FORESTERS MEET

The premiere showing of "Forestry for People" was seen by 20 members and guests at the monthly meeting of the North Olympic chapter of the Society of American Foresters. The meeting was held March 12, 1971, at the Vagabond Restaurant in Forks. The slide-talk was presented by M.J. "Gus" Kuehne, publicity chairman for the Puget Sound Section of the Society of American Foresters. The theme of the program is management of resources by foresters. It describes the many facets of the complex field of forest land management. Top quality slides were chosen from many timber companies and individual slide files. The program runs abou: 20 minutes. The program is available to any club or organization interested in forest land management. The local SAF chapter will provide a speaker and the slide program on request. Reservations should be made with D. Lee Cromley, chapter chairman, at the U.S. Forest Service in Forks, or John Willits, program chairman. at Peninsula College in Port Angeles, Washington.

WEST END DEMO CLUB MEETS

This is generally used by a party in power as a way of keeping its power. This is done by grouping together certain counties which have large majorities. In this way the party that is not in power can win only a few seats by huge majorities while the party in power could win many more seats by small majorities. A motion was made and letter to Rep. Lloyd Meeds, asking for his comments on the following issues: 1. American taxpayers give farmers over 3 billion not to grow a crop. This is inconsistent in a country that is dedicated to equality for all.

FORKS FORUM. THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1971---PAGE 12 THE FACTS ABOUT PROPERTY REVALUATION

Question: What is the purpose of the statewide revaluation program?

Answer: The purpose is to assure equality of taxation. State law requires assessors to determine the current market value of all taxable property at least once every four years. This has never been accomplished and properties of the same class have assessed valued separated by up to 20 years. The state revaluation program was set up by the 1969 legislature to aid counties in complying with this requirement. Thirty-five counties are now revaluing property with the aid of these funds.

Speaking of the need for revaluation of taxable property, the Council for Economic Development, a national research organization, says this: "Real property tax administration sufferes from two major sources of inequity: unequal assessment and underassessment. In view of the primary reliance on real property taxes, it is quite shocking that in most parts of the country -- whether urban or rural -- its administra tion may be accurately described as inequitable, inefficient, incompetent or corrupt. There is no more vivid illustration of the need for reform of local institutions."

Revaluation is the first step towards more equitable tax administration.

Question: What factor determines the amount of property taxes that is levied?

Answer: The aggregate cost of local government. This includes the operating cost of maintenance of schools, city and county governments, and such other taxing districts as ports, libraries, airports, hospitals, townships and fire, water and cemetery districts. A large part of property tax levies also goes for bond redemption and capital outlays.

There are 1,738 taxing districts in all, besides the state Question: Who is responsible for setting the level of Answer: The legislative bodies of all local taxing districts. Their aggregate annual budgets determine the millage which must be levied on the assessed value of property to cover local government expenses up to statutory limits (22 mills in 1970). However, the people in a district can approve excess levies above the regular millage ceiling and do so regularly.

In 1970 and 1971 state taxpayers approved special levies that approximately doubled their regular property taxes.

Question: Where are property tax revenues spent? Answer: Ninety-four percent of all property tax collections are distributed to cities, counties, schools and other local taxing districts; the remaining 6 percent is spent throughout the state on public assistance.

In 1970, schools received 58 cents of every dollar collected. Sixty-four percent of the schools' share results from voter-approved excess levies for maintenance and operation, capital outlay or bond redemption.

Question: Property taxes seem to go up every year. What can be done to relieve the hardships this imposes on senior citizens and those with fixes or very low incomes?

Answer: One way would be to exempt those with limited income from all or part of their property taxes based on such qualifications as age and income. This form of selective exemption, called a "circuit-breaker," is used in Wisconsin and a few other states. It gives a greater tax break to those with the least income.

HB 283, the property tax relief measure introduced at the 1971 legislature, contains circuit-breaker features, and if passed would exempt homeowners who are 62, with income under $3,000, from the first $100 of all property taxes, and give additional relief from special levies of up to 100 percent below the $6,000 income level.

Question: Isn't it wrong that one person should pay higher taxes on his home than another person does in the same district for the same quality home?

Answer: That is the object of revaluation: to eliminate such differences. The more often the property in a given county or district is revalued, the more uniformity will be maintained in comparative tax load. Most counties have fallen behind on revaluation. They are now catching up.

Question: Why was only one area of King County singled out for revaluation?

Answer: It wasn't. Other areas have been revalued in the past, and others are undergoing adjustment of valued to current market conditions.

The area selected was one of those that hadn't been reappraised for eight years. Since North End buildings had not been surveyed by county appraisers since 1960 and 1961, the increase in their values on the 1970 assessment rolls reflected the prolonged upward trend of residential costs in King

Other King County areas had been revalued since the North End. Property in the Bothell/Northshore School District irea, for instance, was increased to current market level on the 1967-68-69 tax rolls, along with homes in Kirkland, Bellevue, Mercer Island, Renton and Kent, Until this year homeowners in those areas had been paying taxes on a righer valuation base than the North End of Seattle.

Unier available appraisal techniques, it is impossible to revalue an entire county the size of King in one year, or even two. The law authorizes county assessors to take as many as four years between revaluations. Until now, no county has achieved that frequency. However, in another two years, all of King County, as well as 34 other counties of the 39 in the state, will have completely revalued their CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

According to Olympic National Park Superintendent, Roger Allin, the Hoh Rain Forest visitor center is now open for the spring season. At this time, hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. These hours will remain effective until mid-May when the summer program will be expanded. Spring is the best time of year to explore the forest. The "Hall of Mosses" and "Spruce" self guiding nature trails are alwyas open. With the summer program we find guided nature walks, campfire programs and, of course, the opening of the Hoh River trail to the back country and Mount Olympus.

ONP SHOWS INCREASE IN VISITORS

According to figures released by Superintendent Roger Allin, a new record was set during the 1970 calendar year. The total of 2, 283, 071 visits tallied in 1970 tops the previous record set in 1969 by 147, 154 visits. An increase of 6.4 percent. Campground use increased with a 7.3 percent over 1969. In the 1969 season 274, 217 camper nights were recorded. In 1970 the figure was 295, 918 camper nights. Of all ONP campgrounds, Kalaloch and Mora accounted for nearly half the camping done.

THE TRUTH MAY BE "The truth may be, " say J. Burton Lauckhart, game management chief, "that deer herd numbers are increasing with modern civilization. In 1936 we had bout 50,000 licensed deer hunters in the state, Lauckhart said. "Today, we have 240, 000 or more. Hunters killed about 10, 000 deer in 1936. We think the harvest just past will be somewhere between 50,000 and 80,000 and that is down because of the bad 1968 winter and its after effects."

SOLEDUCK HATCHERY PLANTS

According to Norm Dedman of the Soleduck Salmon Hatchery Department of Fisheries, an excess of seven hundred thousand cohos have been planted locally. By excess we speak of the overflow at the hatchery; fish to which pond space will not be available. Approximately 348, 000 coho fry were planted in Lake Pleasant recently. Another 357, 000 were released in Dickey Lake. About 1,800,000 additional coho will be reared at the hatchery and released in late April or early May of 1972. These fish will be released in the Soleduck at the hatchery. If these figures are not enough to make sportsmen and commercial fishermen stand up and take notice, there's more. Besides the fighting cohos, the Washington State Department of Fisheries, Soleduck Hatchery, will be releasing approximately four-million chinooks this coming June. Of these tasty food fish, two-million will be planted in "strait streams", such as the Sekiu, Clallam, Physt, Lyre, and the Twins. This leaves two-million migrants for the Soleduck River at the hatchery. HERE AND THERE

The 1970-71 steelhead season will surely go down in the record books as a year of oversized ironheads. A record breaking 32-pound 10 ounce steelie was recently taken in the Cowlitz River. This is the fourth record breaking steelie

Fly fishing expert and longtime resident Sid Glasso returned to Forks last weekend to score on the steelhead.

Bill Gale and family limited on raze: clams last Sunday at Kalaloch on a .9 tide. At least that's the way I heard it. Nice going, Bill.

Speaking of razor clams, this coming weekend will provide some early morning tides for those hardy outdoorsmen who wish to match wits with that of the ever popular shellfish. The tide table tells us that Saturday offers us a -.7 at 6:50 a.m. On Sunday we find a -1.1 tide at 7:30 a.m.

Has any one scored on the smelt this month? I think everyone is waiting for someone else to make the first move and spread the word that the night smelt are hitting the beaches. We will wait for Wes DePew and John McFall to score on the critters, then it has to be good. I see several aluminum riverboats now being used by local guides. An albino bull elk was recently spotted by the Kitchel's on their Bogachiel River ranch.

CANINE AND EQUINE

This week we'll give the equine his equal time, Before getting to the feature, there's a problem maybe some reader can solve: How do you fit a mare in-foal with rollers for her sling-load? Our "Babe" (Nina Manchada, to be particular) has six weeks to go and it looks like she'll be scraping the deck if she gets any bigger. She's good at having big foals, but this is ridiculous!

PAINT OR PINTO? That is the question. Many people have doubts as to the difference between these two breeds of horse. Both have their own registry now. My first conception of separation of these two was in the color factor. This is not true. The Pinto (American Pinto Horse Association -- A. Pt. H. A.) is a color registry, meaning they issue numbers to horses on the basis of their color, the Pinto markings. This opens the registry to any breed with this type of color. There are many beautiful animals such as your parade horses, Saddlebreds, and half-Arabs registered as Pinto who do the breed much justice and encourage breeding for refinement. All solid color registries drop any horse that shows Pinto markings, regardless of pedigree, so the A. Pt. H. A. gives these animals recognition as something more than a grade horse. The Paint Horse (American Paint Horse Association, A.P. H.A.) is the stock horse of the Pinto coloring. Known as the "Sports: Model of the Horse World", these animals are versatile working horses, used as the Quarter Horse with color. Only Quarter Horse and Thoroughbred bloodlines are allowed in this registry. The Paint has a breeding registry adjaceint to the regular registry which allows fillies and mares who are solid colored throwbacks to be used as broodmares. The color factor is there and probably will come through in the next generation. The sport of Pain horse racing is growing in the Southwest and may soon become a part of most Quarter

Horse track schedules. There are two color patterns to the Paint-Pinto breeds. These being the tobiano (white coming down over shoulders and rump), and the overo ('a splashed-on effect which appears to be from bottom:-upward. The back is Traveling to Bremerton last usually in the darker color).

What could have been more fitting than the beautfiul spring day of March 18th for the meeting of the Bogachiel Garden Club, with a variety of birds making their presence known, when guest speaker, Mrs. Frank Leyendecker used her topic theme, "birds, how to recognize local varieties and species."

Mrs. Terry Klepey was hostess for this monthly meeting, with Mrs. Justin Rooks assisting.

Prior to the business meeting, Mrs. Bill Dickerson read a fitting peom, titled, "Spring".

The date of the annual May Day plant and garden sale has been changed to Saturday, April 24th. We will be optimistic about that day, so as to not call it an April Showers Sale, As usual, it will be held in the Orville Ninke yard. Any plant or cutting donations, flower containers, and the like, will be gladly received, just call Mrs. Ninke and they will

The 1970-71 theme for the Bogachiel Garden Club is "for a richer life, conserve our beauty", Mrs. Joe Morrison added to this meeting by reading an informative article on conservation. The "World Gardening" report was presented by Mrs. Henry Halverson.

For the program, Mrs. Leyendecker presented a beautiful and informative narration on local birds, with charts, books, illustrations and colorful prints. It is interesting to learn, that John James Audubon, the noted conservationist and the founder of the Audubon Society (bird watchers) began his eventual Hall of Fame career by his beautiful paintings of birds, which sold for a paltry sum.

The Washington State bird, the goldfinch, makes his ce known about the time the dandelion goes to seed notices are being mailed beand the fuzz is used to line the nests.

Mrs. Marvin Olson used as her contribution to the program, topics relative to the transplanting of perennials. She explained how to make root cuttings and also the method of layering to produce new plants by bending the parent stalk into the ground, where eventually a new root will be formed and can be severed from the original plant. This method is quite successful in this damper climate. With

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

The Forks Chamber of Commerce met March 17, at Clark's Vagabond. President Verl Poole presided.

Guest speakers were D.J. Caulkins, County Commissioner and Frank Feeley, County

Commissioner Caulkins gave a short resume of his first 60 days in office. He said the foremost problem facing Clallam County was the solid waste disposal situation. With the advent of stiff controls set by the Air and Water Pollution Boards, it is imperative the county find a solution. Caulkins cited the garbage dumps at Clallam Bay, Beaver, Lake Pleasant and Forks as the mair problems. The dump at LaPush was also discussed, Caulkins said he hoped to work out some solution to that problem in the near future. The burning of the Forks dump came under attack by the Commissioner. He said he has been watching that problem himself and has contacted some people he felt were responsible for littering the road

The possibility of building a ramp at the Beaver dump similar to the Forks ramp was also discussed. In conclusion, Caulkins said he was of the opinion that compulsory garbage collection and the sanitary landfill method of disposal was the only answer.

County Assessor Frank Feeley was the next speaker. Feeley spoke briefly on reevaluation procedures now being conducted in the county. He said approximately 7.000 fore April 1, 1971. He urged property owners to read the notices carefully and if they feel their evaluation is unfair, appeal to the Evaluation Board as soon as possible. Feeley expressed doubt that the Board would be able to help; but to appeal is the only recourse that property owners have.

A question and answer period followed the addresses by both speakers.

The next meeting of the Chamber will be April 21. 1971 All are invited and

NEWS

A few of the Wranglers took advantage of the beautiful weekend weather for fooling around with their horses and potluck bon-fire at our place. A few Wrangler horses put their riders through their paces on the barrels and over jumps. After about two and a half hours playing around getting the kinks out of us and the horses, we unsaddled and built a fire. Those around the fire eating and swapping stories were Lou. Joe and Molly Madden, Pam, Ron and Roger Ford, Karen and Sherry Haffner, Glenn Demorest, Linda, Carrie, April and Roger Stanley, Olive King, Glen, Rocky, Matthew and I. Betty Munson rode with us earlier, but was unable to stay for the fire. This waiting for foals to hit the ground is as bad as waiting for a person's own first child. The nerves get shattered. (At least mine do!) Jeanette Gilmore's do, too! Her "Yaki" is due any time. I hope by next week to be able to issue the birth announcement. If anyone happens to catch any of the horse people standing on our heads, (well that's almost the position I get in) next to some big broodmare--don't think we're crazy, we're just checking.

Claude, Sharon and Mike Clark's "Doc" arrived here during the night, Tuesday. The big Thoroughbred gelding will now undergo some retraining as there is quite a difference between the race tracks and mountain trails.

Kim Borde got a flashy little gelding this past weekend. "Red" is half-Arab and he and Kim will be joining the Rein Riders. A welcome from all the horse people in the area to Kim and "Red".
