Re: Drop-In Book Discussions at the Port Angeles Main Library

Not sure what book to read next? Drop by the Port Angeles Main Library on Thursday, January 8, for an easy-going book discussion group beginning at 6pm. Get great recommendations from library staff and other readers at this informal chat session, where you can discuss what you're reading and learn about new books in a relaxed, casual setting. All readers and aspiring readers are welcome at this 2015 Adult Winter Reading Program event.

Unlike traditional book groups, Drop-In Book Discussions at the North Olympic Library System (NOLS) offer fans of any genre an opportunity to survey what others in the community are reading. There is no required reading prior to participation.

2015 Adult Winter Reading Program

Designed for adults ages 18 and older, this year's reading program will take place between January 1 and February 28. Participating is easy: simply visit any NOLS library to pick up your Travelogue gameboard and then "read" your way around the Peninsula. For every 100 pages you complete, you will receive one entry in a marvelous Grand Prize drawing on Tuesday, March 3; the more you read, the better your chances of winning! To keep readers motivated, each NOLS library will be hosting events, including author visits and workshops, throughout the program:

January 8: Drop-In book discussion at the Port Angeles Main Library

January 21: Author talk with Janet Oakley at the Clallam Bay and Forks branch libraries

January 22: Author talk with Janet Oakley at the Sequim Branch Library and Port Angeles Main Library

February 3: Drop-In book discussion at the Port Angeles Main Library

February 28: Author talk with Mary Daheim at the Port Angeles Main Library

March 3: Grand Prize Drawing!
