Re: Explore! Backyard Birding at the Sequim Branch Library

Discover the distinguishing characteristics and beauty of local birds at 6pm on Wednesday, May 25, at the Sequim Branch of the North Olympic Library System (NOLS). The Dungeness River Audubon Center will lead this informative discussion designed to expand your understanding of these feathered wonders of nature, including how to identify the species you can expect to encounter in your own backyard.

Additional information

Birds are so common we sometimes forget just how spectacular they are: little tufts of wilderness flitting through the bushes in the backyard or the sudden majesty of eagles and swans. Birds aren't just a lot of fun to follow, they are central players in what goes on in many familiar ecosystems. Join NOLS and the Dungeness River Audubon Center to learn what makes Olympic Peninsula birding special, and which local species to be on the lookout for.

Explore!* with NOLS

Throughout the year, the Explore! program series has offered an introduction to a range of activities on the Olympic Peninsula and beyond, from travel and rhythm to DIY bike maintenance and film screenings.

This program is generously supported by the Friends of Sequim Library. For more information about this and other upcoming events, visit www.nols.org and select "Events," and "Sequim," or call 360.683.1161. The Sequim Branch Library is located at 630 North Sequim Avenue in Sequim.

Explore! Backyard Birds will take place at 6pm on Wednesday, May 25 at the Sequim Branch Library.
