Re: Birding kits now available at your library!

Get ready for the fall migration! The North Olympic Library System (NOLS) has partnered with the Dungeness River Audubon Center and designer Tom Bihn to introduce three birding kits that are now available for checkout. NOLS birding kits offer library card holders a fun, free, and easy way to get outside and explore the abundant wildlife of Northwest Washington.

What's inside

Each kit comes equipped with all the discovery tools you'll need for successful bird watching: binoculars, a guide book for adults and one for younger readers, a birdsong CD, and pamphlets addressing the basics and etiquette of birding – all packaged in a Tom Bihn daypack. Patrons may borrow each kit for up to three weeks. To reserve a kit, call or visit any NOLS library, or visit the online catalog at www.nols.org.

More information
