Port Angeles, WA – Featuring comic-inspired works from over a dozen local artists, "Drawn Here" is the next Art in the Library exhibition presented at the Port Angeles Main Library, 2210 S. Peabody St. The show opens with a free public reception on Friday, Nov. 20, from 6:30 to 8 p.m., with a live vinyl set by DJ Joel Ricci.

Following the Nov. 20 opening, "Drawn Here" remains on view during library hours through Feb. 13, 2027.

About the DJ:

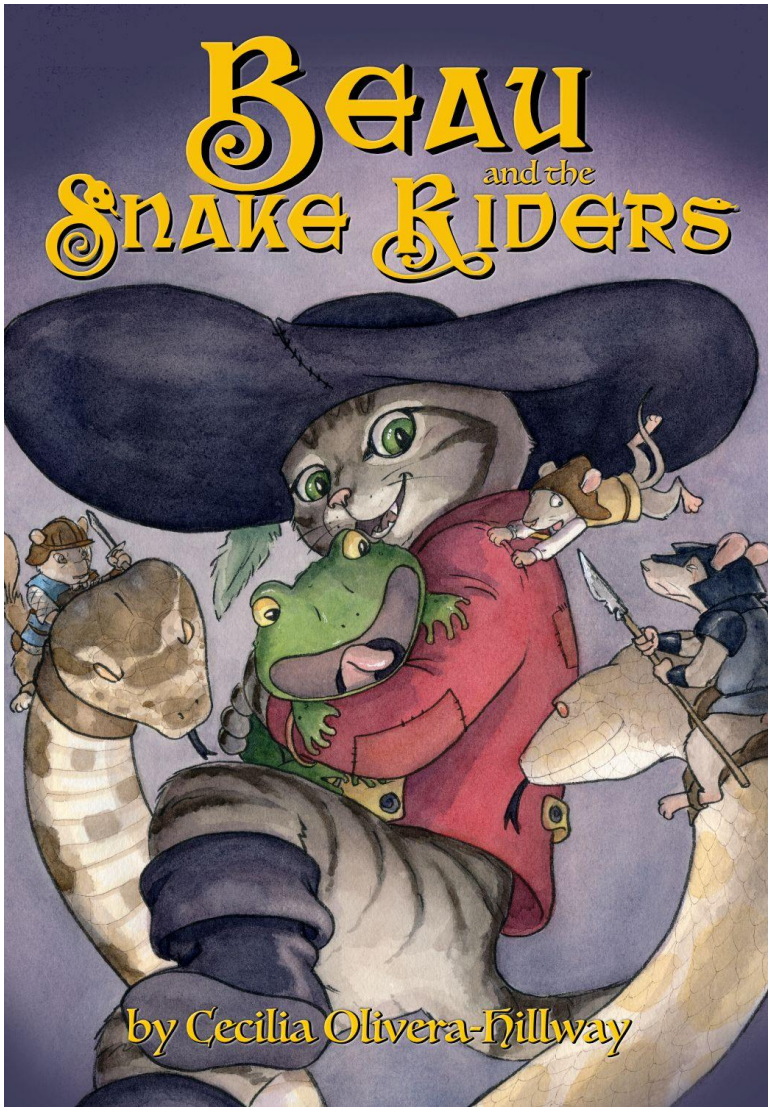

DJ Joel Ricci curates distinctive all-vinyl seven-inch selections of vintage and contemporary rare funk, raw soul, deep jazz, and African and Latin 45s for the discerning music listener in real time. He delights in sharing the cream of his collection with curious and adventurous loungers, dancers, and everyone in between. As always, Ricci tunes into the prevailing vibe and picks perfectly complementary sounds based on his axiom: "Vinyl is Truth at 45 Revolutions Per Minute."
