Rethink + Prevent + Inspire! Master Composter/Recycler classes will be held at the North Olympic Library System (NOLS) on Saturday, March 7. The Sequim Branch Library will hold a class from 9am-1pm, and the Port Angeles Main Library will hold a class from 3-7pm. Presented by Waste Prevention Specialist Megan Juran, these workshops are free to all Clallam County residents, but registration is required. Learn about critical waste prevention activities with local solutions working with local haulers, governments and organizations to create best practices and educate community members.

Master Composters and Recyclers are volunteer waste prevention specialists who are trained in partnership with WSU-Extension and Clallam County Department of Public Works. The program highlights critical waste prevention activities with local solutions which work with local haulers, governments, and organizations to create best practices and educate community members.

Topics include:

- Introduction to the history and systems of waste and recycling
- Thoughtful consumerism
- Composting and food waste prevention

- Recycling right: Clean, Empty, Dry!
- Waste prevention: reduce, repurpose, reuse, repair, and up-cycle

For more information on the Clallam County Waste Prevention program, visit extension.wsu.edu/clallam/waste-reduction-program. To learn more about these events at NOLS, visit www.nols.org, call 360.417.8500, or email Discover@nols.org. The Port Angeles Main Library is located at 2210 South Peabody Street. The Sequim Branch Library is located at 630 North Sequim Avenue.

Register for Master Recycler/Composter classes at Port Angeles and Sequim Libraries on Saturday, March 7.
