Rescuers flying to Peru's valley of death

FIRST BLAST — Blasting to get rock for the Coast Guard Air Station on Ediz Hook took place yesterday at the quarry on upper Black Diamond Road. This puff of dust was the result of setting off a ton of powder. Rock proved tougher than man and more blasting to break up the 12,000 tons of rock needed was indicated. (Evening News Photo).

READY TO BLAST — Workmen clear the area at the rock quarry on the upper Black Diamond Road yesterday, as they prepared to set off a ton of blasting powder in this rock wall to get rock for rip rap for the bulkhead to be built on Coast Guard Air Station on Ediz Hook. The rock proved as hard as it looks and more blasting was needed to get the 12,000 tons of rock required. (Evening News Photo).

SHORING UP — For the next month or two trucks will be hauling rip rap rock to this area along the inside of Ediz Hook on the Coast Guard Air Station. The contractor plans to remove the top two logs of the old log bulkhead and build up a rock rip rap bulkhead to protect the hook from wave action. (Evening News Photo).

City's fire losses for year increase

A total of 374 fire calls in Port Angeles in 1961 resulted in $40,310 damage loss.

These figures were revealed by Fire Chief Kenneth Cameron, in his annual report to the city manager. They represent a loss of $2.50 per resident of the city.

This is the heaviest fire loss in Port Angeles in any year since the Olympus Hotel fire swelled the loss in 1955 to $114,912.

THOUGH LATE SUMMER and early fall months proved the busiest months for city fire fighters, the biggest single cause of fires was attributed to overheated stoves and burners and their pipes.

August saw the fire department answer 41 fire calls, making it the top month of the year, with July and September both coming in a close second with 39 each and 38 in October.

NEXT TO OVERHEATED stoves, chimney fires and roof fires caused from sparks from the chimney were the greatest single source of fires in the city.

Thirty-six false alarms constituted the third largest cause of fire calls.

Following these in frequency were grass, brush and rubbish fires. Firemen were called out on 33 of these during 1961.

CAMERON NOTED THREE new fire alarm boxes installed in 1961, to protect Peninsula College and Stevens Junior High School and the newly-built nursing home.

Cameron says that in the coming year the department hopes to have the alarm system in as good a condition as possible for its age. Much of the equipment was purchased in 1939, he said.

He said master fire alarm boxes in industries, the hospital, schools and nursing homes should continue, but that no important expansion into the residential area is planned in 1962.

COMMENTING ON Fire Prevention and Clean-Up weeks, Cameron called them very successful. He said there was a lot of interest in the fire prevention program shown throughout the community.

"We feel that the time, effort and cost of our fire prevention and Sparky programs is being many times repaid through reduced fire losses."

CAMERON PASSED along recommendations for department improvements that came out of the study by the Washington Surveying and Rating Bureau.

This study, by the investigators sponsored by the insurance companies operating in Washington, left Port Angeles strongly in group five.

One of the most far reaching suggestions calls for the addition of three men to the force. The plan would have two more firemen, to provide four men on duty 24 hours a day, instead of the present setuo of three men.

THE THIRD MAN would be a drillmaster to carry out the fire department's training program. This would call for hiring a new man, Cameron said, as there is no one qualified for the job in the department at present.

The recommendations also call for the purchase of a triple combination pumper truck. The chief suggests trading in some of the department's old equipment which is not worth putting into first-rate shape on the new truck.

Voter lists to close

Registration for voting in the coming city primary election closes at 5:00 p.m. today.

Unless there is a last minute rush indicating a need to have the registration books open tomorrow, City Manager M. W. Slankard said, the city would go ahead and close registration tonight.

With only a few people coming in to register during the past few days there has been no demand for staying open Saturday, he said.

After today, registrations will be held for the city general election March 13, but will not apply for the primary.

Registration for the general election can be made until Feb. 10.

A city resident must have been a state resident for 11 months and a Clallam County resident for no less than 60 days to be eligible to register and vote in the election Feb. 13.

To replace bulkhead

The Coast Guard Air Station on Ediz Hook needs a little rock, about 12,000 tons of good stuff, capable of withstanding the constant beating of wind and waves.

To protect the narrow finger of land from the attack of the sea the rock will go to make riprap along the inside of the hook from the seaplane ramp west almost to the Omni Range station. There will also be a patch near the gate on the outside of the hook.

To supply this rock, contractor C. W. Thomas, of Napavine, Wash., began blasting at the stone quarry on the upper Black Diamond Road yesterday.

He said he expects to take a month or two to haul the 12,000 tons of rock to the air station and build up the new rock riprap bulkhead.

Almost gets power

An unthinking rifleman came close to plunging the North Olympic Peninsula into darkness last night when he shot out six insulators on the main Bonneville power line.

PUD Manager Elmer B. Titus said here today someone with a rifle knocked off the insulators along a section of the line east of the substation near Discovery Bay.

Luckily for the area, the power was not knocked out at the time.

Titus said the PUD was able to maintain electrical service to the area over its 69,000 volt line from midnight to 1:30 a.m. today while the insulators were replaced on the main Bonneville line. Even with that aid, the Crown Zellerbach mill here had to put off its grinding operations for a time, he added.

If it had not been for this extra "wheeling" line the PUD uses between here and the Port Townsend area, the whole region would have been blacked out while the insulators were replaced.

NO CAT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Zorro loves to sleep in a tree. The only trouble is, he's not a cat or bird. He's a 2-year-old mongrel dog.

Zorro's owner, Anny Mary Paleveda, said the dog started favoring his six-foot perch on a limb of a backyard tree about a year ago.

"He spends much of the day perched in the tree—it gives him a vantage point to keep an eye on the yard," she said.

Frigid weather areas may get some relief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Deep South looked forward to a promised warming trend today as the thermometer began to inch back up from the lowest readings in years.

Overnight lows of zero or below were recorded for the second straight night in parts of the South, with the coldest temperatures in Mississippi, Arkansas and western Tennessee, where skies were clear.

BELOW ZERO

Eldorado, Ark., in the southern part of the state, reported 3 below zero before midnight.

The Weather Bureau promised high temperatures in the 30s over Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and parts of Tennessee today—the highest daytime readings since up to eight inches of snow fell Tuesday and Tuesday night.

Some relief from nearly a week of frigid weather came to most of the snow-covered sections of the Midwest. And a warming trend was indicated for broad sections from the Rockies into New England.

The most significant temperature moderation in the Midwest was from the central and northern Plains states into the Upper Mississippi Valley and the western Great Lakes region. Readings were some 20 to 30 degrees higher than the near and below zero marks that had gripped the area for the past several days.

Higher daytime temperatures were predicted across a broad belt extending from Southern California through the south and central Plains states, Middle Mississippi Valley and southern Great Lakes into the Ohio Valley and Northeastern states.

130 DEATHS

The season's longest spell of cold weather was blamed for at least 130 deaths. These included 71 from overexertion while shoveling snow or pushing stalled cars, 23 to exposure and 36 in traffic accidents on icy or snowy streets and roads.

CGAS copter locates body

SEATTLE (AP) — One man apparently drowned but his companion reached shore safely Thursday afternoon when their 12-foot skiff overturned off Orcas Island.

Vern Wilkes, 68, of Olga, Orcas Island, was missing and presumed drowned. Walter Hall, about 72, of East Sound, Orcas Island, swam ashore.

The Coast Guard reported the boat in which the two men went fishing capsized 20 feet offshore near West Beach Resort.

Two helicopters from Coast Guard Air Station joined in the search at 8:35 a.m. today. The crew of one of them, piloted by Lt. Cmdr. Nicholas Ivanosky and Lt. Lee Levy, spotted the man in the water at 10:15 a.m. They remained on the scene to direct a boat to the area from West Beach about two miles northeast.

Draftsman quits county

The furor that filled the courthouse when assistant county engineer Paul Reed was given his notice by the county commissioners Friday is still being felt.

Bill Freer, draftsman for county engineering department, turned in his letter of resignation to County Engineer Herman Ahlvers today. Freer has worked for the county three and a half years.

He said his quitting has a direct bearing on Reed being fired. He said there was no feeling of job security in the courthouse any more. He has accepted a position with a private concern.

The commissioners said Reed was fired because engineering costs were too high and he doesn't have a license. They said they wanted a licensed engineer in his job because Ahlvers is reaching retirement age and they want a qualified man familiar with the county system.

Being a licensed engineer isn't one of the requirements of Reed's job. He had worked for the county five years without one and his predecessor in the job worked there something over seven years without one.

Reed said he was staying on in his present capacity until some of the work was out of the way and it all won't be dumped on Ahlvers. Reed has been retained by the City of Port Angeles engineering department to start work immediately on his termination by the county.

City Manager Matt Slankard said today, "I feel personally and I know I speak for our city administration that we are most fortunate in being able to get such a qualified person. His qualifications and experience will suit city requirements very well and I am sure he will make every effort to do a good job."

State toll up three

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three more traffic fatalities were recorded in Washington State Thursday night and early Friday.

John R. Caughlan, 92, Seattle, died early Friday of injuries suffered several hours earlier when struck by a hit-run car in Seattle's northend.

Paul M. Obershaw, 22, Renton, was fatally injured when struck by a car as he crossed a Renton street.

An automobile struck and killed 5-year-old John Jennerjohn of Vancouver, Wash., when he ran across a road some eight miles northeast of Vancouver.

3,000 to 4,000 feared dead under avalanche

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Rescue planes flew into the Andes Valley of Huaylas 200 miles north of Lima today, where 3,000 to 4,000 persons are feared dead under an avalanche of ice, snow, rock and mud. The disaster virtually wiped out two villages and 14 settlements in eight minutes.

Before darkness Thursday, 50 bodies had been recovered. A doctor back from the stricken area said rescuers would have little to do but recover the dead —"there are no injured."

TWO PLANES

Only two planes were able to fly into Caraz, about 20 miles north of the disaster area, before dense fog and bad weather set in Thursday. But this morning, planes began a shuttle to carry in doctors, nurses, medicines, food and clothing for victims of Wednesday's tragedy.

The exact number of dead may never be known. Roberto Thorndike, chairman of the Peruvian Red Cross, said initial estimates by representatives in the area put the number of missing at 2,300. U.S. Ambassador James Loeb, who flew over the area, reported estimates of 4,000 missing and presumed dead.

VILLAGE BURIED

The village of Ranrahirca and 450 of its 500 people were buried under a mass of muck a mile wide and nowhere less than 12 feet deep.

The village of Huarascucho, said to have a larger population than Ranrahirca, also was reported to have disappeared under the huge slide. Officials said 14 smaller settlements were destroyed, and that none of the residents of seven of them had been found alive.

More than 7,000 persons lived in the ranching and mining valley, 9,000 feet up with the snowtopped peaks of the Cordillera Blanca looking down on them.

QUAGMIRES OF MUD

Volunteers struggled through quagmires of mud and melting ice to recover bodies that began to appear as waters of the Santa River began to recede. The avalanche swept hundreds of thousands of tons of debris into the river, swelling its waters and sending a torrent raging downstream. Dozens of bodies were recovered in Chimbote, a port on the Pacific more than 100 miles from Ranrahirca.

Many of the bodies recovered were mutilated beyond identification and were buried in a common grave.

Ski area report

The 8 a.m. report from Hurricane Ridge was one inch of new snow, temperature at 24 and wind from the south at 5 to 10 m.p.h.

Assistant chief ranger Robert Rogers said there was a total of 83 inches in the ski area and it was snowing at the time. He said the snow was dry and "if we get a break in the weather, skiing should be good this weekend."

Indonesia warned

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies in effect warned today that Australia would fight to protect East New Guinea should Indonesia expand its territorial ambitions beyond Dutch-held West New Guinea.

Menzies said Indonesia had several times given assurances it would not try to take West New Guinea by force and that it has no territorial ambitions in East New Guinea, which Australia administers as a U.N. trusteeship.

"We are reluctant to believe that threats of war now being made by the Indonesian government in breach of those assurances are to be followed by action," Menzies said in a statement after he and his Cabinet reviewed the New Guinea situation.

But Australia, he said, recognizes and will discharge its prime responsibilities for protecting the security of Australia and its territories. Arthur Calwell, leader of the opposition Labor party, has suggested that once President Sukarno gets control of West New Guinea, he will train his sights on the eastern half of the island.

Menzies expressed hope the Netherlands and Indonesia could settle their dispute through negotiation.

Indonesian naval officers in Jakarta said Thursday destroyers are being sent to the northern Celebes because of fears the Dutch aircraft carrier Karel Doorman may sail into West New Guinea waters. The Netherlands say the carrier is on a goodwill tour.

One of President Sukarno's top advisers, Dr. Johannes Leimena, was reported by Indonesian government sources to be making a secret tour of eastern Indonesia, bordering West New Guinea. Leimena is a native of Amboina, whose people are among the most warlike of the Indonesians, and his mission presumably is to whip up support for Sukarno's campaign to take West New Guinea.

Indonesia's ambassador to Canada, Dr. I. N. Palar, said in a speech at Ottawa Thursday that his country would seek help from Communist China or any other source—"even from the devil"—in its dispute with the Dutch.

The Cambodian government today publicly expressed support for Indonesia's claim but said it hoped the dispute with the Dutch could be settled peacefully.

Color bars drop in hurry after word out on storm emergency

By WICK TEMPLE

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—A Negro woman and her small granddaughter are enjoying this community's belated—but bountiful—hospitality after spending two days and nights aboard a stranded transcontinental bus.

The passengers, Mae Lee Johnson, 55, of Bourbon, Miss., and Gwendolyn Faye, a smiling child of almost three who wears pigtails, were kept warm and comfortable on the bus because the white driver ignored a chance to take lodging at a hotel and kept the heating system going.

IN SNOWSTORM

The Continental Trailways bus stopped here during a snowstorm Tuesday and C. C. Barlow of Texarkana, Ark., the driver, received orders not to go on because of hazardous highways.

The white passengers went to hotels, but the only Negro hotel in town told Barrow that it had no vacancies.

"I guess you'll have to stay on the bus," he told Mrs. Johnson and Gwendolyn. They were en route to Los Angeles for a visit with Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Minnie Bell Williams.

TWO NIGHTS

Barlow folded down two seats for his passengers and they spent two nights aboard the bus. He cat-napped in a front seat. Temperatures outside fell to three degrees above zero.

The bus station cafe was closed two months ago to avoid integration. So Barlow helped Mrs. Johnson and Gwendolyn to a nearby Negro cafe for some meals. Other meals were eaten from a lunch they had brought.

BROADCAST STORY

Thursday the bus door opened and Julian Haas, manager of radio station KAGH, stepped in. He talked with Mrs. Johnson and Barlow and went back to the station.

He broadcast the story at 2 p.m.

"As soon as I was off the air the phone calls started," he said. "There were calls from Negro families who said they would put them up. A white hotel owner called and said to send them over, that there was a room regardless of their color.

MAKES OFFER

"A white woman called and said they could use her son's room because he was away at school."

By the time Haas got back to the bus station, dozens of people—white and Negro—were clustered around the bus. They carried food, clothing and invitations for lodging.

Mrs. Johnson and Gwendolyn went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnson, Negroes (no relation), to spend the night. Townsfolk brought enough food for a banquet.

Barlow went to stay with a Baptist minister.

"That bus driver really deserves the credit," Haas said. He didn't have to stay on that bus. There were rooms in white hotels."

The bus was expected to leave Crossett today.

Garden Club hears program

Mrs. Stanley Stone was hostess to Sequim Prairie Garden Club Monday afternoon at St. Luke's parish hall. Cohostesses were Mmes. Anton Fredrickson, Frank Dawley, Edward Geier and Glen Foster.

New members welcomed were Lorn Priest, Carl Blank and Mmes. C. G. Gill, Virgil Herman and Mary Nell Sisson.

The club voted to endorse the Business and Professional Women's recommendation to have the Communist party and its front organizations outlawed in the State of Washington.

Mrs. Lester McFarland and Mrs. Howard Breece were appointed by President Mrs. D. C. Hope to judge year book covers. First prize went to Mrs. Geier and second to Mrs. Earl Priest.

LOCAL GIRL SCOUTS asked and received permission to plant a bed of yellow flowers in Pioneer Memorial Park in honor of the golden anniversary of Girl Scouting.

Junior activities for the month of December were instructing Girl Scouts on making holiday corsages and showing a den of Cub Scouts how to make candle and wreath holders.

Mrs. Lorn Priest, park chairman, reported on work done on the clubhouse. At her request, members gathered at the park after the meeting to see work accomplished and discuss plans for the kitchen interior.

The program included a report on the Robin family by Mrs. Ted Sorgenfrei; garden helps and the planting of new varieties of calla lilies by Mrs. Dawley; and "Beware of Garden Frauds" by Mrs. Geier.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Joe Turton.

FOR PROTECTION

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A group of Nashville fallout shelter builders and suppliers have formed an association to "weed out fly-by-night operators who are selling inferior shelters." The organization was described as the first of its kind in the nation.

"This is a pilot project," said Williams Faris, Davidson County civil defense director Thursday.

The 26 businessmen who signed up as members of the Fallout Shelter Association agreed to submit their work for rating by engineers appointed by Faris. Buyers will receive written guarantees as to the amount of protection their shelters will give against radiation.

VOTE CALL

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) —A petition calling for repeal or a vote of the people on the Vancouver, Wash., City Council's water fluoridation ordinance was certified by the city clerk Wednesday.

The petition had far more than the number of signatures needed. It was circulated by the Vancouver Council for Pure Water after the City Council had passed an ordinance Dec. 19 providing for fluoridation of Vancouver's water supply.

ONE FOR FREE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The sun failed to shine in St. Petersburg Thursday and it meant free editions of the St. Petersburg Evening Independent.

Fifty-one years ago the Independent started giving away its edition any day the sun didn't shine on the city. Thursday was the 213th time the paper had to make good on its offer, and it was the first time since July 19, 1961.

MARRIED — Mr. and Mrs. Ivan L. Rodenbaugh announce the marriage of their daughter Christina Lee to Lawrence L. Lakey, son of Mrs. Clifford Shoemaker and L. A. Lakey of Seattle. The marriage was performed by the Rev. W. G. R. Dann at his home Monday evening. Attendants were Miss Jan Roberson of Sequim and Jenn Fortman of Portland.

Garden Club welcomes new members

Mrs. J. C. DeCamp was hostess for the Jan. 10 meeting of the Dungeness Garden Club. Mrs. George Clasen, program chairman, chose as her topic "Garden Inventory For January."

This included improving of landscaping and checking shrubs and decidious plants and trees for broken branches that need pruning and spraying; sufficient mulching media; and adding new shrubs or plants to the landscape. This year Mrs. Clasen has added hybrid rhododendrons to her garden.

Club members surveyed the DeCamp gardens to see the care and mulching given flower beds, and organic compost that will be available for the summer gardening program.

Mrs. Clasen will be hostess for the February meeting.

Auxiliary plans clothing drive

Mrs. William Merrill was hostess to members of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday evening.

Mrs. Ted Sorgenfrei, child welfare chairman, reported on Christmas gifts sent to two "adopted" girls at Buckley.

Mrs. Merrill Simmelink, department president, will make her official visit Feb. 21 when Sequim and Port Angeles auxiliaries will meet for a no-host dinner at 6:30 p.m. at Harrington's. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Peter Granum by Feb. 15.

The local auxiliary is sending a contribution to the "Save The Children" Federation. The money is marked for books for American Indian children. The group is also planning a clothing drive for the federation. Warm, usable clothing may be left at the Sequim Cleaners or with any auxiliary member.

Jan. 24 at 1 p.m. members will meet for a sewing party at the Legion Hall to repair the donated clothing. Plans were made for a rummage sale April 6 and 7. Refreshments were served by the hostess after the meeting.

SCHOOL LUNCH MENUS
Jan. 15 through Jan. 19

Monday—Macaroni and cheese, tomato sauce, buttered spinach, peanut butter sandwich, apricots, milk.

Tuesday—Wiener winks, potato salad, buttered beans, bread and butter sandwich, cherry tarts, milk.

Wednesday—Chile, carrot stix, fruit salad, buttered french bread, orange roll, milk.

Thursday—Hot turkey sandwich, buttered peas, whole wheat muffin, pumpkin pudding, milk.

Friday—Broiled halibut steaks, tartar sauce, mashed potatoes with parsley butter, breaded tomatoes, fruit, milk.

Gardiner News

Mrs. Peter Jorgensen writes from Gardiner:

Marvin Shields, who received his first degree in the Jefferson Masonic Lodge Saturday afternoon, was escorted to the hall by William Wagner, Richard Bekkevar, Peter Jorgensen and Holland Barrett. Marvin left Monday for San Diego for duty at the Naval Training Station.

Mrs. Nelson Nelson, who spent Christmas with her son and daughter-in-law, Comdr. and Mrs. Jack Nelson and two children in California, plans to remain for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Galbraith, who were both ill all during the holidays, are now much improved.

Juanita Bishop is gradually recovering from the severe bruises she received when her car plunged over an embankment. She is going into Port Townsend every other day for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner enjoyed Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fredeen of Nordland.

David and Kathleen Benson, Joan Murray, Marvin Shields, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bekkevar and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warman attended the Icecapes in Seattle Saturday night.

The Gardiner Garden Club will meet Jan. 12 for noon luncheon with Mrs. Wagner and Mrs Victoria Cassalery as hostesses.

VFW Auxiliary hears reports

Henry Echternkamp Auxiliary of VFW met Jan. 9 with President Mrs. John Haspel presiding.

Mrs. Ervin Boettcher reported on arrangements to present Pledge of Allegiance cards to the schools next week. She read thank you notes from the auxiliary's adopted veteran at Orting and from hospital chairmen for gifts sent at Christmas.

Department Senior Vice President Mrs. James Minty reminded members of the benefit party at her Gardiner home Jan. 30 at 8 p.m.

Post Comdr. A. W. Echternkamp presented the auxiliary a large aerial picture of the national home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. He announced the past commanders and past presidents dinner will be Feb. 13.

THE ANNUAL MIDWINTER conference will be held at Moses Lake Jan. 20 and 21. Mrs. Sophie Blair reported 53 hours spent by members in PTA, Brownies, Girl Scouts, and dinners during the past two weeks.

Mrs. Donald Swanson, youth activities chairman, announced the auxiliary will sponsor a jacks tournament in April. Girls between the ages of 8 and 15 may participate. They do not have to be affiliated with the VFW.

Winner of the local tournament is eligible to compete in the district tournament in May. Mrs. Swanson has the official tournament jacks which are sold only by women of the auxiliary. Girls who are interested may contact Mrs. Swanson or other members.

Chapter EP PEO met at the home of Mrs. Fred Beale Tuesday evening with Miss Frances Laurenson as cohostess. Mrs. Henry Witte presented a program on "Washington After Sundown." Mrs. W. G. R. Dann told the history of the chapter which was celebrating its fifth birthday.

Mrs. Ethel Barker was hostess Monday afternoon to 17 members of ST. LUKE'S EPISCOPAL GUILD. Mrs. Frank Eccles was cohostess. Guest speaker Ann Trimble, case worker from the Diagnostic Center at Port Townsend, discussed the Center's program and need for community education and understanding. Interested visitors are always welcome, she said. There are between 250 and 260 boys and girls now in residence. Toasters, waffle irons, books, and electric popcorn poppers are among items needed for the cottages.

Mrs. Edwin Heath, Sequim PTA program chairman, reports the Jan. 17 meeting will feature a student panel on opportunities of learning and travel offered outside the school curriculum. Colin Brevik will speak on Boys State; Len Beil on his trip to the United Nations; Marta Livingston on Girls State; and Sara Griffith on Girls Nation. Group singing will follow the program. Fourth grade room mothers will be hostesses.

Mrs. Dave Burrowes was hostess at a desert luncheon for members of the PAST NOBLE GRANDS Club Tuesday afternoon. The club will meet with Mrs. Henry Boston Jan. 23.

BLYN CIRCLE of WSCS met at the Blyn Community Church Wednesday with Mrs. Harold Baker as hostess. Mrs. Elizabeth Gedelman led devotions. The circle has gathered a box of clothing to send to a missionary home in Alaska.

CARLSBORG COMMUNITY CLUB held a business meeting and social evening Tuesday at the Carlsborg school. Refreshments were served by Mmes. Edna McNamara, Fred McNamara and Roy Marrs.

MARY-MARTHA CIRCLE of the United Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Jay J. Sherman Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Leonard Leach had the Bible study and devotions and Mrs. Sydney Keith presented the mission study on Latin America. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Wallace White.

RETURNS

OLYMPIA (AP)—Gov. Rosellini returned to his desk Tuesday after two weeks in California.

He was grand marshal in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena.

The governor said remarks he heard along the parade route led him to believe a lot of people plan to attend the Seattle World's Fair, starting in April.

Sequim Chamber of Commerce meets with new officers

Mary Brown, newly elected president, conducted the Tuesday noon meeting of the Sequim Chamber of Commerce. Guests were Jack Bartee and Melvin Michel. There were 24 attending.

Mrs. Brown announced a meeting of the North Olympic Chambers of Commerce at Harringtons in Port Angeles Jan. 16. She presented a copy of the findings of the Governor's Committee on Cross Sound Transportation to Harry Peterson.

Secretary Dorothy Munkeby read a letter from the Sequim Prairie Garden Club in appreciation of the chamber's donation to Pioneer Memorial Park.

A letter from Sequim Valley Lions Club offered help with the Irrigation Festival and expressed the club's hope that the festival will be continued. The Lions do not believe a festival chairman should be paid and do not care to cooperate on that basis.

Mrs. Brown expressed appreciation for the past five years sponsorship by the Lions Club and said that while many organizations had been asked, no one had accepted to date.

JACK HOGAN, manager of the Port Commission, reported that by May some work will be done to make it easier to get boats out into the water at the boat haven. He requested an opportunity to report to the Chamber on the Port Commission's work during 1961.

Mrs. Brown re-appointed Gene Burdick membership chairman and the following to the NOCC committee: Harry Peterson, chairman, Harry LeGear, and Jay J. Sherman, retiring president of the chamber.

Elmer Titus, PUD manager, reported on the proposed California intertie.

Royal Neighbors install officers

Sequim Royal Neighbors installed officers Monday night at the IOOF Hall.

Taking office were Mrs. Daniel Danforth, oracle; Mrs. Joe Eberle, vice-oracle; Mrs. Sophie Blair, chancellor; Mrs. Frank Mills, recorder; Mrs. Ralph Jones, receiver; Mrs. B. F. Dubuque, inner sentinel; Mrs. Clyde Vail, outer sentinel; Mrs. Jack Ryser, marshal and Mrs. Harvey Klinger, assistant marshal.

Also installed were Mrs. Walter Still, faith; Mrs. Joe Siberhorn, courage; Mrs. Norman Thompson, modesty; Mrs. D. E. Salonen, unselfishness; Mrs. James Burrowes, endurance; Mrs. Henry Boston, flag bearer; and Mrs. Vesta Yoakum, musician.

Installing officers were Mmes. Percy Govan, Jones and Ryser.

The next meeting will be a social afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harvey Klinger Jan. 22 at 1:30 p.m.

Grange Master R. L. Thomsen appoints committee for year

Sequim Prairie Grange met Wednesday night with new officers taking their places for the first time.

New Master Robert Thomsen appointed committees for the year. Chairmen will be: Mrs. Peter Duncan, finance; Mrs. Lawrence Literal, home economics; Mrs. William Merrill, relief; Einer Thomsen, agriculture; Mrs. Harold Byers, membership; Max Schmuck, resolutions and power; Harry LeGear, transportation.

Aage Thomsen, fair board; Robert Clark, legislation; Mrs. George Hartman, degree; Mrs. Clyde Vail, hospital auxiliary and blood bank; Einer Thomsen, Community Club; Mrs. Einer Thomsen, youth.

THE GRANGE CHARTER was draped for Mrs. Sadie Lavender. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Willis and Mrs. Fern Harris received the obligation and were welcomed as new members. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Howell and Mr. and Mrs. George Stares were voted into membership.

The resolution from the Washington State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs on outlawing the Communist party in this state was read and adopted by the Grange.

The annual March of Dimes pie social will be held at the next meeting Jan. 24 when Pomona will meet at Macleay Hall. Earl Livingston, new master of the Pomona Grange, urges all members to attend.

Names drawn for the lunch committee were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Harry LeGear, Stacy Stone, Duane Cays and Mrs. Robert DeLorm.

Mrs. Haller to show pictures

The second in a series of family nights and study of South America will be held Sunday at Trinity Methodist Church starting with a potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m.

Community singing led by Mrs. Ray Parker follows the dinner hour. The program starts at 7 p.m. Church members welcome anyone interested to attend.

Mrs. Helen Haller will show pictures taken on her trip down the west coast of South America, and a discussion will follow on the needs of those countries.

Jan. 7 James Babcock showed color moving pictures taken in South America. He spoke on the physical characteristics of the continent, its distribution of population; lack of communication; problems in health, education, land distribution and others. He touched on problems of Latin America for which North Americans should be responsible, and told the extent of missionary activities.

Land Bank annual meeting Feb. 9

The annual meeting of the Federal Land Bank Association of Sequim will be held at Trinity Methodist Church Feb. 9, according to D. A. Whittaker, association manager.

The meeting will be attended by association stockholder-members from Clallam and Jefferson counties and by a number of agricultural leaders in this area. Registration is 11:30 a.m. followed by dinner at noon and the business session at 1 p.m.

Larry Winters of Port Angeles, returned from a trip to the Orient and southern Europe, will be principal speaker.

Association members will elect one director this year. The term of Joseph Kawamoto, Port Townsend, will expire as of this meeting. Other directors now serving include President Nicholas Heuhslein of Port Angeles; Vice-president R. W. Davis, Harry E. Peterson and Lloyd Smith, all of Sequim.

Dungeness Community Club endorses BPW resolution

Dungeness Community Club met Monday night with the following new officers; Fred Evans, president; Robert Bedinger, vice-president; Robert Clark, treasurer; and Mrs. Leo Fitterer, secretary.

Board members are Homer Cook, Gene Burdick, Robert Clawson, and Mrs. Tom Morrison.

The president appointed committees and reported on the club's activities during the past year.

Discussion on building repairs and maintainence followed a report on estimated costs given by Jess Taylor. Appointed to the building committee were Leo Fitterer, Elliott Clark, Robert Bedinger, Taylor, Ernest Bigelow, Henry Lotzgesell and Mmes. Leonard Leach, Harry Peterson and Clarence Olson.

The February "event of the month" will be an old fashioned box social on Feb. 10 for members and friends.

The club voted to endorse the Business and Professional Women's resolution asking for legislation to outlaw the Communist party and all known front organizations in the state of Washington.

Serving on the refreshment committee were Mmes. Walter Berg, Adam Baker and Charles Beebe.

Can intertie gains be made without loss?

(This is the second in a series of articles on the proposed California intertie written by Charles F. Luce, Bonneville Power Administrator, who headed the five-man Department of the Interior Task Force which studied and recommended the intertie.

By CHARLES F. LUCE
Bonneville Power Administrator

Can the Pacific Northwest gain all the advantages of an intertie with California without endangering its own supply of hydroelectric power?

This is a pertinent, hard-headed, business-like question.

It is one we at Bonneville have asked ourselves time and again. We have consulted with our customers. We have consulted with the governors of the affected states. We have consulted with Chambers of Commerce and other interested parties.

We are confident the answer is yes—we can profit from the intertie and still protect our own power resources.

We are confident we can do it by regional protective legislation and by contracts that guarantee Northwest customers—public and private—first call on all federal power generated in this region. The same legislation would guarantee Californians first call on power produced in their state.

BONNEVILLE POWER Administration, with the advice of its customers, the governors and others, has drafted, redrafted and redrafted again legislation that we think will do the job. This legislation is now in the hands of Secretary of the Interior Steward L. Udall, who is strongly behind it, ready to be presented to the coming session of Congress.

This is the first order of business before anyone proceeds with an intertie.

The Task Force, Secretary Udall, the Senate Interior Committee, the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Bonneville Power Administration have all emphasized that there should be no intertie—public or private—before Congress has had a chance to act on protective legislation.

This is why, as a matter of fact, BPA for the past three years has refrained from completing a contract proposed by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. of California for a small intertie linking the Bonneville system in southern Oregon with PG & E's northern California facilities.

THE TASK FORCE report recommends that we hook up with PG & E, but not until Congress has acted on necessary protective legislation.

How does our proposed legislation protect the Northwest?

It defines the Pacific Northwest preference area as roughly the Columbia drainage basin.

It defines surplus energy as electric energy generated at federal plants in the Northwest which would be wasted for lack of a market in the Pacific Northwest at any established rate.

It specifies that only surplus federally-generated power can be shipped outside the region—that the needs of all Northwest power users must be met before such power is exported.

It provides that export sales of electric energy can be cut off with a minimum of 7 days notice should a need for this surplus energy arise here.

It requires purchasers outside the Northwest not to use our surplus energy in any manner that will create a hardship if exports are cut off.

IT PROVIDES "provisional" sale of energy. That is, when it is uncertain whether the power to be exported later may be needed in the Northwest, it may be exported only under terms which require the purchaser to return an equivalent amount of power at off-peak to meet demands in the Northwest.

It provides for sale of surplus peaking capacity outside the region, with the requirement that energy associated with the peaking be returned at off-peak. The net result is that the Northwest winds up with the same amount of usable power as if it had not sold the peaking capacity, and with additional revenue to boot.

It provides for coordination of electric generating plants in the Northwest and other areas, with resultant increases of firm power to be shared equitably by the areas involved.

IT PREVENTS nonfederal utilities from buying federally-generated Northwest power and selling it outside the Northwest if this power is needed in the Northwest.

The proposed legislation gives other regions interconnected with the Northwest similar protection for power generated in those regions.

We think this legislation, backed with similar contractual language, will give the Pacific Northwest ironclad protection for its power resources.

At the same time, there have been indications that strong opposition may be leveled against the regional preference legislation when it comes before Congress.

TO GAIN ITS passage will require the utmost effort by everyone in the Northwest who shares the common concern for protecting our power supply.

CONTRADICTION

EDITOR, PA Evening News:

On Oct. 22, 1961 a District Conference of the Business and Professional Womens' Clubs adopted a "recommendation" to "outlaw the Communist Party in the State of Washington."

Copies of this recommendation have recently been mailed to many organizations, accompanied by a letter from the Port Angeles BPW Club. There is a serious discrepancy between the district recommendation and the covering letter.

The recommendation is lengthy and detailed. It uses the phrase "Outlaw the Communist Party in the State of Washington" three times. It does not use the term "front organization." It does not make a single reference to any organization other than the Communist Party.

In sharp contradiction, the letter states that the BPW Clubs of District 3 "adopted the enclosed recommendation which would outlaw the Communist Party and all known front organizations in the State of Washington." Presiding officers of organizations receiving the letter are asked to sign and return the following statement.

'We voted to approve and endorse the recommendation to outlaw the Communist Party and all known front organizations in the State of Washington."

I cannot believe that women in business and the professions are unable to understand and to use simple English words. I can only assume, therefore, that the change is intentional. If it succeeds, I suggest that the BPW embellish its letterhead with this appropriate quotation from "the Duke" of Huckleberry Finn. "Hain't we got all the fools in town on our side already? And haint that a big enough majority in any town?

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Eight years with no change—same coming

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight years without change and no change in sight.

The world around President Kennedy today, as he faced Congress with his second State of the Union Message, looked much the same as the one he saw when he first took office a year ago.

There had been some changes —for instance, in overcoming the domestic recession—but not in the biggest problems, all of them overseas. Nor had there been in the past eight years.

In that time the world has moved into a period when the truly great dilemmas are likely to remain the same for years to come: The balance of power between the United States and Russia and their maneuvering.

This period was already under way, although perhaps not fully discernible, just eight years ago when President Eisenhower on Jan. 7, 1954 journeyed to the Capitol to deliver his second State of the Union Message.

FIRST YEAR

For him, too, there had been some changes in in his first year in office. The Korean War, for instance, had ended in 1953.

Eisenhower talked about the usual things in 1954—taxes, foreign aid, some improvement in American social problems—a lot of things which were the same, more or less, as those confronting Kennedy.

Two events of 1953 were to shape and freeze the future for both Eisenhower and Kennedy: Stalin's death and Russia's development of the hydrogen bomb.

The full impact of those events was not clearly seen even in 1954:

1. With Stalin's death his limited and stolid policies ended. Slowly, under the leadership of Nikita Khrushchev, Russian policy became imaginative, far-reaching, more aggressive.

But Khrushchev, on that day in 1954 when Eisenhower talked to Congress, was still pretty much an unknown, slowly working his way up to the top to become Stalin's heir and the new general of communism.

2. Until that day in August 1953, when Russia had its first hydrogen explosion, the United States was indisputably the world's No. 1 power and, because it had the bomb, able to keep Russia in check.

FULL MEANING

The full meaning of this didn't seem to be realized in 1954.

For, while Russia rushed ahead with intercontinental missile development, Eisenhower, although all for developing American atomic power, was still talking in terms of cutting defense spending.

Even so, American expenses were going up and Eisenhower asked Congress to raise the limit on the national debt. Those expenses are still climbing and Kennedy now is talking of raising the debt limit.

But in those past eight years—so phenomenal has been Russian missile and space development—that now this country is in a race for its life. And America is no longer the unchallenged No. 1 power.

So the problems which both Eisenhower and Kennedy confronted in their second State of the Union messages were problems which Eisenhower didn't have time to solve and Kennedy probably won't, either, even if he serves two terms.

PROBLEMS

All the problems, which will remain problems as far into the future as any man now alive can see, can be boiled down to these two:

How can the United States and Russia, with their terrible weapons, avoid destroying each other while each struggles for the allegiance of men's minds around the earth at a time when most of mankind is unschooled and hungry and anxious above all for a better life.

GETS LAUGHS

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., ended a speech on what he regards as the perils of inflation at the annual banquet of the Society of Automotive Engineers Wednesday night with a special, off-the-cuff plea to the automotive brass that brought down the house.

"While you're working with tailfins and chrome," he said, "can't you please mix in some windshield washers that work—every time; engines that start—every time; windows that go up and down — every time; and clocks that tell time."

DUCKS IN SEARCH OF WATER — These ducks cast shadows as they march along in vain searching for an opening in the ice during patrol of the pond at the Spruces Mobile Park area in Williamstown, Mass., during cold weather.

RESUME AID

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The United States today resumed economic aid to Prince Boun Oum's right-wing Laotian government.

U.S. Embassy sources said the government was advised a $4-million cash grant for January was being deposited in a New York bank, the Chase Manhattan.

The payment to defray most of the government's expenses had been held up for nearly two weeks, but an embassy spokesman refused to comment on the reason for the delay or for the resumption of aid.

RE-ELECTION

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says his first political objective is to be re-elected this year, but he left the door open to a Republican presidential bid in 1964.

Rockefeller spent a busy day here Thursday, holding a press conference, attending two receptions being interviewed on a nationally televised program (CBS. "At The Source"), and speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner of the Republican State Central Committee.

Troops tune-in Molly

By EUGENE KRAMER

BERLIN (AP) — She calls herself Barbara and broadcasts from Communist East Berlin.

But to Americans she's "Moscow Molly," a husky-voiced disc jockey who beams music and propaganda toward U. S. troops in West Berlin these cold winter nights.

Her nightly broadcast starts at 11:45 p.m. and runs for half an hour. Because of the late hour, she may not have many regular American listeners. But most soldiers have heard the show. Their ratings of it range from silly and laughable to clever and dangerous.

"DON'T FENCE ME IN" is the theme song that introduces the program from over the Berlin wall. Then the successor to Axis Sally and Tokyo Rose comes on with a greeting along the line of "Hi-ya, you poor, broken-down product of a lost weekend. This is Barbara, broadcasting to American soldiers in West Berlin."

She probably hoped her listeners would nickname her Berlin Barbara, but most GIs call her Moscow Molly. "After all, Moscow is running the show," one explained.

Moscow Radio broadcasts can also be heard in Berlin, but those in English are not aimed specifically at U.S. soldiers.

Molly plays only American tunes, by such well known artists as George Shearing, Ray Anthony, Count Basie and Duke Ellington.

Between numbers she talks such jive as "I got a telegram from a cat up in Bremen who says we goofed."

"She tries to be hep but she's two years too late," commented Spec. 4 Norman Laird of Madisonville, Ky. "She doesn't realize rock 'n' roll is out of date and the twist is here."

For the propaganda, Molly introduces various male voices identified as Jonathan Curtis, Bob, Alan and others. No one in West Berlin will admit knowing who the broadcasters are. Molly has a trace of European accent but the men talk pretty much like Americans.

LIZ INSURED

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor, trying again to film "Cleopatra," has been insured for $2.5 million to cover completion of the picture, says an insurance brokerage firm.

Lloyds of London paid $2 million in production losses due to Miss Taylor's illness in London a year ago.

LIBRARY PLAN — This is the new plan as approved by the City Library Board for the $100,000 addition to the library. The architect's sketch shows how the tall windows first proposed have been eliminated in favor of a solid wall across the front of the building. To break up the plain face of the building, display cases are to be strung across the front. The alteration saves an estimated $4,000 in construction costs. (Evening News Photo).

Library Board accepts new building plans

The new City Library Board met yesterday with the architect to accept preliminary plans for the $100,000 addition to be built this summer.

Meeting with Irvin E. Muri, of McGuire and Muri, of Tacoma, the board agreed to a new plan which would alter the appearance of the new wing by eliminating the vast expanse of window area across the front of the building.

The change would not only save about $4,000 in construction cost, but would greatly effect the use of the library and maintenance cost, Richard Timm, board chairman explained.

BY LEAVING the front of the west side of the library wing solid, the problem of sunlight in the afternoon is solved. A window wall would have made parts of the reading room almost unusable at some times, Timm said.

He explained that the ceiling of the new addition would be solid lighting panel, providing better light than could be had from the sun.

The solid wall between the library and the street will keep the building much quieter and enable much more even heating Timms said.

PRELIMINARY LAYOUT of the wing has it being built at sidewalk level, extending almost completely across the library site. It will extend from the front of the present library building out to the sidewalk.

The new wing will make the library tri-level, hitting the old building so that there will be about a foot-and-one-half step down to the old basement and a correspondingly longer climb up to the present main library.

The city's some 23,000 volumes will be stored easily in the new wing, Librarian Robert Bruce assured the board.

WITH FUTURE EXPANSION, book stacks can be double stacked, creating a balcony in the northwest section of the new wing. The double stacking would be done with independent units that would be added as required, Muri told the board.

With the construction of the new wing the old library building will have a work area and meeting room built into the present library area upstairs. The remainder of the present reading room will be used for magazine and reference room for study and research use.

THE PRESENT CHILDREN'S library will be converted into a story-reading room, and children's books will be moved to the south end of the new wing.

The library board will meet again next week with the architect to study changes incorporated in the plan of the wing.

With approval of present plans for the addition, plans will be drawn up and submitted to the City Council, for a construction bid call. This is expected to be sometime in March, Timm said.

As the $100,000 for the library wing and $20,000 for furnishings are a city capital improvement to be paid for from city funds there will be no bond issue necessary.

THE MONEY COMES in part from an accumulative building fund set up for many years which amounts to slightly over $60,000. The remainder of the money comes from general tax collected by the city.

Yesterday's meeting was the first in which the two newly appointed members took part.

The City Council appointed Frank Platt, deputy prosecutor and Mrs. Ernest Wagner, 1025 E. 6th St. to the board to replace Mrs. Donald Cornell and Nelson Hartnagle whose terms expired.

1961 building in city drops below '60 level

Even with the $130,000 First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. building, construction in Port Angeles during the past year was down over $500,000 from the 1960 mark.

There were 145 building permits, amounting to $793,880, issued for construction within the city limits during 1961.

The year before saw a total of 162 building permits issued, amounting to $1,480,165.

The figures, however, do not give an entirely accurate picture of construction in Port Angeles, as construction on some of the larger jobs listed under 1960 carried through into 1961. This was particularly true in the building of the new Stevens Junior High School.

THE PICTURE is further clouded by the fact that the $100,000 City Light Garage, built in 1960, required a permit, while one of 1961's biggest projects, the Municipal Swimming Pool, valued also at $300,000, did not require a building permit and so did not go into the year's total construction figure.

The recently completed Savings and Loan building, at 139 W. 1st St., was started in March, 1961. As the largest construction job undertaken during the year in the city it swelled the total for the month to $193,000. This was the largest of the year.

CONSTRUCTION OF private homes in Port Angeles through 1961 continued on the downward trend from the high of the late 1940s.

There were 20 permits for the construction of new homes issued to builders in 1961, compared to the high of 160 in peak building years.

This is in line with recent years. There were 26 private homes built in 1960, 22 in 1959.

Crown Z pays $485,457 locally for pulpwood

Checks totalling $485,457 were paid to Olympic Peninsula tree farmers during 1961 for pulpwood delivered to Crown Zellerbach Corporation's Port Angeles mill. These purchases accounted for approximately 75,732 tons of pulpwood, chiefly second growth Douglas fir and hemlock, harvested on Jefferson and Clallam county lands.

The mill's 1961 farmerwood purchases were slightly smaller than a year ago when 81,114 tons of pulpwood were delivered to the Crown Zellerbach plant at the base of Ediz Hook.

ACCORDING TO F. W. Flynn, resident manager of the Port Angeles division of Crown Zellerbach, farmerwood accountef for less than 16 per cent of the mill's 1961 wood fiber requirements. The mill's largest wood source continues to be the logs harvested on the company's Clallam and Olympic Tree farms.

Chips, purchased from sawmills and plywood plants, are another major source of wood fiber for the Port Angeles division.

"LOGS, CHIPS and farmerwood compete for the pulp mill business, just as the products of our mill compete in the market place with pulp and paper products of other plants located in Washington, other regions of the United States, in Canada and overseas mills," Flynn said.

The wood supply pattern at Port Angeles is similar to that found in most other areas of Western Washington. According to statistics published by the Northwest Pulp and Paper Association, farmerwood in 1960 accousted for about 11 per cent of the total volume and dollar value of all wood used by the pulp and paper industry of Washington. That year the state's total pulpwood consumption was 91,504,000 cords, of which 10,552,000 was farmerwood.

Congress passed its first patent act in 1790.

County's highway deaths up

Traffic deaths in Clallam County numbered 13 during 1961. Washington State Patrol Chief Roy A. Betlach said today that was 10 more than the county's 1960 toll.

Clallam was one of 16 Washington counties in which the 1961 highway death toll exceeded the number killed in traffic during 1960. Twenty-two counties in the state reduced the number of traffic deaths during the year just passed and one county recorded exactly the same number of highway fatalities in 1961 as it did in 1960.

According to Washington State Safety Council figures, Clallam County recorded four traffic deaths during December of 1961. That compares to no deaths reported in the county in December, 1960.

Sixty-five traffic deaths occurred on Washington highways during December, 1961, an increase of 25 over December, 1960. Chief Betlach said 17 pedestrians were included in the 65 fatalities. He said failure to yield the right of way; speed in excess of posted limits; drunken driving; disregard for traffic signals; and pedestrian violations were the principal contributors to the 65 December tragedies.

Sheriff puts second deputy in West End

Sheriff Bob Polhamus announced today that Austin V. Glidden has been promoted from No. two night jailer to resident deputy in Clallam Bay-Sekiu.

Glidden had been appointed from the civil service list of applicants for deputy sheriff to the position of night jailer Dec. 1. He took over the Clallam Bay position Jan. 1. The county only had one resident deputy in the West End after the budget was curtailed at the beginning of 1961. Now there will be Bob Ellis in Forks and Glidden in Clallam Bay.

John E. Lacey, next in line on the civil service list became jailer.

Directors have varied agenda

A varied session is in store for directors of School District No. 21 when they meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Roosevelt building.

Supt. John D. Glann reports fuel bids will be up for consideration along with a study of equipment needs and a name for the new central services building now under construction.

Other items include setting a date for a meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee to review the school situation and more work on the district policy manual.

The academic section of the meeting will feature a report on Peninsula College by President E. John Maier with emphasis on plans for next fall.

Port dock extension plans approved at commissioners' meet

Plans and specifications for the enlargement of the port dock were approved by commissioners of the Port of Port Angeles at the Wednesday meeting.

The project calls for lengthening the dock 104 feet on the east end, renewing the piling where necessary and replacing of stringers on 56 feet of the present east end of the dock. The trackage of the overhead crane will be extended to cover the new overall 658-foot lngth of the structure.

THE COMMISSIONERS set Jan. 17 as the date of advertising for bids that will be opened Feb. 2. Plans are available to contractors at the port office and at the office of Tippetts-Abbett-McCarthy-Stratton, engineers and architects, Seattle.

The plans and specifications were prepared by Engineer George T. Treadwell of the Seattle company. Treadwell, who will be engineer in charge of the project, presented the plans and specification to the commissioners and explained details of the project. He was engineer for the Port of Seattle 25 years.

Basic work on the project will be jet driven creosoted piling, stringers and decking on the new addition. The 56 feet immediately west of the addition will be renewed by new stringers, decking and piling where needed.

ALL MATERIAL going into the job will be prefabricated and there will be no interruption of dock activities while construction goes forward. The contract provides the completion of the project in 100 calendar days.

The structure will be of a strength capable of handling heavy crane loads and its scope will be to provide for the moorage of the larger ships and serve an increased number of loading hatches.

Besides extending the scope of the overhead crane to the entire length of the dock water lines will be extended to be available both sides of the dock to the east face. Present dock width of 147 feet will be retained.

Unofficial estimate of the cost of the project and allied dock improvements has been given by commissioners at $175,000. The cost will be defrayed by available port funds.

TIMBER PRODUCT shipments, out-bound over the port dock, were greater in 1961 than any time in port history, the commissioners say. The port dock facilities were found to hamper the movement of cargo in that the length of the dock does not allow for good moorage for the largest ships and some their cargo hatches could not be used.

Robert Caso, a stevedore, who attended the commission meeting, said that stevedores had the biggest year in history in 1961 in handling timber products here. He approved and was pleased with the project to improve cargo handling on the port dock.

Two more ships are due at the dock this month, one to load logs and the other lumber.

PORT MANAGER JACK P. HOGAN reported that the Del Guzzi Construction Co. is preparing for construction of a new hangar at the Clallam County Airport. The 32 by 176 foot structure is being built to accommodate an overflow of planes at the present hangar. The contract was given to the contractor on a quotation price of $8,050.

A project for sealing leaks in the west jetty of the boat haven, has been completed with the placement of rip rap rock, Hogan reported.

Present at the commission meeting were President Fred C. Strange and Commissioner Hayes Evans. The other commissioner Bert Butts, of LaPush is on vacation in California. Also there were Engineer Treadwell, Port Manager Jack P. Hogan, auditor Tom Neal and Attorney Tyler Moffett.

Trotters bring youth, experience plus a lot of fun to town Monday

By JIM CARTER

The Harlem Globetrotters, a mixture of experience, youth and age in a young man's sport, will be playing in senior high gym at 8 p.m. There will be a preliminary game between Jaycees and Darigold of the Industrial League at 6:30 p.m.

There are three veterans in the unit coming here with a total of 37 years playing experience between them. Bob "Showboat" Hall has been ace showman and comic of the team since 1948. A Detroit product, Hall never even played high school basketball before his tryout in 1948. He is rated one of the finest pivot men in the business and is a 6-2, 190 pounder with long arms and an accurate overhead hookshot.

Veteran J. C. Gipson is playing his 10th season at the ripe old age of 29. Another Trotter with no college experience, he joined them right out of Thomas Jefferson High School in Los Angeles. He won the LA 'Prep player of the year" after only one year of prep basketball.

DETROIT HAS PRODUCED some of the better Negro athletes and several Trotters. Ernest Wagner is a product of the Motor City and Wayne University there. The 6-2, 180 pounder is a key guard and playmaker in the organization.

Hallie Bryant, who has just returned to the Trotter fold after military service, was one of the country's outstanding collegiate players in his senior year at Indiana University.

Bryant was second in scoring only to All-America Archie Dean on the 1956-57 team that was co-champion of the Big Ten. Bryant tallied 244 points as an Indiana senior. He had a 34 per cent average from the field and 80 per cent from the charity line.

Norman "Junior" Lee is another young fellow who came to the Trotters in his teens and is a veteran at the ripe old age of 26. The 6-5, 190 pounder reported to the Trotters when he was 18 and just out of Roosevelt High School in Dayton. He had four big basketball seasons at that school, winning All-Dayton, All-Ohio and All-America Prep.

THERE WILL BE three first year men with this unit of the Trotters. Don Barnette, George Clark and Fred Marberry were all picked from this year's try-outs.

J. C. Gipson

Barnette is touted as the new dribbling sensation of the organization. He comes to the Trotters from Miami of Ohio where he played four years of varsity.

Clark didn't show up looking for a try-out until the Trotters were near the end of training sessions. That was long after the regular try-outs had been held, but since Clark is 6-10 he didn't have much trouble convincing Saperstein to let him. He played college basketball at Grambling College of Louisiana and is only 20 years old.

Marberry, a 6-2, 170 pounder, hails from Norman, Ill., which is in the middle of Illinois' corn and basketball belt. He was voted the most valuable cager for three years at Illinois Normal, ranked fifth among the nation's small college cagers one year and led the nation the first half of the following year.

This fine group of athletes is being sponsored Monday night by Walter Akeley Post 29, The American Legion.

WHITWORTH ON PROBATION

SPOKANE (AP) — The NCAA Thursday placed Whitworth College on probation for one year, an action the athletic director said 'was taken to impress the larger schools."

"I don't think it will mean a thing to Whitworth," said Paul Merkel Thursday night.

The Spokane college was penalized for playing in the 1960 NAIA western regional playoff game against Humboldt State of California, which also was put on probation for one year. Neither school can play in NCAA post-season football games in that period.

"We've always been an NAIA supporter all the way," Merkel said. "We joined the NCAA mostly as an aid to possible post-season track and field participation for our better athletes and also because NCAA membership sometimes made scheduling easier."

NCAA ban angers Utah

By JERRY MARTIN

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "A one-year ban is a harsh penalty for something involving a student who isn't even on the team any more."

That angry comment from a cafe owner echoed the feeling of many fans Thursday as word spread of an NCAA penalty against the University of Utah basketball team.

DREAMS GONE

Utah's dreams of post season gold and glory went aglimmering when the NCAA barred the team from holiday and playoff tournaments for a year because of financial arrangements involving a transfer student no longer in school.

The NCAA charged that the player failed to make payments on a $150 loan, got some pay for a part-time job he didn't actually earn and received free transportation from New York to Salt Lake City.

"The report. . . was not a complete surprise, for rumors had reached us prior to the hearings before the rules infraction committee that certain individuals were out to get Utah," said Dr. A. Ray Olpin, president of the university.

DENIES PAYMENT

Dr. Olpin denied that Utah paid the transportation for the student and said the athlete involved has denied being paid for work he didn't do or getting tuition money from anyone.

"We are in no position to challenge the action of (the) NCAA," Dr. Olpin said.

The player involved was identified as Barry Epstein, a transfer from Seton Hall who was a substitute for two years ending in 1960-61.

Stanford begins play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stanford's Indians, considered the principal threat to Southern California in the Big Five basketball race, take a belated start in conference campaigning Friday night, hosting the University of California Bears.

The Trojans of USC, already with two Big Five victories, meet Washington at Seattle in the first of a two-game set against Husky team that fell twice to UCLA last weekend.

AT CALIFORNIA

Then on Saturday night the Uclans play California at Berkeley while Stanford gets the night off.

Southern California's Trojans, rated fourth nationally in the Associated Press poll, rank as solid favorites to cop the Big Five championship. Paced by John Rudometkin, Chris Appel and Ken Stanley, the Trojans romped to a pair of victories over California's inexperienced Bears.

INDIANS FAVORED

Stanford goes into Friday night's game a top-heavy favorite over traditional rival California. The Indians, with 6-8 sophomore center Tom Dose leading the scoring, built a 6-2 pre-league record, then traveled to Hawaii to beat service teams four in a row.

UCLA's two victories over Washington at the Los Angeles Sports Arena put the Bruins into a league tie with USC, both with 2-0 records. And it put the Bruins overall record at 8-5.

The only optimism in the California camp comes with the return of veteran forward Ed Donahue, a 6-5 senior, who suffered pneumonia in December and only returned to the lineup last Saturday. He tired quickly but gave a boost to the Bears while in the game.

Washington's hopes of upsetting USC in the two-game series at Seattle rest largely with a large man, 6-8 Bill Hanson who led the league in scoring last year. He averaged 16.4 points per league game a year ago and 14.0 for the two against UCLA while his opposite, Rudometkin of USC, was averaging 25 against California.

Par busters get down to business

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The par busters went back to work today as Bob Goalby—who may be in something of a delightful rut—led the way into the second round of the $25,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

The 30-year-old Goalby fired a first round 32-33—65. The day before he was second high in the pro-amateur event with a 65.

HOLDS LEAD

And a week ago, Goalby opened the show in the rich Los Angeles Open with a 7-under par 64.

The personable ex-University of Illinois football player held a lead of two strokes over Mike Souchak, who won this tournament two years ago. Thursday he did the job in 34-33—67.

No less than 42 of a starting field of 159 were under par as play resumed today over the Stardust Country Club course and its par 35-36—71.

JUST EVEN

Twenty-one more were even with par which means that 63 golfers were as good as the regulation demands of the course.

The 68 group included former PGA champion Lionel Hebert, George Bayer and Australia's Bruce Crampton.

The 69 bracket was crowded with such better known names as the Masters champion, Gary Player, former Masters champion Art Wall Jr., and another ex-National PGA winner Jay Hebert.

Virtually overlooked in the birdie scramble, if not by the galleries, were Arnold Palmer, last year's winner of the San Diego, who had a 72 and National PGA champion, Jerry Barber, with a 71.

San Diego's Phil Rodgers, who won the Los Angeles Open with a remarkable 9-under par 62 in the final round, shot a creditable 34-36—70.

Track stars ready to go

By BOB SALMON

BOSTON (AP) — World sprint champion Frank Budd, Canadian crowd pleaser Bruce Kidd and former high jump king John Thomas will be displaying their talents Saturday night when the 36th Knights of Columbus track meet ficks off the 1962 indoor season.

Budd, a junior at Villanova, the 18-year-old Kidd, in his freshman year at the University of Toronto, and the 20-year-old Thomas all will be defending their 1961 crowns won here.

Three other defending champions will be returning. They are Boys Town Graduate Charlie (Deacon) Jones in the mile, Villanova sophomore Roland Cruz in the pole vault and Maryland's Bill Johnson in the high hurdles.

Budd's world mark is 9.2 seconds for the 100-yard dash. He turned in a 5.2 clocking in a trial of the 50-yard dash here a year ago, winning the final in 5.3.

Kidd, an unknown 12 months ago, recently was named Canada's outstanding athlete of 1961. Arriving here unannounced a year ago as a 17-year-old high school senior, Bruce delighted fans by winning the two-mile run in 8:49.2, only 3.2 seconds off what then was a world record.

Thomas, a junior at Boston University, will be attempting to crack the once-improbable seven-foot barrier for no less than the 77th time in the past three years. The former Olympian, who lost his world crowns to Russia's Valery Brummel, resumed high jumping only a week ago following a leg injury.

Work hard prepping for next scheduled games

Port Angeles Roughriders have been working on offensive patterns this week. Coach Bob Klock said he has been drilling the boys on the same patterns they have been using all season but he is trying to get them closer to the basket before shooting.

Klock said the boys have worked hard and still seem to be in a fresh state of mind. With only one win in nine starts the 'Riders still feel they can go out and win on any given day, any given team.

Klock said he would probably use the same starters against South tonight that he used against Port Townsend Tuesday. That would be John Holmberg and Bruce Paynter at the forwards, John Wunderlick at center, and Mike O'Connor and Craig Shore at guard.

He was impressed with the team's defensive play in the last two games Klock said. Wunderlick gave a good account of himself rebounding against Townsend he said. He also said the last two games were probably the best of the season for Paynter.

Paynter did a good job holding Sequim's Len Beil down to 15 points here Saturday. Of the 15 Beil made only six of them were from field goals. Paynter also did a good job helping to guard Tom Delaney and rebound against Port Townsend.

The Riders out-rebounded Port Townsend Tuesday and it was the first time they had done that all season. Townsend is supposed to be one of the league's best in all categories.

The South Kitsap team the 'Riders play tonight has been an up and down team all season. On paper it looks as though the teams tonight should be evenly matched. South has lost to West Bremerton and North Kitsap and beaten East Bremerton and Sequim. The South game with Sequim went into double overtime.

Coach has hopes that Gary Moore will be able to practice next week. Moore chipped a bone in his foot in the last game of the Christmas tourney Dec. 29, and hasn't played or practiced since. He has been one of the team's stalwarts all season at either forward or center.

Rangers' desire to win big factor in record

Ranger coach Marv Cross thinks the mental attitude of his team is one of the biggest factors in its impressive record. They have a record of seven wins and two defeats.

"These kids think they can beat anybody in the league," said Cross. "They have a desire to win, their personalities blend well and they have fun every night.

"They're always giving me heck for quitting practice early," said Cross.

Another thing Cross likes about the team, is that if any member isn't in there he is cheering for his teammates who are.

The starting lineup in tonight's game at South Kitsap is Dan Peacock and Chris Ditlefsen, Bob Jones at center, and Toby Williams and Dave Denny at the guards.

Rangers play South Kitsap JVs at 6:30 preceding the varsity game in Port Orchard.

The Santa Anita Derby, for 3-year-olds at one mile and an eighth, is set for March 3 (1962).

Pirates win one; Toggery takes lead in Industrial hoop league

Peninsula's Pirates had their first win in Industrial League competition here Wednesday in a 48-44 victory over Dry Creek Grange.

Led by John Bilow and Bill Cable the Pirates managed to keep a slim margin throughout the game. Several times in the closing minutes the Pirate boat looked as though it might be swamped. A trip to the foul line by Jack Hussey and a long jumper by Jon Norris kept the margin they needed.

Bilow led the Pirates in scoring with 15 points and Jim Critchfield led the Grangers with 10.

In Wednesday night's second game the top teams in Industrial League play bumped heads. The Toggery and Jaycees met and the Jaycees came away with the most lumps and a 77-61 defeat and Toggery with the league lead.

The lead changed hands several times in the first half but Toggery was in possession of a 39-31 lead by the half. They managed to keep a good lead in the second half and were only in trouble once when the lead was narrowed to three points.

Jim Doherty led Toggery scoring with 34 points and Larry Reid led the Jaycees with 21.

Signal callers on own in annual NFL pro bowl

LOS ANGELES AP — Milt Plum will be calling his own plays for the East Sunday in the pro bowl football game against the West.

That's quite a switch for Plum, who, as Cleveland's quarterback, gets his orders direct, on each play, from Coach Paul Brown.

Plum and the New York Giants' Y. A. Tittle, will divide the signal calling duties for Coach Allie Sherman's squad. Tittle has more latitude with the Giants. Plum says he anticipates no difficulties.

"Oh, there will be a few complications," explains the Cleveland quarterback, "but not as many as you might think. I've been practicing up. Last season I called almost a dozen plays for Cleveland.

"The mechanics are somewhat different in an all-star game. For instance, if I want to call a typical pass Sunday I may say 'wing-trail-R-cross-L deep - hook-in-full-back-shoot.' If Coach Brown wanted the same play he'd send in a shuttle player and say: 'Call 8r'."

Plum says he doesn't mind having Brown call all the signals. As he explains it: "When the coach is the field general, that keeps the pass receivers off the quarterback's back."

Tittle was elected Thursday to offensive captain of the East for Sunday's game, and end Andy Robustelli will be the defensive captain.

Norman Van Brocklin, coach of the Minnesota Vikings, who is the West coach, says he is looking for a great game.

"When you have the best players in the game on the field, as Allie Sherman and I have here, you've got to have a great football game."

Gen. Walker sees differently

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Retired Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker says he does not think it is inevitable that the United States will remain in the United Nations.

Walker, who quit the Army last November after a controversy over his troop indoctrination policies, spoke at a rally in the Sports Arena, sponsored by a Freedom Club of the First Congregational church.

The 52-year-old Texan said of another retired general, Omar N. Bradley: "Gen. Bradley holds to a doctrine of 'inevitableism.' He feared a mistake over Berlin between the United States and the Soviet Union. He said the recognition of East Germany is inevitable. He said the recognition of Red China is inevitable.

"I disagree with him on every opinion. I do not agree that it is even inevitable that we remain in the United Nations."

WILL RUN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle announced today he has changed his mind about quitting and will be a candidate for a second term.

The announcement assured a lively primary campaign fight for the Democratic nomination.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy announced last Nov. 22 that he would seek the nomination. That was slightly more than a month after DiSalle said on Oct. 20 that he had decided to bow out. McElroy has said he is in the race to stay.

George Washington wore breeches of nankeen—a yellowish cloth made in Nanking, China.

Udall Builds a Fire To Warm Up Newsmen

BY THE WASHINGTON STAFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, who probably has had the worst public relations of any cabinet member in the New Frontier, is apparently trying to butter up the press.

At his latest news conference, the secretary ushered newsmen into his large private office instead of the usual cold conference room on the floor below. There were logs crackling in the fireplace, which no one could remember seeing before.

To top it all off, Udall served coffee and cookies.

SECRETARY OF Agriculture Orville L. Freeman relates that when he was a student at University of Minnesota, he once had a professor who gave him a grade of "C" in a course.

The secretary thought his grade should have been higher. He went around to complain and asked that he be shown his final examination paper to prove he had a good mark.

The professor refused. "Anybody stupid enough to play football," said the teacher, "can't get higher than a 'C' in my classes."

REP. CHARLES E. Bennett, D-Fla., tells one on himself. While visiting a friend, he inadvertently locked his car with the keys inside. A small group of curious spectators gathered to watch the show.

All but one of the onlookers offered suggestions: break the vent window, pry the lock with a screwdriver, call a locksmith and so on. The sole exception was an old gent who sat smiling on a nearby bench.

Bennett simply picked up a coathanger from his friend's house and slipped it over the top the window. Hooking the door handle, he had the car unlocked in a jiffy.

Slightly curious, however, he asked the old gent why he had remained silent.

"Well, son, I seen the Congress sign on the back of your car," came the answer. "Knowing you was a politician, I figured you could get into anything."

ADDRESSING A pro-foreign aid group, former Wall Street lawyer Fowler Hamilton—now head of the new agency for International Development—was ticking off a breakdown of aid expenditures. At one point he said:

"And for that category, one million, three hundred—excuse me, I mean one BILLION. I still have these small Wall Street dimensions in my mind when I speak of money."

WASHINGTON HIGH society residential areas aren't so hard to crack after all, to hear Postmaster General J. Edward Day tell it.

When his family moved to Washington last winter, Day purchased a house in the suburbs from Clay Blair, a former Washington writer with Time and now with Saturday Evening Post in Philadelphia. The house was in a subdivision started 30 years ago by a real estate developer named Kennedy.

Concludes Day: "So now, as newcomers to Washington, we find ourselves living in Blair House just a block from Kennedy Drive."

BLAME HEATER

SEATTLE (AP) — Firemen Friday blamed a heater for a home fire which Thursday night claimed the life of 14-month-old Alonzo Williams.

The child was asleep in the crib when the fire broke out.

Ewin North, 23, saw the flames, reported the fire, then helped firemen rescue James Davis, 6; Art Williams, 5, and sisters, Gail, 4, and Mercedes, 3.

Mrs. Leonora Williams, 32, had left the children alone in the house, firemen said.

SPECIAL TRAIN

PORTLAND (AP) — A special train may run from Portland to the Seattle World's Fair on Saturday May 26, which will be Oregon Day at the fair.

It will be sponsored by the Portland Chamber of Commerce. President Rudie Wilhelm Jr., said the trip will give members of the delegation a chance to boost the 1962 Rose Festival in June, less than two weeks away.

LEAVES $800,000

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Attorney Jerry Giesler has left an $800,000 estate, most of which is covered by two trust funds to be controlled by his widow, Ruth Giesler.

Giesler's will was filed for probate Thursday.

Lives 'last chance' life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Julie Harris, a human being on fire, plays a constant game with eternity.

She lives by a kind of "doctrine of the last chance."

"If you approach whatever you do with the idea that this might be your last day—your last chance to do it right," she said, "everything becomes terribly exciting. You can't be bored."

Miss Harris has so successfully transmitted her own quality of inner excitement to audiences that she has won nearly 20 acting awards. Her fellow performers regard her as one of the best of living actresses, and hold her a bit in awe.

BACK STAGE

I met her backstage after a matinee and felt pretty much like a peasant in the presence of his empress, for I am among this girl's idolators.

Onstage, Julie has a quicksilver genius that enables her to play a French maid or Queen Victoria and make them both seem real. Offstage, she is a somewhat shyer chameleon.

She is small, slender, slow to speak, and given to birdlike gestures. You can sense the buried intensity in her, the hidden flame that fired her at the age of 11 to be a great actress. That flame still burns brightly within her.

"I'm afraid my biggest defect as a person is my drive to be a perfectionist," she said. "Sometimes a person who wants everything to be exactly right, to do everything exactly right, forgets the limitations of human frailty, even sometimes forgets love.

"I brood a lot, mostly about myself—the defects in my work. But brooding over oneself can become a sickness.

Steelheaders go ahead with tournament

The January Steelhead Club dinner fishing tournament, postponed from last Sunday will be held Sunday, Club President Al Gross announces.

Matched for the contest are the teams of Level Winders, Capt. Joe Ferguson and the Spin Casters, Capt. Vic Hulse.

Weighing-in deadline is 7 p.m. Sunday at the Golf Club. The business meeting and club banquet will be at the clubhouse immediately after the weigh-in.

Scouts reported early today that the steelhead streams are in good condition for fishing and the event will be held Sunday unless there is a drastic change in weather conditions. In that case club members will be notified before Sunday.

Pt. Angeles Reflections

FORTY YEARS AGO JAN. 12

A carload of powder was unloaded at the city dock yesterday for farmers of Clallam county who pooled their orders through the county agent's office and the Grange Warehouse Company. They took the powder from the dock at wholesale list price.

Approximately 150,000 acres of logged-off land in Clallam County are lying idle, unproductive and an eyesore to residents and visitors. To compare with this 150,000 acres of unproductive logged-off land, we have only about 20,000 acres improved. The county needs a constructive land policy and the help of every citizen of Port Angeles, the county and the state —to make it possible for men to build homes on this logged-off land and to make a living while doing so.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Olympic Conservation association went on record as endorsing a new state fish hatchery on the Dungeness river, at the meeting held in Sequim last night. E. M. Brennan, supervisor of the state department of food fish, has declared that he will ask the legislature for funds to build the largest fish hatchery in the state of Washington on the Dungeness.

Another advance in Clallam County educational development has been marked by the granting of accredited standing to the Neah Bay high school, Mrs. Katherine M. White, county superintendent of schools, pointed out today.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Clallam County Public Utility District may construct its proposed 69,000 volt power transmission line from Port Angeles to the Forks area with private capital, Manager Carl Miller said today. He said this plan would expedite construction of the line.

A total of 221 persons have registered for the adult evening school which starts Monday, Principal Ray Warren of Roosevelt High School announced today. The city government class will start with an enrollment of 31, nearly all City Council candidates.

BENEFIT BAKERS — Roosevelt Junior High Students, from left, Eileen Shore, Fern Wilder and Kathy Cotten made cookies for the bake sale at the school today. Parents responded so well to PTA requests for food contributions that the sale will be continued tomorrow at Sears store all day. Proceeds from the sale will go to the fund for paying Police Officer Philip Miesel's living expenses while he attends the delinquency control school in California. (Evening News Photo.)

Bowlers set mark

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It's an old saw that records are made to be broken, but veteran observers here doubt that three perfect games will ever be bowled again on the same pair of lanes in a single day.

The trio of 300s was composed Thursday on lanes Nos. 5 and 6 in the second day of round robin finals at the $100,000 All-Star Bowling championships.

Dick Weber, Roy Lown and Andy Rogoznica were the authors.

FIVE 300s

A total of five 300s has been rolled in this 21st annual classic. Norm Abrams of St. Paul, Minn., and Foy Belcher of Glendale, Calif., rolled their 12-strike games in the qualifying. Only seven perfect games had been rolled in 20 previous years of all-star play.

Although he did not participate in the 300 harvest, stocky Dick Hoover of St. Louis led the 16-man field after eight rounds and two days of finals action with a 164-19, Petersen point total. Under the Petersen system, which has governed this event since its inception in 1941, a bowler gets one point for every game won and one point for every 50 pins knocked down. Hoover's top point total was the result of his 25 won and seven lost record and his total pin fall of 6969.

Weber, the St. Louis bowler who last year was named bowler of the year by the Bowling Writers Association, was in second place after the eighth round with 162-28 points. He had actually felled more pins than Hoover, but won three less games.

Lown, the unheralded bowler from El Paso, Tex., who won the qualifying trophy, was in third place with 157-06. Lown's perfect game helped him equal the four-game record of 955 set last year by Bill Tucker, the St. Louis bowler who won the title last year in San Bernardino, Calif., but was eliminated in the semi-finals last Tuesday.

LEADS WOMEN

Shirley Garms of Chicago, the bowling writers' selection for woman bowler of the year, led the race for the $5,000 women's title with 76-18 Petersen points. Mrs. Garms won 12 of her first 16 games and was the only woman to average 200.

Robbie Frey, a curvy redhead from Torrence, Calif., was second with 73-13 points.

Obituaries

HAROLD GAMACHE

Harold Gamache, 46, of 420 W. 3rd St., died Thursday after a lingering illness.

Private funeral services will be held at the McDonald Funeral Home Monday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Mackenzie Murray officiating. Cremation will follow. Relatives suggest that memorial contributions may be made to the Goldenagers Club.

Mr. Gamache was born at Hudson Fall, N.Y., Oct. 11, 1915. He lived in Port Angeles since 1924.

Surviving relatives include his mother, Mrs. Hazel Gamache, Port Angeles, and a sister Dorothy Gamache, Portland, Ore.

MRS. BENJAMIN E. TAYLOR

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Taylor 82, of 1615 N. 49th St., Seattle, wife of Benjamin E. Taylor, a former Port Angeles music teacher, died Wednesday in Seattle.

Funeral services will be held at the Adams-Forkner Funeral Home Saturday at 10 a.m. Cremation will follow.

Mrs. Taylor was born in London, Ontario, Canada. She lived in Port Angeles 10 years before moving to Seattle 22 years ago.

Her husband, Benjamin E. Taylor, who survives, is a brother of the late Walter Taylor and Will H. Taylor, former Port Angeles physicians, and George Taylor, contractor here.

Benjamin E. Taylor, during his residence here, was a music teacher in Port Angeles schools.

Mrs. Taylor was a member of Christ Episcopal Church, Seattle.

Surviving relatives, other than her husband, are a daughter, Mrs. Marlin Richardson, Phoenix, Ariz., and a granddaughter and a number of nieces and nephews.

ELECTION SET

OLYMPIA (AP) — A grower representative position on the State Fruit Commission will be filled by an election to be held at Yakima Feb. 3, State Agriculture Director Joe Dwyer said Friday.

The position is now held by Charles Rowe of Naches. His term expires April 1.

Rowe is the grower representative from District 2, which is made up of Kittitas, Yakima, Benton, Franklin, Walla Walla, Columbia, Asotin, Garfield, Whitman and Adams counties.

Editorial

Invincible youth

Russian spokesmen begin by denying there is juvenile delinquency in the Soviet Union. Then, backtracking a bit, they insist that if it does exist it is caused by immoral, decadent, materialistic influences from the iniquitous West.

One Moscow official has criticized Soviet youths, disparagingly called "stilyagi," who have adopted Western styles and habits. He identifies them with rock 'n' roll, the twist, abstract paintings and narrow trouser legs. These are among the few things the Russians don't claim to have invented.

But neither did the West invite juvenile delinquency. It gets more attention here because so much of our society is child-centered, in contrast with much of the rest of the world where youth and age are equally cherished.

But youth is wilful everywhere. And even the iron discipline of communism cannot confine the ebullient, inquiring young in the pattern ordained by elders.

LaPush man faces charge

Deputy prosecuting attorney Frank B. Platt filed a charge of second degree burglary against Tyler J. Hobucket Jr., 19, LaPush, in Superior Court yesterday.

Hobucket, who was convicted of petit larceny in June, 1961, and has been out on bail since then, admitted breaking into Art's Tavern in Forks Tuesday. He said he got into the back of the tavern by prying loose the bottom boards on the back wall at 9:30 p.m. when the tavern was still open. He went in at that time and took the beer back out the hole with him.

Forks town marshal Gerald Sapp said he noticed the loose boards Wednesday when he was in the tavern on other business. At the time he said he warned the proprietor about them and asked if any beer was missing. The proprietor didn't think so.

Sapp said the owner of a garage in the area told him he found a half case of beer in the washroom at the back of his place. Sapp told him to leave it alone and he would come over and pick it up for evidence.

When he went for it he found Hobucket there with a bottle in his hand. Hobucket is being held in county jail in lieu of $250 bail.

Air - Marine news

The Coast Guard Cutter Winona leaves her home port here at 8 a. m. Sunday for Ocean Weather Station November for duty. The ship is scheduled to return here Feb. 8. Ocean Station November is midway in the Pacific Ocean between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Plans of the Foss Launch and Barge Co. to send flat rafts of logs from this port under tow to upsound points Thursday were abandoned. Heavy seas in the strait, particularly off Dungeness spit, caused the postponement of the project. The rafts and tugs returned to this harbor.
