Re: Sequim Library Young Adult Advisory Group to meet

On Tuesday, January 3, at 6pm at the Sequim Branch of the North Olympic Library System, teens in grades 6-12 can join the Sequim Library's on-going Young Adult Advisory Group. This group began meeting last fall, and will continue in 2012 on the first Tuesday of each month at 6pm.

Besides discussing good reads, members of the Young Adult Advisory Group will recommend services and programs they would like to see at the library. They'll suggest new books, movies, and other materials that the library should buy, they will be among the first to hear about new materials, and they'll plan programs and events. Members can also become library volunteers and give back to their community by helping out at the library.

The upcoming meeting will focus around planning for the upcoming Summer Reading program. Input will be sought on performers, prizes, and programs. At the next meeting, on Tuesday February 7, also at 6pm, the group will discuss new books and other materials that teens would like to see in the Library. On Tuesday March 6, the topic will be technology and attendees will learn to use many of the Library's e-resources and create video tutorials for the NOLS website using a Flip Camera purchased by the Friends of the Sequim Library. The Young Adult Advisory Group is facilitated by Sequim Youth Services Librarian Antonia Krupicka-Smith.
