Do you know what's coming-what to look for in choosing your fall and winter wardrobe? Here's the latest, grooviest news on what's doing with the "in" crowd . . .

Fashion--Your wardrobe will be on the right beat if it bulges with knits gone zany with crazy stripes-big ones, small ones-going up, down, or across. The comfy little no-shape knit with floppy sleeves and a scooped out neckline will be a big hit. For kicky fun, look for a pleated skimp skirt, add a stripe jersey and varsity sweater.

Matching plaids are way way "in." A smart buy for a cool kitten is knacky knickers, skirt, jacket, dress-all in the same plaid and in tones of the season's hottest colors—luscious purples and plums.

The beauty scene—The prettiest news of all comes from lips that are frosted!

Cover Girl, with fashion's crush for purple in mind, is introducing two deliciously vibrant lipstick shades—Pink Pink and Plum Naked. Pink Pink is the perfect pink you've never found before, and is absolutely luscious with any complexion coloring. Plum Naked is a new kind of bare—darlingly spiked with a hint of cranberry. The extra plus of prettiness in all Cover Girl lipsticks is that they're too-for softer, smoother lips.

Catching up on household chores this fall? Then don't forget the most important of all—bringing the family records up to date. Family records must be more than a listing of birthdays and anniversaries if they are to serve us well in our busy lives today. In this fast-paced world of career switching, job hunting and interviews, it is important that a record of employment dates, interviews, appointments and pertinent notes be kept. It will prove useful not only for the present, but in the future as careers develop and other job changes

Family Records Can Save Heartache

A major section should be allocated to the family's medical records. This should include insurance and hospitalization plan policy numbers, blood types, innoculation dates, booster injections, operations and allergies. A note should be made of the illnesses each family member has had and their frequency when processory. Note their first line should be their frequency when processory. their frequency when necessary. Kept faithfully these records can help save a life in an emergency.

Most insurance companies require a listing and valuation of each article damaged by fire when a claim is filed. Although time consuming initially, each room's furnishings should be listed carefully. Afterwards these listings can be added to as now articles are numbered. be added to as new articles are purchased. Should something be lost or stolen, these lists also will prove useful to the police. So remember to include serial numbers whenever

A record of securities, transactions and dividends will prove helpful at income tax time or when reviewing the family finances.

A tablet or looseleaf notebook to which pages may be added as needed can serve as the center of this vital information for the entire family. Dividers or tabs to keep sections separate will help put all the records at your fingertips.

All in all, you will be a well-recorded family.
