from 6 to 7 cents a package.

A new tax of one cent on each 12 fluid ounces or fraction thereof on soft drinks and mixers.

Repeal of the federal estate tax deduction now allowed on the state inheritance tax.

And extension of the 4 per cent retail sales tax to credit bureaus, auto parking lots, abstract companies, and amusement - type sports such as golf, pool, billiards, skating, ski lifts and tows, but not bowling.

COMPROMISE

Rep. Henry Backstrom, Arlington Democrat who steered the package through the House, said the $24.3 million total would not permit as much state spending as some legislators wanted, but would require higher tax hikes than others desired.

He described it as a compromise that would give "the kind of yield we can live with very easily."

Backstrom said it would cost each person in the state an average of $7.60 during the next two years.

Biggest objection to the tax package was to the soft drink tax.

Rep. Wes Uhlman, Seattle Democrat, tried without success to amend the measure. He said it would mean a 10 per cent tax on 10-cent bottles of pop.

He protested taxing the kids' soft drinks while letting the adult bowlers out from under the sales tax.

Rep. Daniel J. Evans, Seattle Republican floor leader, termed the bill a "cradle-to-the-grave" tax.

Final meeting

Rusk returns from SEATO meet; called it highly productive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk today returned from what he called a "highly productive" SEATO meeting on the Laos crisis and immediately prepared to report to President Kennedy.

Rusk's jet plane touched down at noon, completing a round-the-world flight during which Rusk attended a three-day meeting of Southeast Asia Treaty Organization foreign ministers at Bangkok, Thailand, and conferred with Prime Minister Nehru in India.

The secretary of state arranged to report to Kennedy by telephone from the State Department. The President is on an Easter vacation in Palm Beach, Fla.

Rusk declined to say whether or not he is optimistic about the possibility of a peaceful settlement of the troubles in strife-ridden Laos.

He noted that the Russians have not yet replied to a British peace plan proposal.

The important thing to have in Laos, he said, is a cessation of hostilities, whether or not under a formally proclaimed cease-fire, so that the negotiations for a peaceful solution can get under way.

In advance of Rusk's arrival, high official sources said this country is standing firm on its condition that a halt in the shooting must precede any international conference.

Life mandatory in Peel conviction

By JACK SIMMS

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Joseph A. Peel Jr., convicted of masterminding the sensational 1955 slaying of a prominent judge, remained in jail today to await sentencing and word on whether he will be tried for the death of the victim's wife.

A Circuit Court jury ended Florida's most-publicized murder trial Thursday by convicting Peel, 37, of plotting the slaying of Judge C. E. Chillingworth. The verdict came after 5 hours 24 minutes of deliberation.

It was accompanied by a recommendation of mercy, making a sentence of life in prison mandatory, and saving Peel from the electric chair.

WILL APPEAL

Defense counsel served notice of appeal. A hearing on the motion was tentatively set for April 26 before Circuit Court Judge D. C. Smith. Formal sentencing was set for the same day.

Peel was brought to trial March 6, several months after officers broke open the secret of the Chillingworth disappearance.

Two witnesses at the trial testified that they kidnaped the judge and his wife, Marjorie, from their waterfront home near Palm Beach, June 15, 1955; took the couple about one mile off-shore in the Atlantic Ocean, weighted their bodies and pushed them out of a boat. Neither of the bodies has been found.

Floyd Holzapfel and Bobby Lincoln, former Negro leader of moonshining at West Palm Beach, testified they killed the Chillingworths at the request of Peel.

Holzapfel awaits sentencing for first degree murder after pleading guilty to participating in the slayings and waiving a jury trial. The state promised immunity to Lincoln.

Both Holzapfel and Lincoln testified that Peel wanted Chillingworth killed because of fear the judge would disclose Peel's position as a leader of a bolita (gambling) ring and a protection racket. Peel was city judge at West Palm beach at the time.

BOMBER CRASHES

DONALDSON AIR FORCE BASE, S.C. (AP) — A B66 jet bomber crashed and burned in an emergency landing here today. All seven crew members survived the crash.

B52 explodes in refueling, killing two

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — An $8-million dollar B52G jet bomber failed in an aerial refueling rendezvous and apparently disintegrated in flight near here Thursday night.

Two of the eight-man crew parachuted safely, two were killed and four are missing.

The big ship developed trouble during a rendezvous with a tanker plane at more than 30,000 feet.

The crew members who parachuted safely are Maj. W. F. Minnich, 40, of Des Plaines, Ill., and 1st Lt. G. C. Farnham, 26, of Loveland, Colo.

The Air Force said the big, 8-jet bomber, based at Dow Air Force Base, Maine, was not carrying any nuclear devices.

An explosion apparently occurred while the plane was still in the air.

Air Force Col. O. V. Jones, commander of the Strategic Air Command Wing at Seymour Johnson AFB, Goldsboro, N. C., told newsmen after talking to Minnich and Farnham that the bomber was "in the observation position 100 to 200 feet behind and below the tanker but never made contact."

Artist

John W. Pogany of Blyn, shown here with President Ethel Clark of Sequim Soroptimist Club, was guest speaker when the club met March 20.

He spoke on the importance of the expression of arts in a community. Giving his background and career as an artist, he told of his childhood in Greenwich Village, his experience as a newspaper man, and his service with the Army engineers. His summers are spent working on a Hearst estate in the Mt. Shasta area where he is competing work on buildings painting frescoes started by his father, the late Willy Pogany. He hopes in the future to open a small gallery in Blyn to show his work and that of local artists.

Post office parking

William Brown, street superintendent, is shown painting angular parking stripes in front of the Sequim Post Office while Police Chief Carl Klint looks on.

The town council agreed that double parking and traffic confusion in front of the Post Office together with its proximity to the fire station made angular parking necessary.

Festival Grand Pioneer selection now under study

A Grand Pioneer to be honored at Sequim's 66th annual Irrigation Festival is being chosen by an out of town judge from among the six candidates elected by members of the Leisure Hour Club, according to Dr. Keith Senz, festival chairman.

The candidates are: John Laureason, Mrs. Mary Stone, Hayes Evans, Jacob Hall. Ms. Caroline Miller and Mrs. Maude Ross. Their biographies are given below.

MRS. MAUDE ROSS

Mrs. Maude Ross, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grant, was born May 15, 1876 in Spring Valley, Minn.

Her father came to the Dungeness Valley in 1883 and in June of 1884 Mrs. Grant and their four children followed him. They came to Dungeness by boat and were brought ashore in Indian canoes.

Maude's grandfather, Benjamin J. Potter, homesteaded on the Dungeness River and operated a shingle mill. The Grants lived with him, and Maude went to school at the old Cassalery School.

WHEN SHE WAS 14 she went to work in Port Townsend, taking care of four children while their parents went back East.

She stayed in Port Townsend, and when the first ditch celebration was held in 1896, she came by boat with a group of young people and brought with her the fist bicycle to be seen in Clallam or Jefferson County. Her handmade cycling costume with its divided skirt caused some consternation among the pioneer women, she recalls.

In Tacoma, on April 21, 1898, she was married to Robert D. Ross, an Army engineer. They moved to Seattle in 1900 and she spent summer vacations in Sequim. When Mr. Ross died in 1940, she returned to Sequim to make her home.

MRS. ROSS HAS four children, Grant D. Ross, retired engineer, of DelRay Beach, Fla.; Bruce Ross, designing engineer, of Seattle; Gordon Allen Ross, also of Seattle who works for the Department of the Interior; and a daughter, Mrs. D. M. Davenny (Betty) of Kingston. There are nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Ross remembers the days of sailing ships in the strait, and recalls a Sunday morning when she and her father counted 21 ships in sight at one time.

Her parents were instrumental in bringing the first irrigation ditch to the Sequim Prairie, and she remembers the time when the ditch was being built, with her father and brothers at work on it, and her mother cooking for the workers.

JACOB HALL

Jacob Hall, called Chief White Feather by the Clallam Indians, president of the Jamestown Tribal Council, minister of the Shaker faith, and pioneer resident of the Dungeness Valley, is a leader honored and respected among his people and white neighbors alike.

Each year at the Pioneer Luncheon during the festival, Hall is asked to give the invocation in Clallam, then in English. He has been asked to speak at many civic gatherings, and has lectured to classes in the local schools.

AT THE REQUEST of the judge of the superior court, he has talked to new citizens at naturalization ceremonies.

Hall was born in 1886 at Port Hudson in Port Townsend. His father was Fred Hall and his mother Sarah Collier. Their marriage was arranged by Hall's grandfather, Capt. Thomas Hall.

His mother died when he was a year old and Jacob lived with his grandparents in a shack on the beach at Chevy Chase. When he was seven, he came to Jamestown to live with an aunt and go to school.

WHEN HE WAS past 21 he decided he needed more schooling, and took off for the Tacoma Indian School with $1.35 in his pocket. After two years in the Indian School he returned to Jamestown and joined his father in the crab fishing business he had established in 1892. Hall kept books for the company as well as crabbing. In 1906 they bought property in Jamestown and became landowners for the first time.

Later he worked seven years for the Hogue Co., which grew peas in the valley, and at times had up to 80 Indians working under him.

IN 1922 HE married Miss Flora Sicade of Tacoma. She died four years later, leaving him with two little girls to raise. Hall cooked, kept house, made and repaired the girls clothes. The older girl, Elinor, died at the age of nine. Harriett, now Mrs. Harvey Adams, lives with her husband and nine children in Jamestown.

Hall's oldest grandchild, Harvey Adams, graduated from high school in 1960 and is in basic training at the Marine Corps Base in San Diego.

Because of poor health, Hall gave up crabbing in 1955 and works in his garden, or gardens for friends for long years standing.

His memory is rich in legends of his people, and their ways in the early days of the valley, before the forests were cleared for farms, or irrigation was dreamed of on the praiire.

HAYES EVANS

The Weir and Evans families, from whom Hayes Evans descended, were among the very early settlers in the Dungeness Valley. Evans is now the oldest man born in Dungeness.

He was born July 8, 1877 on the farm homesteaded by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Evans. The Evans home was in the northeast part of the valley and he still lives a short distance south of his birthplace.

JOHN WEIR came to Dungeness in 1855 and his wife and children in 1860. Their daughter Susan married Thomas L. Evans in 1868. He came here after prospecting for gold in Canada in 1863. Hayes was one of seven children. His father was a logger and took up a homestead.

Hayes helped on the farm and eventually bought acreage south of the home farm. He married Susan Allene Duncan in 1901. Her family came to Washington in 1889. Mr. and Mrs. Evans celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this year.

ON HIS FARM of 280 acres, Hayes raised dairy and beef cattle, and retired after 45 years of farming.

He continues his interest in affairs of his home county. Nov. 4, 1958 he was elected without opposition to the unpaid non-partisan position of port commissioner from the first district. He is now serving his third consecutive six year term in office.

At 83, he attends all the monthly meetings of the board and keeps in touch with operations of the Port of Port Angeles. He was elected county commissioner from district one in 1934, and served as chairman of the board during his term. Affiliations of many years are the Farm Loan Association, Federal Land Bank and Naval Lodge of Elks.

MR. AND MRS. Evans have seven children, 17 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. He has a brother and sister living, Ernest Evans of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Henry Cline of Sequim.

Evans attended Dungeness schools. Among his teachers were A. B. Dorsey, Thad Wagner and A. N. Taylor, prominent pioneer educators.

When Evans was growing up, Dungeness was the county seat and the county's principal town. Sequim was only a prairie in the woods, and Dungeness River water was not yet used for irrigation.

MARY STONE

Mary Stone, the widow of Stanley B. Stone, was born at Atwood, Ontario, Canada, Dec. 17, 1886, the daughter of George and Jennie Priest.

Her father was born in New York State. The family moved to Canada when he was small and ran an inn at Stratford, Ontario. He married Jennie McDonald in Stratford in 1874. In the 1880's he came to Port Discovery and worked in the mill.

Soon after, Mrs. Priest followed him with their seven children. Mary was the baby. Seven more children were born here.

FIRST TOOK up a homestead in Happy Valley, continuing to work at the mill until he had enough land cleared to support his family.

He brought the family's provisions from Discovery Bay to Washington Harbor by rowboat, then carried them on his back to the homestead. They first lived in a small house surrounded by big trees. Mrs. Priest would take the children outdoors when the wind blew hard, fearing trees would fall on the house.

THE FIRST SCHOOL Mary attended was in the Jack Bell home in Happy Valley. When she was about 13 she went to Port Angeles and worked and went to school. Later she lived in Sequim with her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Joe Keeler. She was one of the valley's first telephone operators.

She married Stanley B .Stone, the son of a pioneer family, Aug. 23, 1906. They had three sons and a daughter. The sons are Raleigh Stone of Port Angeles, Ralph Stone and Foss Stone of Firebaugh, Calif. Their daughter Ruth (Mrs. Don Feeley) is now deceased.

The Stones lived all their married life in Sequim, running a dairy farm.

Mrs. Stone recalls the first May Day as a family picnic affair on the Charles Fitzgerald farm.

JOHN W. LAURENSON

John W. Laurenson was born in Liverpool, England, the youngest of five sons of Capt. James and Joan Laurenson. Capt. Laurenson, after years of service as master of a sailing ship in the employ of Thos. Ismay and Co., of the White Star Line, decided to bring his family to America.

They came to Dungeness where Mrs. Laurenson's brother, Andrew Abernethy, was homesteading. They lived with him at Dungeness for about a year while Capt. Laurenson had land cleared and built a home in Happy Valley. They landed in Old Dungeness in July of 1887 when John was four years old.

This was Capt. Laurenson's second visit to this country, an admirer of Abraham Lincoln, he came from England to fight in the Civil War, and served as a gunner on the frigate "Congress." After the war he returned to England and brought his family out to the West Coast.

Two of the boys died in England and another the year they landed. Tom Laurenson (who married Lena Knapman) died in 1946.

John started school in Sequim, where he had to pay tuition, later there was a school in Happy Valley, and then went back to Sequim to finish. He had two years in the preparatory school of what was then the Washington Agricultural College and School of Science. (Now WSU)

In 1911 he married Margaret Green, whose family came to the valley four years after the Laurensons. Her father, William G. Green, was one of the group of men who first brought irrigation to the Sequim Prairie. His name appears in the records of the first ditch company as one of those who attended the first ditch meeting held in 1895.

John and his wife made their home on part of the original Laurenson homestead in Happy Valley where they dairied for many years. Their son, William, and his family now live there. Mrs. Laurenson died in 1944 and John and his daughter, Janet, live on part of the original Green tract.

For 18 years John was director-secretary of the Highland Irrigation District when quite a bit of the present system of ditch laterals was being built.

MRS. CAROLINE MILLER

Mrs. Caroline Miller was born March 20, 1890 at Kingston, Wash., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max F. Haller.

The family came to Dungeness in 1891 and homesteaded in Happy Valley. Her father was a blacksmith by trade. He came from Germany and her mother from Switzerland. They were married in Wisconsin.

Caroline was one of 12 children, six boys and six girls. She has four brothers and four sisters living.

HER FATHER bought groceries for the family in Dungeness, and carried them on his back up the trail to Happy Valley. Sequim Prairie was dry in those days before irrigation, and new settlers went up into Happy Valley and Lost Mountain where they could find water.

After seven years the Haller family moved to Lost Mountain. Caroline went to school for a year in Happy Valley, then in Lost Mountain and later in Port Angeles.

SHE WENT TO work at 14 and on June 29, 1910 was married to Frank L. Miller in Spokane. They moved to Carlsborg in 1911 where their daughter Frances (Mrs. Carl Fisher of Seattle) was born. They later moved to the Burlingame Road, then the Rivreside district, and into Sequim in 1941.

Frank Miller, a carpenter and contractor, died in 1942, and Mrs. Miller went to work in the school cafeteria until she retired in 1956.

She is a member of the Order of Eastern Star, and recently received a life membership for her service as treasurer of her chapter for the past 20 years. She is a past president of the American Legion Auxiliary and a sponsor of the Leisure Hour Club from St. Luke's Episcopal Guild.

Mrs. George Tradewell relates England trip

Mrs. George Tradewell showed slides and reported on her recent trip to England via jet to members of Michael Trebert Chapter, DAR, at the luncheon-business meeting Saturday.

She and her husband traveled to Balsover, Midlands, where he formerly lived and had not been for 55 years.

Balsover, a coal mining section, is noted for its crooked church spire, considered to be one of the seven wonders of the world. The church dates back to approximately 1200.

The Balsover Castle walls, the castle which Oliver Cromwell stormed in ancient times, are being reconstructed by the British government.

The Balsover church, where the five Tradewell boys sang in the choir in their youth, traces its history back to 600 A.D. It was reconstronstructed by the Church of England.

The Tradewells also visited Derbyshire, noted for the "Peaks of Derbyshire." The cathedral of the peak is where Little John of Robin Hood fame is buried.

In Brentwood, Essex County, are ruins of Newstead Abbey Estate which Henry VIII ordered destroyed during the Reformation.

While in Sheffield, Mansfield, the Tradewells saw "South End on the Sea" the longest pier in the world near the mouth of the Thames.

In other DAR business, regent Mrs. Irwin Harper announced that David Overstreet won first place for eighth grade students in the state in the National DAR "Historic Waterways" essay contest. His essay on the Columbia River was sent by the state historian to be judged in the western division. David is in the American history class of Miss Catherine O'Conner at Roosevelt Junior High.

Sandra Konopaski won honorable mention in the contest for her essay on the Columbia River.

Mrs. Harper reported on the Washington State DAR Conference in Seattle March 6-8.

The local chapter won a national citation on the DAR honor roll for its outstanding committee work on historical markers, Americanism and essays, national defense, and in other fields.

Mrs. Arthur L. Skewis sent the booklet "The Seven Brothers" to be added to the library of the state DAR historian.

Mrs. Ethel Bowen reported on the rededication exercises for the Vancouver marker and gave the national defense report.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Tradewell. Assisting were Muriel A. Glasson and Mrs. Harper. Mmes. Bowne and Henry W. Davies poured. Guests were Mrs. Homer R. Fleming of Sequim and Mmes. Harold Ruthruff and Edward Hainstock of Port Angeles.

BOSTON (AP)—Tyna Barinaga of Port Angeles, Wash., emerged as a dual champion in the 15th annual National Junior Badminton championships Saturday, winning both the 15-and-under girls' singles crown and the 15-and-under girls' doubles.

Oddly enough, Miss Barinaga defeated her doubles partner, 11-2, 11-0, Carol Jensen, also of Port Angeles, to win the singles title.

Carol and Tyna paired to defeat second-seeded Jay Pajares and Susan Vening of California, 15-8, 15-2, in doubles.

John Doherty of Port Angeles, attempting the real coup of the tournament, failed in 13-and-under boys doubles, losing to defending champions John Pritula and Tim Muthig of Detroit, while pairing with John Monkman of Delaware. The score was 15-8, 11-15, 15-13.

Miss Barinaga failed in a bid to win an unprecedented third title in the under-18 mixed doubles. She and teammate Dean Carrell lost to top-seeded Jim Lynch, New York, and singles champion Sharon Pritula, Detroit, 15-9, 15-5.

Ken Crow and Tim Davidson of Seattle upset all form to beat all four-seeded doubles combinations from quarter-finals through finals, winding up with a 14-17, 17-5, 15-9 win over defending champions Bob Pritula and Tim Muthig of Detroit.

Eva Halko got to the semi-finals of the 18 and under women's doubles with an eastern partner, but that was as far as they got.

Bob Jensen and Dean Carrell missed the semi-finals by two points in the 18 and under men's doubles. They had a good lead in their quarter final match but faltered and couldn't recover.

Out of 18 events entered the local team will bring back eight trophies from the tournament.

Senate passes bill for ocean highway study

(From Evening News Mar. 27)

The State Senate has passed an amendment to the state highway budget providing for a study of the feasibility of constructing an ocean highway between Neah Bay and the mouth of the Hoh River.

Sen. Gordon Sandison, home this weekend from the legislative special session, says the study of the proposed road will be by the joint interim committee of the house and senate.

The amendment is now before the lower house for action. If it passes the house and is signed by the governor the committee will start its study of the proposed road using funds provided in the bill. The study may include public hearings in this area.

The legislature is currently considering budget bills and Sandison said that it is probable the special session will adjourn this week.

Littles buy Salmon Club headquarters

(From Evening News Mar. 27)

Ronald and Jack Little, brothers, have purchased the physical assets of Hector and Mary Macdonald at Port Angeles Salmon Club headquarters on Ediz Hook.

President Charles L. Beam of the club announces that the Littles have secured a lease from the club for the club's property and Headquarters.

Ronald Little announces that the facilities will be operated under the name of Thunderbird. Included in the purchase were two charter boats, a number of for-hire boats and other facilities. Little will add his charter boat to the fleet.

The new owners announce that considerable work will be done on floats and buildings and a live herring box constructed. He says he expects the place to be operating in about two weeks. He is retaining the lunch room that will be operated.

The new lease with the Salmon Club provides for maintenance of floats and other facilities. The new owner says he will probably stock skin diving equipment. The lease provides that he carry out Salmon Club obligation regarding derbies.

Hector Macdonald, who with his wife, had a lease on the property and owned physical asset at club headquarters, has been bedridden more than a year and his wife has been in charge.

Ronald Little is president of the Port Angeles Yacht Club and has been engaged in many harbor activities including the operation of a Salmon fishing charter boat. He says he and his brother will have active supervision of the Thunderbird fishing facilities.

P. A. Reading Club gives tea in honor of Mrs. Mary Ann Lambert Vincent of Discovery Bay

Authoress Mary Ann Vincent of Discovery Bay told anecdotes about the early Clallam Indians and settlers at the tea given in her honor Friday at the Pioneer Historical Museum. Nearly 100 people attended the tea and heard about her book, "The Seven Brothers" dealing with early Clallam County history.

She described the marriage ceremony in 1865 of a Makah chief to the daughter of Chief Yeomans (chief of E'eenus).

"Many of the Makahs accompanied their chief in a fleet of 50 canoes to Port Angeles for the wedding. The canoes had large handsome highly pointed beaks, carved and decorated with gay colors. The chief and his son, as well as his tribesmen, wore large eagle feathers on their heads and carried large feather fans in their hands. All were dressed in black bear skins," she related.

THE SPEAKER SAID the Clallam Flat Heads, in their blankets, looked quite tame in contrast. The Clallams were the only ones who flattened their heads. It indicated a higher class, a people of distinction.

The visitors stood in their canoes as they approached shore. They landed in front of Yeoman's ranch (on Ennis Creek) with wild gesticulations, leaping and contortions of their tall savage looking bodies. Many of the men wore rings in their noses and all had a more primitive look than the Sound Indians.

Mrs. Vincent said it was hard to believe the gentlemanly old Chief Yeomans would deliver up his pretty daughter to the barbarians that had come to claim her.

HOWEVER, THE ceremony proceeded smoothly. The speaker said that quite possibly the marriage was a political move to consolidate the friendship of the two tribes.

The Makahs' procession carried 100 new blankets, red and white, as a gift to the Clallams. They also brought some of their most prized blue blankets which were reserved for special ceremonial use by chiefs only.

The ceremony inside the longhouse was closed to non-Indians but the spectators saw Yeoman's son take a flag from his dead sister's grave and plant it on the beach at high water. It symbolized his dead sister's participation in the joyful occasion.

THE CEREMONY ENDED, the Makahs departed carrying with them the child bride of their young chief to her new home.

Mrs. Vincent said the Flat Heads were held in high repute and much favored over the Long Heads from the war-like British Columbia Indians. Billie Hall of Jamestown and John Mike of the Elwha were the last of the Flat Heads.

Mrs. Vincent's book "Seven Brothers of the House of Ste-Tee-Thlum" is a genealogical history of a Clallam family. Jack Henson is preparing a review of it for the Evening News.

MRS. VINCENT, daughter of a Swedish sailor and a Clallam Indian woman, was born in Port Townsend. The family moved to Discovery Bay when she was six and she has been intensely interested in the history of the area all her life.

The authoress received her education in Port Townsend, Tacoma and the Haskell Institute in Kansas. After graduation she became matron at old Fort Mojave in Arizona. Later she entered nurses training in Waterbury, Conn., and New York.

After her marriage to Thomas Maher the family with its four children moved to this state. Her second husband, Mr. Vincent, is now dead.

THE PORT ANGELES Reading Club gave the tea for Mrs. Vincent and invited the Historical Society and other clubs interested in hearing the writer tell her experiences.

Stanley A. Taylor spoke briefly of his early life in Jamestown Indian Village where his father was teacher and Indian Agent. Taylor introduced Jacob Hall, who gave the invocation and told stories of his Indian people in early pioneer days.

Elmer Critchfield, president of the Historical Society, introduced county pioneer Dick Eacrett who was celebrating his 91st birthday Friday.

Mike Paxson and Diane Fox portrayed a miniature Uncle Sam and Miss America for the flag salute. Mrs. Fronie Ware accompanied the singing and Mrs. Lee Davis introduced her mother Mrs. Vincent.

International Spearfishing team honors stay in state

(From Evening News Mar. 27)

Washington State skindiving teams hung onto the team titles in the International Spearfishing Meet held here Sunday, but one big fish honor went to a Portland diver.

A three-man team from the Everett Blackfish Diving Club, Bob Hill, Dick Klein and Jim Blanchard, topped the men's division. Blanchard won the big fish trophy while diving for the Seattle Mud Sharks in the first meet here two years ago.

MRS. MARLYS JOLLY and Karen Dale, who are sisters and members of the Boeing Sea Horses of Seattle won the women's division.

Cal Hall of Portland's Black Lancer Club took home the Kingfish trophy for the biggest single catch of the day. It was a 27 pound, 6 ounce ling cod.

Shirley Creamer of Oakland, Calif., won the inspirational trophy. It goes to the diver who travels the greatest distance to take part in the meet.

IN ALL, 186 divers took part in the meet. They came from Washington, British Columbia, Oregon and California. When all the weighing was over the total catch was 931 pounds, 100 pounds more than divers speared in last year's meet.

The Nemgorf Diving Club of Port Angeles sponsored the meet and members, with the aid of their wives and others, handled the officiating tasks.

THE DIVERS HIT the water along a mile stretch inside of Ediz Hook as official starter Henry Murray touched off the starting bomb at 10:30 a.m.

At the time, a cool breeze was blowing from the northeast creating a slight chop on the water. The divers quickly fanned out over the area and started looking for fish.

Not long after the start, the sun broke through the overcast and warmed the area.

SPECTATORS AND cars lined the hook from the Salmon Club area half way back to the Crown Z mill. Some families made it a real outing by bringing along picnic lunches.

First big fish of the morning came in at 11:07 when Duane Purviance of Port Townsend brought in an 18-13 ling cod.

With the aid of Nemgorf Pres. Johnnie Sweatt, City Councilman James Caldwell presented the trophies and prizes following the weigh in.

ONE OF THE EXTRA attractions during the meet was a pick up demonstration by the Coast Guard. A helicopter picked up a crewman from a 40-foot patrol boat, landed him at the air station then returned him to the boat.

One of the notable increases among the diving entrants this year was the number of women competing. Twenty-four took part in the meet.

Shipping rush reaches peak in harbor

(From Evening News Mar. 27)

Diversified shippings from Port Angeles Harbor reached a peak Sunday when four ships were loading four different kinds of forest products at one time. The cargo were logs, pulp, paper and lumber.

In port were the Indian ship Jalakriti at Rayonier Incorporated dock, The Cape Ann and Huntsland at the port dock and the Japanese ship Kokei Maru at the Crown Zellerbach Corporation dock.

The Jalakriti is loading 785 metric tons of pulp for Calcutta, India. The ship is on her maiden voyage and is the first ship of Indian registery to visit this port in many years. Cargo loading is expected to be complete in a day or two.

The Japanese ship Kokei Maru is loading 220 tons of newsprint for delivery in South America. Loading of the ship at the Crown Z. dock was halted for a time Sunday so longshoremen could be transferred to the Port dock to complete putting lumber cargo aboard the freighter Cape Ann.

The Cape Ann completed loading 1,500,000 bf of lumber for East Coast delivery. The ship left late Sunday evening.

The British freighter Huntsland remains at the port dock completing a full cargo of mixed logs for delivery in Japan.

The lumber ship Cape Ann has the distinction of having stood by January 25, 1956 to help rescue passengers from the Italian liner Andrea Doria that went down off the East Coast after a collision with a Norwegian ship. Loss of life in the collision was 51. The Cape Ann received a federal citation for the rescue work.

As of this morning three ships remained in the harbor taking on cargoes. They are one each at Rayonier, Crown Zellerbach and Port docks.

Port Angeles longshoremen have been busy recently as the Huntsland has been taking cargo for the past several weeks at the port dock and arrival and departure of the other cargo vessels has been steady until reaching the peak of four Sunday morning. The local longshoremen have been shifting around trying to keep cargo moving to all the freighters.

Chamber plans greeting for badmintoners

(From Evening News Mar. 29)

A homecoming reception for the young champion badminton players is planned by the Chamber of Commerce on their arrival here from Boston Friday.

At the Monday noon meeting of the chamber Pres. E. R. Thomsen appointed Robert L. Gardner chairman of a reception committee to arrange for a caravan to meet the youngsters at the city limits.

The action followed reading by Gardner of the Associated Press story telling of the championship play of the young badminton squad at the junior national tournament at Boston.

The Hurricane Ridge ski area will be open the coming weekend of Friday, Saturday and Sunday Supt. John E. Doerr reported at the meeting. Total attendance since the area was opened early in December has been 15,742, Doerr reported. This is slightly under the attendance during a similar period a year ago the park official said. This was due in part to a "Lost Weekend" when the area was closed because of a storm, the park official said. The area will be open each weekend as long as attendance warrants it, Doerr reported.

The International Spearfishing meet here Sunday was a great success with 183 contestants in attendance and over 900 pounds of fish speared. The attendance was very large, a report said.

Chairman Theodore Doss, of the membership committee distributed names of prospective chamber members. The persons will be contacted by volunteers as part of a membership drive now underway.

Pres. Thompsen announced that Reid Priest will be guest speaker at the Chamber Meeting next Monday. Theme of the talk will be a new grappling hook invented by Priest for log loading.

Community Players keeps Grace Charnell going

By ESTHER WEBSTER

With Grace Charnell "The Play Is the Thing" — but only after hours. For this versatile member of the Community Players is a full-time reporter and photographer at the Evening News five days a week.

Production of "Bus Stop" here two weeks ago was the 10th play Mrs. Charnell has directed for the local theater group. She has acted leading roles in three others.

Keen intelligence and a real talent for creative work has distinguished Mrs. Charnell's participation in painting, music, little theater and now, writing, during the 29 years she has lived in Port Angeles.

About the time she became a grandmother three years ago, this slender, youthful woman embarked on a completely new career. She became a writer at the News. First chores were hard, dull work . . . taking down routine items and learning to type rapidly and accurately.

BUT SHE STUCK out the trying time of assimilating new work, frequently under distracting conditions. Soon photography was added to her other duties. Now, after two years of preparation she edits the club page and writes many of the stories.

Selection of reader-interest material invitingly presented is a real problem. Condensation is a never ending requirement. But this is part of the training Mrs. Charnell wanted when she decided on her new vocation.

The thread of this ambition started back in Franklin High School in Seattle when Grace Roberts set her heart on the lead in her class play, "The Goose Hangs High," which she succeeded in winning.

As a child, an aunt who was an ardent theater fan, had taken Grace to see the leading actors who visited Seattle.

IN HIGH SCHOOL she spent all possible time in dramatic work. "I was fortunate in having a teacher who urged writing and production of plays outside as well as in class. I never had to unlearn anything she taught."

LATER WHEN GRACE attended Cornish intending to be a commercial artist, she continued her pursuit of play-acting in various forms.

Now she believes she might have been an actress if anyone in her family had taken the theater seriously. But theater was just considered an amusing leisure-time activity.

So, for Grace Charnell little theater became a rewarding pastime 25 years later in Port Angeles when the Community Players started.

It was while looking without success for suitable one-act plays that she again set about writing. Three of her plays were produced by YMCA Circle 6 before enthusiastic audiences.

Continued theater work and even harder search for plays led her to believe she would like to write. Always practical, Mrs. Charnell decided she should get a job writing in order to learn good writing habits. This she did.

IN ADDITION to her theater wrok at Cornish, which she attended from 1929-1931, she took life drawing all morning and concentrated on commercial art in the afternoon. She hoped to be a commercial artist. This too, she accomplished in spite of the depression.

"The nicest part about my job was to be listed in the business census as a commercial artist. For the work I did was just a couple of steps away from tracing paper." She designed banners, emblems, letterheads, always from ideas of other commercial art work.

In direct contrast was her three years association with Cornish. "Nellie Cornish tried to teach us to choose the right things in life, concerts, plays, good painting. She arranged for us to meet and appreciate the great artists who were brought to Cornish. Her fireside chats were memorable occasions."

Mrs. Charnell's commercial art job was terminated with her marriage to Henry Charnell in 1932 when he graduated as a chemical engineer from the University of Washington. The Charnells came to Port Angeles the same year.

DURING HER FIRST years here Mrs. Charnell continued the painting she had enjoyed at Cornish. But as soon as her children were born, a daytime activity became too frustrating. She switched her interest to something she could do after the children were in bed.

This led to active participation in the Port Angeles Music Club's production of the operetta, "Hansel and Gretel,' ' which Irene Wood, music supervisor for the schools, directed. The "Chimes of Normandy" complete with costumes, was also a success with the money cleared going to student music scholarships.

During these busy years the Charnells' four children were born. Jan, 26, is working on the Minute Man at Boeings after graduating from the U of W as a statistical analyst. Robert, 23, who will finish at the U of W this year, hopes to do graduate work in oceanography. Malin is 20 and at Midway with the U.S. Navy. Karen, 11, attends Franklin School.

When asked how she likes her new vocation, Mrs. Charnell's face lights up with enthusiasm. "I find newspaper writing fascinating . . . meeting people and learning more about the work they do . . . people I would never have known otherwise. Now I can only say it was presumptuous for me to consider writing without this experience."

Case schedule set for court session

Eight criminal cases and four civil suits are presently set for the spring jury session of the Clallam County Superior Court.

The first case, the State versus Donald G. Stark and Harold L. Gallauher, opens April 11. The two men are charged with the theft of copper wire. The charge is grand larceny.

Other criminal cases include a charge of robbery against Alvin Williams and LrRoy J. Williams, set for April 18 and 19; a charge of forgery in the first degree against Russell Warner, set for April 27 and 28; a second degree burglary charge against Jack McFarland and Francis Jones set for May 2; and a charge of carnal knowledge against Richard Noble on May 31.

THREE APPEALS from lower courts on charges of drunken driving will also be heard. Two from the justice court include the appeal of Joseph A. Pierce of Neah Bay on April 25 and the appeal of Frank B. Pearce of Shelton on May 31. The appeal of Charlotte V. Conrad from a city police court conviction will be heard May 19.

The largest of the civil suits on the spring calendar will be the retrial of the $125,450 action of Mrs. LaVerne B. Albert against Lloyd J. Krause of Yakima.

THE SUIT resulted from an accident in December, 1957, in which Mrs. Albert's husband was killed. A jury here in 1958 found for Krause but last November the State Supreme Court granted a new trial. The case is scheduled for four days beginning May 23.

Two personal injury suits are set. The first on April 20 is a $13,425 suit Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Bauer are bringing against the Dalton Landers for injuries they claim Mrs. Bauer suffered in a collision between their car and one driven by the Landers' minor daughter, Doris.

THE OTHER personal injury suit is being brought by Peggy Heacock and Philip R. Greene, both of Roseburg, against Carolyn Parisi. The suit is the result of an auto accident near Neah Bay in Aug. 1959. Peggy Heacock is suing for $9,000 and Green for $2,000.

Carolyn Parisi has filed a cross-complaint for $5,900. The case is set for three days beginning May 16.

The fourth civil action is a $28,660 suit Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Herman of Seattle are bringing against Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Olson of Olson's Resort at Sekiu.

The Hermanns claim Mrs. Hermann was injured in a fall at the resort in July, 1960. The jury will hear the case May 9.

Naturalization proceedings are scheduled in the Superior Court May 2.

Store manager gets real jolt in Seattle speech

(From Evening News Mar. 27)

"Now, if I was a district sales manager," Sears Store manager John Von Zonneveld of Port Angeles told a meeting in Seattle Friday and with that phrase he became exactly that—a district sales manager.

Until he uttered the phrase, he did not realize he was the central figure in an elaborate gag set up by his superiors to announce his promotion.

Von Zonneveld goes to Moses Lake and from that headquarters will have charge of 13 stores in Eastern Washington, Idaho and Western Montana.

His successor here is John Doty of Edmonds. Doty has been managing the Sears Store in that community.

Von Zonneveld did not know it, but his superiors set their joke up some time ago when they asked him to speak at the Seattle meeting. His topic was supposed to be: "How a District Manager Can Help Store Managers."

He was in a real hot-box. He knew his own sales manager was going to be in the audience along with his other bosses and how to make tactful suggestions was a problem.

He really "sweat out" the preparation of his speech. The fact he was on the receiving end of the joke didn't occur to him until he hit; "Now, if I was a sales manager . . .," then one of his bosses jumped up and said: "John, you are a sales manager."

The major leagues start playing for keeps in just two short weeks. The pre-season exhibition games on the grapefruit circuit will be put in the past and, as has been the case for years and years, the teams that have been taking it on the chin in spring practice will suddenly develop long ball hitters and start blasting the pre-season favorites.

Can the Pittsburgh Pirates repeat as World Champions? What will the Yankees be like without "Casey"? Will Baltimore be able to make it in the stretch run? How will the American League expansion affect the play of established teams? These and many other questions will soon be answered before millions of baseball fans at the ball parks, on the television screen and over the radio.

★ ★ ★

While yours truly was in the U.S. Army, stationed in Chicago, I had the wonderful opportunity to see every major league baseball team in person, with the exception of the new teams, Los Angeles Angels and the new Washington Senators. It was an experience I'll never forget. Up until that time I had only read about the big league ball park, sitting through batting practice, munching on hot dogs, and seeing the "big-names" in action.

★ ★ ★

Saturday is April Fools day, and only a fool like a sportscaster and sportswriter, would try to pick the finish of the major leagues at this stage of the game. So taking stock of reports I've been reading, and considering the fact that every sports column trys to pick the winers, I decided to take a whirl at it . . . here goes!

NATIONAL LEAGUE	AMERICAN LEAGUE
Pittsburgh	Baltimore
Los Angeles	New York
Milwaukee	Chicago
San Francisco	Detroit
St. Louis	Kansas City
Cincinnati	Boston
Chicago	Minnesota
Philadelphia	Cleveland
	Washington
	Los Angeles

★ ★ ★

You have to stick with the winners in the National League, although the Dodgers will be improved. Milwaukee could grab the flag if their old line of pitchers hold together. The Orioles are a year older and I feel they are stronger. The Yankees are likely to give it a big stretch drive, but being a non-Yankee fan, I just couldn't put them first! The White Sox are still trying to find a long ball attack.

Clip this column out . . . save it . . . and call me a liar at the end of September!

Portland Beaver rack up 8th win in PCL spring exhibition play

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP)—The Portland Beavers now are 8-1 in the spring exhibition baseball competition here.

The Pacific Coast League club made it eight straight Thursday with a 2-1 victory over San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Jim Hickman slammed a ninth inning triple to score the tying and winning runs. The pitching victory went to veteran Bud Podbielan, the ex-major leaguer from Sherwood, Ore. He worked the last four innings.

Manager Vern Benson indicated he hopes the St. Louis Cardinals, with whom Portland signed a working agreement last winter, will assign promising shortstop rookie Gerry Buchek to the Beavers within the next few days.

Meanwhile the club assigned Pete Gongola, formerly of Yakima in the Northwest League and a Beaver catching regular last season, to the San Juan roster. Player-coach Ray Katt and Jimmy Schaffer, an outstanding Cardinal prospect, have been doing most of the catching.

Durocher, new club owner in huddle

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Leo Durocher, who admittedly would like to be a major league baseball manager again, and Gabe Paul, who won't need a manager for his new Houston club until next year, have been talking together.

They won't say what their conversation was about.

After a 20-minute talk prior to Thursday's Los Angeles-St. Louis exhibition, both Durocher, now a Dodger coach, and Paul, general manager of the Houston National League club-to-be, called it "merely a friendly chat."

Favor champ in welter title bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Promoter Chris Dundee today stood by his prediction of a $30,000 gate for the 15-round title bout between welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret and Emile Griffith.

"The fans buy their tickets late down here," Dundee said with optimism. "Some of them wait until the last minute. That's why it usually is hard to figure what the crowd will be."

Paret remained a 7-5 favorite over the clever New Yorker, who never has gone beyond 10 rounds before. Gil Clancy, comanager and trainer of Griffith, said there is no doubt in his mind that if the fight goes the full 15 rounds Saturday Griffith will be the fresher of the two at the finish.

The fighters will weigh in Saturday morning for the title match, which will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 p.m. (EST).

Top riders up for '$100,000 Florida Derby

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Sellers on Carry Back; Eddie Arcaro on Beau Prince; Bill Hartack on Crozier; Willie Shoemaker on Ronnies Ace.

Those are the "big four" in Saturday's $100,000 added Florida Derby, the last big test for 3-year-old thoroughbreds in the South this spring. Four others are expected to go in the mile and an eighth feature at Gulfstream Park, the 10th edition of the "run for the orchids."

Completing the field will be Ishmael Valenzuela on Garwol, Mickey Salomone on Intensive, Larry Gilligan on Game and Wayne Chambers on Oak Dandy.

Each owner and trainer is confident his colt can take first money of about $75,000.

The first five finishers will share in the purse, with second money $20,000, third $10,000, fourth $7,000 and fifth $3,000.

Oregon State breaks winless streak 21-2

CORVALLIS (AP) — Oregon State, back from a winless tour of California, lambasted Pacific University of the Northwest Conference, 21-2, Thursday for its first baseball victory of the season.

Footballer Grimm Mason led the 21-hit onslaught on three Pacific pitchers. He collected a triple and three singles in four times at bat. Another footballer, Gene Hilliard, had a triple, double and single in six tries.

Bill Oerding pitched the first seven innings and gave Pacific its only two hits. Leon Criner finished up and retired the last six batters.

Oregon State, now 1-5 for the season, plays host to Lewis and Clark in a doubleheader here Saturday.

Phillies bank on youth program for league climb

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies are banking on a slew of sophomore hitters and a crew of mostly seasoned pitchers to get them out of the National League cellar where they've languished for three dark years.

Manager Gene Mauch, himself a sophomore in the big leagues, thinks the year under his belt will help him as well as the club.

"I know the players better now and they know me better," he said. "Also, we are more familiar with the rest of the league. That should help us."

NEW PROGRAM

When Mauch succeeded Eddie Sawyer as manager of the Phils after opening day last year, he launched a rebuilding program. By trades and recalls, he substituted eager youngsters for fading veterans who managed to win 59 games. He believes the kids, benefitting from the year's experience, are ready to move up the ladder.

"We have a young outfield, with unlimited potential," said Mauch. "In another year or two, kids like Johnny Callison (21) Tony Gonzalez (24) and Tony Curry (22) could rank with the best outfields in baseball."

HALF OF INFIELD

At present, Mauch is sure of only half an infield, Frank Herrera at first and Tony Taylor at second. A pair of rookies, Jim Woods, who hit 19 home runs at Indianapolis, and Bob Sadowski, who batted .340 at San Diego, are battling for the third base job. Ruben Amaro has the edge over Joe Koppe and Bob Wine at shortstop.

Mauch plans to carry six outfielders, nine pitchers and three catchers. He has Callison, a promising slugger who batted .260 last year, in right field; Gonzalez, another bright hopeful, in center; and Curry, the team's leading hitter this spring, in left. Ken Walters, Bobby Gene Smith and Bobby Del Greco, as reserves.

ROOKIE CATCHER

Clarence Coleman, a 23-year-old rookie catcher who played at Orndo, Fla., last year, may win the No. 1 catching assignment. Clay Dalrymple, who batted .272 in his rookie year, is his chief competition.

Robin Roberts (12-16) heads the pitching staff augmented by the acquisition of Frank Sullivan (6-16) from Boston in exchange for Gene Conley. Art Mahaffey, a 23-year-old right-hander, who won seven of 10 decisions in his rookie year; John Buzhardt (5-16) and either Dallas Green (3-6) or Chris Short (6-9) will be the other starters. Dick Farrell (10-6) will head the bullpen which will include Jack Mayer (3-1) and either Jack Baldschun (12-9 at Columbia) or veteran Ruben Gomez (0-3).

Houston, Florida State golfers share lead in collegiate tourney

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —Homero Blancas of Houston and Downing Gray of Florida State moved into the third round of the 72-hole All-America Intercollegiate Golf Tournament today sharing a two-stroke lead.

Blancas, a Houston junior who was a strong pretournament favorite, scored a par 72 Thursday for a 36-hole 143 that permitted him to catch the surprising Gray, who remained one under par despite a second round 75.

SUB PAR SHOOTING

A four-under-par 68 for the 6,785-yard Pine Forest Country Club course earned Gray a three-stroke lead after Wednesday's opening round.

Entering the third round two strokes off the pace were Dickie Duble of Texas AM with a 72-73—145 and Chris Blocker of Texas Tech with a 71-74—145.

Joel Goldstrand of Houston headed a five-way tie at 146. Goldstrand was the only player to break par Thursday, posting a three-under 69 that enabled Houston to take the team medal lead at 597.

Houston also moved into the championship team match semi-finals by defeating Texas A&M 5-1. North Texas defeated Florida 5-1 and Louisiana State Defeated Alabama 4½-1½. Oklahoma State edged Florida State on medal scores, 302-306, while playing to a 3-3 tie.

MEETS OKLAHOMANS

Houston played Oklahoma State today and North Texas met Louisiana State.

North Texas State and Texas A&M shared second place in team medal play with 598. Next, in order, were Louisiana State 606, Oklahoma State and Florida State 607, Florida 612, New Mexico 616, Texas Tech and Wesleyan 632, Alabama and Baylor 626, Southern Methodist 629, Texas Wesleyan 632, Western Illinois 634, Stephen F. Tiger hurler walks out of camp in huff

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Ray Narleski, who possibly could solve the Detroit Tigers' relief pitching woes, has quit the club in a huff and gone home to New Jersey.

The right-hander stalked out of the Tigers' spring camp Thursday after a dispute with personnel director Rick Ferrell.

Narleski packed at his hotel and went to the airport for his homeward trip to Haddonfield, N. J.

At issue was Narleski's request that he be restored to the Tigers' roster and be given a major league contract. The one-time relief ace, idled with a bad back all last season, is on the roster of Detroit's Denver American Association farm club while being allowed to train with the parent club.

Narleski said he wanted a major league contract by Saturday so he could be covered by insurance in the players' pension fund. His insurance expires at midnight today. He has had concern over medical bills if his back troubles him again.

Ferrell had no comment about Narleski's insurance problem. But the Tiger front office said the club paid Narleski's entire salary last season plus his medical bills although he didn't pitch a game. His 1960 salary was reported at $18,000.

Name players hard to find in golf tourney

By KEN ALYTA

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Name players were hard to find today as the 13th annual Azalea Open Golf Tournament got under way at the Cape Fear Country Club course.

With the tournament knocked down to a three-day, 54-hole affair carrying a modest $12,000 purse, most of the leading golfers have elected to lay off over the holiday weekend or to go to Augusta, Ga., and tune up for next week's Master's.

Twelve major tournaments have been conducted by the PGA since January and not a winner is here.

The field of 87 includes 20 amateurs, 20 Carolinas and Virginia club pros and 47 touring players.

Three men loom as most likely to pick up the top check of $1,200 Sunday.

The trio is made up of Jerry Barber, the little veteran from Los Angeles, Dow Finsterwald, 1958 PGA champion from Jupiter, Fla., and Dave Ragan, 1959 Eastern Open winner from Orlando, Fla.

Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y., is defending the title he won last year with a 277 for 72 holes over the par 72 course which measures 6,500 yards. He scored a par 72 in Thursday's $2,500 pro-amateur competition on a card that included 16 pars.

Huston Leclair of Birmingham, Ala., led the 45 pros with a five-under-par 67 to win top money of $250. Bob Shave of Willoughby, Ohio, was a stroke back at 210.

Three trades beginning to pay off for Cards

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Three trades the St. Louis Cardinals made with the San Francisco Giants are starting to prove beneficial for the Red Birds with pitcher Ernie Broglio, first baseman Bill White and shortstop Daryl Spencer all figuring prominently in their 1967 National League pennant plans.

The trio starred in the Cards' 2-1 exhibition baseball victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers at St. Petersburg Thursday. Broglio, a 21-game winner last season, just about clinched the opening day assignment by becoming the first St. Louis pitcher to go nine innings this spring.

ALLOWED FOUR

The big, right-hander allowed four hits, struck out four and walked four. The lone run off him came on Duke Snider's fourth-inning homer.

White, who batted .283 and slammed 16 home runs in 1960, collected two of the Red Birds' six hits. Spencer broke up the game with a ninth inning home run off veteran Don Newcombe, who is attempting a comeback with his old team. The lanky infielder was the first batter to face Newcombe in the ninth. Newcombe, who relieved starter Larry Sherry, gave up three hits in his three-inning stint.

TWINS WIN

Elsewhere along the exhibition trail Thursday: Minnesota edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3, New York nipped Detroit 5-4, Milwaukee trimmed Kansas City 8-2, Pittsburgh posted a 6-4 victory over Philadelphia, San Francisco turned back Boston 7-5, the Los Angeles Angels shaded Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League 3-2 and the Baltimore "B" squad edged Richmond of the International League 6-5. The game between the Chicago Cubs and Cleveland was cancelled by wet grounds at Tucson.

TRIGGERED CONQUEST

Hal Naragon's three-run homer and Bob Allison's solo four-bagger triggered the Twins' conquest over the White Sox. Home runs by Deron Johnson and Jesse Gonder were the key blasts in the Yanks' win at the expense of the Tigers.

Billy Martin batted in five runs with a homer and two singles in the Braves' success over the A's. Joe Adcock also homered for Milwaukee. Dick Schofield's two-run homer in the eighth provided the winning margin for the Pirates against the Phils.

Willie Mays and rookie Tom Haller produced homers in the Giants' win over the Red Sox. Jackie Jensen of Boston was forced to retire with a pulled muscle in his right leg. The injury was believed not serious.

Algerians may want change of site following bombing

EVIAN - LES - BAINS, France (AP) — The bomb killing of the mayor of the town in which the French and the Algerian rebels are scheduled to start peace talks next week raised the prospect today that the Algerians would demand the talks to be shifted to another site or delayed.

French extremists opposed to President Charles de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria were generally believed to have planted the bombs that brought death early today to Mayor Camille Blanc, 48, and injured his wife. The bombs exploded in the front of the small hotel where Blanc had his home and office.

Levees holding as river crests short of record

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—The swollen Cedar River's turbulent downstream race apparently reached its peak at Iowa's second rgest city this morning.

But vigilance and watchful waiting were the next steps as the river was expected to hold its crest stage for as long as 12 hours. This would exert terrific pressure on temporary levees.

At 8:30 a.m., the river level reached 19.54 feet—6½ feet above flood stage—but the rate of rise has slowed appreciably.

This level was below even the revised 20-foot crest forecast by the U.S. Geological Survey late Thursday. If the river holds at its present level, it will not reach the record high of 20.01 feet in the disastrous 1929 flood here.

The Red Cross estimated that 4,800 persons moved from their homes. The relief agency set up emergency shelters in two schools, but only 75 persons took advantage of them last night. The other evacuees apparently moved in with friends or relatives.

No major breaks were reported in the emergency levees, although some seepage had taken place. Two danger spots developed this morning.

One was near the large Quaker Oats plant on the east side of the river, which divides the city, and the other was almost directly acros sthe Cedar on the west side, where levees were quite soggy.

Authorities appealed for fresh volunteer workers to relieve those who had worked along the dikes throughout the night.

Vietnam's motorized fishing junks described by advisor

Robert J. Schoettler, fisheries advisor for the U. S. Operations Mission to Vietnam, has edited an illustrated book describing the motorizing of fishing junks of that country to make fishing more profitable.

Shoettler, former director of fisheries for the State of Washington, is a brother of John W. Schoettler of Port Angeles.

The book explaines that there are approximately 35,000 fishing junks of the bamboo bottom type used in the coastal waters of the country.

The bamboo bottoms are necessary as there are few harbors and boats must be dragged up on the beaches to land the fish cargoes. The bamboo buttoms are plyable and are not severly damaged with contact with sand and rocks.

They were entirely propelled by oars and their off-shore fishing range is limited because of the time required to row to and from fishing grounds. Too it was dangerous to get far from shore for fear of a sudden storm and the difficulty of making progress in the big waves. This resulted in limiting the fishing ground to much fisher over waters.

The mission from the U. S. perfected a type of outboard-inboard motor that can be used to propel the bamboo bottom boat. Motorization is by a small inboard motor with a long shaft. Diesel fuel is used. The engine bed is suspended from the gunwales and mounted on four automobile clutch springs to prevent vibration that could damage the bamboo bottom. After use of the motor in a boat, four men can carry it to their home to use for domestic or farm. purposes.

Expanding the fishing range of the fleet and giving more speed in reaching the fishing ground and getting back to shore has tripled the per-man catches.

With American aid the boats are being rapidly motorized at a present rate of a 1,000 a year.

"These boats so equipped are bringing to market three times as many fish than they did without motors. This means an appreciable increase in standards of living for the fishermens' families, better diet and more income for the nation. A new era of prosperity has come to the coastal vilages of Vietnam," the book announces.
