A free screening of the POV documentary American Promise will be shown at 2pm on Saturday, September 30 at the Port Angeles Main Library of the North Olympic Library System (NOLS).

American Promise, co-directed and produced by Michèle Stephenson and Joe Brewster, is an intimate and provocative account, recorded over 12 years, of the experiences of two middle-class African-American boys who entered a very prestigious—and historically white—private school on Manhattan’s Upper East Side. The Dalton School had made a commitment to recruit students of color, and five-year-old best friends Idris Brewster and Oluwaseun (Seun) Summers of Brooklyn were two of the gifted children who were admitted. The boys were placed in a demanding environment that provided new opportunities and challenges, if little reflection of their cultural identities.

American Promise is a co-production of Rada Film Group, ITVS and POV’s Diverse Voices Project (DVP). ITVS and DVP receive funding from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB). The film is part of American Graduate: Let’s Make It Happen, a national public media initiative made possible by CPB to identify and implement solutions to the dropout crisis and help parents and teachers keep students on the path to a successful future. This event is a collaboration with POV, PBS' award-winning nonfiction film series. To learn more about POV films visit <http://www.pbs.org/pov/>.
