Forest Seedlings Available To Land Owners

Today, Clyde Millo, Farm Forester, said that he now has the 1966-67 forest seedling price list and order forms form the Webster State Nursery. These seedlings are made available at cost to land owners interested in reforesting logged off lands, and for establishing Christmas tree plantations. Purchasers of State grown seedlings must agree to plant the trees outside of corporate city limits, that their use will not be resold with the roots attached. Millo said further, that due to a short supply of some species and sizes, it is advisable to order the seedlings now, even though you will not actually take delivery until some later date, during this planting season. n this manner the nursery will reserve the seedlings for you and leave them in the nursery bed until you are ready to take delivery and If you have questions about what species to plant or what size tree to use, Millo said that he would be glad to look over your area and recommend the seedlings best suited to your needs. Price lists and order forms are available through all the Depart-ment of Natural Resources Headquarters and the County Extension offices. Farm Forester Millo, may be contacted at the Department of Natural Resources, Route No. 2, Box 420, Port Angeles, 452-9241, through the Center sub-headquarters, or through the Department of Natural Resources office in Forks. Belshazzar was the last king of

S., the generally accepted age for those beginning school in the first grade this fall is six. The Washington Education Association reveals that an authoritative commission of educators believes this is an obsolete practice.  The Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators urges that all children should to the property of the property of the School Administrators urges that all children should to the property of the School Administrators urges that all children should the property of the property of the School Administrators urges that all children should the property of the property of the School Administrators urges that all children should the property of th	four.  The Commission points out that the first four or five years of a child's life is the period of most rapid physical and mental growth, and that during that period, the child is most influenced by the world around him—whatever that world might be.  The Commission says that disadvantaged children are in the greatest need of early schooling because of the neglects and limits of their environment. It is maintained that all children could benefit from an earlier start in school because they are ready by the age of four for a planmed program of development which the schools can offer.  While suggesting that the beginning school age be reduced to four, the Commission does not intend that four and five-year-olds be given a watered down version of the present first grade. The early program they envision would be designed for children of four and five, with the school program for six-year-olds altered to take into account their earlier schooling. Proposed Constitutional Amendment

Ballot Title as issued by the Attorney General:

ESTABLISHING COMMON SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION FUND Shall Article IX, section 3, of the state constitution be amended to establish a common school construction fund to be used to finance common school construction, with funds to be derived from (1) certain proceeds from timber and other crops from school and state lands, (2) certain interest, rentals and revenues from the permanent common school fun and from lands devoted to the permanent common school fund, and (3) such other sources as the legislature may provide?

Explanatory comment issued by the Attorney General as required by law

The Law as it now exists: Under the state constitution as adopted in 1889 there exists a fund known as the common school fund. The primary sources of this fund include money obtained (1) from the sale of lands and other property granted by the federal government to the state for the support of its common schools, and (2) from the sale of timber, stone, minerals or other property from those school or state lands which have not been granted to the state for some specific pur-

The present constitutional provision declares that the principal of the fund shall remain permanent and irreducible. It permits interest accruing to the fund, as well as rental or other revenues derived from lands or other property devoted to the fund to be used for current support of the commor schools. However, neither the principal of this fund nor any of its income can presently be used to construct school buildings or other school facilities. Effect of Senate Joint Resolution No. 22—Part 1—if approved into Law: If this constitutional amendment is approved, the principal of the common school fund as the same existed on June 30, 1965, will remain permanent and rreducible. The fund will continue to receive money from all of its former sources except certain of them which will become sources of a new fund. This new fund will be known as the common school construc-tion fund and will be available to be used for financing the construction of common school facilities. The sources of this new fund will be (1) the interest accruing on the permanent common school fund from and after July 1, 1967; (2) all rentals and other revenues obtained from and after July 1, 1967, from lands and other property presently devoted to the permanent common school fund; (3) certain proceeds from the sale or appropriation of timber and other crops from school and state lands subsequent to June 30, 1965; and (4) such other sources as the legislature may direct. The proposed amendment further provides that the first of these four sources, the interest accruing on the permanent common school fund after July 1, 1967, may be used only to pay off such bond issues as may be authorized by the legislature for construc-tion of common schools. The remainder of the new common school construction fund may be used for direct financing of common schools. Lastly, the amendment provides that in the event there should be moneys in the common school con-struction fund in excess of amounts needed to fulfill its purpose, they shall be available for deposit in the permanent common school fund or for current use of the common schools as the legislature may direct.

The Law as it now exists: The state constitution now requires that superior court judges be elected at the November state general election, when other state officers are elected. This is true even where only one candidate has filed for a superior court position, or where after a contested September primary election, held pursuant to statute, only one such candidate is entitled to appear on the November general election ballot because he has received a majority of the votes cast at the primary election for the particular judicial position.

Effect of Substitute Senate Joint Resolution No. 6 if approved into Law: The proposed constitutional amendment would provide that (1) where only one candidate has filed for a superior court judge position in a county of 100,000 or more inhabitants, or (2) where after a contested primary in any county only one such candidate is entitled to appear on the general election ballot, certification of election shall issue to such candidate without a further election, unless a peti-tion is filed within ten days after the date of the primary indicating that a write-in campaign is to be

Attorney General as required by law

The Law as it now exists: Present state constitutional provisions prohibit the expenditure of public money for nonpublic purposes. In a recent decision the supreme court indicated that port districts could not expend funds for the purpose of acquiring and developing industrial sites for the use of or resale to private industry. In its decision the court stated that industrial development is not a public purpose. Other state constitutional provisions prohibit the state and its political subdivisions from making gifts of public money or property to private individpreted these provisions to mean that port districts in our state cannot expend public funds for a certain type of promotional or advertising activity known as promotional hosting. Promotional hosting in the case of port districts is generally understood to mean hosting individuals and groups of individuals at lunch or dinner for the purpose of cultivating trade relations and promoting business for the port.

Effect of Senate Joint Resolution No. 25 if approved into Law: The proposed constitutional amendment would permit port districts to use public funds, in such manner as the legislature may specify, for both industrial development and trade promotion and

RETIRED PERSONS PROPERTY TAX

EXEMPTION Shall Article VII of the state constitution be amended to authorize the legislature to grant relief from property taxes on real property owned and occupied as a residence by retired persons, subject to such restrictions and conditions as the legislature may establish, in-cluding but not limited to level of income and length of residence?

Vote cast by members of the 1965 Legislature on final passages SENATE: (49 members) Yeas, 34; Nays, 10; Absent or not voting, 5. HOUSE: (99 members) Yeas, 83; Nays, 15; Absent or not voting, 1. Explanatory comment issued by the Attorney General as required by law

The Law as it now exists: Article VII, section 1 (Amendment 14) of the state constitution presently requires that all taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property within the state or other taxing body. In addition, Article VII, section 2 (Amendment 17) of the state constitution, limiting the aggregate of all property tax levied by the state and all taxing districts without a state and all taxing districts with a state and all taxing districts with a state of the stat the state and all taxing districts without a vote of the people to forty mills on the dollar of assessed valuation, states that the assessed valuation of property shall be fifty per cent of the true and fair value of such property in money.

Effect of House Joint Resolution No. 7 if approved into Law: The proposed amendment would grant to our state legislature authority, notwithstanding these above-noted provisions, to grant relief from property tax on real property owned and occupied as a residence by retired persons. The legislature would be authorized to place such restrictions and conditions upon the granting of such relief as it deems proper. Such restrictions and conditions could include, among others, the limiting of the relief to those property owners below a specific level of income and those fulfilling certain minimum residential personners. fulfilling certain minimum residential requirements. Approval of this proposed amendment will specifically validate the provisions of chapter 168, Laws of 1965, Ex. Sess., which, subject to certain specific qualifications, will grant an exemption from the first fifty dollars of real property taxes to certain elderly heads of households having a total income (including income of a spouse) not in excess of three thousand dollars during the preceding calendar year, SUNSET LANES BOWLING...

REMOVING LIMITATION ON LAND OWNERSHIP Shall the limitation on the ownership of land in the State of Washington by certain noncitizens be removed by repealing section 33, Article II, as amended by Amendments 24 and 29 of the state constitution? Vote cast by members of the 1965 Legislature on final passage: SENATE: [49 members] Yeas, 42; Nays, 1; Absent or not voting, 6. HOUSE: [99 members] Yeas, 94; Nays, 0; Absent or not voting, 5.

Explanatory comment issued by the Attorney General as required by law The Law as it now exists:

There remains in our state constitution a limitation on landownership by certain noncitizens who have not made a declaration of intention to become citizens of the United States. However, the constiution presently permits some noncitizens (including nonresidents) to own land: (1) If acquired by inheritance, mortgage foreclo-sure, or in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts:

(2) If acquired by a corporation; (3) If the land contains certain mineral deposits, or is necessary for mills and machinery to be used in developing those minerals and in manufacturing products from such minerals; institutions) to investments in national, state, county, municipal or school district general obligation bonds. (4) If the landowners are Canadian citizens of provinces which do not prohibit the owner-ship of provincial lands by citizens of Wash-ington state. Effect of Senate Joint Resolution No. 20 if approved into Law: The passage of the proposed amendment would remove the remaining limitation on landownership
