Fourth graders throughout Clallam County are invited to participate in the North Olympic Library System's (NOLS) Battle of the Books Final Competition on Friday, March 26 at 6pm. Trivia will be based on the five books read throughout the year. Unlike other years, students will be placed on teams at the beginning of the event. Registration is required for Zoom login details. Visit www.nols.org/battle-of-the-books to register and to find discussion questions, activities, and title read-alikes!

This season's Battle of the Books titles are: Stella Díaz Has Something to Say by Angela Dominguez, Fuzzy Mud by Louis Sachar, Front Desk by Kelly Yang, The Season of Styx Malone by Kekla Magoon, and Aru Shah and the End of Time by Roshani Chokshi.

About Battle of the Books

Battle of the Books is a year-long collaborative project between NOLS and schools from around Clallam County. Throughout the 2020-21 school year, students have read five books and NOLS has hosted and facilitated discussions. All participating students received free copies of the books read.

This program is generously funded by Friends of the Library Groups. For more information about this and other events and services for youth, visit www.nols.org, call 360.417.8500, or email Youth@nols.org.
